SUMMARY AND REVIEW.

THE arrival of the Bombay mail has placed us in receipt of papers from that Presidency to the 13th December, and from Calcutta to the 6th of that month. They contain very little news of public interest beyond a General Order relating to the Medical Service, which will be found elsewhere. It is intended to correct a misunderstanding that arose out of the loose wording of a General Order on the same subject issued on the 20th June last, and which appeared to authorise staff allowances in addition to the regular pay. This error is now rectified, but the fortunate individuals who, on the appearance of the former order, drew the allowances to which they fancied themselves entitled, will not, it is said, be called upon to refund, as the mistake was not theirs, but on the part of the Government.

There are no tidings of the Bhootan expedition of so late a date as the following very vague and unsatisfactory telegram received at the India Office:—

"CALCUTTA, Dec. 12.

"Fortress of Dalimkota, Bhootan, captured with slight loss of two officers and fifty men. Position described as very strong.

"An accidental explosion of powder caused the death of three officers and seven men."

It is impossible to judge from this announcement whether these officers and men have been killed or only wounded. If the former, it can hardly be said that a hill fort has been won by a slight loss, for the wounded may be reckoned as at least three times as numerous as the slain. As there is no such thing as a mere accident, the explosion of the powder magazine, or whatever it was, must have been caused by a negligence more destructive than the weapons of the enemy.

The rumoured arrest of Maharajah Jung Bahadoor is tacitly contradicted. Instead of being engaged in intriguing with the Bhootahs, the Maharajah is reported to be hunting in the Terai, near Rungpore, in company with the King.

Lady Lawrence is reported, by telegraph, to have arrived at Galle on board H.M.'s steamship Feroze, on the 28th Nov. The Viceroy proposes to return to the Hills at a very early date, the Secretary of State having sanctioned his Excellency's absence from Calcutta for six months in the year. The office establishment is to be started up-country about the end of March, the greater portion of the records belonging to the various departments having been purposely left at Simla.

A very important notification appears in the Calcutta Gazette authorising, until further notice, the receipt of English and Australian sovereigns and half-sovereigns at all Government Treasuries, taking them as equivalent to ten and five rupees respectively. At these rates, also, they are to be paid to any person willing to receive them in payment of claims against the Government. It has been further directed that "Government currency notes shall, until further notice, be issued at the offices and agencies of issue of the several circles of Government paper currency in British India, in exchange for sovereigns and half-sovereigns, coined at any authorised royal mint in India or Australia, and of current weight, calculated at the rate of ten and five rupees respectively, to an extent not exceeding one-fourth of the total amount of issues represented by coin, or by coin and bullion in each circle." It is also stated that the Government of India has requested the Secretary of State to send out four patent machines for the new gold Mint, for the purpose of coining sovereigns, half-sovereigns, and quarter-sovereigns.

Sir Charles Wood has in some degree extended to Lieutenant-governors the considerate liberality with which he has dealt with the Viceroy. For the future those high officers of State are allowed to visit Europe on sick leave without forfeiting their appointments. The first Lieutenant-governor to avail himself of this privilege is Mr. Cecil Beadon, and, consequently, there will be no change in the Government of Bengal.

The Rajah of Kuppooorthullah, who was lately invested with the insignia of the Star of India, has entered into a foolish controversy with the Government as to the right of trying British subjects in his own Courts instead of handing them over to the British authorities. This assumption is not calculated to improve the Rajah's relations with the Government.

His Excellency Sir Hugh Rose is recovering from the effects of his accident. The injury he sustained was not so great as was at first feared. His general health, however, is impaired, and his retirement will probably take place at an early date. There is still some speculation among the Indian journals as to his Excellency's successor, who will probably be Sir William Mansfield.

The Ameer of Cabool returned to his capital on the 14th November. The whole territory of Kokan has been taken by the Russians, who, it is said, are preparing to march against Toorkistan. A Persian army has arrived at Musked from Teheran, and the Persian troops formerly stationed there, thus relieved, have marched towards Herat.

The subscriptions for the relief of sufferers by the late cyclone are said to amount to the large sum of £35,000. Four expeditions by steamer have been sent down the river Hooghly, on the banks of which the greatest amount of destitution prevailed. They have taken down in all about 10,000 maunds of rice, 17 maunds of dall, 224 of oil, 116 of salt, 1,200 blankets, 24,600 yards of cotton cloth, and sundry other supplies.

It is almost superfluous to remark that more than the moiety of this sum was received from Bombay, where £9,000 was collected in addition to the £10,000 contributed by a few Parsee gentlemen. The Friend of India thus sums up the damage done to the shipping in the river:—

Number of vessels in the Port on the 4th
October	198
Tonnage represented	182,836
Number left slightly injured on the 6th	38
Much damaged	139
Totally destroyed	21
Tonnage of vessels destroyed or rendered unseaworthy	144,042

The charge made against Captain Ferrers, of the 3rd Cavalry, of having, at the last Kamptee Races, run a different horse to the one he had entered, has been investigated by a Court of Inquiry, and pronounced utterly unfounded. The disagreeable affair at Mhow was also greatly exaggerated, and has terminated without public scandal. We regret that we cannot speak as lightly of the reported mutiny of European artillerymen at Bellary. According to the Bombay Gazette Captain Hannagan, who commanded the Madras Battery of Artillery at that station, is under arrest, pending a court-martial. The men burnt down the Orderly Room with all the records, and threatened to take Captain Hannagan's life if they could have caught him before he left the station.

The Bombay papers also allude to a disturbance among the Bagteas, a wild tribe on the Scinde frontier. General Wilde, C.B., and Major Pollock, Political Agent, are gone to Jacobabad, to concert measures with the officers of the Bombay Government for their pacification.

Speculation is so rife at Bombay that all sorts of companies are daily starting into an ephemeral existence. The concourse of sharebrokers near the Banks is so great that the police have been obliged to interfere by force to keep the road clear for traffic. Among the latest prospectuses is that of the Great India Railway Passenger Insurance and General Accident Company, the promoters of which are the chief officials of that line. The wags, of course, remark that it will always be in their power to alarm the public into taking tickets by the simple expedient of an occasional accident. The French company, the Messageries Impériales, propose immediately to commence a service of steamers running fortnightly between Suez and Bombay. That Presidency will consequently enjoy the advantages of weekly communication with Europe.

We regret to chronicle the loss of H.M.'s despatch steamer Racehorse, at the entrance of Chetoo harbour, on the evening of the 4th November. Of the entire crew of 108 men and officers, only the commander, paymaster, boatswain, and six men were saved. The Navy List describes the Racehorse as 695 tons register, and 200-horse power, and carrying four guns. Her officers were as follows:—Commander Charles R. F. Boxer, R.N., First Lieutenant William Farquhar, Second Lieutenant Arthur G. C. Tait, Master Thomas Dobbin, surgeon James E. Fawcett, Paymaster W. H. Thompson, Assistant-Paymaster Richard Crabbe.

It is intended to publish a Portrait Gallery of distinguished natives of India, in a series of steel engravings, from photographs, by eminent European artists, to be accompanied by brief memoirs of the individuals represented.

On Tuesday last Mr. Charles Buxton addressed his constituents at Maidstone on a large variety of political questions. Alluding to India, he expressed a hope that the time was not far distant when each Presidency would be vested with greater functional powers, and be rendered less dependent upon the Supreme Government. The progress of the country, he said, was impeded by routine. Nothing could be done without reference to the Viceroy, and before his Excellency could give a decisive answer he, in his turn, had to refer to the Secretary of State. We fear there is too much truth in this likening of the Indian Government to one of those ingenious Chinese boxes that begin with one no larger than a pill-box and go on increasing in magnitude until one is formed that contains all the rest, but nothing more.

In our last issue, in the course of some remarks on the Indian Medical Service, we stated that the pensions are independent of the Medical Retiring Fund. That was clearly an error, for in future there will be no medical funds, as is shown in para. 4 of the despatch commented upon. The new pensions, therefore, will not be nearly so good as the pension and fund allowance of the old company.

All officers of the Indian Staff Corps, and whosoever is ambitious of attaining to that distinction, are bound to tender their cordial thanks to Mr. G. E. Cochrane, Assistant Military Secretary, India Office, for publishing in a clear and condensed form all rules and regulations pertaining thereunto. In a small convenient volume will be found all orders and rules relating to the formation of the corps and qualification for entry, rank and promotion, transfers and exchanges, retirement, colonel's allowance, furlough, and furlough pay, regular pay and allowances, and a vast mass of miscellaneous information. Another volume is announced shortly to appear, containing all regulations regarding commands, staff appointments, and native languages. We cannot add, indeed, that Mr. Cochrane's very useful and careful little work is to be had at all the circulating libraries, but it can be purchased for five shillings from Messrs. Harrison and Sons, 59, Pall-mall, or at the office of this journal.

LATEST INTELLIGENCE.

CALCUTTA, Dec. 15.

BENGAL.

ST. ANDREW'S DAY, 1864.

The annual festival of St. Andrew's was kept up last evening at the Town Hall, with the usual grand dinner and toasting as on former occasions. About two hundred sat down to a sumptuous repast, provided by Spence's Hotel Company. The band of the 52nd Regiment enlivened the entertainment by playing many favourite Scotch airs, among them "Auld Lang Syne."

The late hour at which the proceedings terminated precludes our giving anything like a fair report of the speeches, especially those of the Hon. Messrs. Seton Karr and Anderson.

The Chairman, J. A. Crawford, Esq., proposed—"The Queen," which was received, as it always is, enthusiastically. The speaker said that the toast required no comment from him. Her Majesty has enthroned herself in the hearts of all her subjects by a rule uniting excellences to which a Mary Stuart was a stranger, and to which even Elizabeth Tudor's reign could offer no parallel. Among those of her subjects in British India none could excel the Scotchman in devotion and loyalty. The band played "God Save the Queen."

The Chairman next proposed "The Prince and Princess of Wales, and the other members of the Royal Family." He said that the Prince, educated under a worthy father, has proved himself equal to every duty that has fallen upon him, whether in a political or social point of view, and in the latter he has not only shared the good will of the nation with the Princess, but he has been assisted by his Royal sisters, who are now shedding the lustre of English domestic virtues over other thrones and in other countries. Prince Alfred was another noble example, likely to be as popular as William IV. The Duke of Cambridge also has filled and is now filling one of the most important posts, the head of the army of Britain. There was no Royal family in the world which has a better claim to the love and respect of any nation than the Royal Family of Great Britain. The toast was drunk with three times three, the band playing "the Danish National Anthem."

After the toast of the Royal Family had been duly honoured, the Chairman gave a sketch of the career of his Excellency the Viceroy, and said he was sure that so long as the destinies of India were committed to hands so worthy, every man present would cheerfully respond to the toast, "The Viceroy and the land we live in." The toast was received with enthusiasm, the band appropriately playing "Rule Britannia."

The toast of "The Army and Navy" was proposed by the Chairman, and replied to by General Showers, who took the opportunity of vindicating the character of our Sikh soldiers, and of recommending the citizens of Calcutta present to do what they could to prevent groundless alarms by fostering and extending the Volunteer movement. The toast was drunk as it always is, the band giving "The Red, White, and Blue."

The "Pious Memory of St. Andrew" is always a difficult toast to propose; it was, however, done justice to by the chairman, and was drunk in solemn silence, to the tune of "The Land of the Leal."

Mr. Dunlop, the croupier, made an excellent speech in proposing "The Land o' Cakes." This was a toast which could not but be associated with many sweet memories of home, and the dear land far away. It was a sentiment which appealed to every Scottish heart there present, and he was sure that in drinking it they would think of many scenes which would revive their hopes of one day returning to the land of their home and love. It was a sweet thing, and proper, to die for one's country, but he would not ask them to do that, however ready they might be, but to drink to it only, which was done, after the old Scotch fashion, with hands crossed, and the band playing "Auld Lang Syne."

Mr. Cochran next rose and proposed "The Lassies" in a way which laid the fair under great obligations. The lassies had a great deal to do with helping on civilisation. They were at once our best hope and our best treasure, and few he hoped were they who did not look forward to have his path lightened and his troubles smoothed by some fair and worthy Scotch lassie.

Mr. A. Stewart replied in a neat address for the ladies. The band played "Green grow the Rushes!"

Mr. Seton Karr in the speech of the evening, a speech to which we cannot pretend to do justice here, proposed the next toast, The Memory of Bruce and Wallace." The speaker pointed out in the most eloquent and happy way the virtues for which Scotland's heroes should be honoured and considered as our exemplars. The band played "Scots Wha Hae," and Mr. Bruce, after reciting,

At Bannockburn proud Edward lay,
The Scots they wer'n a far away,
Just waitin' for the break of day,
To show them who were best.

The sun peeped o'er yon purple heath,
And ushered in the field o' death,
As Bruce, wi' soul inspiring breath,
His soldiers thus addressed, favoured the company with the song.

Next followed, "The Poetry and Literature of Scotland," by the Hon. Mr. Anderson, who rivalled Mr. Seton Karr in the happiness of his allusions and the skillfulness and grace with which he grouped all that was eminent in Scottish literature. The band played—"Ye Banks and Braes."

Mr. Gladstone felt the task of proposing the "Civil Service," a task which he undertook with diffidence. The merits of the service were so conspicuous and so well known, that he felt he could say but very little which could be new on this subject. From the days of Job Charnock the Civil Service had always borne a high character, a character which he and all present felt quite assured would in no way be departed from. The band gave "What's a' the steer."

Mr. Schallch responded to the toast, and said that many and varied were the duties which it fell to the Civil Service to perform, but whether as law-givers, or as superintendents of scavengers, he believed it would be admitted they had done credit to the service to which they had the honour to belong. Scotland had furnished many famous recruits to the ranks of the service, among whom he was proud to reckon the two brilliant speakers who had preceded him—Messrs. Anderson and Seton Karr.

Time, and the space at our disposal, precludes our mentioning, as we should wish, the remainder of the speeches and the toasts.

Mr. Dunlop gave "The Judges and the Bar," which was responded to by the Hon. Mr. Cowie in a humorous speech, the band playing "The Groves of Blarney."

"The Press" was next proposed by the Hon. Mr. Seton Karr, coupled with the name of Mr. J. O. B. Saunders, who returned thanks, the band striking up "Up and Waur them a'."

"The Merchants of Calcutta" was proposed by the Hon. G. Campbell; Mr. Gladstone returned thanks, and the band struck up "Here awa, there awa."

The Hon. Mr. Anderson proposed "The Trades of Calcutta." Mr. Mackintosh responded. The band very appropriately played "Money in both Pockets."

The Hon. Mr. Norman proposed "The Chairman," and the Hon. Mr. Campbell "The Croupier" which were appropriately responded to, the band striking up "Duncan Grey" in the former, and "We won't go home till morning" in the latter.

The last toast of the evening was that of the Secretary, which was replied to by Mr. Pirie Duff, who regretted the absence of Mr. McNeil, and trusted that this annual gathering would never fall away,—a hope which we are sure the guests will share with every Scotchman present.

During the evening the band sung several glees, and a gentleman favoured the company with songs, among which "Polly Perkins" was as good a rendering of a comic song as we have ever heard.—Hurkaru.

MISCELLANEOUS.

TROOPS FROM ENGLAND.—According to the Friend of India, "Government has determined that in future troops on arrival from England shall not be encamped in the swamps of Bengal, or in the vicinity of the temptations of the infamies of Calcutta Lall Bazaar. The men, it is stated, will be sent to a large camp to be formed at Synthea. This is a wise and a merciful resolve, although the selection of Synthea for the encamping ground is open to objection. The climate there is not sufficiently dry for living in tents until January or February, and again it is a long way from all superior military supervision. It would, therefore, be better to form a camp for fresh arrivals at Benares or Allahabad, where good encamping grounds, in a good climate, are available, and where, also, the men would be well cared for, under the immediate supervision of officers who have had long experience of the requirements of troops fresh from England, and, consequently, unacquainted either with the language, climate, or habits of the country."

BRIDGE OVER THE HOOGHLY.—"What bridge" (asks the Friend of India) "could have stood against the tremendous shocks it would have sustained by ships of the heaviest tonnage driving against it, not singly or in couples, but by the score, to say nothing of the violence of the stream, or the irresistible power of the storm-wave? Our correspondent speaks of half a million as being sufficient to build a bridge; we should say that a wooden bridge over such a river as the Hooghly would cost not much less than that. It is very clear that whenever a bridge is built the contingency of a cyclone once in every ten years or so must be calculated for. It might be possible to build a bridge which should outlive even such a storm as that of the 5th of October, but its cost would not be represented by the figures our correspondent puts down."

THE ULWAR MURDER case has fallen through completely. The man who killed Mean Singh has been released, it is said by the advice of some native chiefs, and the Rajah is only to receive a warning from Government. At present the real circumstances of the case are so little known to the outside world that it is difficult to pronounce a decided opinion upon the policy of the Government. It would be better in all respects that when such cases do become public, the Government should take some care to let the correct version be known. It would then have justice done to its motives, and suspicion could rest on no one. While on this subject we may mention that the Nabha case is still under investigation, Mr. Griffin, deputy commissioner, having been appointed to assist Major Cra-croft in making enquiries. Mr. George Plowden, who was expected to take up the case for the Rajah, has declined to do so.

THE CALCUTTA BAR.—The following gentlemen, Messrs. Marindin, Broughton, Millet, and Stephen, were sworn in on the 24th Nov. as members of the Calcutta Bar; the last-named gentleman is a member of the well-known Armenian family of that name, Zemindars of Dacca.

Dr. CHARLES ARCHER has been appointed civil surgeon of Dacca.

SELLING A LAWYER.—A number of letters, said to be from a gentleman on this side of India, are published in Our Paper of Kurrachee, which disclose an instance of strange forgetfulness on the part of a military officer. A solicitor, whom, for the sake of distinction, we shall call Mr. A., was out touring it in the North-West, in the legitimate exercise of his vocation, seeking whom he should devour. He had just bagged a client, who promised him a retainer of two thousand rupees, with a bonus of eight thousand more in the event of the suit succeeding, and was on the point of leaving Meean Meer, when Paymaster B. of the blank regiment, called on him, and requested him to stay and assist him at a court-martial which was to have been held at that station, and at which the paymaster was to prosecute. He asked for terms, and was informed by the paymaster that he would get a hundred rupees per day from himself, another hundred from Government, and on the termination of the case, a sum of five hundred from Government and a similar amount from B. The court-martial sat eleven days, and the lawyer of course expected to receive Rs. two thousand two hundred and the additional thousand, making in all three thousand two hundred rupees. His horror may be conceived when on demanding payment he was presented with Rs. 250 only, with the irritating remark that his claim carried "absurdity in its face," and an expression of wonder that "any person with an idea of business or self-consideration could have penned such nonsense!" The whole story is gleaned from the letters published by the attorney himself in the columns of the Kurrachee print, and the statements are entirely on his authority. It appears he appealed to the Commander-in-Chief, Sir Hugh Rose, and was referred to "the Law Courts." Not satisfied with this answer, the lawyer has sent the papers for submission to the Commander-in-Chief in England.

DYSENTERY.—We give insertion to the following specific for dysentery, the use of which was attended with great success when the disease broke out in the camp of the 22nd New York Regiment. Receipt.—In a tea-cup half full of vinegar, dissolve as much salt as it will take up, leaving a little excess of salt at the bottom of the cup. Pour boiling water upon the solution, till the cup is two-thirds or three-quarters full. A warm drink to the surface, which must be removed, and the solution allowed to cool. Dose.—Table-spoonful three times a day till relieved.

A BEAR ADVENTURE.—Here is a story from Almorah, with a Chinaman for a hero:—"An unfortunate Chinaman, employed at Messrs. Murray's tea plantation at Keusanie, was brought in this morning, severely mauled by a bear: the poor devil fired at the bear and wounded it. The infuriated beast rushed at him, and having knocked him down, took off part of his nose and the whole of the left cheek at one bite, exposing the whole of the teeth, tongue and mouth, destroying also the small bones of one of his hands; a ghastly sight to look at! It was, however, quite surprising to see the cool way in which the fellow sat unsupported, and bore the operation of cutting and hacking on his face without wincing or a moan; perhaps the agony he had already undergone had exceeded all that the knife could inflict, or may be, the cold had numbed him, for he was carried in all night."

FATAL ACCIDENT.—We regret to hear from the Oudh Gazette of the 19th Nov. of two accidents, one in the Baraitch and the other in the Mohamdee district, both arising out of shooting game. In the first case Mr. Roche, assistant civil engineer, was accidentally drowned in the Anarkully Jheel, he having incautiously gone into the water after a wild duck which he had shot. In the second instance Mr. Haldane, extra assistant commissioner, is said to have lost a thumb and middle finger, the gun having gone off accidentally.

BHAWULPORE.—About eighteen months ago the Nawab executed a coup d'état, in which the lives of several of his near relations were sacrificed; others narrowly escaped a similar fate, and took refuge in British territory, where a residence was assigned them by the Government, at Mozuffergurh. About three months ago the Nawab expressed a desire to be on friendly terms with them once more, and assured them that if they would return to their homes their lives and property should be held sacred. After what had occurred they were slow to put their faith in the Nawab's engagements; but he at length succeeded in disarming their suspicions. He swore by the Koran that he would be faithful to his promise. Korans were interchanged, signed, sealed, and delivered according to Mussulman usage, and the exiles left their asylum for Bhawulpore. They had hardly crossed the Sutledge when they were seized by a party of horse and murdered on the spot. This nefarious act of treachery caused a painful sensation even at Bhawulpore, which for some years has been a not unfrequent witness of the most atrocious crimes. So strong was the feeling, that the adherents of the murdered princes thought they could rebel against the Nawab with some hope of success. They mustered their forces and tried their strength, but victory sided with the Nawab; and the vanquished, after many losses, again retired to British territory. These occurrences have of course been reported to Government, and the Nawab has been called upon for an explanation of his conduct. He has at the same time been warned that there is a limit to the forbearance of Government. The Nawab replies to those warnings with great activity in building a new fort. And thus matters stand at present. For some time past the province has been in a state of anarchy. Hundreds of families have left their homes and settled on our side the Sutledge, and thousands would follow but that they are not allowed to remove their property. The river is carefully guarded to intercept runaways. The people are praying for annexation; and now that the Nawab so openly evinces his contempt for the British Government there is a very general feeling on both sides of the river that the days of his rule are numbered.—Doh's Gazette.

WILD BEASTS IN THE CENTRAL PROVINCES.—We (Englishman) understand that the number of wild beasts destroyed in the Central Provinces during the last half-year is very remarkable. Nearly two thousand beasts, more or less dangerous to human life, have been killed within six months; including about 400 tigers and cubs, nearly 600 panthers and leopards and their cubs, 370 bears and cubs, and 480 wolves and hyenas and cubs. Of all the districts, those of Sumbulpore, Saugor, and Chunda have done the best. The returns from Seonee and Mundla are not so satisfactory, as it is known that the tigers in those districts are very abundant and destructive. It is said, however, that the jungle in the Upper Godavari district is too thick and uncultivated even for wild beasts. The tiger and panther prefer a country where there are more inhabitants, and, consequently, more village cattle; and where the jungle exists more in patches, or on the slopes of hills and along the banks of streams. In a country of this description the tiger obtains his food with ease, but in the denser jungles he finds his cunning baffled by the keener senses of the sambur, neelgye, and spotted deer, while to the bison and wild buffalo he is compelled to give a wide berth.

THE SURVEY OF EUSUFZAI is about to be entered upon. The Assistant Commissioner who has been detached for the purpose, applied for the protection of a police guard, but as none is available, he has been authorised to entertain a special one for the protection of the survey party.

THE CATTLE TRESPASS ACT has been a beneficial measure throughout the divisions of Meerut, Agra, Rohilkund, Allahabad and Goruckpore. In all divisions a considerable balance of receipts over expenditure has accrued, which will, in those districts where no further expenditure is needed for the purpose of the Act, be devoted to works of local improvement. The Act has been most successful in the Rohilkund division, and in the Moradabad districts. It is generally reported that the introduction of the Act has been attended with beneficial results. The trespass of cattle has diminished, and the number of affrays consequent thereon, and the people find open to them in the Magistrates' Courts a readier means of obtaining compensation for damage done to crops by trespass than was before afforded to them in the Civil Courts.

COTTON TRACK IN THE CENTRAL PROVINCES.—We have some interesting information relative to the routes available for the transport of cotton from the heart of Central India to the seaport towns of the West for the markets of Europe. Forty years ago the cotton produce from hence was double what it is now, and, up to thirty years ago, used to find its way to the Bay of Bengal towards Pooree and Masulipatam, by the river Mahanuddy, and over a road, the bridges of which alone now remain like ancient ruins in dense forests to tell of a past civilization. The road was never repaired, and so the cotton began to be exported in pretty equal proportions by Nagpore and Mirzapore down the Ganges to Calcutta, a distance of a thousand miles, and up the sloping table land to the head of the Bombay ghauts, whence it was precipitated down to the sea, a distance of about five hundred miles. The cotton from Bombay finds its way to England; while all the cotton that goes to Mirzapore, which is not consumed by Bengalees, who can grow richer crops, trickles through Calcutta to China and the Straits. The cotton is sent chiefly in carts, a load of five bojals, each consisting of two bales weighing three hundred pounds together, costing Rs. 45 to Mirzapore and Rs. 60 to Bombay. Starting from the great mart of Hingunghat, a cart can reach Mirzapore in about forty days, and Bombay in fifty. Only when the carts fail, and they are chiefly Madrassees engaged at Kamptee, are the wasteful pack bullocks used. The greatest cotton mart of all is Omrowttee, and between that place, Nagpore, and Hingunghat horse expresses travel after the arrival of each mail steamer at Bombay, the business being quite large enough at all times to support a line of telegraph.

HER HIGHNESS THE SECUNDER BEGUM arrived in her territories at the beginning of October. She passed through Hurdah and Hoshungabad, where she was waited on by the deputy-commissioner, Mr. Lyall, and Mr. Beddy. She had a large retinue of servants and a large suwarree; that which attracted most attention among the natives were some Arab girls whom she has brought from Mecca as personal attendants; the beauty of these hourie is said to be something marvellous.

LOCK HOSPITAL AT AGRA.—Under the orders of the Lieutenant-governor of the Punjab and its dependencies, a public meeting was held on the 18th Nov. at Agra, under the presidency of the Major General Commanding, to take into consideration the advisability of establishing a Lock Hospital at that station. Our Agra contemporary informs us that it has been decided to have one, to be situated between the military and civil stations. A strong recommendation to that effect has been sent up to Government.

THE "TALOOKDAREE SYSTEM" OF OUDH, which has been in existence for the past four years, is to be thoroughly "revolutionised." Sir John Lawrence has resolved on it, and it is said that the Indian Council are favourable to his Excellency's views.

SCARCITY IN NEEMUCH.—The distress owing to the scarcity of food in the Neemuch district is said to be so great that the poor are eating grass-seed and bran bread. Yet there is abundance in the native States in the neighbourhood. Grain is selling at 22 seers the rupee at Kotah, whilst at Neemuch it is from eight to nine. The native Governments will not allow food to pass out of their territories, because, forsooth, they see no reason why they should feed the whole country around, and impoverish their own exchequers by necessitating an increase to the costs of their establishments. They have, however, no objection to the supply of grain from their States for consumption in cantonments garrisoned by British troops; and the bunneahs take full advantage of the licence, by making purchases ostensibly for military use, and selling elsewhere at an enormous profit. The consequence is that in some places the transport of grain into British territory has been altogether forbidden; and our troops are suffering equally with the rest of the population.

MAHOMEDAN SCIENTIFIC SOCIETY.—The Mofussilite says that a special general meeting of the executive council of the Scientific Society was held on the 16th August last, at Allygurh, to take measures to carry out the erection of a spacious building for the society, and to furnish a library with books, &c., also to purchase a quantity of scientific instruments. It appears that Syud Ahmed, since the establishment of the society, has been its hardest working member. The society was started by him to promote booklearning amongst the natives. A few European gentlemen have aided in the good work. At the meeting on the above date the sum of Rs. 9,030 was collected towards the building, and Rs. 3,001 was subscribed towards the sum required for a library and scientific instruments. The native gentlemen of the neighbourhood of Allygurh came forward very liberally. Three of them headed the list with a donation of one thousand rupees each. The Duke of Argyle is the President of this Society.

MONTGOMERY TOWN.—Sir Robert Montgomery has laid the foundation of a new capital for the Googaira district in the Punjab, to be called after himself. The new town is to be near Sahiwal, the halfway station of the Lahore and Mooltan Railway. A sort of ceremony was gone through on the occasion, at which the leading members of the native community warmly co-operated. The streets and public places of the projected capital are to have the names of the great Punjab officials, such, for instance, as McLeod-road, Robert's-street, Cust-lane, Becher-row, Edwards'-terrace, Chamberlain-place, Ford-square, Cooper's-alley, Thornton-grove, Barkely-gardens, &c. On the 12th of November Sir Robert Montgomery laid the foundation stone of St. Patrick's Church. It appears to be the first stone of the first building in the place.

TERRITORIAL AMALGAMATIONS.—It is currently believed in the north-west that the provinces under the jurisdiction of the Lieutenant-governor of Agra will shortly receive Oudh within their limits. Simultaneously with the measure will be the establishment of a High Court at Allahabad. If Oudh becomes thus converted into a regulation province, an entire change in the materials of which the commission is at present composed may become necessary.

IMPORTATION OF WINE AND SPIRITS.—We take the following table from F. W. Cosen's monthly circular, as showing the shipments to the port of Calcutta of wines and spirits, from 1st January to 30th September, for the years 1862, 1863, and 1864:—

Year.	GALLONS.
	Red wine.	White wine.	Brandy.	Geneva.	Ram. British.
1862	14,080	74,453	10,203	10,875	197 26,514
1863	35,012	66,508	24,772	3,656	878 23,627
1864	34,011	76,980	21,060	6,699	1,686 13,439

OOTERPARAH.—This town is rising to importance day by day. It has a Government school which sends off annually about eleven or twelve students passed in the entrance examination, and is held first in estimation of all the Government Mofussil schools. An Anglo-Vernacular school, which was established some ten years ago, contains now about 120 boys, and the education imparted is very creditable. A female school open to Brahmin and Soodra castes only, has been recently established here at the byuckhana of Baboo Rajkissen Mookerjee, a rich Zemindar of this place,—by grants in aid from Government and the subscriptions of some of the rich Baboos. The Hittokaree Sova, consisting of the Baboos, was the prime mover of this. Of the educational staff there are three pundits and one governess. The institution is often visited by Mr. Woodrow, inspector of schools, who encourages the alumni by presenting them books, pictures, in some cases ornaments and clothes. At an examination held very lately, one of the girls of the first class, named Soorjomonee, aged about nine years, acquitted herself very creditably, and was first of all the competitors.—Hurkaru.

AFFRAY IN JEYPORE.—Several sepoys who busied themselves during the mutinies in looting and plundering certain of the civil stations of Upper India, when the mutiny gave them the opportunity to do so, retired, we hear, with a very large quantity of booty into the Jeypore territories, and there, after depositing their ill-got wealth with certain Bunneahs, entered into the service of the Maharajah. After two years had expired, an attack of home sickness led them to adopt the resolution of travelling back to their native land. They thereupon asked the Bunneahs to restore the valuables which had been placed in their hands, and on this being refused by all except one, the sepoys banded together, and a terrible affray ensued, in which some of the Bunneahs came to a speedy and violent end. The troops of the Maharajah now interfered, and succeeded in driving the sepoys away, who, we have been told, have since joined the marauding Bheels.

THE NEPAUL GOVERNMENT.—There is a difference of opinion, we hear, between the Government of Nepaul and that of India on one or two points. The former complains of the several aggressions which it says are made every now and then on subjects in its territories by those in ours, and to which prompt and speedy attention is not given. The Goorkha Government requests that British magistrates on the line of frontier be instructed to attend to such charges with the least practicable delay. The Government of India, on the other hand, complains of the manner in which the trade between the two countries is interfered with by members of the Nepaul Durbar, who have possessed themselves of a complete monopoly of the import trade, to the great detriment and loss of private individuals.—Hurkaru.

THE MYSORE FAMILY.—Under the provisions of the late rule laid down by Sir Charles Wood, several of the members of the Mysore family are selling their residences and quitting Russapuglah, in order to qualify themselves for the stipends which have been allowed to those members who will adopt that course of action. Prince Mahomed Shah Allum has sold his house for Rs. 5,000, and has gone to Dum-Dum. Prince Mahomed Qaisar has taken the same sum for his, and emigrated to Boonin in the 24-Pergunnahs. Prince Mahomed Ali Inavat has sold his residence for Rs. 4,995, and has gone to the same place, and Nawab Golam Ali has taken Rs. 15,000 for his, and has set off for Burdwan.

DARJEELING FOREST LANDS.—The Bengal Government notifies that all forest lands in Darjeeling at and above an elevation of 6,500 feet are reserved from sale under the Waste Land Rules.

COMPLIMENT TO MR. BLYTH.—At the November meeting of the Asiatic Society of Bengal, the following resolution was proposed by the Council expressive of the society's recognition of Mr. Blyth's services:—"On the eve of transferring the zoological collections of the society to Government, to form the nucleus of an Imperial Museum of Natural History, the society wishes to record its sense of the important services rendered by its late curator, Mr. Blyth, in the formation of those collections. In the period of twenty-two years, during which Mr. Blyth was curator of the society's museum, he has formed a large and valuable series of specimens, richly illustrative of the ornithology of India and the Burmese Peninsula, and has added largely to the mammalian and other vertebrate collections of the museum; while, by his numerous descriptive papers and catalogues of the museum specimens, he has made the materials thus amassed by him subservient to zoological science at large, and especially valuable to those engaged in the study of the vertebrate faunas of India and its adjoining countries." The resolution being put to the vote, was carried unanimously.

THE EJECTED BABOO.—The case in which the joint magistrate of Dacca is said to have ejected summarily from his Court an educated Baboo, from the college, who practised law during his leisure hours, has been settled, we hope to the satisfaction of all parties concerned. The joint magistrate says in his explanation that he was not aware that the Baboo really was what he now appears to be; that he took his seat among the amlah and commenced chattering there in an unseemly manner, which very justly annoyed the joint magistrate as presiding officer; that had he gone amongst the Mookhtears he would have been safe; but that being taken for a stranger, where he certainly had no business to be, he had only himself to thank for what followed.

CHEMICAL EXAMINER, N.W.P.—As there is at the presidency only one chemical examiner to Government for all Bengal, N.W. Provinces, British Burmah, &c., considerable delay generally occurs in disposing of poison cases at the criminal courts in the N.W. Provinces, for the local authorities have invariably in such cases to transmit to Calcutta the contents of the stomachs of deceased persons for chemical examination. To obviate this delay the Government of India have sanctioned the appointment of a separate chemical examiner for the N.W. Provinces on a salary of Rs. 150 per mensem, as recommended by the Lieut.-Governor of those provinces.

ACQUITTAL OF MR. RUSSELL.—Some little time ago Mr. Russell, an American gentleman, the Superintendent of the Baballandy Concern, got involved in an affray with his coolies, who refused to obey some order he had given them, and two men died from the injuries they had received in the scuffle. Mr. Russell was arraigned in September last before the Sessions Judge of Dacca on two counts—First, of murder, and, second, of culpable homicide not amounting to murder. When the trial came on the jury could not agree as to their verdict, and therefore, under the provisions of the Penal Code, a new trial became necessary. This has resulted in Mr. Russell's acquittal. He was defended by Mr. Ferguson, solicitor, of Calcutta.

CENTRAL PROVINCES SECRETARIAT.—Owing to the increase of work in the Secretariat of the Central Provinces, the Government of India has sanctioned the appointment of a deputy assistant secretary on a salary of Rs. 700 per mensem temporarily for three or four years, as recommended by the Chief Commissioner of those provinces.

THE GOORKHAS are reported to be dissatisfied with the Indian Mutiny Medal, which is not of the value which they think it ought to possess.

CASH BALANCES.—The following is an analysis of the cash balances for the month of September for the past three years:—

Totals, September, 1862...	Rs. 17,26,64,583
" 1864...	" 11,28,24,496

The falling off in 1863 was Rs. 2,76,36,851, and in 1864 Rs. 3,21,93,246, or a total in the two years of Rs. 5,98,30,097. During the past year the largest reduction has taken place in the balances to the credit of the Government of India, Rs. 1,11,52,052. The next is in those of the N.W.P., Rs. 83,54,666. The smallest is in those of the Deccan, which figure at Rs. 5,12,832. The decrease in the other Governments is given below:—

Bengal	Rs. 47,80,909
Punjab	" 7,69,749
Bombay... ..	" 4,49,796
Central Provinces	" 4,56,546
Madras	" 47,28,586

VOLUNTEERING IN CENTRAL INDIA.—The other day Mr. Temple, as colonel of the Nag-pore volunteers, read out to that corps assembled on their parade ground, a letter conveying the thanks of the Government to the present commandant and his predecessor, on account of the high eulogium pronounced upon the corps by Brigadier-general Shubrick, on the occasion of the late grand review. Colonel Temple exhorted the volunteers, in stirring language, to devote themselves to drill with untiring energy, and to be prepared by their expertness in the use of the rifle to give a warm reception to all comers who may choose to try conclusions with them on the tented field.

THE LATE MR. PILLANS.—We (Friend of India, Nov. 17) regret to record in our obituary the name of Mr. M. A. Pillans, merchant of Calcutta. He had been ill but a few days, and he was so much esteemed that the announcement of his death caused the deepest regret. Mr. Pillans was quartermaster of the Volunteers, and he had devoted much time and energy to the fulfilment of the duties of that office. In testimony of their appreciation of these services, and of their respect for his memory, the Volunteers were present at his funeral, and the commanding officer expressed his sense in an order of the loss the corps had sustained. His personal friends will feel that loss still more, embittered as it is by its suddenness, for in all his intercourse with them, and in every action of his life, he was a sterling and true-hearted gentleman; and as such he will be remembered, both by those who remain in this land, and by those who retire from it, with recollections of many warm and sincere friendships.

SILK CULTIVATION IN THE PUNJAB.—At the last meeting of the Agricultural and Horticultural Society of India, an interesting letter was read from Mr. Henry Cope in which some details were given of silk cultivation in the Punjab. During the present year Mr. Cope has obtained a larger number of cocoons than in any previous season. He is of opinion that in ten years more, instead of hundreds of seers of silk, they will, in the Punjab, be able to turn out hundreds of maunds. He strongly advises some of the Kangra tea planters to turn their attention to mulberry planting. They would find it more profitable on such lands as are not suited, but are at present given up to the tea plant. If forty-two per cent. can be got out of silk, as Mr. Cope says it can, the planters should follow his advice.

ABOLITION OF CIVIL PAYMASTER'S OFFICE.—From the 1st of December all civil salary bills are to be presented to the "Examiner of Claims," who will grant cheques for them on the Bank of Bengal on all sums above fifty rupees. Mr. R. C. Tulloh gets the new appointment.

CAPTAIN DAUBUZ, R.A.—The charges a second time preferred against Captain Daubuz, R.A., of ill-treatment of some natives in the Dumoh district, have been abandoned, and he is now at liberty to proceed on the leave he has obtained.

DOTTINGS.—The Rangoon Times has some most interesting information concerning the King of Burmah's economical management of State affairs. All the abuses attending the distribution of high offices have been done away with, and now moderate salaries are paid to all officials, who previously existed on plunder and fraud. Four Ministers of State receive Rs. 24,000 a-year each, four personal body-guards of the King have Rs. 15,000 a-year each, and the keeper of the female elephant receives Rs. 8,000. The catcher of wild elephants has also Rs. 8,000, but the white elephant himself receives Rs. 10. This animal is of very great importance, ranks next after the Heir Apparent, and takes precedence of the highest functionaries; his food and drink are served to him in large silver bowls. The present King of Burmah is "a hale hearty man, in the fiftieth year of his age." His family can hardly be considered a small one, consisting, as it does, of seventy-eight children and five queens. The heir apparent to the King of Ava is not, as is commonly the case in other instances, the eldest son of the King, but is always the next brother to his Majesty. The present heir apparent is about forty-six years of age, and is stated to have a great taste for mechanics and the industrial arts. He has already got forty-five children, and enjoys the revenues of nine cities, in which he possesses supreme authority, having the power even to inflict death. These cities and other property he possesses bring him in an income of close upon two lakhs of rupees a year.

PROTECTION AGAINST FIRES.—Shipowners will be glad to learn that the Bengal Government has in hand a Bill designed to "make better provision for the prevention of injury from fire in ports." The number of fires which took place in the river this year was considerable, and the loss and mischief occasioned were proportionately great. It has been found that larger powers are required to enable the local Government to take necessary precautions against these fires, and for that purpose a Bill will be introduced. There will be a restriction placed upon the introduction into the port of inflammable oils, and the Conservator will be empowered to call for the assistance of any seamen to aid in extinguishing the fire. Tugs will be required to supply free pumps and hose.

MISSIONARY PROGRESS IN RAJPOOTANA.—Dr. Valentine, a medical missionary connected with the United Presbyterian Rajpootana Mission, has written an interesting letter to the Bombay Guardian, in which he gives some of his experiences. One or two short tours had been made through Ajmere and Mairwarree, and the people were found anxious to obtain medical advice and to listen to the doctor's preaching. The religious movement seems to have affected the weavers in particular, crowds of that class gathering round the preacher, and honest, thoughtful questions being asked about the Christian religion, which they declared to be much superior to their own. Dr. Valentine thinks that the work is quietly and surely advancing, and making itself felt among all classes.

ARREST OF MOULVIE AHMEDDOOLA.—The Englishman has heard that Moulvie Ahmedoola, the principal Wahabee of Patna, has been arrested in that place at the instance of the Punjab Government. This is the same individual whom Mr. Taylor looked after so closely during the mutinies, and who was in consequence considered by Mr. Halliday a very harshly-treated personage. He has been made much of since then, and has acted as Income-tax Assessor for the city. His arrest has fluttered his friends, and many of the Wahabees have, it is stated, been making themselves scarce in Patna.

CAPTAIN H. LEWIS, of the Hospital Ship Bentuck, has been appointed Master Attendant at Rangoon, vice Captain Brooking, on sick leave.

CONSPIRACY TO EXTORT MONEY.—Ahmed Ali was tried at Lucknow, some time back, for the murder of the wife and family of a Mr. Lightle, a clerk in the Chief Commissioner's office. The murders, it was stated, had been committed at Lucknow when the mutiny first broke out. Ahmed Ali was acquitted, and he subsequently brought an action against Mr. Lightle for defamation, laying his damages at fifteen thousand rupees. The case has just been decided in his favour, and Lightle being a man of straw, and unable to meet the results, has been committed to gaol. In the opinion of the judge, Mr. Fraser, the charge of murder was a malicious conspiracy, concocted by Lightle and his servants for the purpose of extorting money.

WISE ECONOMY.—The Maharajah of Cashmere was naturally looked upon as a great "catch" by the priests of the Sikh temple at Umritsur. But they have been sorely disappointed. On the occasion of his visit, the Delhi Gazette tells us, he presented them with only eleven hundred rupees. This was hardly a sufficient return for the expenditure of a thousand which they had laid out on fireworks, &c., to do his highness honour. The priests expected at least a lakh from such a potentate. The boy Maharajah of Puttiala presented them with eight thousand rupees, and the Raja of Jheend was equally liberal.

INDIGO PROSPECTS.—We (Hurkarn) regret to hear of the indifferent prospects of the indigo crop in the North-West this season. There has been very little rain, and the plant has suffered in consequence. Some of the planters who had invested most largely in the manufacture will hardly realise half their anticipations. The same drought has equally affected the food crops in the districts surrounding Allahabad, and prices are steadily rising to famine proportions.

EDUCATION IN OUDH.—On the recommendation of the Chief Commissioner of Oudh, a further grant of about fifty thousand rupees a year has lately been sanctioned by the Government of India to the education department in that province, in addition to the amount previously allowed. The salary of the director of public instruction has been raised from Rs. 2,000 to 2,500 a month, and that of several subordinate officers has also been increased.

MAHOMED ALI KHAN, the son of the late Nawab of Tonk, has succeeded to his father's guddee, but not to the pension of Rs. 12,500 per mensem which that father enjoyed. The payment of the stipend was discontinued under the following circumstances. A hoondie for Rs. 20,000 was found in the possession of a rebel named Fuzqueeroollah, which belonged to the late Nawab, and which was given to him for the purpose of adding fuel to the mutiny which was then raging in the Upper Provinces. The son has determined to refer the matter to Sir Charles Wood.

SMALL CAUSE COURTS.—Since the Act extending the jurisdiction of the Small Cause Courts has been introduced, the receipts of the Calcutta Court have been increasing every month, even beyond the most sanguine expectations of our legislators. The returns of the months of September and October last show a clear profit of nearly Rs. 20,000 per mensem to Government. In fact, the Calcutta Court of Small Causes appears to be the most paying institution of the kind in all India.

DR. LEITNER, who has been appointed Principal of the Lahore College, was lately Professor of Arabic Literature and Mahomedan Law at King's College, London. His linguistic attainments are very considerable, and he speaks Arabic, Turkish, and modern Greek with fluency. As a comparative philologist he ranks, it is stated, second only to Max Muller.

DR. CHARLES PALMER has been appointed Marine Surgeon, in the room of Dr. Macrae, resigned.

CALCUTTA APPOINTMENTS.—Mr. G. S. Fagan took charge of his office as Secretary to the Government of Bengal, in the Legislative Department, on Monday, Nov. 21, and Mr. C. Boulnois returned to his substantive appointment as First Judge of the Calcutta Court of Small Causes on the same day. The salary of the Secretary to the Bengal Council is to be reduced from Rs. 2,000 to 1,000, but the privilege to practise in the local Courts has been allowed to this officer.

BABOO SATTENDRA NAUTH TAGORE, the young Bengalee civilian, has had an ovation from his friends at the Balgachia Villa of Rajah Pertab Chunder Sing. All classes of the native community appear to have been represented. Moulvie Abdool Luteef, Manockjee Rustomjee, and the Rev. K. Mohun Banerjee, were among those present. The young Baboo is reported to have received the congratulations addressed to him with "becoming modesty."

CHARGE OF EMBEZZLEMENT.—Ramchunder Mitter, a cashier employed in the office of Messrs. Temple and Fenn, Calcutta solicitors, was charged in aiding and abetting in the embezzlement of Rs. 15,000. The investigation before the magistrate terminated yesterday, and Ramchunder was committed to the sessions.

REMOVAL OF MOOLTAN.—In consequence of the heavy inundations to which, from recent references, the city of Mooltan appears to be liable, in its present site on the River Chenab, Government intends removing it four miles higher up the railway to Lahore, in order to secure a better elevation.

THE HOUSE OF TIMOUR.—The Governor-general has granted a compassionate allowance of Rs. 25 per month to Shah Abbas, one of the sons of the late ex-King of Delhi, and Rs. 10 each to his mother and grandmother.

ARMY CLOTHING DEPARTMENT.—The separate office of Superintendent of Army Clothing is abolished, and the supervision of the Department will be henceforth carried on by one officer, to be styled "Superintendent and Agent for Army Clothing," on a staff salary of rupees one thousand per mensem.

CALCUTTA BONDED WAREHOUSE.—The report of the operations of the Calcutta Bonded Warehouse for the last half-year has just been published. A dividend of Rs. 27-8-0 per share, free of income-tax, has been declared by the directors.

LIEUT.-COLONEL THUILLIER is about to organise a plan for the survey of the Central Provinces.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE CYCLONE AT MASULIPATAM.—Colonel Nott, the commanding officer of the 19th N.I., has reported from Masulipatam to the Adjutant-General of the Army that the lines of the 19th Regiment N.I. are completely washed down, and many lives are lost; the actual number he is unable to state, as the bodies are still being dug out from the ruins, and men are searching for missing relatives. The men have lost nearly all their property, with the Government clothing of 1864-65 and 1865-66; the letter received about the 25th, and issued after muster on the morning of the 1st. He has ordered a Court of Enquiry to assemble immediately to record the deaths and other casualties amongst men and followers. The Adjutant's house and office were so flooded that Colonel Nott was unable to find records to give a correct number to his letter. The officiating collector of the Godavery district, in a letter to Government, dated Coconada, 12th November, reports that he received on that date an urgent demi-official letter from the collector of the Kistna district, giving some particulars of the fearful cyclone which passed over Masulipatam on the night of the 1st November, and stating among other things that every boat belonging to the port had disappeared. "The inhabitants now suffer great straits from want of rice; and, of course, without boats to land cargo, sending rice there by sea is useless. The inland navigation from here to Masulipatam via Ellore and Bezwarah is for the present stopped by breaches that have been caused in the high level channel." Mr. Thornhill requested him to make arrangements to send some cargo boats down with the steamer expected from Calcutta in a few days, so that communication with the shipping in the roads might be re-opened.

SECUNDERABAD, Dec. 7.—This station has been thrown into a state of excitement by the following melancholy event, which took place yesterday. It appears that a Mr. Gilbert, a resident at Secunderabad, left home yesterday morning for the purpose of seeing the races at Moul Ali. On arriving at the race-course he allowed his horse to graze in an adjacent field; after the races were over he discovered that his horse had strayed from where he left it, and immediately went in search; while doing so he wandered into a jungle near Moul Ali rock, when, to his utmost surprise, he was suddenly seized by a tiger, who caught him by the side, and inflicted a deep wound with his teeth. The occurrence was witnessed by several men, who rushed instantly to his assistance, and thereby saved his life, but not in time to prevent him from sustaining serious injury. He was conveyed at once to the Garrison Hospital, where he still lies in a very precarious state. Faint hopes are entertained of his recovery. Several officers have gone out in search of the animal, and doubtless they will succeed in its capture or destruction. Last year a native was carried away and torn in pieces by one of these monsters, which I believe has not yet been captured. During the years 1861-2 no less than three cheetahs were shot near the same place, and subsequently a trap was set, but no more were captured.—H.E. Sir Hope Grant, G.C.B., and suite arrived here this morning on a tour of inspection. The usual salute was fired from the Park Battery. His Excellency is expected to remain about a month in Secunderabad, and then proceeds en route to Burmah to complete his tour.—Times of India.

HOSPITAL IN SOUTH WYNAAD.—The planners in the South Wynaad have sent up a Memorial to Government, praying for assistance towards establishing and working a hospital in that district. The memorialists appear to contemplate undertaking the appointment and remuneration of a medical officer themselves, providing part of the cost of a suitable building, providing also for its up-keep; the necessary menial establishment, and food and necessaries for in-patients, but they desire that Government should give a grant of Rs. 2,000 towards the building, the services of a dresser to act under their medical officer, and supplies of medicines. We are glad to learn that Sir William Denison will be prepared to sanction a grant of a moiety of the cost of the hospital, which it is proposed to erect at Vitary, provided that the plan and estimate and site of the building shall be approved by Government. The Government will also place the services of an assistant apothecary at the disposal of the subscribers to the hospital, and will make a grant of Rs. 50 in aid of his salary, the continuance of which shall be subject to the condition that the hospital shall be open to such inspection as the Government may prescribe, and that its management shall be satisfactory.

COORG.—Mr. Bowring has laid before the Government a report upon the affairs of Coorg during the past year. Small as the state is, its prosperity increases very rapidly, and the people are cultivating their land with much more energy than of old. They are beginning to cultivate coffee also, and in some places an attempt has been made to introduce the tea plant, though not hitherto with successful results. Chinchonas from the Nilgiris—that being the way of spelling the word which Mr. Bowring prefers—have been tried, and they thrive "uncommonly well." Some better means of communication with the coast are greatly needed, and it is in such a country as Coorg that Sir William Denison's "animal power" propositions might probably be useful. Coorg is too small to afford a railroad, but is big enough to want a tramway. Perhaps Mr. Bowring will be able to get one for his little charge before very long.

TRANSPORTATION TO PORT BLAIR.—The Government of India has sanctioned the proposal of the Madras Government to resume the transportation of convicts from Madras to Port Blair, subject to the restriction that sentences of transportation should, for the present, be carried into effect only in those cases in which the sentence is for fourteen years and upwards. 3

TEA CULTURE.—Mr. McIvor, the Superintendent of the Government Chinchona plantations at Ootacamund, recently read a paper at a meeting of the Madras Agri-Horticultural Society, in which some of his experiences as a tea planter on the Neilgherries were given. The tap root of the plant can, he says, generally be cut off with advantage, for it is only necessary to preserve it when tea is planted in localities subject to long continued drought. It is then highly useful, as it penetrates deep into the soil, and draws moisture from a depth unaffected by the drought. Any attempt to stimulate the growth of tea seed is disadvantageous. Mr. McIvor found that the seeds germinated most freely in a temperature from 65 to 70 deg. F., and with more certainty when placed close together, and watered sparingly. The application of steam to the seeds he believes to be highly injurious, and cracking the shells to facilitate germination has been followed by no beneficial results. The only advantageous practice in growing tea seed is to sow them close together, with a temperature not higher than 70 deg. nor lower than 65 deg., and to supply them with a moderate quantity of moisture. They should not be sown deep, and the soil should be composed principally of sand and loam.

NATIVE APPRECIATION OF RAILWAYS.—The subjoined address has been presented to the local manager of the Madras Railway by some of the leading native gentlemen of that Presidency town:—

"Madras, Oct. 24, 1864.

"Sir,—We, the undersigned Hindoo and Mahomedan inhabitants of Madras, desire to avail ourselves of the occasion which the recent opening of the branch line of railway to Bangalore affords us of offering you our congratulations on the success of the undertaking.

"We beg here to express our appreciation of the benefits which are likely to accrue from such a project as that in question—benefits which affect not alone the commercial and trading communities, but which extend themselves to the public in general.

"We are here reminded that Sir Charles Trevelyan, in his answer to the Madras deputation which awaited him on his last arrival, expressed himself most promisingly on the subject of railway progress in Southern India, and classified railway companies among the chief agents for opening up the resources of the country. His remarks have been most amply verified by the unvaried success which the Madras Railway Company has experienced.

"But there is a special advantage, we are convinced, in the opening of the branch line to Bangalore, which is, that it brings us almost within immediate communication with the rich and fertile territory of Mysore. From a sense of the peculiar advantages thereby obtained, and of your personal endeavours as agent of the company to consult the interests of the community by all possible means, we beg to request your acceptance of this address, with the assurance that it is the expression of our unanimous sentiments.

"In conclusion, we desire to tender you our heartfelt wishes for the future prosperity of the Madras Railway, and for your own happiness and welfare.—We are, &c.,

"The Hon. SHURFOOL OOMRAH, Bahadur, Member of the Legislative Council, and 148 of the other principal Mahomedan and Hindoo inhabitants of Madras.

"To R. B. Elwin, Esq., Agent and Manager, Madras Railway Company."

IMPRESSMENT OF LABOUR.—A very important law is about to be introduced into the Madras Presidency. It is proposed to empower Government, in any district, to impose upon the ryots the duty of keeping in repair village tanks and roads, that is, to compel them to devote a portion of their labour, defining what portion, to the service of the public. This is said to be already done in Ceylon, and, under exceptional circumstances, has long had legal sanction in India. By a law passed in 1858, village labour may be impressed for employment on embankments threatened with instant destruction, and punishment may be inflicted on refractory ryots. In Madras, the peasantry have dealings direct with Government.

IMPROVEMENTS.—Government has sanctioned the expenditure of Rs. 3,000 for improving and ornamenting the bridges on the South Beach-road, in much the same manner as the General Hospital-bridge; that is, the roadway will be widened, a paved footpath laid down, and the masonry parapet removed for iron railings.

BOMBAY.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE BUNDER AT MAZAGON, next to the Frere Land and Reclamation Company, has been purchased by J. A. Sassoon, Esq., for the sum of £80,000.

MR. PREMCHUND ROYCHUND has contributed the sum of £50,000 to the fund which has recently been raised by the Bania community with the noble object of assisting the helpless orphans and widows of their caste.

LAW COURTS.—It has been determined to open a third Court in the High Court House. The Chief Justice will sit in the large Court, Sir Joseph Arnould in his Chamber, and Mr. Justice Westropp in the small Court. After the Criminal Sessions a permanent third Court will be opened, probably in the Grand Jury room.

TWO ADDITIONAL MAGISTRATES are to be appointed for Bombay on salaries of Rs. 1,000 each, and an establishment amounting to about Rs. 800 additional. This addition has not been made any too soon, as there is plenty of work awaiting them.

DEATH OF THE EX-AMEER OF SCINDE.—We regret to announce the death of one of the ex-Amers of Scinde, Meer Nusseer Khan, which melancholy event took place on the 5th of December, at his residence in one of the buildings belonging to Khan Bahadur Puddumjee Pestonjee, Esq., in Bhowanee Peit. His remains were interred, as a temporary measure, in the Garpeer burial ground, opposite the Civil Hospital, but we hear that they will be removed from thence to his native land. This State prisoner has been labouring under indisposition for these last two months, and was, as we understand, granted permission by Government to proceed to his own country to join his family, but unfortunately he has expired in the Deccan before he could be removed. This is the second ex-Ameer of Scinde who has died in Poonah. He was above eighty years of age.—Poonah Observer.

GOOD WORK IN BOMBAY.—We are informed by the Bombay Gazette that the committee of management of the House of Correction recommended last month, in a letter addressed to Government, that the sum of Rs. 200 might be placed at their disposal for presentation to Mrs. Lindsay, who is engaged by the Bombay Bible Women's Society in affording religious instruction to the European and Eurasian neglected poor in that city. Mrs. Lindsay has been most assiduous in her attentions to the Christian inmates of the Penitentiary, and from which they have derived much benefit. The sanction of Government was solicited, so that the committee might be able to mark their appreciation of the zeal of this very worthy woman in her solicitude for the spiritual welfare of the poor people to whom she ministered. Government sanctioned the amount being paid from the profits of prison labour in the House of Correction.

THE LATE MR. SASSOON.—The Bombay Gazette has a sketch of the career of the late David Sassoon, the Jew millionaire, whose death at Poona we mentioned a short time ago. He was born at Bagdad in 1792, at which place his father was treasurer to the Turkish Governor. When thirty years old, young Sassoon removed to Bussorah and afterwards to Bushire, and in 1832 he first visited Bombay. There he determined to settle, and there in the course of twenty years he accumulated a vast fortune. The Gazette states that his benefactions from time to time have amounted to £150,000 sterling. His eldest son, Mr. Albert D. Sassoon, has been living for some years at Ashley-park, in England, an estate purchased for him by his father at Walton-on-Thames.

PARSEE MUNIFICENCE.—One is almost tired of constantly noticing the munificence of the Bombay Parsees, but another instance is deserving attention. The famine in Guzerat has already called a grain association into existence at Surat, the object of which is to keep down prices, and thus defeat the vampire dealers who find their harvest in the miseries of the people. The Hon. Rustumjee Jamsetjee Jeejeebhoy heard of the association, and immediately made a donation to its funds of a quarter of a lakh of rupees. . . . The Government of Bengal, in a letter to the Bombay Government, has offered its grateful acknowledgments to Sir Jamsetjee Jeejeebhoy, and those who have joined him, for the "characteristic and spontaneous liberality" with which they have contributed towards the sufferers by the late cyclone.

A STRANGE STORY.—The tale of Sindbad is a tame and every day affair compared with the history of James Hunt. What will our readers say when we tell them that after all that has passed Mr. Hunt has turned up again, alive, well, and highly indignant at the aspersions cast upon his name, and the wreck that has been made of his property! It appears the unfortunate man has been shipwrecked on a desert island somewhere. Thence, after enduring great privations, for some months, he escaped and was conveyed to England, where, for the first time, he learnt what had been going on in this Presidency meanwhile—the declaration of his bankruptcy and sale of his effects. He immediately commenced legal proceedings against the Government of Bombay for the recovery of his property, and is on his way out to this country to vindicate his good name.—Such is the tale which has reached our ears, and for the sake of his friends and creditors we sincerely hope that, however extraordinary, it may turn out true.—Poonah Observer.

POST-OFFICE AT KURRACHEE.—The Director General of Post-offices has approved of the outlay of Rs. 45,500 for the erection of the new Post-office near the railway station at Kurrachee, and the Post-master General has addressed the Commissioner in Sind with a view to obtain the requisite sanction for the expenditure, through the Bombay Government.

ANOTHER DISTURBANCE AT ELEPHANTA.—On the 3rd November a number of the "Celestials," inhabiting the island of Elephanta, collected together in a mob, evidently with the intention of kicking up a tremendous row, and arming themselves with clubs and stones, marched off towards the guard-house occupied by the Tanna Rangers; on approaching which the greater portion of the ruffians fell back, but a few who were more daring than the rest advanced stealthily to the sentinel on his post, and stoned him; whereupon his piece was at once levelled and discharged into their midst, which immediately brought out his comrades, who, seeing the serious state of affairs, immediately fired at the Chinese, and after a few shots finally dispersed them, wounding four, and capturing a few others, who are now doubtless in confinement.

SALE OF GOVERNMENT STEAMERS.—Her Majesty's steamship Clyde was offered for sale by public auction on the 15th Nov., at the Dockyard, under the superintendence of the marine storekeeper. The only bid received was that of Mr. Hajee Hasan Joosuff of Rs. 35,500 on account of the British Indian Steam Navigation Company; but, there being a reserved bid from Government of Rs. 40,000, the steamer was bought in. The Government steamer Zenobia was sold by public auction on the same day, at the Government Dockyard. The sale commenced with a bid of Rs. 50,000 by Messrs. Fulcher, Cooper and Co., between whom and the Hon. Rustomjee Jamssetjee Jejeebhoy the price was pushed up to Rs. 1,36,000, this sum being on account of Messrs. Fulcher, Cooper and Co. An advance by Rs. 1,000 was made thereupon on account of the Hon. Mr. Rustomjee, to whom the steamer was knocked down for Rs. 137,000.

SPECULATION IN BOMBAY.—The sale of the Frere Land and Reclamation Company's property for the sum of Rs. 1,04,00,000 (one crore and four lacs), might be noticed as the largest single transaction that has occurred in Bombay for some years past. The land on which the company's operations are to be conducted was, we learn, purchased in the first instance from Mr. Premchund Roychund, and Messrs. W. Nicol and Co., for the aggregate sum of Rs. 56,00,000, by and on account of Messrs. Cursetjee Nusserwanjee Cama, Kesowjee Naik, Alladinbhoy Hubibhoy, Pestonjee Cursetjee Shroff, Muncherjee Nowrojee Banajee, Kassumbhoy Dhurmesey, and on behalf of the Eastern Financial Association by its directors. The whole concern has now been sold for one crore and four lacs, to a new company, composed of Messrs. L. H. Bayley, R. Ahlers, Ardasir Cursetjee Dady, Kursondass Mahadewdas, B. H. Cama, Cullindass Mohundass, Merwanjee Nusserwanjee Bhownuggree, and Ardasir Eduljee Chenoy, who have adopted the former name, the "Frere Land and Reclamation Company (Limited)." By one of the conditions of the second sale the Eastern and Asiatic Financial Associations are entitled to receive each from 100 to 150 shares of the Reclamation Company. It has been estimated that by this transaction, judging from the present high value of the Reclamation Company's shares, the Financial Associations in question have been the gainers by several lacs of rupees each.

TROOP SHIPS.—The ships Star of India, Donald Mackay, Windsor Castle, and Cospatrick, we understand, have been taken up by Government for the conveyance of troops to Europe. The Gosforth, Bates Family, Flying Venus and Oriental were recommended, and the Agamemnon was rejected on account of the high rates of tender. The two first named vessels, we believe, have been selected to take home the cavalry regiment (17th lancers) and the others time-expired men and invalids.

H.M.'s STEAM-SHIP "PLEIAD" has been sold at an auction sale at the dockyard, to the highest bidder, Mr. Manockjee Ardasir, for Rs. 14,000.

THE LATE MAHARANEE CHUNDA KOUR.—Our readers doubtless recollect the arrival at Bombay of the dead body of the late Maharanee Chunda, the mother of Dhuleep Singh, and the refusal on religious grounds of the Sadhee priests to consume it to ashes. They, however, observed that if a certain sum of money, a very large one we understand, were allowed them, they would proceed to burn it. A reference was thereupon made to Maharajah Dhuleep Singh, whose reply has just been received, to the effect that, as his mother is dead, her body is simply nothing, and that to spend so large a sum of money for the purpose of burning nothing would be a piece of folly, which he was not prepared to perpetrate. —Hurkaru.

COMMERCE OF BOMBAY.—The report on the external commerce of Bombay for the year 1863-64 shows an increase of Rs. 18,45,04,192 over the value of the trade of the previous year, and of Rs. 35,57,80,009 over the average value of the five preceding years. The trade of Bombay has more than doubled itself since the commencement of the American war, and the import trade has increased at the rate of more than seven millions sterling a-year during the last two years. This remarkable rate of progress is, of course, caused by the enormously enhanced price of cotton.

PENSIONERS' SCHOOL AT POONA.—An excellent movement has been set on foot at Poona for the establishment of a school for the children of poor European pensioners. It starts entirely on private support, the Government keeping aloof from the project, which promises so little éclat, and looks so utterly incongruous an item for a paragraph in an administration report.

MANAGERIAL LIBERALITY.—The Back Bay Reclamation Company have placed about twenty shares, at original cost, at the disposal of Mr. J. B. Lane, the managing agent of the Bombay and Baroda Railway Company, to be distributed among the engineers and officials serving under him. According to the latest quotations of these shares, this would be equivalent to a present of Rs. 4,65,000 to the lucky officers of the company.

A LIBEL CASE.—A plaint was filed on the 2nd December in the High Court by Messrs. Kelly, Hore, and Manisty, on behalf of Mr. Fellows, the municipal collector, against the Rev. Francis Gell, as editor of the Times of India, for the publication of certain libellous matter printed in that journal on several recent occasions.

WORTHY OF IMITATION.—The directors of the Bank of Bombay have increased the salaries of the clerks and other subordinates in their establishment by an advance of 30 per cent. all round. The necessity, which is being recognised by every house of business in India, is yet impalpable to the British Government.

ASSISTANT-SURGEON JOHN MACKENZIE is appointed assistant-surgeon to the Jamssetjee Jejeebhoy Hospital, and professor of surgery to the Grant Medical College, in the room of Dr. Ballingal, who goes home on leave.

MR. F. R. S. WYLLIE, of the Bombay Civil Service, has obtained the appointment of Assistant-Secretary to the Chief Commissioner of the Central Provinces.

MR. WILLIAM COLE BAYLY has resigned his appointment of surveyor of the municipality.

MAJOR THOMAS CANDY has been appointed Sheriff of Bombay for the ensuing year.

THE BANK OF BOMBAY, on the 9th Dec., raised its rate of interest one per cent. all round.

N. W. OLIVER, Esq., has been confirmed in the appointment of chief magistrate.

Military Letters.

MEDICAL OFFICERS IN H.M.'S MADRAS FORCES.

No. 873.—With reference to Govt. G.O. No. 507 of June 20, the following military letter from the Right hon. the Secy. of State for India is published for gen. information:—

From H.M.'s Secy. of State for India, to H.E. the Right hon. the Gov. gen. of India in Council (military).—No. 292, dated Sept. 23.

Sir,—Referring to my despatch dated May 16 last, No. 152, I have to inform you that the reference to the Royal Warrant of Oct. 1, 1858, in the 15th para. of that despatch, was made by inadvertence. The Royal Warrant intended to be referred to was the Warrant of Jan. 13, 1860, which alone applies to the medical officers of H. M.'s forces.

The relative rank in both Warrants is the same, but, in order to prevent any misunderstanding on the subject, I should wish intimation to the above effect to be immediately made in gen. orders in India.

Order books to be corrected, in accordance with the foregoing.

CAPTAIN J. P. BASEVI.

No. 876.—The following military letter from the Right hon. the Secy. of State for India is published for gen. information:—

From H.M.'s Secy. of State for India, to H.E. the Right hon. the Gov. gen. of India in Council (military).—No. 280, dated Sept. 6.

Sir,—With reference to the last para. of my despatch No. 271 of Aug. 23, I have to inform your Excy. that a communication has been received from Captain J. P. Basevi, R.E., enclosing a letter from the president of the Royal Society, from which it appears that the apparatus, which is to be placed at the disposal of the Indian Government, in connection with the pendulum experiments to be undertaken in India, will not be ready for use and shipment to India until 3 months hence.

Under these circumstances the furl. of Capt. Basevi has been extended for 2 months, Indian pay and allowances being granted him during such extension, and the additional period counting as service in India.

He has been informed that the retention of his appt. will be guaranteed to him for this additional period.

SALARIES TO OFFICERS.

No. 882.—The following military letter from the Right hon. the Secy. of State for India is published for general information, and the decision therein laid down will have effect from the 7th inst., the date of receipt of Sir C. Wood's despatch:—

From H.M.'s Secy. of State for India to H.E. the Right hon. the Gov. gen. of India in Council (military).—No. 296, dated Sept. 29.

Sir,—I have considered in Council your military letter dated July 30 last, No. 260, regarding the salaries to be assigned to the officers in command of the Punjab irregular force and the Hyderabad contingent.

I am of opinion, upon a full consideration of the importance of these commands, they should be considered as 1st class brigades, and in place of the consolidated allowance hitherto drawn by the officers in chief command of these forces, they should receive the allowances of a 1st class brigadier gen. in addition to the staff corps pay of rank.

Financial Reform.

Nov. 10.—No. 3,169.—Read again the resolution of the Government of India on the report of the Commissioners of Inquiry into the Indian accounts upon the mode of conducting the business of the Financial Department, and of the offices of account and audit attached to that department, dated Oct. 4, No. 2,805.

RESOLUTION.—As it has been proposed to the Secretary of State to detain Mr. Foster during such time as may be necessary to give effect to the improved system of account and audit recommended in his and Mr. Whiffin's report, it becomes necessary to lay down the course to be followed in order to carry out, without delay, and with the utmost efficiency, such change as may be sanctioned in the system of account and audit in the Financial Department.

2. Mr. Foster will be charged with the duty of preparing the detailed instructions and forms of account which will be necessary to bring the new arrangement into practical operation.

3. The Accountant General to the Government of India, and the Deputy Auditor and Accountant General for Bengal, will co-operate with Mr. Foster, and give him every assistance they may be able to afford, but it will be desirable to place, specially under Mr. Foster, a staff of officers, whose duty it will be to prepare, under his directions, such rules and regulations and such books of account as may be required under the revised system.

4. The officers who will be employed in this service are—

1. Mr. Sandeman, Civil Paymaster.

2. Mr. Wyatt, First Assistant to the Auditor General.

3. Mr. Turner, Assistant to the Commissioner.

4. Mr. A. C. Foster, of the Financial Department.

5. These, with a limited number of intelligent clerks, to be selected, as far as possible, from those now employed in the financial office, will be sufficient for the preliminary steps which will have to be taken in anticipation of the complete system being commenced on the 1st May next.

6. It is not intended to pass any final decision on the recommendations contained in the Report until the opinions of the Local Governments and Administrations shall have been received; but it is desired to put these recommendations into a practical form, capable of immediate application, and to make such other subsidiary arrangements as can with advantage be adopted. The Governor-general in Council also deems it advisable that the revised system should, with the concurrence of the Lieut.-governor, be experimentally introduced at Calcutta and throughout the Government of Bengal, in order that a model may be obtained for the rest of India. Every official instruction that may be necessary for giving effect to this resolution will be issued through the financial secretary's office.

Ordered, that a copy be transmitted to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal, with an expression of the wish of the Governor-general in Council that every necessary assistance may be given to Mr. Foster in the execution of the important duty which has been entrusted to him.

Pay and Allowances of Medical Officers.

Nov. 26.—No. 953.—There being considerable misunderstanding with respect to the pay and allowances to be drawn by medical officers under the instructions contained in the despatch of the Secretary of State published in Government G.O. No. 507 of June 30, 1864, the following rules are laid down for observance in the three Presidencies, with effect from the date laid down in Government G.O. No. 508 of the same day, and pending further reference to the Secretary of State:—

I. All medical officers, whether of the British or Indian forces, who were in receipt of consolidated salaries at the date of publication of the G.O., or who may have subsequently succeeded, or may hereafter succeed, to situations the salaries of which are consolidated, will draw such consolidated salary, and no more.

When so situated as to be entitled to draw only half staff salary, such officers will draw the pay of their rank, according to para. 10 of the despatch of the Secretary of State, and half the difference between that sum and the amount of the consolidated salary.

In such case the officer acting will also draw the new rate of pay for his rank, and the half difference remaining undrawn by the permanent incumbent.

II. Surgeon majors serving with British regiments will draw pay according to length of service, as laid down in para. 10, with the addition of the horse allowance sanctioned in para. 11, if attached to regiments of cavalry or to brigades of horse artillery, and of Rs. 30 if attached to brigades of field artillery.

III. Surgeons of British regiments who were in medical charge of regiments of British cavalry and infantry on June 20, 1864, will be allowed to continue to receive the pay and allowances then drawn.

Their claim to the old rate will not be invalidated by their proceeding on leave in India, and ceasing for a time to draw staff salary or head money. During such period they will draw the new rates of pay of their rank, and on return to their corps receive their old emoluments.

When promoted to surgeon major they will draw only the pay of that grade.

IV. Surgs. of British regts. who were not in charge of corps on June 20, are only entitled to the new rates of pay of their grade, whether absent or present, with the prescribed horse allowance, if attached to cavalry or horse artillery, and Rs. 30 horse allowance, if attached to the field artillery.

V. Asst. surgs. of the British service will, in all cases, receive the pay of their standing as laid down in para. 10, with an addition of Rs. 150, if in med. charge of a regt. of infantry or cavalry, or brigade of artillery, or a permanent depot, besides Rs. 60 per mensem horse allowance, if with cavalry or horse artillery, and Rs. 80 if attached to field artillery.

VI. Medical officers of the Indian Service who do not come under the provisions of Clause 1 of this Order, will draw the same pay and allowances as before the issue of the Order, unless it is below the pay assigned to their rank in paragraph 10, in which case they will be permitted to draw the higher rate of pay. In the latter case they will draw horse allowance at the prescribed rates, if with cavalry, horse artillery, or field artillery.

VII. Medical officers drawing pay under the old rules will receive any advantages to which they would become entitled by these rules in consequence of promotion or having completed five, six, or ten years' service as assistant surgeons.

VIII. Medical officers, whether of the British or Indian Service, holding staff appointments, and in receipt of staff or half staff salaries, will, until further orders, draw the present rates of staff salary, in addition to the old scale of pay, receiving any increase in the latter to which they would have become entitled by promotion, unless the aggregate shall be less than the pay of their grade under paragraph 10 of the Secretary of State's despatch, in which case they will receive the latter only. When on leave they will draw the new rates of pay without staff salary, the acting incumbent drawing the staff salary with the old rate of pay, or the new rates without staff pay, as may be most advantageous.

IX. Conveyance allowance will not be admissible to assistant surgeons on the new rates of pay.

X. The authorised allowance for the medical charge of the staff of divisions or brigades will be passed in addition to pay and allowances, whether on the old or new scale.

The foregoing is in substitution of any orders or decisions on the subject that may have previously been given.

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL.

RETROSPECT OF THE YEAR 1864.

THE close of the year 1863 was saddened throughout British India by the death of the Earl of Elgin and Kincardine, the Governor-general. His brief Indian career ended with his life, on the 20th of November. No time was lost in appointing his successor. In the interim, between the death of Lord Elgin and the arrival in India of Sir John Lawrence, his Excellency Sir William Denison acted as Governor-general.

Sir John Lawrence arrived at Madras on his way to Calcutta on the 9th of January. He was unable to land there on account of the heavy surf upon the beach.

His Excellency Sir John Lawrence, Viceroy of India, landed at Calcutta on the 12th of January. He was received with great ceremony and a hearty welcome. The British Indian community were upon the whole delighted with the selection of such a man for their Governor. A few of the local papers, however, both native and European, were prejudiced against him on account of his Exeter-hall proclivities, and the erroneous general impression that he agreed with Sir Herbert Edwardes as to the duty of forcing Christianity upon the Hindoos. Sir John Lawrence was undoubtedly as anxious to spread Christianity in the East as Sir Herbert Edwardes, but was disposed to be a little more cautious about the means. He proposed to have Bible classes in the Colleges, but to make it quite optional with the students whether they should attend them or not. What Sir John Lawrence as a private individual might have wished to do was a very different question from what he would actually attempt to do when he became her Majesty's representative in the East, and had to govern a hundred and fifty millions of human beings who were as satisfied of the truth of their own religion as Christians are of theirs.

His Excellency held his first levee on the 16th of January, and opened the Calcutta Agricultural Exhibition three days after. The Exhibition was a decided success. The Benares Exhibition had been opened on the 4th of January. The Punjab Exhibition was opened on the 20th of the same month.

One of the noisiest events connected with the history of India at the commencement of the year 1864 was the Court-martial at Aldershot upon Lieutenant-colonel Crawley, of the 6th (Inniskilling) Dragoons. He was fully and honourably acquitted of the charges brought against him. The Court-martial at Aldershot was forced upon the authorities at home in consequence of the general feeling throughout India that Colonel Crawley had been guilty of extreme inhumanity towards Sergeant-major Lilley, who died under close arrest, and of outraging the feelings of the officers under his command by unbearable rudeness and unnecessary severity. This famous Court-martial excited extraordinary interest, not only on account of Colonel Crawley and his officers personally, and the important question of whether a non-commissioned officer or private could be placed entirely at the mercy of his commanding officer without any chance of redress for the most vindictive injuries, but because the reputation for judgment and good conduct of the very highest military authorities both in India and at home was more or less involved in the manner in which the Crawley case had been managed at Mhow. It was thought by some that Sir Hugh Rose and Sir William Mansfield, and even his Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge, had all acted inconsistently and indiscreetly in relation to the various circumstances connected with the case. The decision, however, of the Court-martial at Aldershot brought the whole question to an end, and relieved the authorities from a rather awkward position. This Court-martial cost the State a large sum of money; for all the witnesses brought from India had their expenses paid, and the officers and men were on full pay during their residence at home.

This year the famous Scotch missionary, Dr. Alexander Duff, took leave of his brother missionaries in India and of the Indian public generally, in a long farewell-letter, which occupied an entire Supplement of the Bengal Hurkaru. Dr. Duff had spent thirty-four years of his life in India, during which period he had devoted all his thoughts, all his time, all his energies, to the cause of Christianity. It was proposed by his friends and admirers that a public subscription should be raised for the purpose of commemorating his merits by the erection of what was to be called a Memorial Hall, in a very classical and noble style of architecture, for the use of Christian Lecturers. It was to be an exact copy of the Maison Carrée, at Nîmes. The Bishop of Calcutta and Sir Charles Trevelyan did their best to organise the subscription for this purpose, but the attempt was unsuccessful, and the scheme has been abandoned.

At the commencement of this year the Indian Government formally recognised Sirdar Shere Ali Khan as Ameer of Afghanistan.

The new organisation of the Native Army of Bombay was published in the Official Gazette in January last. The European officers with each native regiment were reduced to six in number, all of whom were to be mounted officers, forming the regimental staff—namely, a commandant, two wing commandants, an adjutant, a quartermaster, and a "doing duty officer." All the captains and subalterns were to be native officers. The Bombay Native Army was thus, in fact, put on what is called the irregular system.

General George St. Patrick Lawrence, C.B., Governor-general's Agent for Rajpootana, was directed by Government to present the insignia of the Star of India to his Highness the Maharajah of Jeypoor. The ceremony took place on the 12th of March, at Ajmere, and was conducted with great formality and splendour.

A grand durbar was held at Government-house, Bombay, on the 13th of January, for the reception of his Highness Khandeh Row, Guicowar of Baroda, Knight of the Exalted Star of India. Sir Bartle Frere received his Highness with marks of high distinction. On his arrival and departure he was honoured with a salute of twenty-one guns. The object of his visit was to confer with Sir Bartle Frere on the subject of the adoption of an heir to his throne, his Highness having no issue.

The truly munificent Parsee, Rustomjee Jamsetjee Jejeebhoy, set apart at the commencement of this year Rs. 150,000 for the encouragement and support of five native candidates from either of the Presidencies of Bengal, Madras, or Bombay, for education and legal training in England to fit them for being members of the Bar in India.

Dr. Tonnerre was elected and appointed Health Officer of Calcutta in January last.

The laying of the foundation stone of the Lawrence Memorial at Lucknow took place on the evening of the 2nd of January.

Sorabjee Jamsetjee Jejeebhoy contributed the sum of Rs. 65,000 towards the erection of a suitable building for a college at Surat.

In February last the Army Amalgamation Inquiry Committee laid their Report on the table of the House of Commons. The contents were soon made public. The Commissioners admitted that there were some solid grounds for the dissatisfaction of the officers of the Bengal Army, who complained that, in its reorganisation after India had been transferred from the East India Company to the Crown, the pledge of Parliament that they should suffer no loss of pay, or privilege, or promotion from the change, had been broken by some of the new arrangements. Sir Charles Wood, however, did not carry out the recommendations of the Commissioners to the satisfaction of the Bengal Army, which is still in a state of extreme discontent. As Sir Charles Wood lately rectified the errors of the Medical Warrant, which excited such general indignation, not in the Medical Service only, but amongst all classes throughout both India and England, and issued new Regulations for the Indian Medical Service on a scale of extreme liberality, the Bengal Army may hope that their case also will be carefully reconsidered, and that all their real grievances will be remedied.

Sir Bartle Frere, the Governor of Bombay, on a visit to Guzerat, was received with strong demonstrations of public respect. A grand state carriage had been built expressly for his accommodation, with large mirrors at each end. He passed under triumphal arches erected in his honour at considerable cost.

The natives of Bombay liberally subscribed Rs. 1,70,000, for the purpose of establishing a Fellowship in connection with the Bombay University, to be called "The Canning Fellowship."

Early in this year the Governor-general appointed a Sanitary Commission for the Military Stations in the Bengal Presidency. Similar Commissions were appointed at Fort St. George and Bombay.

The Bombay, Baroda, and Central India Railway was completed early this year, to the great satisfaction of the Bombay Government.

A new and gigantic undertaking at Bombay has been commenced—the Reclamation of Back Bay. The cost will be enormous, but there is no want of speculators to meet it. The shares were allotted on the 2nd of July. They rapidly rose to a premium of Rs. 30,000.

The Lieutenant-governor of Bengal issued an order in March last that no more dead bodies should be thrown into the Hooghly River off Calcutta.

Some time before the expedition to the Umbeyla Pass a number of Moulvies at Patna had been in treasonable correspondence with the Sittana fanatics. They raised money and men to aid them. One of their emissaries was arrested, and made a confession regarding his employers. Two of the conspirators were condemned to death, and nine others to transportation for life.

His Highness Maharajah Dhuleep Singh reached Bombay on the 6th of March. He soon after returned to England overland, staying some time in Egypt. He took the remains of his late mother to the shores of India, in accordance with her dying request; but being a Christian he declined taking part in the funeral ceremonies after the Hindoo fashion.

The Governor-general gave his sanction this year to the proposed lines of railway connecting the Bombay Presidency with the North-West Provinces.

Sir Charles Trevelyan's Indian Budget for the year 1863-64 represented the actual revenue as £44,753,000, and the actual expenditure as £44,722,000. The estimated revenue for 1864-65 was £46,160,000, the estimated expenditure £45,340,000. The estimated cost of the Sittana expedition was £200,000.

On the 24th of March Mr. Janvirs, a missionary, was murdered at Nundpore, in the district of Hoshiarpore, by a fanatical Sikh, named Bhag Sing, who suddenly felled him to the ground with a heavy club. The murderer had no personal ill-will to the missionary, but had resolved to revenge some insults or injuries received from the English, on the first opportunity which presented itself.

The Hon. Mr. Eden at the beginning of the year was sent on a mission to Bhootan. He received all sorts of discouragements in his progress, and when he arrived at Bhootan he was most grossly insulted by the Bhootan authorities. He was called upon to sign a treaty of absurd pretensions, and on his refusal had his hair pulled in open durbar and chewed beetel was forced into his mouth. The Governor-general, resolved to punish these savages, has prepared a strong force, native and European, for that purpose.

The Governor-general left Calcutta for Simla on the 15th of April. His Council shortly after followed.

The Persian Gulf Telegraph Cable from Kurrachee to Fao has been successfully completed.

A new College, called the Canning College, was opened at Lucknow on the 2nd of May. It was founded by the Talookdars of the province.

In the High Court of Bombay, on the 2nd of May last, the Judge (Sir Joseph Arnould) ruled that a Hindoo had might be considered to have arrived at years of discretion at the age of fourteen. A boy of the name of Dhumimoo was, therefore, allowed to remain at his pleasure with his missionary friends in spite of the earnest objections of his disappointed parent.

The Rev. Isadore Loewenthal was shot at Peshawur by his own durwan or guard, who, hearing him moving about at night, mistook him for a robber. The durwan was tried and sentenced to two years' rigorous confinement for "culpable homicide." Mr. Loewenthal was a distinguished Oriental scholar.

His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor-general held a durbar at Simla on the 15th of June, for the reception of the Chiefs of the Hill States.

In July the Governor-general published a long despatch from Sir Charles Wood embodying the new rules under which officers are to be admitted to the Staff Corps of the three Presidencies.

In July the local authorities decided that a sovereign should pass in India for ten rupees, but legislative effect was not to be given to the decision until a reference had been made to Sir Charles Wood.

The 18th Madras Native Infantry was this year disbanded on account of a robbery of the regimental treasury chest of Rs. 12,000, a subadar-major, four havildars, and four privates being implicated in the transaction, with the connivance or knowledge, it was supposed, of other parties in the regiment.

The Madras Army was reduced by four regiments, the 42nd, 43rd, 44th, and the 18th, which was made the fourth, and was broken up in disgrace.

On the 5th of October there occurred in Calcutta the most terrific hurricane or cyclone recorded in the history of India. About 150 ships were driven from their moorings; about twenty of these were total wrecks. Many European lives were lost, and some thousands of natives. The shore of the Hooghly was strewn with melancholy proofs of the extent of the calamity. Much of the land between Calcutta and Diamond Harbour was inundated, and thousands of the poor villagers were reduced to utter destitution by the loss of their crops, their houses, and their cattle. The Europeans of Calcutta at once subscribed very liberally for their relief, but were indignant at finding that no corresponding aid or sympathy was offered by the wealthier classes of the native community of Bengal. The Parsees at Bombay the very day on which they heard of the calamity, with their usual munificence, subscribed a lac and twenty thousand rupees to relieve the sufferers. The cyclone subsequently extended to the Madras coast. No precise account of the loss of life in the two Presidencies has yet been given, but it is supposed that at least 14,000 natives were drowned or destroyed. Nearly a hundred thousand huts and houses were more or less injured. The Botanical Gardens of Calcutta were a sad wreck. The noblest trees were prostrate, with their roots in the air. The beautiful park at Barrackpore was also destroyed, and the greater part of the fine avenue of trees on the Barrackpore Road. The Calcutta subscriptions to the Relief Fund soon amounted to Rs. 57,148. The Parsees at one meeting contributed a lac of rupees, and Rs. 5,000 were subscribed at Madras. It was about a month after the Calcutta cyclone that the Madras coast was visited by a similar hurricane, and had to provide for its own sufferers.

Sir John Lawrence held his grand durbar at Lahore on the 18th of October, when 600 Princes and Chiefs attended to pay their respects to the Queen of England's representative in India. The scene was truly magnificent. The Governor-general addressed the assembly in Hindostanee.

On the 19th of October—the day after that splendid pageant, the High Durbar at Lahore—Sir John Lawrence inaugurated the opening of the Railway Line from Lahore to Mooltan. The Maharajah of Cashmere was present, and placed in the hands of the Governor-general Rs. 2,500, to be distributed amongst the employes on the line.

Afghanistan is in a state of civil war. The Ameer treacherously made a prisoner of his brother, Ufzul Khan, who had been in arms against him, but had proposed an interview with a view to an amicable arrangement.

Mr. Maine on the 4th of November introduced into the Legislative Council of Bengal a proposition for a law of divorce for the relief of Native Christians when their wives or husbands refused to live with them. The proposition was received with unanimous approbation in the Council Room, but outside there is much diversity of opinion, moral, political, and religious, on the propriety of such a law. Mr. Maine has also proposed a law for the abolition of Grand Juries at the Presidency Towns. This also is a subject of much dispute, and the law is likely, if passed, to give considerable dissatisfaction.

In November there was a report of serious disturbances in Nepaul, and it was said that Jung Bahadoor had been placed under arrest by the King's party. Some letters from a Captain Gatoo addressed to the Maharajah, proposing plans for the assistance of the Bhootas, are said to have been intercepted.

On the 12th of November the Governor-general issued his Proclamation against the Bhootan Government. For the insult to the British Envoy and for refusing to deliver up certain captives and property unlawfully obtained, the British Government has resolved to withhold for ever the annual payments previously made to the Bhootan State on account of the revenues of the Assam Dooars and Ambaree Falakotta, which had been long in the occupation of the British Government. They are now to be annexed permanently to the British possessions, and so much also of the Hill territory as may be necessary to command the Passes.

Intelligence respecting the Bhootan force has been received from Calcutta to December 12th. The fortress of Delimcote or Dalimcote has been captured with the loss on our side of two officers and fifty men. Three of our officers were killed by an accidental explosion of powder.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Nowgong Tea Company.—A prospectus has been issued of the Nowgong Tea Company of Assam, with a capital of £250,000, half to be first subscribed, in shares of £10. The object is to purchase thirteen estates, consisting of 12,000 acres, of which 2,182 are planted. The price is £163,000, in instalments extending over six years.

CHALLENGE TO FIGHT A DUEL.—Major Lumley, a retired officer of the Bengal Army, residing at 23, Kildare-gardens, Westbourne-park, has been committed by the Lord Mayor to stand his trial on a charge of having challenged Mr. Desborough, Junr., a solicitor, to fight a duel, and secondly of having threatened him with personal chastisement. Maj. Lumley defended himself with great ability, and proved that he had received gross provocation, but, as he declined to apologise for his attempted violation of the police laws, the Lord Mayor had no alternative but to send the case for trial, admitting the defendant to bail, himself in £250, and one surety in £250.

GALLANT LIFE-BOAT SERVICES.—MUNIFICENCE OF BOMBAY MERCHANTS.—I have to report (writes Mr. James Riches, of Palling, Norfolk) the following gallant services of the life-boat stationed at this place belonging to the National Institution:—"About twelve o'clock on the night of the 22nd December a vessel came on shore on Palling Beach. It was blowing a gale of wind from the north-east at the time, with a very heavy sea on. The crew of the life-boat were at once mustered, and with great difficulty, after having had to launch the life-boat three times, they succeeded in reaching the wreck, and in taking off the shipwrecked crew, six in number. When brought on shore they were in a very exhausted condition. The vessel proved to be the schooner Idas, of Dantzic, bound from that port to Dunkirk with seed." The cost of this life-boat and her carriage, together with a sum to provide for her future maintenance, amounting in all to the sum of £2,000, was munificently presented to the National Life-boat Institution by the firm of Cama and Co., Parsee merchants of Bombay, in acknowledgment of their success in business since their establishment in London in 1855, and in testimony of the uniform kindness and courtesy which they had received from the inhabitants of the British metropolis. The institution accordingly named the boat the Parsee to perpetuate the generous act of the donors.

ORIENTAL INLAND STEAM COMPANY (LIMITED).—The ninth annual general meeting of the proprietors of this company was held on the 29th December, at the London Tavern, Bishopsgate-street; Mr. John Rogerson occupied the chair. The report having been taken as read, the Chairman, in moving its adoption, said that the total liabilities of the company at the present moment were £72,000, and it was the £45,000 bonds which had been taken which had preserved the credit of the company. The trustees had received £5,000 towards the redemption of the bonds, and there were at the present time £15,000 still to issue, which would clear the whole of the liabilities of the company. The assets in India amounted to £6,000, and the shareholders in arrear £64,000. The total assets to meet the £72,000 liabilities was £79,000. In addition to which they had the whole of the plant, stock, and boats at Calcutta, which made a total of £124,000. With regard to the general assets, they had not at present been enabled to make an accurate balance. Since the date of the report the Loanne had been working upon the Indus, and there was no doubt that there would be sufficient employment for the boats. Mr. Bolton seconded the motion, and it was carried. Mr. J. C. Bolton and Mr. W. J. Hare having been re-elected directors, the proceedings were brought to a close with a vote of thanks to the chairman.

BILLS ON INDIA.—The biddings for £300,000 in bills on India took place at the Bank of England on Wednesday, the 4th. The proportions allotted were—to Calcutta, £173,300; to Bombay, £120,000; and to Madras, £6,700. The minimum price was as before, 1s. 11½d. on Calcutta and Madras, and 1s. 11½d. on Bombay. The applications within the limits amounted to £710,000. Tenders on Calcutta and Madras at 1s. 11½d.

will receive about 7 per cent., and on Bombay at 2s. about 76 per cent. Above these prices in full. These results indicate an increased demand for means of remittance to Calcutta, and a diminished demand for Bombay.

MUNIFICENT HEBREWS.—Messrs. A. and D. Sassoon have contributed the princely sum of £1,000 for the support of the Newmarket-street Refuge for the Homeless Poor.

PROSPECTUS.

This Company is formed for the purchase of thirteen valuable Tea Estates already in profitable cultivation, situated in the Province of Assam, in British India, and for the purpose of further developing and extending their operations.

The property consists of 12,000 acres of freehold land, held direct from Government, of which 2,182 acres are planted with Tea-plants of the following ages, namely:—44½ acres, three years old; 902 acres, two years old; 410 acres, one year old; and 400 acres just planted.

The soil and climate of this locality are second to none in the province, as the following extract from the Manager's Report to the Directors of the Bishnath Tea Company, a neighbouring concern, for the season ending 31st December, 1863, and submitted by them to the shareholders, will show:—

"The out-turn of Tea and seed has been unprecedented in Assam. The plantation in its fourth year has given an average of 390 lb., and the two-year old gardens of 240 lb. of Tea to the acre; and this has been obtained at no sacrifice to the prospects of future years, but with careful and light plucking, as is evinced by the present healthy appearance of the plants, which, I have often been assured, are, in size and vigour, unsurpassed by any plantation of the age in Assam."

The dividends paid by the Assam, the Upper Assam, the Jorhaut, Bishnath, and by several of the other Tea Companies in Assam, vary from 20 to 30 per cent., and their shares are at a premium of from 100 to 200 per cent.

The factories have the advantage of being traversed by good roads and navigable rivers, and steamers ply between Assam and Calcutta, affording great facilities for the supply of labour and for the other requirements of the estates. Not less than 3,000 acres can be brought into profitable cultivation; and each acre, when in full bearing, is capable of producing at least 400 lb. of tea.

The plantations are calculated to produce, during the first year of the Company's operations (1864-65), returns sufficient to yield 10 per cent. on the paid-up capital; and the vendors guarantee a minimum dividend at the rate of 10 per cent., payable half-yearly, upon the paid-up capital for three years, to be calculated from the date of the registration of the Company. At the expiration of the three years the plants will be sufficiently advanced to give progressively larger dividends, until the whole have attained maturity and yield a maximum return.

The price to be paid for the property is £163,000, payable by annual instalments, with interest, at 5 per cent., extending over a period of six years, as follows, viz.:—

On formation of Company	...	£15,000
31st January, 1866	...	20,000
31st " 1867	...	25,000
31st " 1868	...	30,000
31st " 1869	...	35,000
		£163,000

These terms the Directors consider to be most advantageous, as, while they show the confidence of the vendors in the value of the property, the easy instalments as to payments will enable the young plants to grow up into full bearing, and to yield large returns before the greater part of the capital is called up.

The undertaking originates with the Directors and their friends. No promotion money will be paid to anyone, either directly or indirectly, and the preliminary expenses will be strictly confined to such as are absolutely necessary.

The vendors stipulate that 6,000 of the shares are to be allotted to them; 6,000 of the remaining shares have been already subscribed for; leaving 6,000 shares available for the public.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT and PILLS

cannot be too highly commended for the favourable influence they exercise over the skin. In all eruptions, inflammations, and ulcerations, the detergent qualities of this unguent render it efficacious in first cleansing and purifying the diseased part, then inducing renewed and healthy action, as to ultimately leave the surface in the highest health. Holloway's Ointment works the most wonderfully beneficial results in bad legs, chronic sores, &c., by improving and quickening the sluggish and imperfect circulation, removing all corrupt matters, and increasing the disposition to heal. Holloway's Ointment throws no deleterious drawback on the function of the skin; it manifestly augments its evaporation and perspiration, whereby softness and pliability supplant its previously harsh and dry state.

Quintessence of Jamaica Ginger and Camomile.

GINGER has long been deservedly known as an excellent domestic medicine, and, combined with camomile, it is the most efficient stomachic tonic known, for while the ginger relieves the stomach from distension and flatulency, arising from impaired digestion, the camomile strengthens the coats of the stomach, and by that means gives it a healthy and invigorating tone. So highly concentrated is this preparation, it is unimpaired by age or climate, and well adapted for exportation. In Gout, Spasms, Dysentery, Cholera, or those complaints incidental to tropical climates, it is invaluable, as in numerous cases a dose or two has checked and frequently cured most alarming attacks. No family should be without it. Sold in half-pints, quarter-pints, and one-eighth pints.

Agreeable Seidlitz Powder, in one bottle, protected by a case, with measure and spoon included. The advantage of this preparation is the perfect combination of the solid ingredients of the Seidlitz Spring in one compound powder.

It is very cooling and refreshing, well adapted for exportation, or travellers by land or sea.

Aromatic Tincture of Quinidine.—For the prevention of Fever, Intermittent or Remittent Ague, and other effects of Malaria.

No person exposed to the influence or predisposing cause of Fevers should be without it, for it taken in small doses daily the system will become so thoroughly impregnated with its principles as to be rendered proof against all attacks of Contagion or Malaria.—Sold in pints, half-pints, and quarter-pints.

The above articles prepared only by THOS. WILKINSON late Wilkinson, Bridge, & Co., 270, Regent-street, London, W.

NOTHING IMPOSSIBLE.—The greatest and most useful invention of the day, AGUA AMARELLA.—Messrs. JOHN GOSNELL and Co., Three King-courts, Lombard street, Perfumers to her Majesty, respectfully offer to the public this truly marvellous fluid, which gradually restores the human hair to its pristine hue—no matter at what age.

The Agua Amarella has none of the properties of dyes; it, on the contrary, is beneficial to the system, and when the hair is once restored, one application per month will keep it in perfect colour. Price one guinea, half bottles, 10s. 6d.

Testimonials from artists of the highest order and from individuals of undoubted respectability may be inspected on application.

Messrs. J. GOSNELL and Co. have been appointed Perfumers to H.R.H. the Princess of Wales.

MAILS TO INDIA.

Mails to India and China, via Marseilles, are despatched from London as follows, viz.: Those for Bombay packets, on the evening of the 3rd and 18th of each month; and those for Calcutta packets (including mails for Ceylon, Madras, and China), on the evenings of the 10th and 26th of each month. When any of these dates fall on a Sunday, the mails are made up on the following evening.

Letters and Newspapers can be forwarded to any part of India, via Bombay and Marseilles, and in most cases will reach their destination some days sooner than if despatched by the following Calcutta mail. The Bombay mails via Southampton, however, are no longer available for the transmission of Letters or Newspapers to the Madras Presidency.

Mails for the Meite raman, and all parts of India and China, except the Bombay Presidency, are despatched via Southampton on the mornings of the 4th and 20th, or, when either of these dates falls on Sunday, upon the previous evening.

Mails for the Mediterranean, the Presidency of Bombay, and Upper or North-West Provinces of Bengal and China, are despatched via Southampton on the 12th and 27th of the month, except when these dates fall on Sunday, in which case they are forwarded on the previous evening.

A French line of mail packets now leaves Marseilles on the 19th of every month for Alexandria. Postage for letters and papers to India and China the same as is charged by the English mail via Marseilles. Letters intended to be forwarded by these packets must be specially addressed "By French mail packet from Marseilles."

SUMMARY AND REVIEW.

We are in possession of news from Calcutta of as late a date as the 8th of December. The chief item of strictly local intelligence appears to have been the destruction by fire of the good ship Lincolnshire, of 1,200 tons burden. This ill-fated vessel was lying at the time in the Hooghly Dock, undergoing repair of the damages she sustained during the late cyclone, when she was swept from her moorings off Kidderpore, carried up the river, and finally stranded on the Cossipore bank. The cargo on board consisted of 4,000 bags of rice, sugar, and seeds, valued at Rs. 30,000, and must have been considerably damaged by water, if not by fire, as the ship was scuttled after being burned to a mere shell. The cause of the fire is unknown.

The only news from the Bhootan expedition is a telegram from Colonel Haughton to the Lieutenant-governor of Bengal, announcing the forward movement of the troops. The stockade at Cheechootha was found unoccupied, nor were there any signs of the Bhootahs in any direction.

The Calcutta papers rejoice in the probability that the Dalhousie Institute will ere long obtain a local habitation as well as a name. It was expected that the foundation-stone would be laid by the Governor-general in person on New Year's-day, and the building is to be completed by the 1st Nov. next, the anniversary of the transfer of the Government of India to the British Crown. The site selected is Tank-square, which is to be made a fashionable promenade, until the Eden Gardens have recovered from their present state of desolation.

The great question of the day is, of course, the proposed abolition of grand juries, about which we may have something to say in our next number. It is not easy, however, to arrive at an impartial and just conclusion after listening to the fierce and violent declamations of the local press. Although the cold season had set in, the editorial temperature, both in Hare-street and at Serampore, seems to have been at the boiling point.

H.M.'s steam-ship Feroze, with Lady

Lawrence on board, anchored off Diamond Harbour about 5 P.M. on the 7th December. His Excellency the Governor-general went down the river the same day on board H.M.'s steamer Celerity, and returned to Calcutta, accompanied by Lady Lawrence, on the morning of the 8th.

The Commander-in-Chief, though still detained at Meerut by the consequences of his late accident, is reported to be doing well. The Bishop of Calcutta was also at Meerut on the 28th of November. A few days previously his lordship confirmed seventy native converts, the rite being celebrated through the medium of Hindustani. An ordination was held on the 27th, at which nine candidates presented themselves.

Small-pox is described as raging at Umritsur and Lahore. Popular superstition is still strongly opposed to vaccination. The priests are said to regard the use of vaccine matter, coming from the cow, as an impious and sacrilegious act. The Hindoo also objects to be vaccinated from a Mussulman, and a high-caste man will have nothing in common with a mehtur or any other low-caste men. But where these prejudices have been overcome, as in Scinde, the most satisfactory result is reported. The "striking effects of vaccination," says a writer in the Delhi Gazette, "are to be read in the faces of the rising generation, for while nearly every adult is marked with small-pox, a large portion of the population, below ten years of age, has been vaccinated and has escaped the disease."

Upwards of £50,000 has been subscribed in Madras and Bombay for the relief of the sufferers by the cyclone at Masulipatam. The latter Presidency has in this instance likewise, displayed its characteristic liberality.

The progress of wealth and luxury at Bombay affects persons with limited incomes very injuriously. The Presidency town itself is said to have become uninhabitable by any married couple possessing less than £1,200 a year. Some native capitalists have accordingly purchased the village of Coola, where they propose to erect dwelling-houses suitable for English residents with comparatively humble means. Enormous fortunes are sometimes made in the share market, which remind one of the days of Law's Mississippi Scheme, or of our own South Sea Bubble. One very successful speculator is reported to have cleared £300,000 in one month, and Back Bay shares are quoted at Rs. 28,000.

The death of the late Lieut.-Colonel W. Hough, formerly Deputy-judge-advocate-general of the Bengal army, demands a more ample notice than a mere line in the obituary. Colonel Hough was the author of many valuable works on Military Law, which have long been quoted with respect and deference. Of the regular habitués of the Oriental Club few men were more generally esteemed. He died in the 75th year of his age.

We have to apologise for the delay that has occurred in the publication of the Indian Army and Civil Service List. It has been solely caused by the necessity for awaiting the receipt from India of the Gazette containing the alterations, &c., consequent upon Sir C. Wood's despatch to the Government of India, dated June 17th, 1864. This information is at last in our hands, and the Army List will accordingly be issued in ten days or a fortnight.

BENGAL.

LIGHTHOUSES IN THE BAY OF BENGAL.

We (Hurkaru) have received a copy of Captain A. Fraser's "Reports on the Operations at the Alguada Reef, Double Island, and Cocos Island Lighthouses for the year 1863-64." The work has been pushed on with the greatest energy during the past season, and, as far as the Alguada Reef is concerned, fast draws to a successful conclusion. The work actually performed is thus described:—

"The work done during the season is represented by 1,600 tons of stone (granite) landed on the Reef, raised on and set in the building which has risen from 36 feet, the height at the beginning of the season, to 131 feet, its present height. The lighthouse will be 144 feet 3 inches to the top of the parapet when complete."

This is most creditable to all concerned. The lighthouse on Double Island has also progressed well, and Captain Fraser speaks hopefully of both this and the light on the Alguada Reef:—

"If nothing unforeseen occurs, and the light apparatus of both be in time, I have no doubt that in January next we shall be able to illuminate both this and the Alguada Reef Lighthouse."

The lantern for the Alguada Reef Light was delivered early in May last at Heingyee by the steamer Arracan, so that mariners may look for its warning beams in a month or two.

It has been determined to change the original site of the lighthouse on the Cocos Island from the North-Western to the Southern extremity of Table Island. The new site is thus described:—

"It is situated on the southern extremity of Table Island. It is pretty level, and has just enough space on it for the proposed buildings. It is 118 feet above the highest tides.

"A spur running from it to the sea shore ends in an abrupt rock 12 feet above the shore, at the foot of which is the best landing place in the island.

"I say the best, but in truth it is but an indifferent one, but the whole island is so encircled by rocks, reefs, and rocky shoals, that to find any suitable landing place at all is difficult."

"The spot I have mentioned, however, will answer for landing materials. By erecting three cranes, one on the rocks at the water's edge, one on the rock I mentioned as 12 feet high, and one half way up the abrupt declivity, materials can be lifted to the end of the spur and transported along a tramway which will have to be laid down a distance of 1,010 feet to lighthouse site."

Captain Fraser hopes to have this lighthouse also completed within the year 1865, but complains of the want of bricks. He is not disposed to rely upon the Burmese bricks, and suggests that the Tubal Cain or some other vessel, plying between Calcutta and Port Blair, should take down about half a lac of bricks per trip, which would do away with all doubts as to finishing the work quickly. We think the authorities might take the hint, and improve upon it, so as to finish the work they have undertaken at these islands, as nearly as possible, at the same time, and without breaking up an excellent and well-trained establishment accustomed to the work in hand. Captain Fraser and the officers under him deserve great praise for the energetic way in which they have carried out, almost to completion, a work replete with difficulties of no ordinary kind, as the subjoined extract will show:—

"The small quantity of work to the stone buildings remaining, and which I wished to finish off this season, would have been completed had it not unfortunately happened that, as we were getting up the 71st course, on the 2nd May, the heaviest roll I have ever seen came on. Not a thing could be done. The strongly built forges were washed away (this was the second time this had happened during the season). The sea was washing into the men's barrack, and they were obliged to take refuge in the lighthouse, where two of the floors had been prepared for an occasion of the kind, and on the 4th May it was so bad that the men being neither able to cook nor work, I requested Captain Baker to get them off; and when I say that some of the rollers rolled 5 feet deep over the rock, the Government will understand the difficulty and danger of this process. All the men were, however, got off safely, and we went into Heingyee, the steamer towing No. 3 lighter which had lost her rudder. These heavy rolls are very curious and very unpleasant. We had them, more or less severe, three times this season. They come on suddenly in (overhead) the finest weather, and generally last three or four days. The morning of the 2nd May was quite fine, and we had been landing stones; in an hour the sea was at times rolling heavily over the reef, sweeping everything not secured, or not heavy enough to resist, away. Lieutenant MacNeile and myself often congratulate ourselves in having that first season 1859-60—living in a tent on the reef, cutting out the foundation,—escaped one of these heavy rolls, for had one of them come on while there was no lighthouse or even barrack to go to, we must have been with all our men carried off the reef."

OUR ANNEXATION POLICY.

About one-third of the continent of India, and, probably, a fourth or a fifth part of its inhabitants, belong to what are styled Native States. The majority of these are feudatories or vassals of the Empire, but in a few the prince exercises sovereign power almost with entire independence. There are, it is estimated, about two hundred of these kingdoms or principalities, varying in extent from realms whose area equals that of Great Britain to the popular notion of the dominions of a German Court. Till lately, we interfered with the internal management of these States as suited our convenience; and generally, we must confess, we did so far as our own aggrandisement. The State which was to be absorbed was gradually prepared for the process of deglutition. We began by forcing upon it what were somewhat facetiously termed, "friendly relations;" then we entangled it in a treaty, next forced upon it a Political Agent, who usually contrived to embroil matters in such a way as gave a colour to the theory of infraction of the treaty. This afforded a pretext for demanding a cession of territory, and, not unfrequently, a subsidy, also, for paying troops to keep it. The Prince became our debtor, and the British agent at his Court had it all his own way. In course of time, the subsidy fell into arrears, and it then became necessary to extort fresh cessions of territory. At last, when the victim was supposed to be sufficiently weakened, it was discovered that he was unable to rule his subjects, and then, the most benevolent and self-denying act which we could perform, was to take upon ourselves the difficult task of managing the revenues and assuming the control of his property. In some cases more summary means even were adopted, and the Princes were goaded into war, which invariably ended in their entire spoliation.

It cannot be denied that the duplicity, bad faith, and misgovernment of the Indian princes often gave us the most plausible excuse for interference; but the mere cunning of the Asiatic was no match for the diplomacy of the European, while his neglect of State affairs rendered him almost helpless. Great as was our superiority in the field, it was still more unmistakably manifested in the bureau, alike to the terror and the admiration of the people of India. At length, however, an impression got abroad that we had overdone the thing, and the Times even talked wildly about "restorations." The extreme impolicy and danger of such a course need not now be discussed. Whatever may have been the original character of certain annexations, there can be no doubt that an infinitely superior rule was established in the place of the one crushed. Scinde amongst the earlier, and Oudh amongst the latest of our acquisitions, could not have been so prosperous under their former rulers as they are now. Of this, we have only to look for proofs to the dominions of the Nizam, of Holkar, and of Scindhia, where, as has ever been the case, anarchy and confusion constantly prevail, notwithstanding all our endeavours to secure to these dominions the very best native government possible, aided by British officers.

Railways, telegraphs, roads, canals and public works of a hundred other kinds, do not exist there, as they do in our own territories, to give employment to the tens of thousands of the population, who, for want of employment, become disturbers of the public peace, and dangerous to the State. Hence the question which suggests itself is, what shall be our future policy with regard to these Native States? The advocates of annexation are nearly silenced by the events of the last few years. The Punjab is, indeed, triumphantly quoted as an instance of both the material and political success of the Dalhousian, or annexation policy; but it seems to be forgotten that it was a mere chance, or rather a Providential interposition, that the turbulent tribes of that province did not also turn against us in 1857. Such interpositions, however, are not always to be calculated upon. Moreover, it should be recollected that, if the European force in the Punjab, numbering, according to an official statement, 10,500 men, had been located in the North-West Provinces, the rebellion, probably, would have never occurred. As for the supposition that the Punjab, if independent, would have joined the mutineers, such is not borne out by the conduct of the Native States during the mutinies. Indeed, one would fancy that it would only be creating a new and a most formidable danger to their own dominions, were native princes to aid and encourage the troops of a neighbouring power to mutiny. But, as we have now abandoned our oppressive policy, we must define, with some degree of accuracy, our relations with existing Native States. A down-country journal, some time ago, advocated the introduction of a feudal law, by which every native prince in the country may know his exact standing and political existence. The adoption policy of Lord Canning has done much to supply this; indeed, as much as might eventually bring about a confederation of the whole of the Native States. They, like the German Empire of old, might be presided over by the paramount power, which in India is, of course, the British Government. Still, not a little of a clearer and more decided character is wanting.

We are inimical to all interference with the internal economy of Native States. It is our greatest desire to encourage independence of thought and action in Native Princes; but, while we would do this, we should like to see the two hundred Native Princes of India, each within his own territories, giving us that proof of their power and ability to govern their subjects energetically, yet with moderation and justice, which alone can ensure them the confidence and respect of the British nation. It is impossible that a Government like ours can be expected to treat Native Governments with the consideration and forbearance which it would be undoubtedly bound to do were those Governments capable of preserving law and order, administering important justice, and keeping their people in subjection. Not until they show themselves capable of doing this—the sine qua non of every Government which assumes to exist as such—can the promises contained in the Queen's Proclamation be carried out, or the Government of India refrain from interfering, in the general interests of mankind, to sink all such quasi-independent authority, or shall include in its extinction the obliteration of every trace of mutiny and secession. Magnanimity may dictate a generous forbearance, but an imperative sense of duty must overcome all considerations save those due to the welfare of India and the prosperity of her "teeming millions." Let us hope, then, that the friendly counsels which the Governor-general has lately addressed to the native Princes with such earnestness will not be lost on them, and that they will show their own worthiness by profiting largely by them.—Mofussilite.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE DALHOUSIE INSTITUTE.—What Calcutta has long admittedly needed, is at length likely to be supplied. The Dalhousie Institute has at length found a site, and Christmas 1865 will probably see the members in snug possession of their new quarters. It is proposed to erect the institute building on the south side of Tank-square, and to convert the present building, containing the statue of Lord Hastings, into an entrance portico. The idea is a good one, and removes the only real difficulty met with, in placing the institute in Tank-square. The institute will not occupy very much ground, it will leave one hundred feet of space margin for the Tank, and it will be a most fitting and appropriate addition to the many handsome edifices which will shortly embellish the square. The new site will not interfere with the ventilation of the city in the least, and we think there can be little doubt that it will give us a handsome building, so placed centrally, as to be a real improvement to the city. It is intended to erect the new building, so as to render it the chief ornament of the square, and to devote some attention to the square itself. The latrines will be removed, the Tank made more regular in shape, and, generally, an effort will be made to make this promenade fashionable.

ULWAR.—The Delhi Gazette has some curious information in connection with the disagreement which it is well known existed between Major Hamilton, late political agent in Ulwar, and Dr. Dickenson, the residency surgeon. One of the principal causes of this ill-feeling was the presence of a man named Courtney in Ulwar. This Courtney was, it appears, understood to be the secret agent of the ex-dewans of Ulwar, who now reside at Delhi, and who have been forbidden to enter Ulwar, or to interfere directly or indirectly with the affairs of the State. The Maharajah was anxious that the man should leave, and the political agent sent him an order to do so. The order was evaded through plea of sickness, and Dr. Dickenson was instrumental, it is stated, in keeping Courtney in Ulwar contrary to the wishes of the Maharajah and Major Hamilton. Hence the origin of some of the unhappy differences between these officers.

COTTON CROP IN THE PUNJAB.—The return of the rain-fall in the Punjab during the month of September is, according to the Sindian, very unfavourable to the crops. The cotton crop particularly has suffered from drought, and has in addition had to contend against an insect called the Teela, which had been found very destructive to the plant. Young locusts had made their appearance in Sirsa, Jhelum, and Kohat, but were discovered in time and destroyed.

OFFICIAL TOURS.—Sir Robert Montgomery, Lieutenant-governor of the Punjab, is out on a tour through the Kangra district. His Honour will particularly inspect the tea districts, and ascertain, if possible, from personal inquiry, what despatches on foolscap have not yet explained to him, why Government is obliged to store up its tea at Holta, while the planters are able to dispose of theirs. The first point to find out is, of course, whether there are such accumulations as have been reported to Government.

SMALL-POX AT UMRITSUR.—Up to the 29th Nov. small-pox, which had broken out in the Umritsur district, was raging violently. The deaths were seventy-seven per day. Dr. Garden, superintendent of vaccination, was doing his best to alleviate the general distress.

EXPLORATION OF THE SALWEEN.—Another expedition for the exploration of the Salween has been organised, of which Captain Watson is to be the leader.

ASIATIC SOCIETY.—At the last meeting of the Asiatic Society of Bengal, among the presentations was a photograph forwarded by Mr. Bowring, Commissioner of Mysore, of an inscription on a rock at Taikal, a place in the vicinity of one of the stations of the Bangalore Branch Railway. The inscription narrated that in the time of Deva Raja a tiger had killed a cow, and that the tiger was vanquished by a hero named Pratab Sing, the said Pratab Sing receiving as a reward "93 wet lands and 13 dry lands near the village of Coomsee." The inscription, which is in Telooogoo, and decipherable with difficulty, is, Mr. Bowring states, curious, and the Deva Raja referred to he believes to be one of the Anagundi Kings. At the same meeting, Captain Lees, in answer to a question of Mr. Blandford, explained that the application of the term "sovereign" to the gold coin of England was similar to that of "Napoleon" and "Louis d'or" to the gold coins of France, and of "Frederick d'or" to those of Prussia. The correct word is suveran, the French souverain from the Latin supernus. It was a singular coincidence, Captain Lees thought, that in ancient Hindoo literature gold and gold coin is mentioned under the term Suvarna, from which, if the inherent final vowel be dropped, we have the word suvern, a close approximation to our own.

Killed—Men, women and children...	730
" Cattle	12,762
Houses destroyed—pucka	316
" " kucha	1,50,158
Computed loss of property	Rs. 60,49,881

IN HOWRAH ITSELF.

Killed—Men, women and children ...	10
" Cattle	70
Houses destroyed—pucka	152
" " kucha	14,760
Computed loss of property	Rs. 4,87,511

DEATH OF A ROMAN CATHOLIC MISSIONARY.—The Very Reverend Father Albino Pariett, who was born in the diocese of Milan in Italy, died at Bankipore at half-past eleven P.M. on the 29th November. The deceased was aged 45 years, and was for ten years superior of the Berhampore Mission; where he was always respected by the community. For the last eight years he had suffered from chronic dysentery.

WRECK OF THE "LADY ELGIN."—The British ship Lady Elgin, outward bound with a full cargo, struck on a reef outside Amherst Roads while in charge of a pilot, and by latest accounts was fast giving way. What renders the accident all the more culpable is the fact that the particular locality where the accident occurred is well known to all the pilots on the station.—Englishman.

LEOTARD OUTDONE.—One of the great attractions of Meerut just now is the amateur equestrian troupe of the 19th Hussars, attached to which is a "Professor Pietro," who "does" the trapeze. His performances are of a very extraordinary character; among other things he holds on to the trapeze by his teeth. Leotard never attempted this.

THE CIVIL ENGINEERING COLLEGE will finally close its chequered career on the 1st of Feb. next, when it will be amalgamated with the Presidency College. It is rumoured that no out-students will be admitted to the class, and that the grade of assistant-engineers will not hereafter be given to any student.

MEMORIAL TO SIR A. LAWRENCE.—A marble slab is to be erected in St. James's Church, Anarkullee, to the memory of the late Sir Alexander Lawrence. The expense will be defrayed by local subscriptions.

GOVERNMENT SALT IN STORE.—On the 31st October last the total quantity of salt in store at all the golabs in Bengal was 63,31,332 maunds; nearly half of the quantity is at Sulkea.

ELEPHANT CATCHING IN CENTRAL INDIA.—The formation of the Elephant Khedda in these provinces, announced by us some time ago, has been entrusted to Mr. R. D. Nuthall, formerly in charge of the Assam Kheddass. Our depôt is being formed, not with a view to making any profit, but to clear the districts in which the elephants abound of those grain-crop destroying animals. Rather than that the Shikaries should destroy the elephants, Government has very wisely determined to relieve the country of them to the advantage of the State. The following is a brief account of the way the capture is managed:—The first step to be taken in preparing a Khedda is to engage a forest Jemadar, next to him come the trackers who seek for signs of wild animals, which, found reliable, are reported to the Jemadar. A circle of men is then formed round the elephants, a fence run up, and shouting, and firing of fire-arms commenced. The animals now find that their advance is obstructed. The Jemadar plants a chain of sentries round the fence, sometimes five miles in circumference. Each sentry is provided with pieces of hard dry stick. These are for tapping, in order to drive in any of the elephants which might approach too near, and should this noise not deter them a blank cartridge should be fired. Now comes the most critical time when every one must be watchful. The elephants get quite restless, knowing that danger is at hand. They then exert themselves to their utmost to escape, and the person superintending must visit the chain of sentries frequently, both during the day and at night, and so also should the heads of gangs; and in fact all who have any authority under them. The grass should be well examined in the morning ere the dew is brushed away; for if the animals have broken the fence, the tracks of their flight will then be perceptible, and the careless sentry will at once be discovered from the state of the ground in his vicinity. If the herd has not escaped, the superintendent selects a site for the stockade. In preparing the palisades and gate, great care should be taken to give everything a natural appearance, as elephants are very suspicious of freshly turned soil. At the gate materials should be kept ready for making a fire, and on each side a man should be concealed to cut away the ropes to allow the gate to close. The coolest and steadiest man should be selected for this work, as it is one of danger. These preparations being completed, the driving of the animals into the stockade commences, and as the last animal enters, the gate is let down, and the fires lighted, in the smoke of which men are pushed forward to build up the entrance. The stockade is then surrounded by men with spears and guns, who repel the half-maddened animals in their desperate attempts to break through. The Koonkees are now brought up, and carefully introduced into the stockade. The Shikaries lying close along the backs, and covered with black cloth, as white or any glaring colour would attract notice. The entrance of the Koonkees causes considerable surprise. They are so drawn up in line so as to conceal the gate through which they had been introduced. When the wild animals are somewhat used to the sight of the Koonkees, the Shikaries commence securing them. They select a straggler and squeeze him between two or more Koonkees, while the Shikarie steps down and fastens a strong rope round the hind leg, securing the other end to a tree. The tying continues until all are secured, when the Koonkees are withdrawn, and the gap built up. The operation of taking the elephants out of the stockade then commences. Each elephant is tied to one or more Koonkees, as there may be occasion, and the sooner they can be taken to a river the better, as after a drink and bath, they become more cool and reconciled to their captivity. It must be remembered that, while in the stockade, plenty of food should be supplied. The first marches should be easy, three or four miles, and the animals should not be stinted in their food. The best time for marching is early in the morning, before the dew is off the ground. They should be allowed to eat before daybreak, and after sunset, as they like to eat the leaves while still wet with dew. The fastenings should be constantly looked to, as the attempts of the animals to break loose causes the rope to cut into the flesh and make sores, which prove fatal, if the fastenings are not attended to. Turpentine, or tobacco leaves, should be applied to the sores to destroy the maggots engendered in the ulcers. The great object is to get the elephants into depôt, where they could be taken proper care of. On arriving in depot, the animals are measured and named, and in two or three years or so are ready to be drafted off for service.—Central Indian Times.

THIEVES AND SNAKE-CHARMERS.—Few are perhaps prepared for the statement that large portions of the village population in the North-West and Central India gain a livelihood, as their ancestors for generations before them have done, by secret as well as open plunder. They leave their homes and wander about from district to district, from serai to serai, until they come upon victims, whom they either drug into insensibility and then rob, or if such refinement of fraud be unnecessary, boldly assail and force into surrender of whatever they carry. We are told that the greatest part, if not all, of the Meenas, Khaem, Khances, and Goojurs of Tourawattee and Shekhawattee in Jeypore, and some Rajpoots, are noted for leaving their domiciles in gangs of seventy or eighty in the disguise of fuqers, Brahmins, and other religious mendicants, to plunder in the Deccan, Hindostan, N.W. Provinces, &c., &c. They go some 600 and 800 miles off. Numbers of these scoundrels have recently been seized by the officials of Agra, who deserve very great praise, and convicted and sentenced to various terms of imprisonment for perpetrating some of the most daring dacoities ever man heard of, which system of living they appear to have kept up for years and years together. They are snake charmers, and possess the art of extracting the poison of the serpent from its fangs, which, it is suspected, they use for their villainous purposes. The most daring highway robbers in the N.W.P. are said to belong to Jeypore, Shekhawattee, Tourawattee, Kote Poottee, Shajehanpore, Ulwur, and some parts of Bikaner. A large amount of property has been recovered in Jeypore, which is a convincing proof, and some of the greatest scoundrels arrested, committed, and sentenced to various terms of imprisonment in India. The officials of Tourawattee and Kote Poottee, Shekhawattee, and Jeypore are said to have abetted or assisted in the escape of many, and have also offered large bribes to the late Agra Thuggee Police who were deputed for their arrest, but notwithstanding all their endeavours the police arrested a large number. These scoundrels have confessed to have plundered banghy daks some five and six hundred miles from their houses, and state that they have relatives and friends everywhere, especially in the post offices, as runners, and in the large banking firms, through whom they connive.—Hurkaru.

A DARING DACOITY has been committed in Amherst. Fifty ruffians, formidably armed, surrounded a house, and after firing three volleys into it, called upon the inhabitants to come down. When this was done, they seized the poor wretches and cruelly murdered them. The police are in pursuit.

EDUCATIONAL PARSIMONY.—Although the population of British Burmah is over two millions, the amount expended by the State in grants-in-aid is only Rs. 16,900 per annum.

MR. J. P. KENNEDY, B.A., of Trinity College, Dublin, and of the Irish bar, was sworn in on the 6th Dec. as one of the Advocates of the High Court.

THE FIFTY-SECOND.—H. M.'s 52nd L. I. were to embark on board the ships Alumbagh and Nile about the middle of December, the Head-Quarters and Right Wing going to England on the former vessel, under the command of Major the Honorable E. G. Curzon, and the Left Wing in the latter ship, under the command of Brevet Major C. K. Crosse. There will be considerable changes, and an unusual dispersion, amongst the officers of this gallant regiment now and on its return to England. Colonel Denniss, now commanding the 52nd, although not as yet gazetted, is de facto promoted, and, as a Major General, of course, leaves the Corps. Colonel Denison, the junior lieutenant colonel of the regiment, is about to sell out in England; and Major Peel, who has just preceded the regiment overland, will get his lieutenant-colonelcy and the command of the regiment. We hear that Brevet Major Lynge, of this regiment, now assistant-adjutant-general of the Benares division, is to be permitted to remain in this country, and serve out his five years in the department; a most unusual arrangement, as the assistant-adjutant-general's department is one of those which it has been ruled shall be composed of officers whose regiments are actually serving in India. Lieutenant-colonel S. Blane, of the 52nd, being on the Governor-General's staff, can remain in India, and in his appointment, although his regiment leaves the country, and so can Captain Henley, also of this regiment, who is military secretary to the Governor of Madras; but these three last mentioned officers will, from the day their regiment leaves, receive only English pay and allowances from the Home Government and the Indian Staff allowance of their appointments. The station staff appointment at the Darjeeling Convalescent depot becomes vacant by the departure with his regiment of Captain Murphy; and Captain Pearson, of the 52nd, has already exchanged into another regiment, to remain in India. Assistant-surgeon Hall has been removed from the 52nd regiment to the Royal Artillery; and, on the departure of his present regiment, will join a battery in the Upper Provinces. We do not remember to have ever before seen so many changes in a departing regiment.—Englishman.

SOORUNDER SAI.—The Nagpore Times has an interesting account of the well-known Soorunder Sai, who contrived to give us so much trouble in the Sumbulpore district. At the outbreak of the mutiny this man was lying, a convicted murderer, in the jail of Hazareebaugh, from which position he was released by the sepoys, who made a leader of him. When Delhi fell, Soorunder, with a few thousand followers, set up as a claimant to the guddee of Sumbulpore. He harassed some five thousand troops from 1859 to 1862, when finding it a losing game, he took advantage of a proffered amnesty and gave himself up to the authorities. Even then he plotted treason, and was recently tried for the offence before the Judicial Commissioner, who released him, "most unaccountably," our contemporary says, on the ground that the case was got up against him by the police. Government evidently thinks Soorunder a more important personage than Mr. Campbell is inclined to do, and have ordered his permanent detention as a political prisoner in the fort of Seetabuldee.

MR. MACLEOD WYLIE has been recommended for a special superannuation pension of £800 a-year by the Governor-general. In all probability Sir Charles Wood will confirm this pension, and with great propriety. Mr. Wylie has been a good and an unselfish public servant, and a recognition of his value on the part of the Government is no more than an act of justice.

COL. TICKELL'S REMOVAL.—Information has been received at Moulmein that the Governor-general has ordered the removal of Col. Tickell from all civil employ in British Burmah.

Bengal.]

THE BURNING OF THE "LINCOLNSHIRE."—At about two o'clock on the morning of the 5th December a fire was discovered in the Union Dock at Sulkea, proceeding from the fore and after part of the ship Lincolshire, which has resulted in the total destruction of that vessel. Captain Page, the commander, was on board at the time, and was roused by the chief mate, whose attention was drawn to a strong smell of burning in the vicinity of the captain's cabin. The origin of the fire is at present unknown, but suspicions are whispered of foul play. These are increased by the fact that the sailors of the ship, distressed seamen suffering from the cyclone, expressed great satisfaction at the fire, and seemed to look upon it in the light of a "lark" rather than otherwise, stating loudly that now they would be "distressed seamen again." They also broke into Captain MacGowan's house, and destroyed nearly all the furniture. There should certainly be a strict inquiry into this fire, for while we firmly uphold Jack's claim to all his rights, we are quite aware that he can be a most unmitigated ruffian when he chooses, and should be punished most severely when proven guilty. Fortunately there was no breeze, or the destruction of the buildings abutting the dock must have been inevitable. The East India Railway Company's engines were promptly on the spot, and, though unable to save the vessel, were instrumental in preventing further damage. The Lincolshire, we believe, was fully insured.

MILITARY MOVEMENTS.—The Native Infantry regiments at Barrackpore are to move, not exactly as ordered in the annual relief, but in the following roundabout fashion:—The 36th N.I. have relieved the 25th N.I. at Ali-pore, and the latter regiment has gone to Delhi to relieve the 4th N.I., which again will go to Jhansi to relieve the 34th. This latter regiment will, when relieved at Jhansi, come down to Barrackpore to relieve the 31st Punjab N.I., which goes to Cawnpore. It was intended that the 36th N.I. should relieve the 40th N.I. at Barrackpore, but the 29th N.I. will now come from Humeerpore to relieve the 40th, which goes to Banda, and will be the first regiment to leave Barrackpore. Finally, the 30th Regiment N.I., now with the Bhootan field force, is under orders, on its services being no longer required in the field, to come down to Barrackpore, where, for the future, three regiments of Native Infantry, instead of, as at present, two, will be cantoned.—Englishman.

ADVANTAGES OF EASTERN TRAVEL.—The Mooltan correspondent of the Bombay Gazette tells us of a British officer of the Bombay army who happened to arrive in Lahore just at the time of the great durbar. He had, unfortunately, no available uniform to appear in. The uniform was a sine qua non, but he determined to go without one. This he did by mingling with a crowd of Asiatics, and as he had returned recently from a Cashmere tour, and his face was tolerably sun-burnt, to which advantages were added sandled feet and an immense beard, he contrived to escape notice.

DR. SIMPSON.—The death of Dr. Simpson, late civil surgeon of Dacca, was looked upon by the inhabitants of the city in the light of a public calamity. His kindness of heart, no less than his skill in his profession, had endeared him to all classes of the community. As an indefatigable public servant and a first-class surgical operator, his loss will be long severely felt. The harassing night and day work to which he was exposed during the late cholera epidemic found him but ill able to resist an attack of that fatal disease himself. He died as a soldier dies—in battle. Dr. Simpson had only attained his forty-fifth year.

SILVER COINAGE.—The following is the value of the silver coined and examined in the mints of the three Presidency towns during the month of October, 1864:—At Calcutta, Rs. 25,31,587; at Madras, Rs. 3,51,000; and at Bombay, Rs. 80,12,914.

CACHAR TEA PLANTING.—A meeting of the Cachar tea planters, the particulars of which are given by the Englishman, was held in Silchar on the 16th of last month. The very unsatisfactory state of the relations at present existing between the coolies and the planters was dwelt on by the speakers, and the action of Government was strongly solicited. Some interference is evidently required, for under the present system great losses are constantly occurring. Last year, for instance, owing to the unsettled tenure of the coolies' services, the quantity and quality of tea manufactured suffered to the extent of from 30 to 40 per cent.; three thousand acres of land cleared again into jungle, and the direct loss to planters, from coolies absconding, and from the defective state of the law practically relieving them of their agreements, was estimated at 2,000 men. The labour difficulty is evidently the difficulty of Cachar, and one which, if not speedily remedied, will materially interfere with the improvement of the province.

MR. FOSTER, the Commissioner of Inquiry into the Indian accounts, has got his quarters in the Treasury buildings, and is engaged in carrying out various changes in the civil department, as proposed in his report, and in introducing the new forms of accounts. Mr. Fitzgerald, assistant to the above-mentioned commissioner, has just commenced with the military estimates for 1865-66. By the end of April next a thorough English system of accounts will be introduced in this country in substitution of the old one. When these changes are completed, it is probable that Mr. Fitzgerald will get an important post in one of the account offices under the Government of India.

SMALL CAUSE COURT AT BURDWAN.—The operation of the Act empowering the Government of Bengal to establish Small Cause Courts in the Mofussil having proved remarkably successful in several districts, it is in contemplation of the Government to establish a Court of Small Causes in the large and populous district of Burdwan. It is also rumoured that the present officiating judge of the Small Cause Court at Koosteah is to be transferred to Burdwan, in the event of the arrangement being approved of by the Supreme Government.

A GIFT IN THE HAND.—Certain Tehseeldars having been detected in the receipt of khilluts from certain foreign Princes, Sir Robert Montgomery insisted on their immediate surrender and sale, the proceeds of such sale being credited to Government. The Commissioner of the division in which the delinquents are employed pleaded in their behalf the fact that, when the Rajah of Pattiala visited Lahore, he bestowed certain gifts on the gentlemen of the telegraph department, which gifts the recipients were permitted to retain. The Lieutenant-governor, however, did not see the logic, and refused to be moved.

RAJPOOT WEDDINGS.—A meeting has been held at Goruckpore for the settlement of marriage expenses among the Rajpoots. It has been arranged that these shall not exceed one-fifth of the annual income of the contracting parties. A similar gathering took place some time ago in Rajpootana, with reference to the exclusion of the "bhats," or bards, from marriage festivities, in consequence of the exorbitant demands they preferred for their services on these occasions.

MAJOR SIBLEY, First-class Assistant Commissary-general in charge of the Executive Commissariat Department at the Presidency, has been appointed to a similar capacity at Kussowlie. The gallant officer leaves Calcutta for his destination shortly.

PRESIDENCY COLLEGE.—Mr. Tawney, M.A., of Trinity College, Cambridge, has been appointed to officiate for Professor Cowell in the Presidency College of Calcutta.

DR. MASON'S PROJECT A FAILURE.—Forty square miles of land were allotted in 1862-3 to the Karens to colonise. Thirty-two families were persuaded by Dr. and Mrs. Mason to settle on it by various gifts and grants. Two years have now elapsed, and out of 26,000 Karen Christians, only 309 persons are engaged in the place, and only 197 acres are under cultivation. Many an English labourer, in spite of the tropical climate, would consider himself supremely fortunate if the same offers were made to him.

BENGAL PHOTOGRAPHIC SOCIETY.—The exhibition of the Bengal Photographic Society was opened on the 2nd of December by his Excellency the Viceroy and Governor-general, who was accompanied by the Lieutenant-governor of Bengal, the patron of the society. Mr. S. D. Bourne has carried off the gold medal for landscapes; this gentleman has also been awarded a silver medal for the "best photograph in the Exhibition." The gold medal for portraits has been gained this year by Mr. Schwartzschild.

MR. HENRY COBB SUTHERLAND.—This gentleman, who was deputed to overhaul the system of accounts prevailing in British Burmah, reported the Chief Commissioner for dis-courtesy. The Government reply has been published, snubbing him unmistakably; at which of course all Burmahites are in high glee.

THE NAWAB OF BAHAWULPORE has intimated his readiness to comply with the injunctions of the Viceroy, and to surrender the persons belonging to the family of his late murdered uncle, but objects to place the widow of his grandfather (not necessarily his grandmother) in the hands of the Government.

ANDAMAN GARRISON WITHDRAWN.—It is asserted that all the troops in the Andaman islands are to be withdrawn, and that a well organized police force under Captain Duncan is to take their place.

THE BAR AND THE RECORDER OF MOULMAIN.—The former has been presenting the latter with an address, to the effect that certain anonymous attacks against him, which appeared in one of the local papers, did not emanate from them.

MADRAS.

MISCELLANEOUS.

PISCICULTURE IN MADRAS.—We are glad to see that an attempt is being made to introduce the trout and perch into the Neilgherries. The Australian colonists have set us a good example, and under the encouragement of the Madras Government, Assistant-surgeon F.

Day is about to make the experiment of bringing fish ova out to India. Dr. Day, in a letter to Sir William Denison, says that he does not believe perch spawn would succeed in this country, but trout might thrive, and the cost of sending it, exclusive of charges for ice from Suez to Madras, would be about £80. Perch could be sent alive, round the Cape, in tanks. The P. and O. Company were applied to on the subject, and the directors answered that they were willing to deal with it "both with a desire to oblige Sir W. Denison, and to further the introduction of British fish into the rivers of India." They will make no charge for the freight of the box containing the ova, provided a second-class passenger, at the ordinary fares, is in charge of it, and they will direct their agents to give every assistance in their power. Having ascertained these facts, the Madras Government has resolved to sanction the expenditure of £100 for the purchase and transport of trout ova to Madras, and Dr. Day will be requested to take charge of it when he returns to India. This is what has been done up to the present time. There is no apparent reason why the plan should not succeed as well as it has done in parts of the Australian continent. The journey will be less protracted, and the only difficult part of it will be the transit across Egypt. In a similar experiment before, it was this part of the road which proved too much for the ova. Dr. Day says with regard to this matter, "As ice can be readily supplied, I believe that with a little cordial co-operation of all parties this difficulty will be easily overcome." We have no facts before us to enable us to judge with any certainty how the climate and rivers of the Neilgherries would suit the trout, which, be it remembered, is a delicate fish, and one that does not thrive in every river even in England. —Friend of India.

AGRICULTURAL IMPROVEMENTS.—The Government of Madras keeps up a stud farm at Oosoor, on which operations are performed with all the improved agricultural implements which have been devised in England and America. Sir William Denison was very anxious that the people of the surrounding districts should see these implements at work, and thus be able to compare them with the rude native processes of reaping, thrashing, winnowing, &c. Instructions were accordingly issued to the collectors of Madras, North Arcot, Salem, and Coimbatore, requesting them to attend at the farm officially during the agricultural show recently held there, bringing with them ten or twelve intelligent and substantial ryots, who would be likely to form a sound opinion of the comparative advantage of the foreign implements. The ryots were fed, lodged, and conveyed too and from Oosoor, at the Government expense. Sir William Denison has doubtless done good by this proceeding.

THE LATE MRS. SIMPSON.—We deeply regret to announce the premature death of the above lady—the excellent Superintendent of the Military Female Orphan Asylum. The sad event was occasioned by an overdose of morphine, taken by herself to induce sleep, as she had been much fatigued by attending upon her husband (the Rev. D. Simpson), who had been sick. —Athenæum.

THE DISSEMINATION OF PROPHECIES of impending calamities is still going on in Southern India, and much mirth has been occasioned by the efforts of a not otherwise missionary to improve the occasion by circulating translations of some of the notorious Dr. Cumming's Apocalyptic visions. The effect, however, has not been happy. The natives observed:—"You admit, then, that there is to be an Avatar and terrible doings, as we have ourselves announced, but you try to turn them off from our Deities to yours!"

A CRITICAL SITUATION.—Among the many wonderful escapes mentioned in connection with the Masulipatam disaster there is one related of two Catholic priests, the Rev. Dr.

O'Brien and the Rev. Mr. Talabor, who, as the floods rose, ascended together to the top of the church steeple, and there they remained while the waters raged around them. While in this exceedingly uncomfortable position it was impossible for them to get anything to eat, save what floated by on the angry element, and this sustained them in strength till they came down from their perilous eminence.

THE CYCLONE AT MASULIPATAM.—According to the last official estimate, upwards of 30,000 lives have been lost at different times on the coast. In the lines of the N.I. regiment about seventy sepoy, and upwards of five hundred women, children, and followers perished; and in one of the adjoining villages only twelve persons were saved out of six hundred. The cyclone brought the sea over the country for four or five miles inland, and inundated it to the depth of from four to nine feet. The Madras Government has been doing its best to mitigate the distress, and has sent Mr. Robert Ellis, the sanitary commissioner, with a medical staff, to the spot to look after the public health.

CENSUS.—An abstract of a census taken in Mysore for the year 1863-64 has been recently published by the Commissioner, Mr. Bowring. The population amounts to 3,895,687, and shows an increase of 23,478 compared with last year. It is curious that the Cantonment of Bangalore has alone contributed more than one-fourth of this increase. Upwards of three millions and a-half of the population are Hindoos. There were 5,413 Europeans enumerated, the rest being made up of East Indians, Mussulmans, and Native Christians.

BOMBAY.

MISCELLANEOUS.

BOMBAY EXHIBITION.—One of the newly-started financial associations of Bombay has put forth the idea of getting a grand exhibition on the island, on the plan of Prince Albert's Exhibition of 1851.

THE LATE DAVID SASSOON.—The Times of India states that it has been resolved to erect a marble statue in commemoration of the name of the late David Sassoon, Esq. The deceased gentleman had, while living, offered to contribute the sum of Rs. 60,000 for building a "public hall" at Bombay, and Government had signified their intention to contribute an equal amount. The proposal is now to be carried out, the ground for the hall to be purchased by the relatives of the deceased. It is stated that the statue will be placed in the hall, when completed, as a memorial from the public to the worth of the late Mr. Sassoon as a benevolent citizen of Bombay.

STOCK JOBBER.—The Government of Bombay has addressed a circular to the principal heads of departments and offices under it, in which it recalls to their recollection the opinion of the Secretary of State for India, who so lately as May, 1862, stated that he had no objection to the servants of Government holding shares in joint-stock companies, "having for their object the development of the resources of the country." Sir Bartle Frere, however, "at this particular period, when there is so strong a tendency to speculation in Bombay," reminds all the public servants of the "great importance of avoiding any connection, however remote, with any undertaking which might tend to fetter their action, or divert them from the numerous and important responsibilities imposed by the public service upon them." Super-session in their appointments will follow a non-compliance with this wholesome advice.

TEA AND CINCHONA IN CANARA.—From Honahwar, (in North Canara) which, we observe, is getting gradually Anglicised into the more euphonious Honore, we have accounts of likely experiments to grow cinchona and tea in fresh localities. It is said that the cinchonas planted in this district last December are thriving even beyond expectation. A new and more promising site has been selected at Davimauny Ghaut, some 3,000 feet above the level of the sea, where a nursery may be established of sufficient size to supply all the applicants who are eager to obtain young trees to commence plantations on their own account. Although the height of the site selected is estimated at somewhat over 3,000 feet, the temperature of the place is much lower than that met with at such elevations, as indeed it is throughout Canara; and as low a temperature as 50 deg. Fah. may be registered in the open air, in the early mornings of the cold weather. Under these conditions, and with a soil of exceeding richness, tea may be cultivated with much success in the neighbourhood, and seeds are now expected to be on their way from China with which to commence the experimental cultivation of the plant at Davimauny. The great success of the Cinchonas in the Balaghat of Canara must have the effect of much enhancing the value of the land, as very few places in India are suited for their successful growth. Should the tea plant succeed as well, of which there is little doubt, it will, of course, still further increase the value of the land, which is also admirably adapted for many other forms of cultivation.

RUSTOMJEE LAW SCHOLARSHIP.—We hear that Mr. Perozsha Merwanjee, B.A., of the University of Bombay, has been, it is stated, selected to proceed to England for the purpose of being called to the bar. The selection has been made by the committee appointed in connection with the Hon. Rustomjee Jamsetjee Jejeebhoy's barristerships.

KISHNAGUR EXHIBITION.—Owing to the disastrous effects of the cyclone in the Kishnagur district no Agricultural Exhibition will take place this year. Planters, zemindars, mahajuns, and ryots have alike suffered severe losses, and the commissioner is convinced that an exhibition would be impracticable. The show has been postponed till the season of 1865-66.

Return Home of H.M.'s 52nd Regt. L.I.

Dec. 2.—No. 272.—Upon each occasion of the embarkation from Calcutta of a regiment that has taken part in the most important actions in the suppression of the mutiny, the Government of India has issued a General Order in acknowledgment of the services of the corps.

2. The 52nd Oxfordshire Light Infantry is about to return to England after an absence of more than eleven years, and is the last of the old British line regiments remaining in India that shared in the siege of Delhi.

3. The Viceroy and Governor-general in Council desires to place on record his sense of the good service rendered in India by the 52nd, a regiment which had previously gained the highest distinction in some of the most famous battles recorded in our history.

4. It is peculiarly gratifying to the Viceroy himself to acknowledge the important aid rendered to the security of the Punjab by the movable column formed on the outbreak of the great mutiny in May, 1857, of which the 52nd formed a most important part, and his Excellency can never forget that it was by the 52nd Regiment and the Bengal Artillery, under Brigadier-general John Nicholson, that the Sealkote mutineers were entirely defeated on the banks of the Ravee in July, 1857, consequent upon which event it became possible to send the Punjab movable column to Delhi, without the assistance of which reinforcement it might have been difficult to capture that city.

5. The regiment arrived before Delhi on the 14th of August, 1857, with an effective strength of 660 of all ranks, of whom only 255 remained effective to form the British portion of the 3rd column of assault, commanded by its own lieutenant-colonel, Colonel George Campbell, which stormed the Cashmere Gate on the 14th September, on which day the regiment lost one-third of its strength.

6. It was subsequently engaged during the six days' struggle in the streets until the city and palace were entirely captured, and has been permitted to add the word "Delhi" to the list of memorable battles and sieges already inscribed upon its colours.

7. The Viceroy and Governor-general in Council heartily thanks the 52nd Regiment for their valuable services, and wishes them a prosperous voyage to England.

MADRAS.

THE CALCUTTA JEWS.—"Frij and all Seedees believe that the Jews, or Yahooodee, living in Calcutta, seize people and tie them up by the heels till blood falls from them into a dish, when they are released, but rarely survive. The blood so obtained is prepared and sold as a most valuable chest complaint medicine, called Mosmeecan. Frij had, while in Calcutta, once been seized, but escaped while the Jews went up a ladder. Also one of his comrades he had seen tied up by the heels, gave evidence to the police, and had the Yahooodee put in prison for eighteen months."—Captain Grant's "Walk Across Africa," p. 264.

MR. BARING ON INDIA.

FOLLOWING the example of his colleagues, Mr. T. G. Baring, Under-Secretary of State for the Home Department, has recently addressed his constituents, assembled in the Town-hall at Falmouth. Instead, however, of dilating on foreign politics or discussing the vexed question of electoral reform, Mr. Baring confined himself to one topic, and that, strange to say, was India. There is nothing, indeed, either strange or unbecoming in the interest thus evinced by the honourable member for Falmouth in the administration of our Eastern Empire, or in the relations that exist between our Hindoo fellow-subjects and ourselves, for he has himself taken an active part in the home government of that great dependency, and is, therefore, better acquainted than most men with what belongs to its peace and prosperity. But it is not so easy to understand how he could have expected his Cornish admirers to feel any especial sympathy with the subject he had selected for their edification and instruction, and possibly it might not be unfair to infer that Mr. Baring was thinking less of his immediate audience than of the British public at large, among whom his remarks would be circulated through the medium of the press. Be this as it may, it cannot be affirmed that the honourable gentleman was moved by a happy inspiration when he chose India for the theme of his annual discourse in parliamentary deshabille. He began by alluding to the ordinary effect produced by an Indian debate upon the House of Commons. It was, he said, as if a dinner-bell had rung, so eagerly did the members vacate their seats to rush into the dining-room. It must not, however, be supposed that this sudden thinning of the House was owing to any indifference or apathy on the part of the British Parliament with reference to the happiness and well-doing of the people of India. But there was somehow a general impression that the Minister's statement could be as well mastered by being read next day in the morning papers, as if it were listened to with impatience and inattention. This theory, however, would equally apply to all questions that require to be set forth at any considerable length, whereas Mr. Baring confines it exclusively to the annual statement of Indian finance. That a large attendance was obtained in 1858 when the Government of India was transferred to the Crown can hardly be cited as a proof that the Commons take a warm interest in practical questions relating to that country. In the first place, an exceptional interest had been excited by the startling events and episodes of the Sepoy War, and, secondly, the question of the proposed transfer had become the battle-field of the two great political parties. But, as it seems to us, there is no reason to regret the disinclination usually manifested by the House to enter upon a purely Indian debate. The less Parliament interferes with the internal administration of that dependency the better will it be for India and for our own supremacy, for nothing will more surely lead to the loosening of our hold than the attempt to govern India through Parliamentary majorities.

We cordially agree, however, with Mr. Baring in the assertion that the British people may look back with decided satisfaction on the recent administration of our Eastern possessions, and this on far higher grounds than the equalisation of income with expenditure. It was not, indeed, unnatural that this particular speaker should attach the first importance to the improved state of the finances, for it is upon that, after all, that all other kinds of improvements must chiefly depend; but it was hardly fair to institute a direct numerical comparison between the balance-sheet of India and that of Great Britain. Mr. Baring dwells with some complacency upon the fact that only a few years ago the income and expenditure of this country—irrespective of the interest on the National Debt—did not "very largely exceed the figures he had furnished relating to India." He omits, however, to remind his hearers that in the one case there was a population of only 30, and in the other of 130 millions; and he also passes over the necessity of maintaining an enormous and costly army on a permanent war footing, because we are still only encamped, and not settled, in our Indian dominions. It is doubtless quite true that very large sums of money are now being expended on public improvements, but among these the construction of railroads can take no place, as the funds for that purpose were almost entirely raised in the London market. The result of all this outlay, as Mr. Baring justly remarked, has been a vast increase of commerce and a proportionate development of agriculture. With not less reason did he differ from Mr. Cobden's hasty expression, that England has no interest in India except for the commerce that is carried on. Having reduced that empire to subjection, it is now our bounden duty to govern it wisely, impartially, and with benevolent forethought, until such time as we can treat the natives as we do our own colonists in Australia and Canada, leaving to them the option of remaining under the British Crown, or of proclaiming their independence. For the present we cannot move with too great caution. Already we have done too much to unsettle the native mind by excessive legislation, and have rendered them suspicious and fretful, rather than grateful and contented. Of the elevation of the natives to the bench, and their introduction to the Viceroy's Council, Mr. Baring speaks in terms of just and sagacious approval, but he is not equally happy when he endeavours to explain away the ill-feeling that pervades the vast majority of the officers of the late Indian army. Their position, he says, was not the fault of the Government, but arose from the necessity, after the extinction of that army, of raising "fresh English troops that could not be officered by officers accustomed only to native troops." It would be hard to discover a statement equally bald and brief, and equally replete with fallacies. As it was only the Bengal army that mutinied, it might be supposed that the officers of the Bombay and Madras armies could have no reason to complain of the treatment they at least had experienced. But we find that the officers of the armies of those two Presidencies are quite as bitter as their Bengal brethren in denouncing the evasion of the Parliamentary guarantee. And, further, it is not the case that "fresh English troops" have been raised. The regiments that have been added to the Army List consisted undoubtedly of British soldiers, but they were the war-worn veterans of the Company's European Fusiliers, who had won undying renown on many a battle field, though "officered by officers (previously) accustomed only to native troops." No one knew better than Mr. Baring himself that he was merely "darkening counsel by words" suited to the ignorance or carelessness of his hearers, but which would certainly be challenged before the higher and more august tribunal of public opinion. No one could have been more thoroughly satisfied in his own mind that the present unsatisfactory position of the old Company's officers is solely and entirely the fault of the Government, and has nothing whatever to do with the raising of troops that were never raised, or with the want of officers accustomed to English troops. But passing over this delicate and painful topic, we gladly bear witness to Mr. Baring's moderate views on the subject of annexation. The restoration of the sacred right of adoption, and the permanent settlement of the land-tax, are likewise justly regarded as eminently calculated to remove the distrust, and to conciliate the goodwill of all classes of the native community. Neither do we object to the support he gives to the Secretary of State in his philanthropic endeavours to protect the native against the unscrupulous selfishness of a small party of European colonists. To "develop the resources of the country," may be a most right and beneficial thing to do, but to effect that development through the oppression of the natives, is a consummation by no means to be desired, nor is it one at all likely to find favour either with British statesmen or with the British public. Mr. Baring's address, it will be seen, ranged through a wide scope, and touched upon a large variety of subjects, but still the question recurs as to what could have led to its being delivered to the unsympathising burghers of Falmouth. The puzzle in this case is not the presence of the fly, but that of the amber. We can perfectly understand that Mr. Baring might prefer to talk about India rather than about the shortcomings of the Home Department, but why should he do so at the Land's End?

PROPOSED INCREASE OF SALARIES.

THE paramount control of the Supreme Government is, after all, by no means an unmitigated evil. It is clear from the correspondence that has lately taken place between the Government of India and that of Bombay on the subject of a proposed increase of salaries, that it would never answer to allow each Presidency to do as seems good in its own eyes, without reference to the effect of its proceedings upon the other constituent provinces of the Empire. Owing to various causes, the prices of the first necessities of life have been doubled within the last few years, doubtless to the great benefit of the productive classes, but also to the very serious inconvenience of persons with fixed and limited incomes. It has, therefore, been urged by the Bombay Government that an augmentation of salary had become not only expedient and just, but a measure of absolute necessity, seeing that grain of all kinds is three times as dear as it was in 1829, while meat, poultry, firewood, &c., &c., have risen in value at least cent. per cent. This statement, though assumed to be correct, is rejected as sufficient evidence to prove the inadequacy of the present rates of pay to public servants, on the ground that the standard of 1829 is too remote to be adopted under existing circumstances. And yet it was in proportion to the prices ruling at a still more remote and cheaper period, that certain salaries were offered for certain kinds of work. At the same time it must be tion now than in those times, and that well qualified public servants can be obtained for less pay than formerly sufficed to allure indifferent ones. But a better argument against the adoption of the standard of 1829, so far as the upper classes are concerned, is the reduced cost of groceries and home manufactures, and the less extravagant style of living that prevails among the new school, whether of civilians or military men. Besides, it is not only in Bombay that prices have gone up since the mutiny, and still more so since the breaking out of the civil war in America. In the adjacent districts of the Madras Presidency, for instance, the necessities of life are quite as dear as in Bombay. In Calcutta, again, house rent is exorbitant, and in the Burmese Provinces the wages of servants and labourers are higher than in the Western Presidency, while civil salaries are lower. And it must be borne in mind that the present dearness of grain arises partly from the extraordinary breadth of land that has lately been planted with cotton; but there can be no doubt that the comparative scarcity of grain will lead, through the unfailing laws of supply and demand, to a much larger crop being raised in the ensuing season, and it may likewise be expected that large quantities of corn will be imported both by land and by water, now that the means of carriage are so greatly improved and augmented. Nor was it only in the case of small salaries that the Bombay Government applied for an increase, but on behalf of all grades of the public service. It modestly proposed that a scale should be adopted "commencing by an addition of 30 per cent. to salaries below Rs. 500 a month, and ending by an addition of 15 per cent. to salaries of Rs. 2,000 and upwards, whatever they are," including military and marine officers, but exclusive of privates and non-commissioned officers, European and native, whose case was to be separately considered in the Military Department. Such a handsome accession of income would naturally be very agreeable to the recipients, but how would it be viewed by the tax-payers? This trifling consideration appears to have been overlooked by the Bombay Government, though the measure of relief it contemplated implied the expenditure of upwards of half a million sterling per annum, without taking into account the increased pay of the European and native soldiery. But the Bombay Government could scarcely expect that its servants should be treated with an exceptional liberality, calculated to inspire the other Presidencies with jealousy and discontent. It is manifest that the same munificence would have to be extended to all departments of the State throughout the empire. "What the total cost would be," remarks Mr. Lushington, the mouthpiece of the Supreme Government, "and what new taxes it would be necessary to impose, it is impossible to say. Such heavy additional charges obviously could not be defrayed without additional taxation, and new taxation would probably in the end necessitate an increase of the military force, which would add still further to the expense." And this at a time when it is in contemplation to lessen the annual expenditure by reducing the strength of the European army! Small wonder, then, that the Governor-general in Council rejects the crude and short-sighted proposition of the Western Government, and advises "the official class to bear their own burdens, and accommodate themselves to the altered circumstances of society." At the same time his Excellency readily sanctions the conditional increase of all salaries up to Rs. 200 per mensem, and the condition is worthy of special notice. It is this. The salaries may be augmented as the personnel of the establishment is reduced. In other words, the Government has at last discovered that well-paid labour is in the end cheaper than that which is underpaid, and that a smaller number of highly qualified servants will do more work, and do it better, than a host of half-taught underlings who can barely earn a livelihood, and are certain to neglect their duties. Some years ago, when it became necessary to increase the different establishments, it was thought a wise economy to "entertain"—such is the Indian official phrase—a large number of native clerks at the lowest possible rates of pay, in preference to offering handsome salaries to secure men of talent, industry, and general intelligence. Among the first to recognise the mistake that had been made was Sir Charles Trevelyan, of whom it has been humorously remarked that he is afflicted with an official oleptomania, and is never so happy as when filching a Baboo or stealing away a Keranee from a public office. The Bombay Government, then, are authorised to increase pari passu the efficiency of the various establishments and the salaries of the subordinate employes, but they are not authorised to rob Peter to pay Paul, or to spend half-a-million sterling per annum because poultry is dearer than it was thirty-five years ago. The Bombay Presidency, they are reminded, is only one province of India, and one "more than ordinarily accessible, both by its long sea-board and by the railways which tap the interior in several directions." Consequently, it is very unlikely that the price of a commodity so easily transportable as grain will be maintained at an exceptional figure for any great length of time. The present "artificial dearth" is largely attributed to the extensive employment of labourers upon railways and other public works, which diverts labour from agriculture, stimulates consumption, and raises wages. But, whatever the cause, the Government of India declines to appropriate to the convenience of the Bombay officials the savings which have elsewhere been effected since 1857-58. These savings, besides, have already been applied to better purposes, such as grants for the prosecution of public works, the improvement of administration in various quarters, and the comfort of the European and native soldiery. In the absence of means to gratify the wishes of the Bombay Government, the Governor-general in Council expresses himself averse to new taxation, and is, therefore, constrained to refuse his sanction to "the increase of salaries of the civil and military establishments recommended by his Excellency the Governor in Council of Bombay."

MISCELLANEOUS.

CHALLENGE TO FIGHT A DUEL.—Major Brownrigg Lumley having pleaded guilty to the charge of unlawfully sending to one Lawrence Desborough, the younger, a challenge to fight a duel, and having, through his counsel, expressed his regret for his illegal conduct, has been required to enter into his own recognisances in the sum of £500, and to find one surety in the sum of £250, to keep the peace towards all her Majesty's subjects, and towards Mr. Desborough in particular, for twelve months. The requisite security was immediately given.

THE NEWPORT-MARKET REFUGE.—It was stated in the Times of the 3rd inst. that Mr. Albert D. Sassoon and Mr. S. D. Sassoon, sons of the late Mr. David Sassoon, the eminent Bombay merchant and philanthropist, had expressed their willingness to hand over a sum of £1,000 to Mrs. Gladstone, the founder of the Newport-market Refuge, to aid her in her benevolent exertions on behalf of the London poor. The Messrs. Sassoon wrote a letter to Mr. B. Lumley, 22, Sackville-street, in which they state they have been greatly impressed with the account of the destitute London poor given in the Times of the 21st ult., and request him to wait on Mrs. Gladstone and explain that they make the donation in the name of their father; that they wish it to form a fund bearing his name, and that they leave to her all further arrangements, her name being an ample assurance that the proper dispositions will be made. We now learn that Mrs. Gladstone has accepted the gift on behalf of the charities in which she takes an interest, and expressed her high gratification to the Messrs. Sassoon for the confidence they have placed in her. Mrs. Gladstone has drawn up a plan for the management of the fund, which she has transmitted to Mr. Lumley. In it she proposes that the sum in question, under the name of the "David Sassoon Fund," should be vested in trustees to be applied in the erection of a building in connection with the Newport-market Refuge or with the House of Charity in Soho-square, and that the building should have the name of David Sassoon permanently attached to it. She states that she takes a deep interest in both of the charities mentioned, and she believes them to be calculated to help one another and to do great permanent good. She therefore proposes that until the capital sum is employed in building the proceeds shall be applied towards the current expenses of one or both of these institutions. She has also announced to Mr. Lumley that if the Messrs. Sassoon wish it Mr. Gladstone will become one of the trustees. The plan proposed has met the approval in all respects of the executors of the late Mr. Sassoon, so that the two charities above-named will at once derive advantage from this munificent gift.—Times.

SARSAPARILLA.

WILKINSON'S (late BRIDGES) ESSENCE OF FLUID EXTRACT OF RED JAMAICA SARSAPARILLA is appreciated for its Purity, and marked superiority, daily prescribed by the Faculty for Impurities of the Blood, Affections of the Liver, Constitutional Debility, Attenuation of Body, as an Alterative Medicine at the Changes of the Seasons, and for freeing the system from the effects of Mercury.

In India and the Colonies it is extensively used to prevent taking complaints incidental to Tropical Climates, and as a renovator of the system after Sickness invaluable.

"A superior preparation, that may always be relied on."—Sir Astley Cooper.

"We are in every respect satisfied with it."—Lancet.

"We recommend your Sarsaparilla as the best."—Medical Review.

"Latterly, in consequence of much debility, &c., subsequent to Cholera, I have freely used 'Bridges's Sarsaparilla' myself, with complete benefit and success."—J. Poett, F.R.C.S.

Sold in pints, half-pints, and quarter pints. One pint is equal to eight pints of the ordinary preparations.

IMPORTANT CAUTION.—The public are cautioned against cheap preparations of Sarsaparilla, which, instead of being what they profess, are nothing but a decoction of common herbs, sweetened with molasses, and flavoured with American Winter Green. The genuine has "Thos. Wilkinson (late Bridges and Co.), 270, Regent-street, London," engraved on each bottle.

AGREEABLE SEIDLITZ POWDER in one bottle, protected by a case with measure and spoon included. This preparation is highly recommended, not only as a Mild Aperient, but to allay Fever, Thirst, &c.

AROMATIC TINCTURE OF QUINODINE for the prevention of Fever, Intermittent or Remittent Ague, and other effects of Malaria. No person exposed to the influence of or predisposing cause of Fevers should be without it, for if taken in small doses daily the system will become so thoroughly impregnated with its principles as to be rendered proof against all attacks of Contagion or Malaria. Sold in pints, half-pints, and quarter-pints.

The above articles prepared only by Thos. Wilkinson (late Wilkinson, Bridges, & Co.), 270, Regent-street, London, W.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—PROTECTORS OF HEALTH.—In the hand to hand struggle for existence in the present day, good health is everything. Holloway's purifying, digestive, and gently laxative Pills are admirably adapted for restoring soundness to invalids whose functions are so feebly performed that life itself seems most precarious.

The stomach has its many maladies removed by a judicious use of these Pills; the torpid liver is roused by them to active secretion, and every other organ subserving digestion is placed at its proper standard, and better fitted for its duties. It is impossible to have a doctor always at our elbow, but these Pills will supply that loss, for they universally act beneficially in every ailment.

SUMMARY AND REVIEW.

By the arrival of the Bombay mail we are in receipt of intelligence from that Presidency to the 29th of December, and from Calcutta to the 21st of that month. The most important news is that which relates to the Bhootan expedition, which has already covered itself with glory and disaster. The first success achieved was the capture of the Fort of Dhalimkote by Brigadier-general Dunsford's column. The advance of the force seems to have been stoutly opposed by the Bhootiahs, who poured upon them showers of stones and arrows. The brigade-major, Captain MacGregor, received a slight gun shot wound on the scalp, and Lieutenant Loughnan, 18th N.I., was pierced through the arm by an arrow.

But, overcoming all opposition, the troops rapidly reached the foot of a steep hill some two hundred feet high, surmounted by the fort inclosed within a wall, of the height of twenty feet. The mortars being quickly brought into position excellent practice was made, shells and carcasses being thrown into the fort at close range. A fearful accident, however, for a while checked the fire of the artillery, and damped the ultimate triumph of the day. Owing to a fuse being cut too short a shell burst within the muzzle of the mortar, and exploded a quantity of powder which Captain Griffin, R.A., was weighing out for charges. In an instant that promising young officer was blown to pieces, with Lieuts. Waller and Anderson, and seven artillerymen. An Armstrong gun was then brought up, and, a building within the walls being set on fire, the General gave the signal for the assault, and the place was carried without further resistance. In addition, however, to the casualties already mentioned, upwards of fifty men were wounded, Lieut. Collins, R.E., having had both his legs broken by the explosion. Another fort, that of Dhurm Sing, remains to be captured by General Dunsford's column, but it is said to be less formidable than the one at Dhalimkote. While these events were going on with one column, another, under the command of General Mulcaster, marched, without striking a blow, into the Devangiri stronghold, whence the General proposed to move with the larger portion of his troops into the Byrree Doar, in order to co-operate with the Right Centre column, under Colonel Richardson. Brigadier-general Watson's Left Centre column at the same time penetrated into the Buxar Doar without seeing any traces of the enemy, with the exception of an abandoned stockade.

Further confirmation has been received of the fallacy of the reports of the unfriendly demeanour of the Nepaulese Government. Maharajah Jung Bahadoor, so far from conspiring against the British Government, or being placed under arrest by an adverse party at Court, has sent handsome presents to Calcutta in token of his loyalty, and has further expressed his perfect satisfaction with the medals presented to the Nepaulese troops that co-operated in the reduction of Lucknow.

It is gratifying to learn that the remonstrances of the Viceroy and Governor-general have been so far efficacious that the Khan of Bokhara has released the four Italian gentlemen who for upwards of a year have been languishing in a vile dungeon. It is also stated, on the authority of the Peshawur correspondent of the Delhi Gazette, that a Russian ambassador, attended by a military escort, had passed through Bokhara, and safely reached Cabool, where he was received by the Ameer with all pomp and circumstance. The territory of Kokan, we are further informed, "has been taken by the Russians. Of three Kokanee vakeels who went to pay their respects to the Governor-general at Lahore, one is gone to Turkey to the Sooltan, one is still at Lahore, and the third is at Peshawur on his way to Cabool. The Ameer of Cabool has been requested by the British authorities, through the British representative, to send an escort to guard the Kokan vakeel." The same news writer asserts that "Sirdar Mohamed Allee Khan, with the state prisoner Sirdar Mohamed Ufzul Khan arrived in Cabool, after they followed Ameer Shere Allee Khan with all his Sirdars and Khans. Sirdar Futteh Mahomed Khan, son of the late Wazeer Ukbur Khan, has been appointed by the Ameer governor of Bulk. The Persian Ambassador who has been with the Ameer for the past few months has been dismissed with due honour. The Ameer has sent very valuable presents to the Shah of Persia by the Ambassador. It is said that the Shah of Persia has granted a jagheer of three lacs of rupees, near Heerat, to Sirdar Mohamed Yakoub Allee Khan, the governor of that place, as a token of friendship towards the Ameer."

The numerous private friends of the Lieutenant-governor of Bengal will be grieved to hear that his Honour has been compelled to proceed to sea in consequence of a severe and sudden attack of illness. Mr. Grey will officiate during Mr. Beadon's absence.

Sir Hugh Rose is reported as convalescent. There is no longer any doubt as to the appointment of Sir William Mansfield to the chief command of the army in India. Sir William's successor in the Bombay Presidency will in all probability be Sir Robert Napier, while Sir Hope Grant is likely to obtain a very high staff appointment at the Horse Guards.

Lieutenant-colonel Ramsay, Resident at Khatmandoo, has applied for leave of absence to visit the higher ranges of the Himalayas, in the hope of restoring his health. His medical advisers have forbidden him to use his eyes more than can be avoided, as they have suffered much from overwork.

The Lord Bishop of Calcutta held a confirmation at Moradabad on the 29th of November, and on the following day consecrated the new burial ground. His lordship then proceeded to Nynce Tal, whence he was to continue his tour of inspection to Almorah, Bareilly, Seetapore, and Lucknow, purposing to spend Christmas in the last-named city.

At the last meeting of the Cyclone Relief Fund in Calcutta it was unanimously agreed that Rs. 50,000 should be given towards the relief of the sufferers at Masulipatam, and that Rs. 15,000, in addition to Rs. 10,000 already given, should be made over to the Sailors' Home Relief Fund, on the understanding that their committee should do their utmost to get the seamen affected by the Cyclone sent home under the provisions of the Merchant Shipping Act.

A meeting was held at the Town Hall in Calcutta on the 14th December, to take into consideration the proposed abolition of Grand Juries. Long speeches were delivered by Messrs. Cochrane, Gladstone, Beckwith, S. Scott-Moncrieff, and others, but the affair may be briefly summarised as vox et præterea nihil.

Sickness is rife in many parts of India. Fever and cholera are spoken of as committing great ravages in the Scrampore and Hooghly districts, while the small-pox is raging at Dum Dum, Fyzabad, Azimgurh, Muttra, and Umritsur. At the last-named place, however, the municipal authorities are bestirring themselves in good earnest to improve the system of drainage, and propose to raise a loan of £120,000 to carry out that object.

ORIENTAL FINANCIAL CORPORATION.—The report of the Oriental Financial Corporation states that the gross profits from the commencement of the business in April last have amounted to £21,762, which, after deducting expenses of management, rebate of interest on bills, and all other charges, and carrying 10 per cent. to the credit of preliminary expenses and office furniture, leaves a balance of £16,975. Out of this sum the directors have appropriated £706 to the payment of ad interim interest to 30th June last, at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum, and £3,298 for dividend to 31st December, 1864, at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum, leaving the sum of £12,971 to be carried forward to the next account. The operations in India are upon a satisfactory basis, and are capable of considerable extension, but the commercial uncertainty which has existed during the last few months has induced the directors to restrict business. The closed accounts from thence for the past year have not yet been received, and they will, therefore, appear in the next statement.

THE BHOOTAN EXPEDITION.

The little war on our North East frontier is exciting some interest in its neighbourhood. The Bhootan Field Force is at work; the four columns of which it is composed simultaneously advanced into the Doors on the 1st of December. The four columns are respectively named the Right, Right Centre, Left Centre, and Left. The Right Column was at Gowhatty until the 1st, commanded by Brigadier-General Mulcaster, and consisted of three guns; Urquhart's company of the Bengal Sappers; a portion of the 12th Native Infantry; a detachment of the 5th Bengal Cavalry; and the 43rd Native Infantry. Gowhatty is situated on the south bank of the Brahmaputra River, in Assam, in a plain to the north of the Cossyah Hills. The river flows westerly from Gowhatty towards Goolpara, which is distant from Gowhatty about eighty miles in a direct line.

The Right Centre Column was posted at Goolpara, and consisted of a wing of the 44th N.I. (Kelat-i-Ghilzi); three guns; Sale's company of sappers; and a detachment of the 5th Bengal Cavalry. Goolpara is an important commercial town and depot for the Assamese, who trade thither in gold, ivory, tar, wax, and salt.

The next column, the Left Centre, was at Cooch Behar, on the other side of the Brahmaputra, nearly due west from Goolpara about eighty miles. This column is commanded by Colonel Watson, and is composed of the 3rd Goorkhas, part of the 11th Native Infantry, three Mountain Train Armstrong guns, and some mortars, with Sappers and a Pontoon Train.

The Left Column was at Julpigoree, about sixty miles to the west again of Cooch Behar. The troops composing this column were under Brigadier General Dunsford, C. B., and consisted of three Mountain Train guns (Griffin's), two 5½ inch mortars, the Sebundy Sappers, the right wing of the 5th Bengal Cavalry under Major Gough, V.C., portions of the 11th and 18th Native Infantry, and 30th Punjab Native Infantry.

The above constitutes the entire Door Field Force, which appears to be very fairly distributed, the left being of necessity the strongest flank. The four columns, as we said above, started simultaneously on the 1st Dec. The left column has taken Dalimkote, on the hill slopes about forty miles due north of Julpigoree, and believed to be the strongest fortification the Bhootanese possess. Most probably the troops will suffer more from sickness than from other causes. In fact, some of the senior officers have already had to relinquish their commands in consequence of severe attacks of fever. The plains at the foot of the Bhootan hills are extremely unhealthy, but when once our forces reach the heights, which are four thousand feet above the sea level, they will really enjoy the climate.

The following account of the taking of Dalimkote is dated within the stronghold, Dec. 8th:—

"I send off a few lines just to tell you that we took this famous place the day before yesterday, not, I am sorry to say, without serious loss, the Bhootas having fought with much more courage and resolution than we expected, and the Fort being both naturally and artificially strong, and in a most commanding position, we were opposed nearly all the way up the hill, and could only proceed by a narrow, tortuous road, constantly exposed to showers of arrows and stones, both of which the Bhootas threw with great force and precision. The column got close up to the Fort without any serious loss, MacGregor, the Brigade Major, and Loughnan, of the 18th Native Infantry, being the only wounded; but then there stood the Fort before us, on a hill about two hundred feet high, surrounded by a thick wall of about twenty feet elevation. We soon brought our small mortars into position, and were getting on very well with the work, throwing shells and carcasses into the fort at about a couple of hundred yards' range, when, from a fuse being too short cut, the shell burst in the muzzle of the mortar, and exploded a quantity of powder which poor Griffin was weighing out for the charges; and in an instant three officers—Griffin, Anderson, and Waller, and some artillerymen close by—were blown to atoms. This was a terrible catastrophe to the whole force, and had nearly been far worse, as our gallant and much-esteemed Brigadier-general Dunsford was within a yard of the group just before it occurred, having only that instant left Griffin to give some orders to Capt. Perkins, of the Engineers. By this untoward calamity the force lost the services of three most excellent officers, and seven men, and also of one of their mortars, which became utterly unserviceable. With great difficulty, and after some delay, an Armstrong gun was brought up to the hill, and soon placed in position and brought to play upon the confronting bastion, and, with a carcass, set fire to the buildings inside the fort. This the General thought an auspicious signal and time for an assault; and having got the scaling ladders up, the storming party made a rush and carried the place at once, the Bhootas bolting out on the opposite side. Dhalimkote is a fearfully strong place, and was not taken without several casualties, the General having had several men shot close to his side, and not a few narrow escapes. Our work is not completed yet, as we have one more Fort to take, that of Dhurm Sing, said to be nearly as strong as this, but not in such a commanding and difficult position. Our loss has been heavy; but considering the important result, and the rapid way in which it was obtained, I do not think it disproportionate if we deduct those killed by the unfortunate explosion. Collins, of the Engineers, is wounded severely, both his legs having been broken by the explosion; Macgregor, the General's Brigade Major, slightly wounded on the scalp by a gun shot, and Loughnan, of the 18th Native Infantry, wounded by an arrow through the right arm. We have, besides, eight men killed and fifty-six wounded. We were at it from ten in the morning until six in the evening; and you may imagine that we were not sorry when the affair was over and the fort in our possession. We are not enamoured of hill and jungle warfare, where the highest military skill and best soldiers may be employed with comparatively inadequate results. We leave a garrison to hold this fort, and to-morrow or next day go on with our work."—Times of India.

THE VICEROY'S POLICY IN OUDE.

A fortnight ago an article in these columns described the policy which the government is pursuing in Oude. Some discussion has arisen upon the subject since, and we therefore return to it for the purpose of commenting on one or two important points, and telling our readers distinctly and plainly what it is that the Viceroy has been doing.

It is in the nature of things that there should be some slight reaction from Lord Canning's policy. So long as he remained to watch, or Lord Elgin to sleep over it, things went smoothly enough. Few except officials care much about the land tenures of India in parts where there are no indigo planters, and if an official took to writing against the provincial arrangements, what more simple than to transfer him to another province? Thus it was that matters went on, without a murmur, under the two Earls. Sir John Lawrence was less of a patrician, and was both by policy and sympathy disposed to protect the rights of the occupants of the soil. It is impossible to deny that these had been ill cared for by his predecessors. After a hasty summary settlement, during which it was physically impracticable, even if it had been desired, to make any fair investigation into titles to villages, Lord Canning perpetually confirmed the Talookdars in all that had been awarded to them during the proceedings. In this manner villages which had never belonged to them were annexed to their estates, and others which were held on redeemable mortgages became their unconditional property. No such violation of private rights had taken place since the settlement of Bengal. Lord Canning was himself an eminently just and humane man, but his inexperience disabled him from perceiving the consequences of his acts, and there was no one apparently at the time by his side whom he would allow to point out how unnecessary to his objects was the course pursued. For, in truth, he desired, merely to preserve to the Talookdars the possessions and the dignity which many inherited by descent from an ancient aristocracy, and which others had acquired, more or less reputably, in the shifting scenes of the turbulent native government. He it was, indeed, who, contrary to the recommendation of the local administration, insisted that a clause should be inserted in the Sunnuds reserving the rights of under-proprietors within the Talookas. But having asserted the general principle, he was not over careful to see it carried out. The Talookdars, many of whom might well have expected severe treatment for their rebellion, found themselves the favourites of the hour, with extended estates, and free from the charge of the bodies of retainers who had previously devoured their income. They were really grateful. They praised Queen Victoria to the skies. They founded a Canning College and a Wingfield Munzil. They obtained magisterial powers, and jurisdiction over their rent-paying or rent-refusing tenants. They promised to put a stop to female infanticide, to make agricultural improvements—Persian wheels and European machinery. The Kaisur Bagh was made over to them for their lodging at Lucknow. They established a newspaper, and in their weakest moment fell into the hands of a Bengallee Baboo of inventive faculties, who changed them into a house of Parliament, and made the Boetians whose rustic talk had been heretofore about bullocks, utter political platitudes from their "journal" which rendered them all ridiculous and some disgusted.

This kind of conduct scarcely succeeded with Lord Canning, although he took it in serious earnest. With paternal fondness he viewed his restored aristocracy, administering justice in their ancestral domains, and occasionally coming to Lucknow for the discharge of their Parliamentary duties. Sick of indigo disputes, he received them in state in Calcutta, and addressed to them a graceful allocution, of which they did not understand a word. Lord Elgin knew his own powers sufficiently well not to meddle with the matter.

But it was quite different when Sir John Lawrence unexpectedly made his appearance. He might admit the policy of upholding the Talookdars in the very extensive properties which, by hook or by crook, they had managed to acquire; and so long as they did not seriously commit themselves, he might encourage with a smile their exertions as a magistracy. But he probably thought that they had got quite enough, and that they were not unlikely to abuse the powers which had been given them over their own tenants. He also felt that it was only fair that claims to minor rights in Talookas should be heard within the usual period of limitation; and to do them justice the Talookdars themselves agreed to this equitable rule. Finding that the appellate business was heavy, he appointed a Financial Commissioner, as in the Punjab. But his last and most obnoxious order, judging from some of the newspapers, is the institution of an enquiry as to whether cultivators have any rights or not in Oude? Such rights have generally been acknowledged in all parts of the Indian Peninsula. If they do exist, it is a condition of the Talookdars' Sunnuds that they shall be maintained. The local authorities, Consule Canning, had decided off-hand that such rights did not exist, or that if they did they were detrimental to agriculture and must be exploded. All that Sir John Lawrence has done is to direct that an impartial enquiry shall be made, and that the cultivators interested shall have an opportunity of preferring their claims. It is difficult to conceive how the Viceroy could have acted in a manner more moderate and unprejudiced; and, with deference to those who think otherwise, we must confess that we see no cause why the territorial aristocracy of Oude should be allowed any new right of rack renting and evicting the populous peasantry on their lands.

Such, succinctly, is the recent political history of Oude. We do not think it disadvantageous that the Cornwallis experiment of maintaining an aristocracy should be repeated under lighter taxation, and a more careful record of the co-existing rights in the soil. But its members have been rocked and dandled into their responsibilities. Their marriage expenditure is ruinous. They are ignorant and priest-ridden in an extreme degree. We think it highly improbable that they will seriously endeavour to improve their estates by the outlay of capital. We anticipate that many estates will be partitioned under the law of inheritance, that others will be mismanaged and will be mortgaged and sold for arrears of revenue, and that therefore the more sober our expectations as to the benefits accruing from the Talookdaree system, the truer they are likely to turn out.—Friend of India.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FORGED NOTES.—The Government of India, we understand, has suggested to the Secretary of State to make certain improvements in the die of the currency notes for India, with some additional flourish and embellishments, or to make it a little more ornamental, so as to prevent, as far as practicable, any further attempt at forgery. The above suggestion has been made in consequence of a wholesale forgery committed, some time ago, at Bombay, whereby certain parties attempted to pass a forged currency note, bearing even the water marks, for genuine, and which, however, was detected by the officials there. This forged note is supposed to have been printed on one of those bits of papers which have been stolen from the contractor's mills at home. The offenders have been tried by the local courts at the Bombay Presidency, and punished. The forged note has now been submitted by the Commissioner of issue at that Presidency, for the inspection of the Governor-General and his Council, through the Commissioner at Calcutta. The suggestion seems to be a good one, and should have been made long before this, or when one or two other forgeries, though less cleverly executed than the above-mentioned one, were committed in this town some months back.—Indian Daily News.

MR. BEADON'S ILLNESS.—Our readers will be sorry to learn that an illness suddenly attacked Mr. Beadon a few days ago. The Lieutenant-Governor went out to sea soon after he fell indisposed, and the change was attended with good effects. We may state that at the meeting of the Viceregal Council held on the 2nd Dec., Mr. Beadon was present in his usual state of health, and that the following day he presided at the distribution of prizes at St. Xavier's College.

SIR HUGH ROSE.—The accident to his Excellency the Commander-in-Chief will prevent him from carrying out his intention of visiting and inspecting the different stations at which troops are located. An order was issued at Meerut on the 2nd Dec., by which all extra establishments not required for a standing camp are discharged, and it is expected that the camp will be finally broken up in a month. The fractured rib is doing well, but in the opinion of his medical advisers, Sir Hugh Rose's general health has been impaired by the fall.

CAPTAIN R. G. KENNEDY, of H.M.'s 55th Foot, just arrived from England by the Feroze, is appointed an aide-de-camp on the personal staff of his Excellency the Viceroy and Governor-general.

CULTIVATION LEASES.—Some lengthy official correspondence has appeared in the Calcutta Gazette concerning the granting of cultivation leases in Assam and Cachar. The Board of Revenue, it appears, are of opinion that the cultivation leases of waste land in Cachar practically convey to the lessee a proprietary and transferable right in the land, subject only to re-settlement (temporarily or permanently, at the option of Government) on the expiry of the lease. The Board think it right and expedient that this should be so, and the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal on full consideration concurs in this opinion. His Honour is also of opinion that it is entirely out of the question to refuse to European planters leases of waste land on the same terms as those on which such land is leased to native cultivators. The Lieutenant-Governor approves of granting these cultivation leases for twenty or thirty years, not only in Cachar, but in Sylhet, Assam and Chittagong, and also, if there be no objection, in Darjeeling. No lease is to be for more than 3,000 acres, all the conditions required under the new rules, such as survey, demarcation, &c., must be observed, the leases are not redeemable under the waste land rules, and the rights of the lessee in the land, as well as his other property, are liable to sale for non-payment of revenue. A permanent settlement after thirty years is not to be a condition of the lease. The leases proposed by English lawyers are objectionable to the Lieutenant-Governor. The planters have been hitherto satisfied with the leases granted by district officers, which are binding upon the Government, and which it is unnecessary to supersede by others of a more formal character.

INFANTICIDE.—The trial of Emma Keith, in the High Court of Calcutta on the 10th Dec., on the charge of exposing her newly-born male child with the intention of causing its death, excited a great deal of interest. Owing to the peculiar circumstances of the case, much sympathy was shown for the prisoner. The court was densely crowded, the prisoner being the first European female who had in this country been charged with so serious an offence. Three barristers of the High Court, Messrs. Hyde, Lowe and Coryton, gratuitously acted as counsel for the defence. After a lengthened trial, and an elaborate charge from Mr. Justice Macpherson, the jury retired, and in ten minutes brought in a verdict of not guilty. The scene in court was now one of considerable excitement, the prisoner fainted in the dock, and as soon as the verdict was declared, the audience, we are told, carried away by their feelings, gave a tremendous cheer, followed by a loud clapping of hands. This demonstration was, however, soon suppressed. A public subscription has been set on foot for the benefit of Emma Keith. No one pauses to ask who did murder the child.—Friend of India.

SUNDAY SCHOOL UNION.—The Viceroy, accompanied by Lady Lawrence and daughters, and attended by three members of his staff, was present at the annual meeting of the Sunday School Union at the Town Hall, on Tuesday evening, Dec. 13. About six hundred children were present, and the hall was crowded with visitors. The Rev. Mr. Hardman presided, and the speakers were the Rev. Mr. Storrow, Mr. R. Scott Moncrieff, Rev. Mr. Sale, and Dr. Farquhar. The Governor-General has given the committee the use of the park at Barrackpore for a fete, to be held there the day after Christmas-day, to which the parents and teachers are all invited.

ACCIDENT TO SIR R. MONTGOMERY.—The Delhi Gazette has an account of an accident which happened to Sir Robert Montgomery, Lieut.-Governor of the Punjab. While out shooting on a jheel at Khanowan, in the Goordaspore district, the shallow punt in which he was, upset, and his Honour fell into the water. He afterwards continued his shooting, and has suffered no injury.

EASTERN BENGAL RAILWAY.—The case "George Ham v. The Eastern Bengal Railway Company," which has occupied the Court of the Hon'ble Mr. Justice C. Leveige for four entire days, has been brought to a conclusion by the declaration of a verdict for the plaintiff. The suit was one to recover damages for wrongful dismissal. Plaintiff was formerly chief accountant in the railway above mentioned; and alleges that he was wrongfully and illegally dismissed from his post by the Acting Agent, to whom the plaint attributed acts of the grossest oppression, and the most deliberate defiance, both of the Board of Directors and the law in respect of his dismissal. The Court found against the defendant on every point, and gave as damages the utmost sum allowed by law—six months' full pay in lieu of notice, and the price of a first-class passage to England.

CLEARANCE OF THE PORT OF CALCUTTA.—At length there is a certain prospect of the wrecks caused by the October cyclone being cleared away, so far as the sunken ships are concerned, and the port being restored to its condition before the hurricane swept it. Lieutenant Wallace, of the Royal Engineers, has been appointed by the Government to be blower-up of ships for the port of Calcutta, so long as any sunken wrecks remain to be removed; and a first instalment of 30,000 pounds of gunpowder has been placed at his disposal with which to commence the work. The number of sunken vessels to be operated upon is nine; and the work will be commenced immediately, an electric battery being used to ignite the exploding charges previously placed, with the aid of the diving armour, in the most advantageous position for effecting the destruction of the hulls.

FREE CHURCH INSTITUTION.—The Viceroy and Governor-General presided on Saturday, the 10th Dec., at the thirty-fourth annual distribution of prizes to the pupils of the Free Church Institution. This institution, it will be remembered, was originally established for the education of native youth by Dr. Duff, the present magnificent building in which it is located having been erected at a cost of a lakh and a half of rupees, the sum being collected by Dr. Duff in England and America, without any appeal to the Indian public. The total number of pupils enrolled during the present year was 1,748, the average monthly attendance being 1,154. Among the visitors present at the examination were the Hon. Messrs. Muir and Anderson, Members of the Imperial Council, and Dr. Hathaway, Private Secretary to the Viceroy.

TORTURE.—It has been reported that a Thakoor, a relation of the Maharajah of Gwalior, lately tortured some men whom he suspected of having committed theft on his premises. He compelled them to hold a hot iron bar in their hands to make them confess. It is said that one died from the ill effects of this treatment, and the attention of the political officers has been called to the fact. Another case of the same kind is reported from Bhopal. There the Kotwal tortured one Gopal, who died from the effects of the beating he underwent.

DELHI PRIZE MONEY.—The Prize Committee have recommended that a third distribution of the Delhi prize-money should be made at the rate of Rs. 24 a share. The recommendation of the committee has been sent to England for the consideration of the Secretary of State for India, and should it be sanctioned, the distribution will be made as soon as possible after the arrival of Sir Charles Wood's order in this country. We should think that this third distribution will nearly wind up the affairs and resources of the Delhi prize-money, and leave but little more to divide.

MR. DAVID COWIE, of Calcutta, has been nominated to a seat in the Legislative Council, in the place of Mr. Claude Browne, who has resigned.

DACCA AGRICULTURAL EXHIBITION.—The opening of the Dacca Agricultural Exhibition was very successful. Mrs. Abercrombie, the wife of the Judge, in due form declared the show open. Subsequently, Mr. Buckland made an excellent speech in which he alluded to the great and unwonted difficulties they had to contend against in getting up such a show in Dacca. The subscriptions amounted to Rs. 23,000, a sum which considerably exceeds anything which has as yet appeared in connection with the subscriptions of other divisions.

ADVANTAGES OF IRRIGATION IN THE CENTRAL PROVINCES.—A writer in the Central India Times informs us that the average rent of unirrigated lands in the Nagpore and Wurdah districts is Rs. 1½th; the rent of irrigated lands varies from Rs. 130 to Rs. 3 per acre. The very high rate of Rs. 130 is paid by only a small cluster of betel-leaf gardens near the town of Ramteak; but in garden plots near towns Rs. 40 an acre is by no means an uncommon rent; and the average rent paid for irrigated land over the two districts is certainly not less than Rs. 4½ an acre. The difference between the rent of irrigated and unirrigated lands is then at least Rs. 3 an acre.

REGISTRAR GENERAL OF ASSURANCES.—The Government of India has authorised the grant to the new Registrar-General of Assurances under Act XVI. of 1864, of a progressive salary of Rs. 1,200, rising, by an increase of Rs. 50 every year, to Rs. 1,500, as has been done at Madras, and not Rs. 2,000 as was recommended by the Government of Bengal. The salary of the Deputy Registrar has been fixed by the Governor-general in Council at Rs. 600 per mensem, for the conjoined duties of the Registration of Assurances under the new Act, and that of the Joint-Stock Companies under Act XIX. of 1857.

PILGRIMAGE TO MECCA.—We are informed that the Nawab of Moorshedabad, being dissatisfied with the amount allowed him for his travelling expenses, Rs. 80,000, has abandoned his intention of proceeding to England. We also learn that his mother has given up her intention to proceed to Mecca. Whilst on this subject we may mention that Ali Nukee Khan, late Wuzer of Oude, is actually engaged in preparations for his voyage thither.

THE DOVETON COLLEGE.—On the 10th December Mr. Justice Phear presided at the annual distribution of prizes to the pupils of the Doveton College. The proceedings took place in the Town-hall of Calcutta, which was, we are told, crowded to excess. The learned judge made an admirable address to the boys, in which he urged upon them the necessity of "striving their best to avail themselves of every opportunity of improvement which God had given them, and they might rest assured that their success would surpass their most sanguine expectations."

THE IMPRISONED ITALIANS.—The fate of the four Italians incarcerated at Bokhara has at length been determined. They have arrived in safety in their own country, and the King of Italy has thanked the Governor-general of India for his co-operation in effecting their release. They have been in the clutches of the Khan of Bokhara for more than a year, and must consider themselves uncommonly fortunate that they have escaped the fate of Conolly and Stoddart.

DISTRESS IN CALCUTTA.—There are at the present moment about four hundred distressed seamen in Calcutta, and a meeting of commanders of merchant ships have been held to devise means of sending them home. It was determined to make an appeal to the Committee of the Cyclone Relief Fund, asking them for a further contribution towards accomplishing the object the meeting had in view.

GENERAL G. ST. P. LAWRENCE, it is said, will return to India in June, and will be appointed a Member of Council, should the expected vacancy occur.

GUN CARRIAGE AGENCY.—Whatever other institution or Government establishment may be abolished, it appears probable that the gun-carriage agency and factories at Futteghur are likely to stand their ground as indispensable for the perfection and efficiency of our artillery in this country. Two batteries of Armstrong ninepounder guns have just arrived here from England, and it turns out that although they have never left the Presidency, the carriages are utterly useless and unserviceable, and have been condemned. The Government has ordered a strong artillery committee, including Colonels Voyle and Maxwell, of the Gun-powder Agency and the Cossipore Foundry, to assemble and report minutely on these gun-carriages; and has ordered that new carriages be made at once for the Armstrong guns at Futteghur. English made gun-carriages are, we believe, next to useless for the rough uses of war in this country and climate, as was seen in the mutiny campaigns, when the carriages of the batteries which came out direct from England soon became shaky and unserviceable.

OUDE LAND SETTLEMENT.—The Viceroy has ordered that in the Land Settlement, now in progress in Oude, no extra assessment shall be laid on lands under irrigation, when that irrigation has been effected by permanent wells newly constructed by the owners. This has been done in order to prevent any delay in the construction of permanent wells, arising from the fear that such wells would be increasing the value of the land, and lead to the levying of an extra assessment by the Revenue officers. Landholders constructing wells on these terms are expected to give notice of their intention to the Tehseeldar, who will inform the Settlement Officer of the proposed sites, in order that the land may be entered as unirrigated in the Survey and Settlement papers.

GOLD CURRENCY.—The amount of sovereigns paid into the Bank of Bengal since the 1st to the 8th is nearly forty thousand, of which half have been taken away again; of this sum we learn a very small portion was paid in for Government dues. Some of the other banks are paying sovereigns when demanded, at the rate of ten rupees, as obtained from the Bank of Bengal. The Agra Bank will continue to do so as long as sovereigns are to be had at the Bank of Bengal. So far the experiment is succeeding well, and every one is willing to give effect to the arrangement. It is clear, however, that so long as sovereigns are valued higher in the Mofussil, they will be carried there.

NATIVE CRUELTY AND SUPERSTITION.—The attention of the Secretary of State has been attracted to the reports from Rajpootana and other native states that people are punished for killing cattle, and that their noses and ears are cut off. It has also been noticed that the superstition with regard to witchcraft is very rife, and the people often murder suspected persons, particularly old women. A case of this kind occurred not long ago at Goojrat, in the Punjab. The Home Government wishes to be more fully informed on this subject, and is desirous that all possible measures be taken to put down these barbarous practices. It will be easier to deal with the cruel punishments inflicted on the people in native states than with the deep-rooted superstition regarding witchcraft and magic.

FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT.—In compliance with the wishes of the Home Authorities, reductions have just commenced to be made in the Office Establishment of the Financial Department, which has during the last four years become unnecessarily expensive. Upwards of half-a-dozen assistants, drawing a salary from 25 to 70 rupees a month, have been dispensed with, and notices have been served upon some others in similar grades and positions intimating that their services will no longer be required by Government.

NEPAUL.—There was a report the other day in the papers that the Nepaulese contemplated joining the Bhootas in the expected war against the British, and that Jung Bahadoor had proceeded into the Terai on a hunting excursion in order to be at Rungpore when the ball should open. The Rajah and Jung, in order to remove the unpleasant impressions which such a report is likely to create, have sent their Vakeel, Colonel Kedarnauth Sing, to Calcutta, with costly presents as pledges of amity and friendship. The Rajah himself has expressed his entire satisfaction with the Indian medal which Colonel Ramsay has presented on the part of the Viceroy to the Goorkhas who took part in the Oude campaign of 1857-58.—Hurkaru.

CIVIL STAFF APPOINTMENTS.—The Government of India has recently ruled that in the event of a military officer holding a civil appointment being thrown out of employ on the abolition of his office, and not equally remunerated elsewhere, he is to receive two-thirds of his staff allowance for six months only, commencing from the date of such abolition. This is, we believe, in strict accordance with the late order which extended similar privileges to officers of disbanded corps.

TWO NATIVE INFANTRY COMMANDS are now in the gift of his Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, the 7th and 37th Regiments; the former by the promotion of Colonel Pott to be brigadier-general, and the latter by the departure for Europe on sick certificate of Lieutenant-colonel Boyd. We believe that the two officers now second in command of these regiments, Major Nelson in the former, and Major Hodgson in the latter, will succeed to the vacant commands.

THE ANDAMAN CONVICTS.—When the wives of the convicts transported for life to the Andamans were offered a free passage to join their husbands they all declined, and female prisoners have been sent. Amongst these people marriages have been celebrated. Now, numbers of the wives of the men have repented, and are willing to proceed, if a free passage be granted to them. We have not heard whether this has been sanctioned or not.

THE BHOOTAN DOOARS.—The Penlows of Bhootan, we have been informed, have commanded the inhabitants of the Dooars to leave their country and retire into the Hills, or to remain at their peril. Zincoffs have been sent to seize the Chiefs of the Dooar people, as there is a strong suspicion of their joining the British. Cheboo Lama is to hold his appointment and salary as before, and to continue until the close of the Bhootan campaign.

BRITISH SUBJECTS IN BHOOTAN.—The Bhootas have sent all the Indian British subjects detained by them over the snowy range into Thibet, to prevent their recapture, with the exception of one Aurung Sing, who, in 1857, with a large number of followers, after committing several murders in Shaffla Baree, escaped into Bhootan; he is now placed in command of some budmashes and runaways from the British territories, and stationed at Paro.

THE NEPAUL TERAI.—The Government of Nepal has made many complaints of the depredations and violence committed by British subjects of the Oude frontier in the Nepaul territory. The Government has deputed Mr. W. Knighton, deputy commissioner of Khyrabad, to investigate the cases complained of, and the Nepaulese will send a commissioner of their own to meet him.

HOCKEY ON HORSEBACK.—The mercantile members of the Calcutta Hockey Club, played the civil and military members a return match on Saturday evening, Dec. 10th. On this occasion, fortune decided in favour of the merchants, who won five games out of eight.

MR. M. A. G. SHAW, Civil and Sessions Judge of Sylhet, will proceed on three months' privilege leave almost immediately.

THE CURRENCY.—The following is a statement of Government Currency Notes in circulation, of the amount of coin and bullion reserve, and Government securities held by the Department of Issue of Paper Currency, on December the 3rd, 1864:—Notes in Circulation, Rs. 7,12,95,040; Silver Coin Reserve, Rs. 2,78,00,029; Silver Bullion Reserve, Rs. 1,31,00,000; Government Securities held in Calcutta, Rs. 3,03,95,011.

MR. D. CUNLIFFE, magistrate and collector of Rajshahye, will proceed shortly to England, on account of ill-health. Two members of the Civil Service, Messrs. H. C. Richardson and Henry Muspratt, are spoken of as likely to succeed Mr. Cunliffe.

MR. R. N. SHORE, Commissioner of the Cuttack Division, has applied to the local Government for three months' leave of absence. It is believed that Mr. Alexander, the Civil and Sessions Judge of Cuttack, will officiate for Mr. Shore during his absence.

RAIN IN THE PUNJAB.—Of the thirty-two districts which form the Punjab, rain fell only in four during the month of October. Although the fall in these districts was very small, yet, according to the Lahore Chronicle, it has proved beneficial. In Lahore itself not a single drop of rain has fallen since the 22nd of August.

ODH COMMISSION.—It is confidently reported that Mr. C. J. Wingfield, chief commissioner, retires early in January. His withdrawal from active service in India is said to be greatly accelerated by the Viceroy's disapproval of the general policy of his administration.

MAJOR GENERAL CUNNINGHAM, the archaeologist, after a tour through Rajpootana, will return to Agra at once, as great sickness has occurred in his camp, and the General has himself suffered from repeated attacks of fever.

COLONEL TAYLOR, C.B., formerly Political Agent of Jeypore, who has lately returned from furlough, will officiate as Political Agent at Palunpore during the absence of Major Arthur, who is about to proceed to England.

GREAT SICKNESS is said to be prevalent in H.M.'s 36th and 107th Regiments, because the instructions of the Medical Authorities, relative to the supervision of the Cyprians who are generally attached to European corps, have not been attended to.

COLONEL R. TAYLOR, now on his way from England, will succeed Sir Herbert Edwardes as Commissioner of Umballa. Sir H. Edwardes will shortly leave India for home.

OPIUM SALE.—The following are the results of the Government opium sale, held in Calcutta Dec. 14:—

MADRAS.

MISCELLANEOUS.

SIR COLLEY SCOTLAND, the Chief Justice of the Madras High Court, has again been appointed Vice-Chancellor of the Madras University.

RIOTS AT HYDERABAD.—There has been a riot between the Post Office establishment and the soldiers of the Nawab, in which arms were employed on both sides; several men being wounded belonging to each party. The British authorities have sent in a solemn complaint to the Nawab's Government, and the Nawab's Government have sent an equally solemn complaint to the British authorities.

A VEXATIOUS ORDER.—The Madras Government has passed an order directing that officers on sick leave at Ootacamund shall be reported on every month by the medical officers in charge, as to whether they are convalescent, or otherwise improving in health; with what object it is hard to surmise. The rule has certainly an ugly aspect, as if some flagrant case had come to light of downright malingering which it was impossible to overlook. But there is a grave contravention of principle in troubling a man during the term of a leave formally granted to him.

KAMPTEE SCANDALS.—A writer in Nagpore says.—Kamptee is likely to become as famous as Mhow for its courts of inquiry and courts-martial. No less than three courts of inquiry have been sitting during the last fortnight. Captain Ferrers, of the 3rd Madras Cavalry, was put under arrest, having been accused by Lieutenant Hayes, of the Royal Artillery, of running a horse in a race other than that which Captain Ferrers named to run in a match against Lieutenant Hayes's horse. I shall send you, shortly, full particulars of these extraordinary proceedings; meanwhile Captain Ferrers has been completely exonerated by the Brigadier-general of any ungentlemanly conduct, whilst Lieutenant Hayes and Lieutenant Knox, of the Royal Artillery, both come in for severe wiggings. Major Grant was put under arrest for having partaken too freely of Mr. Exshaw's vintage, and in consequence he has sent in his papers, and retires on his pension. Captain Martin, commanding a battery of artillery in the station, is under arrest for repudiating some notes of hand which were presented by a sowkar, a receipt of money due to him by Captain Martin at the last court of requests. Captain Martin brings witnesses to prove the notes are not in his handwriting, while the Sowkar calls witnesses to prove they are in the Captain's handwriting. Here the matter rests at present.—Hurkaru, Dec. 14.

SALE OF YOUNG GIRLS.—The practice of selling young girls for the Zenanas of the great men of Hyderabad, and as slaves, is still continued in the provinces of Hyderabad. Mr. Yule is making great efforts to stop the practice in the assigned districts. In a case brought to his notice, a woman was sentenced to four months' imprisonment for offering a child for sale.

THE HON. MR. MALTBY, Member of the Council of His Excellency the Governor of Madras, is permitted to resign from the 16th December.

A FORGERY ON THE AGRA BANK IN BOMBAY.—The Bombay Gazette informs us that an information was laid before H. E. Leeke, Esq., at the Fort Police Office, by Mr. Flinders, Manager of the Agra Bank, against one Philip Rivington, a respectable and gentlemanly looking European, charging him with forgery, in having signed the name of Percy Leith to a receipt for Rs. 5,000. It appears that the prisoner proceeded to the Agra Bank, sent up his card, and saw Mr. Flinders, of whom he requested the loan of Rs. 5,000, saying he would give Mr. Percy Leith as security. Mr. Flinders stated that on that condition he had no objection. The prisoner went away and returned in a short time, with the usual receipt made out, and purporting to be signed with the autograph of Mr. Leith; at the same time saying he wished to have the money deposited with the Bank in his name, which was done, and a cheque-book presented to him. After the prisoner's departure it struck Mr. Flinders as being very strange that, knowing Mr. Leith as he did, that gentleman had sent no introductory letter with the prisoner; and, his suspicions becoming excited, he wrote to that gentleman, asking him whether the transaction was "all square." To this he received an answer, stating that no authority had been given to any person to sign, or that he had signed, any such document. Mr. Flinders on this reported the matter to Mr. Souter, the Commissioner of Police, and had the prisoner apprehended. A cheque for Rs. 300 odd had been given by the prisoner, from the book he received, to Messrs. Watson and Co., and which, of course, has been dishonoured. The investigation of the case has been remanded, when Mr. Crawford, solicitor to the bank, will conduct the prosecution on its behalf.

THE POONA COLLEGE.—Mr. C. Oxenham, Professor of English Literature, left for Bombay on Dec. 12, to take a similar appointment at the Elphinstone College, vacated in consequence of Sir A. Grant leaving for England on six months' leave.

Mr. F. H. SOUTER has been confirmed in his appointment of Commissioner of Police.

PUBLIC INSTRUCTION.—In reviewing Mr. Howard's Report of Public Instruction for the year ending April, 1863, the Governor of Bombay in Council remarks that the report, although dated September, 1863, did not reach him in a complete form until July, 1864. It appears also that the report had been shown to Sir Charles Wood, who in a recent despatch expressed some surprise that it had not reached him through the regular channel. The clear and interesting details of the results of the year are satisfactory to the Government of Bombay, which ever since 1855 has been sceptical of brilliant success in the educational department. The schools have increased in number by 65, and the scholars by over eight thousand, compared with the previous year. There has also been an increase of ten thousand rupees in the amount of school-fees. The Governor in Council believes that the work to be done now is not so much to increase the number of the schools as to raise their character, and again expresses his approbation of the system of "payment by results." His Excellency concludes his review of the report by an expression of his high appreciation of the labours of the Director of Public Instruction, "which have so often merited and received the acknowledgment of Government."

THE BOMBAY UNIVERSITY.—Out of the 244 candidates who presented themselves at the Matriculation Examination of the Bombay University 109 have passed their examinations successfully. Among those who thus presented themselves 14 were from the Elphinstone College; 1 from the Elphinstone College and the Government Law School; 21 from the Elphinstone Institution; 5 from the Sir Jamsetjee Jejeebhoy Parsee Benevolent Institution; 6 from the Free General Assembly's Institution; 1 from the General Assembly's Institution, 1 from the Prabhu Seminary, 15 from the Poona College; 14 Poona High School; 3 Poona Mission School; 7 Poona Mission Institution; 1 Poona Vernacular College; 1 Poona Engineering School; 10 Surat High School; 3 Ahmedabad High School; 1 Broach Government English School; and 4 private tuition. Among these successful candidates we observe that the majority are Hindoos.

ON THE ABOLITION OF GRAND JURIES.—Sir Mathew Sausse, the Chief Justice of the Bombay High Court, in his charge to the Grand Jury, at the opening of the fourth Criminal Sessions, on the 3rd of December, alluded to Mr. Maine's Grand Jury Abolition Bill. His Lordship protested against the constitutional and time-honoured functions of a Grand Jury being characterised as "an obstruction to the administration of justice." He entertained a different opinion, and believed that before the change contemplated by the Bill shall take place, "the Imperial Parliament will be called upon to declare how far it is willing that British born subjects should, in the Queen's Indian dominions, be deprived of a privilege they possess as their undoubted birth right in the United Kingdom."

BOMBAY IN COURSE OF RE-CONSTRUCTION.—Both the fort and the native town present the appearance of a place in a state of siege, the roads in all directions being cut up either for laying gas pipes or for works in connection with the main drainage scheme. Blasting operations are likewise going on in all directions, and one can scarcely move along the public thoroughfares without encountering fragments of stone, more or less weighty, in somewhat dangerous proximity to our heads. In a short time we shall doubtless be rid of the gas pipe nuisance, and then we may hope to reap the advantage of all the inconvenience we have been subjected to while things were in a transition state.

COMMERCIAL BANK OF INDIA.—From and after the 1st January, the business of the Commercial Bank of India will be carried on under the title of the Commercial Bank Corporation of India and the East.

GUZERAT.—The Bombay Government is enabled to publish some most cheering intelligence with regard to the anticipated famine in Guzerat. Hopes are now entertained that although the failure, especially of the rice, is most serious, yet it will not amount to a general famine. In some of the districts where water was most wanted, rain has providentially fallen. There is now a prospect of a rubbee crop, and of the tanks being at all events one quarter full, in places in which before this rainfall there was no hope of a cold weather crop, and every prospect of the cattle dying for want of water. On the whole, although the crops have not so entirely and universally failed that a famine is to be apprehended, yet the prices of all kinds of grain are so high that the greatest want prevails among the poorer classes of the non-agricultural population.

FICTITIOUS PROSPERITY.—The boasted prosperity of Bombay has, according to the Mercantile Observer, a very limited application. The only thing the said prosperity has done has been to make men already wealthy, richer still. For two hundred years the condition of Europeans has not been such as it is now, and Englishmen are seen daily about Bombay whose outward appearance and misery is a disgrace to them and their countrymen. Country, and even race, seem to have been lost sight of by the European community; money is the god to which everything is sacrificed.

GROUNDLESS ALARM.—We are told by the Sindian that some evil-disposed individuals spread the report among the native community that a cyclone would visit Kurrachee on Tuesday, the 28th of November, when, it was feared a bore wave would rush in at about seven o'clock in the evening, and put the place under water. A panic was the consequence, and over 2,000 people abandoned the town and camp, some for Kotree and Hyderabad; but the greater number for the shrine at Mugger Peer and the surrounding hills, from which it is hoped they will return wiser, though poorer, men than when they "skekaddled."

MILITARY STAFF BUILDINGS.—The buildings in Churchgate-street, so long known as the Military Staff Buildings, and which were disposed of a few months since, are now in course of demolition; their removal will tend very materially to improve the approach to the Elphinstone Circle from the westward, and when the new erections, on the present site are completed along with the Circle itself, Bombay will have taken the first step in the direction of architectural improvement, which has long been considered necessary by the more enlightened portion of her thriving community.

GOVERNMENT CONCESSIONS.—A notification has been issued from the Public Works Department, that under instructions from her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for India, the maximum concessions that will be made to companies undertaking, with the approval of Government, new lines of railway in India, are as follows:—£100 per mile for 20 years, and an additional £100 a-year for the same period in respect of every £10,000 expended on large bridges, or other works of an exceptionally costly description.

BYCULLA CLUB.—The members of the Byculla Club gave a dinner on Monday evening (19th Dec.) to Admiral King, C.B., and the officers of the Royal Navy ships now in port. About 120 gentlemen were present. The Hon. Mr. W. E. Frere presided, and Sir William Mansfield (who returned thanks for the army) and most of the other celebrities of Bombay were present.

LOSS OF THE HYDASPE.—The Hydaspe, belonging to the Messageries Impériales, is a total loss on the Pan Shoal at the entrance of the Straits of Rhio. This vessel was on her first voyage from Singapore to Batavia.

NATIVES GOING TO ENGLAND.—Sir Alexander Grant, of the Bombay Educational Department, is proceeding to Europe accompanied by three native pupils, Mr. Perozsha Merwanji, B.A., to study law on Hon'ble Rustunji's foundation; Mr. Hormusji Wadia, under-graduate, to learn the same profession on his private means; and Mr. Hormusji Ruttonji Shroff, B.A., to join the firm of Messrs. Dadabhai Naoroji and Co., on a salary of Rs. 300 a month with eventual prospects of membership in the firm.

FLOGGING.—The Government of Bombay has determined that the punishment of flogging shall be inflicted in that Presidency with the cat-o'-nine tails of the size and description used in the army. The punishment is to be inflicted on the back, across the shoulders. Both the instrument used, and the mode of infliction are much inferior to the method employed in Bengal, where the common rattan does all that is necessary.

LIFE IN INDIA.—The Chief Engineer in Scinde, Colonel Tremenhoe, C.B., had to leave Kotree lately on duty in the interior. His baggage, personal, we presume, had to be carried by fifty camels, a striking illustration of the fact so forcibly urged on the Supreme Government by the Government of Bombay, that it was impossible for the servants of the State to live on their bare pay.

THE P. & O. S. N. CO.'S STEAMER Nepaul, which struck on an unknown rock near Yokohama, was successfully got off and reached Hong Kong safely on the 18th November. She was docked at Whampoa, and though the damage sustained was great, she would, it was supposed, be ready for sea in about three weeks.

THE SEASON IN BOMBAY has fairly set in, so far as the fashionables are concerned, though the weather, especially during the day, is anything rather than seasonable. The Opera has now become the acknowledged resort of all those who have any pretensions to position in society, and the band stand on the Esplanade is well attended by all classes of the community on those evenings when the Governor's band performs.

THE LATE MURDER OF A HINDOO MAHARAJ AT HONORE.—From a telegram received by us (Bombay Gazette) last night (19th Dec.), we learn that all the prisoners in the late murder case at Honore were acquitted and discharged on the 16th, by the Sessions Judge of that station. It will be in the recollection of our readers that the prisoners were defended by R. B. Barton, Esq., barrister-at-law, who was assisted by Mr. Hormusjee Dadabhoi, pleader.

MR. E. BURKE.—We regret to announce the death of Mr. Edmund Burke, Deputy Registrar on the Original Jurisdiction side of the High Court. The deceased died on board the steamer while on his way to England. The sad intelligence was received in Bombay by the last mail.

H.E. THE GOVERNOR-GENERAL OF PORTUGUESE INDIA has been visited by a very large number of the Goanese residents in Bombay, all of whom he has received with marked urbanity, and has in consequence made a very favourable impression upon the whole of the Portuguese community in the island.

THE COTTON FRAUDS ACT is working well in the cotton districts, and the proprietors of cotton presses in the Mofussil are becoming alive to the necessity of closely scrutinising the cotton that is sent into them for packing.

THE SCHEME OF RECLAMATION proposed by the Bombay Dock Corporation Company has been favourably received by the local Government, and is now merely awaiting the confirmation of the Supreme Government.

MR. J. P. HUGHLINGS has been appointed as Acting Principal of the Elphinstone College, during the absence of Sir A. Grant to England.

INDO-EGYPTIAN BANKING CORPORATION.—A new joint-stock company, under the name of "The Indo-Egyptian Banking and Financial Corporation," has been projected for the purpose of extending to Egypt the banking and exchange facilities which are necessary to the full development of the agricultural resources and trade of the country. Egypt has during the last three or four years been growing very rapidly in commercial importance; the country has profited hardly, if at all, less than Western India by the American war; the export value of the cotton crop for the present year is estimated at £17,000,000; English exports to Egypt, which have more than doubled since 1861, now amount to about £5,600,000 a year, and the trade between Bombay and Suez in the year 1863-64 was worth £10,000,000, being an increase of nearly £2,000,000 over the value of the trade in the previous year. Indeed, it is strange that, lying as Egypt does directly in the highway of the trade between England and India, with every facility for recovering the old position of Alexandria as the great port of interchange for the commerce of the East and the West, the country has not before this time been brought by the enterprising bankers of Bombay within the sphere of their exchange operations. The promoters of the new company are, at present, the Hon. A. J. Lewis (Advocate-General), Mr. H. B. Maculloch (of the firm of Maculloch, John, and Co.). It is also hoped that Mr. G. Taylor will be able to join the company as soon as he has been relieved of his duties in the High Court. Mr. E. A. Flinders, of the Agra Bank, will, it is understood, be the general manager of the company in Bombay. The promotion is therefore certainly not deficient in men of great banking experience and ability.

BOMBAY INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION.—Bombay has determined upon having an International Exhibition, and a company has already been formed with a capital of £500,000. The promoters have applied to Government for a grant of land and concession to carry out the undertaking.

THE CENSUS OF THE ISLAND OF BOMBAY, taken on the 2nd of February, has been published, and shows the population to amount to 816,562 persons, 530,450 males and only 286,112 females. These figures are believed to be very incorrect.

MR. SCOBLE, Chief Justice, has appointed Mr. A. R. Scoble, Barrister-at-Law, Registrar and Taxing Master of the High Court (Original Jurisdiction), in the place of Mr. G. Taylor, resigned.

MR. W. CRAWFORD.—The resignation of Mr. W. Crawford, as senior Magistrate and Commissioner of Police, Bombay, has been accepted by Government from the 13th Dec.

DR. J. PEET, Principal of the Grant Medical College, is allowed a furlough to Europe for two years, from the 14th January, 1865, under the new furlough rules.

CAPTAIN WADDINGTON.—During the absence of Mr. E. I. Howard in England, Captain Waddington, Inspector of the Central Division, will act as Director of Public Instruction.

DR. GIRAUD has been appointed Principal of the Grant Medical College, in the room of Dr. Peet, who goes home by the next mail.

DR. COLES, Secretary to the Principal Inspector General, Medical Department, will shortly proceed to Europe on leave.

EMPLOYMENT OF MILITARY OFFICERS IN THE CIVIL SERVICE.

Foreign Dept., Fort William, Dec. 5.

No. 1,484.

Extract from the Proceedings of the Govt. of India, in the Foreign Dept.

Read an extract from the proceedings of Govt., in the Home Dept., No. 3,189, dated Oct. 5, submitting, for future consideration, rules for the future employment of military officers in the Civil and Political Depts. of the Govt.

Observations.—The Governor-general in Council observes that under the rules laid down in the above communication an officer appointed to the Political Department must pass an examination in Indian History, Political Economy (Mill), Jurisprudence (Austin, Volume I., and Maine's Ancient Law), Wheaton's International Law and Aitchison's Treaties.

2. If he shall have passed in the first three subjects while in civil employment, previous to his appointment to the Political Department, he will, of course, not be required to undergo a second examination in those subjects.

3. As regards the native languages, an officer, before he can be appointed either to the Civil or to the Political Department, must have passed in Oordoo by the second or higher standard laid down in the Military Department, which appears to be for all practical purposes in political employ a sufficient test of an officer's knowledge of Oordoo.

4. The only point, therefore, which seems to remain for consideration in the Foreign Department is whether some further examination shall be required, and whether that examination shall be in some other language than Oordoo. The Governor-general in Council apprehends that, as regards political employment directly under the Government of India, the only other language of which a knowledge is essential for political employment is Persian. The Governor-general in Council is therefore pleased to direct that officers who may hereafter be appointed to political offices directly under the Government of India, or the Punjab Government, shall be required to pass, or to produce a certificate of having already passed an examination in Persian in addition to the examination in the subjects prescribed in G.O. No. 3,101, dated Oct. 5 last, in the Home Department.

Dec. 13.—No. 1,551.—Lieut. H. C. A. Szczepanski, apptd. in G.O. No. 1,501, dated Oct. 7 last, to be an asst. comr. of the 2nd class, in the Hyderabad assigned dists., reported his arrival at Akola on Nov. 10.

No. 1,552.—Capt. W. H. Beynon, pol. agent at Jeypore, made over charge of his office, on Nov. 17, to the pol. agent at Bhurtpore, as a temp. measure, during his absence from Jeypore on duty.

No. 1,553.—Lieut. col. G. Verner, comr. of the Arracan div., in British Burmah, resumed charge of his office on Nov. 5 from Maj. R. D. Ardagh.

No. 1,554.—H.E. the Viceroy and Gov. gen. in Council is pleased to accept the resignation by Lieut. col. S. R. Tickell of his appt. as comr. of Pegu, prep. to retiring from H.M.'s service, with effect from the date on which he was relvd. by Maj. R. D. Ardagh, viz., Nov. 19.

Maj. R. D. Ardagh, dep. comr., 1st class, in British Burmah, to be comr. in Pegu, vice Lieut. col. S. R. Tickell, with effect from Nov. 19.

APPOINTMENTS—BRITISH BURMAH.

H.E. the Gov. gen. in Council is pleased to make the following promotions in the commission of British Burmah consequent on the promotion of Maj. R. D. Ardagh:—

Leave of Absence, C.S.

Dec. 16.—No. 3,980.—The Gov. gen. in Council is pleased to direct the publication of the following despatch from the Rt. Hon. the Sec. of State for India and of its enclosure :—

From H.M.'s Sec. of State for India, to H.E. the Right. Hon. the Gov. gen. of India in Council (Financial), No. 262, dated Nov. 7.

Sir,—I have received your financial letter of March 23 last, No. 47, forwarding papers containing the opinions of the members of your Government, and of the local Governments, on the subject of the rules for the grant of leave of absence and furlough to members of the Covenanted C.S., and I proceed to convey to you the decision of H.M.'s Government on the subject, after a careful consideration of the arguments put forward in the several letters and minutes which accompanied your letter.

2. In rule 1 it is laid down that when a civil servant, on taking his furlough, has declared whether it is for one, one and a-half, two, or three years,
"the term cannot afterwards be altered." This rule may be modified as follows :—"And the term can only be altered with the permission of the Local Government."

3. It was not the intention of Her Majesty's Government that preparatory leave should be withheld from an officer when about to take his furlough and the following rule may, therefore, be inserted after Rule 2 :—"For the interval elapsing between departure from station and the commencement of reckoning absence on furlough, and between the end of reckoning absence on furlough and re-arrival at station, the absentee shall be allowed special leave, calculated at the rate of one day for every ten miles to be travelled, except when railways or steamboats are available when one day for every 100 miles only will be allowed (or the time actually occupied in the voyage when its duration exceeds the time calculated at the rate of 109 miles a day), with seven days at the port of embarkation, provided that a period of three months shall in no case be exceeded, and that the time claimed shall have been spent bona fide in progress between the place of departure and the place of destination, and during that period the absentee will be entitled to draw a moiety of his allowance."

4. Rule 5 provides for the grant of leave of absence "to any place in India or the seas adjacent" for 1 month in each calendar year, without deduction from the emoluments of the civil servant taking such leave. The intention of the rule, as laid down in section XII. of the old furlough rules, was to provide for every officer having a vacation in the course of each year, but as it might occasionally happen that a civil servant would not be able to obtain leave of absence without detriment to the public service, and as it was desirable that in such a case he should not be placed in a worse position in consequence of the faithful discharge of his duties, the privilege was granted of accumulating this leave to a maximum of 3 months in three years. It was not intended that, by accumulating 3 months, and adding to that time an additional month without pay, which was named (with the view, as Mr. Harrington rightly expresses it, "to guard against accidents or unexpected detentions") as the maximum period in excess of the leave within which an officer must rejoin his appointment, he should be enabled to visit England, while retaining his office and full allowances. For such purposes full provision is made in the rules for furlough and for leave on urgent private affairs. Her Majesty's Government however will not object to omit the words "to any place in India or the seas adjacent," thereby leaving it optional in the civil servants to spend their privilege leave where they please.

5. As regards rule 7, the interpretation placed upon it by the Government of the North West Provinces is correct. The wording appears to be sufficiently explicit. When an "accumulation" of short leave is due to a civil servant, and only a "portion" thereof is taken, he may, with the permission of the Government, take the remainder at a subsequent time. A rule respecting the "accumulation" of leave could not be intended merely to refer to the division of "one month" into instalments.

6. In rule 8, after the words "on his return to leave," the following clause may be inserted, "For the interval elapsing between the departure from station and the commencement of reckoning this leave, and between the end of reckoning this leave at a re-arrival at station, special leave may be granted in the same manner as is authorised with regard to furlough."

7. H.M.'s Government do not think it advisable that the leave of absence on urgent private affairs, with retention of office, should be granted more than once, or that it should count as residence in India, and they must decline to alter rule 8 in this respect.

8. As regards the leave on medical certificate, it is very objectionable that civil servants should be absent from India for long periods retaining their appointments, the duties of which cannot, in all cases, be carried on with the same efficiency by officers who are only temporarily officiating for the absentees. As, however, it may frequently be of great advantage to a civil servant that he should be enabled to be absent from India for a second hot season, her Majesty's Government will grant to an officer, on the production of the necessary medical certificates, extensions of his leave, with retention of office and half salary, to a maximum of twenty months from its original commencement, provided that the total period of absence with allowances shall not exceed three years in all, of which not more than two years and a half shall be on half salary, with retention of office. Sections XI. and

XII. have been altered accordingly.

9. It must be understood that the new rules do not repeal those hitherto in force for regulating deputation allowances, and for limiting the period of service.

10. The modifications in the rules which are authorised in this despatch will render necessary an alteration in the numbers of the sections of the new rules, and I therefore forward a corrected copy of the regulations, which I request your Govt. to publish and bring into operation with as little delay as possible.

[Here follows the corrected copy of the regulations as published in India.]

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL.

SATURDAY, January 21, 1865.

THE TEA DISTRICTS.

HOWEVER wonderful may be the progress of the Australian colonies, even that of Queensland is scarcely more marvellous than the rapid cultivation of the wild districts of Assam, Sylhet, and Cachar. Only a few years ago, and they were all but unknown to Europeans. Covered with dense jungles, the favourite haunt of wild animals, they seemed unfit for the habitation of civilised beings, and were regarded by the Indian Government as an inevitable incumbrance rather than as "the potentiality of growing rich beyond the dreams of avarice"—to use Dr. Johnson's description of the coppers and vats of Thrace's brewery. To Mr. Cecil Beadon, the present Lieutenant-governor of Bengal, more than to any other public man, is due the credit of being the first to appreciate the true value of these outlying provinces, and to encourage the adventurous enterprise of European colonists; for in these high-lying countries it is possible for the European to settle as he would in Canada or New Zealand. The climate, perhaps, may be somewhat moist, and there is a lack of genial society; but, on the other hand, the country is not unhealthy: there is abundance of out-of-door employment, and the prospect of positive wealth within a reasonable space of time. These considerations have not been lost upon the Anglo-Saxon. Mr. Beadon's last Report upon the Administration of Bengal shows, as in a magic lantern, what fairy-like transformations can be effected by intelligence, industry, and patience. It is, indeed, no new tale. If modern Holland, or rather if the Holland of the seventeenth century, could arise out of the fens and marshes that once responded only to the whistle of the curlew, or the boom of the bittern, there is nothing so very extraordinary in the conversion of a hilly woodland into a garden of tea plants. In any case, the results are briefly these. At the close of the last official year there were in Assam alone 320 factories, with 27,690 acres of land under tea cultivation, affording employment to some 28,000 labourers, in addition to a host of clerks, overseers, carpenters, and contractors. The produce of these plantations is as yet comparatively small, though already valued at a quarter of a million sterling. In Cachar, again, 28,276 acres have been brought under cultivation, with nearly ten times that area now under process of reclamation. Upwards of half a million pounds of tea were gathered in the year 1863, while the crop of 1864 was estimated to yield 600,000 lbs., valued, including seed, at £165,870. During the last five years the annual expenditure on tea planting in that district alone has increased from £10,000 to £168,000. There are now about thirty European planters settled in Cachar, who employ upwards of 18,000 coolies, three-fourths of whom have been imported at the expense of the colonists. In Sylhet, little more than a commencement had been made at the time when Mr. Beadon's report was drawn up, but even then 2,320 acres had been planted out, from which it was expected that 80,000 lbs. would be gathered in the year 1864. The number of labourers was a little over 1,500. On the sides of the Darjeeling hills, however, 14,000 acres had been cleared of forest and jungle, and 9,000 covered with tea plants, which produced 83,459 lbs. in 1862, 156,430 lbs. in 1863, and were expected to yield very nearly 170,000 lbs. in the following season. Here, also, the work was chiefly done by imported coolies, of whom 7,138 were in constant employment. As this important branch of agriculture becomes more fully developed, the great difficulty will be to procure labour, and already much inconvenience has been experienced on that head, partly owing to the unwise antagonism assumed by the planters towards the Government. Whatever may be said to the contrary by the Calcutta correspondent of the leading journal in this country, it is absurd to suppose that such men as Mr. Beadon, Mr. Maine, Mr. Seton-Karr, or any other officials of real ability and experience can entertain any feelings of jealousy towards the non-official European community. At the same time their first duty is to protect the natives, not only against absolute oppression (of which there is very little danger), but also against systematic ill-treatment and abuse, which unhappily are of daily occurrence. Employers of labour do not sympathise with their workmen in India, even to the small extent that prevails in towns at home. They take no interest in the welfare of their people, nor trouble themselves to consult their wishes in small things, and so promote their comfort and cheerfulness. In short, they look upon their coolies as a clumsy mechanical contrivance, against which they are ever grumbling, but which they will not concern themselves to amend and improve. Had it not been for the interference of the Government, the importation of coolies into the tea districts would soon have degenerated into a heartless slave trade, and even now the greatest vigilance is needed to prevent the ignorant peasantry from being deluded by fair words and highly-coloured assurances, into abandoning their homes in the hope of finding a humble El Dorado on the slopes of Assam, or in the jungles of Cachar. The Anglo-Saxon colonist has no doubt an "indomitable" spirit and abundance of energy, but he lacks patience and amiability, and a considerate toleration of weakness and stupidity in his servants and dependents, and hence the necessity for the interposition of a truly impartial and parental Government.

ABOLITION OF GRAND JURIES.

A few days after the arrival of the last Bombay mail there appeared a very sensible article in the leading journal ridiculing the apprehensions excited among the non-official community of Calcutta by Mr. Maine's Bill for the abolition of Grand Juries, and expressing a hope that the next mail would "inform us that European residents have returned to their right mind, ashamed of their recent violence, and that Mr. Maine's Bill has become law without a protest." That hope proved both flattering and fallacious. So far from being ashamed of their folly, the non-official inhabitants of Calcutta, if the local press, at least, truly represent their feelings, have been seized with a yet greater rage and madness, and seem bent on rendering themselves the laughing-stock of all England. And not only has that very excitable public lashed itself up to a state of unreasoning fury, but it has even succeeded in inspiring its late censor and satirist with some of its own madness. India, we are told truly enough, "is passing through a period of transition." Old things are passing away, and being rapidly replaced by new. The old lamps, however, still give a strong clear light, and there are those who would not exchange them for the more showy novelties of the present day. In former times the Indian service was somewhat of a close borough. Military men and civilians were more or less closely united by blood or marriage, represented the same interests, and were moved by the same influences. The young captain of cavalry, for example, was only a Haileybury student, who had not shown himself quite clever enough to be a judge. And these governing classes were taught to look upon India as the country of their adoption, scarcely less dear to them than the land of their birth. The natives, though highly taxed (and yet there was no income-tax in those days!) were treated considerably, and even with deference. It was altogether a united happy family, until the apple of discord rolled into the midst of them in the form of a European adventurer. So great, indeed, was the antipathy felt by the Company for these unwelcome intruders that it maintained an enormous army of native soldiers rather than be more faithfully and securely served by European troops. Less well-informed individuals, however, than the writer of this ludicrous article have been found to assert that native levies were employed partly because they cost less money than Europeans, and partly because it was the safest means of managing a warlike population. And, further, it has been said that applications for a larger European force were more than once unfavourably received by the Horse Guards and the Home Government, and that it is quite untrue that any pressure was ever exercised upon the Company to receive into its pay a more powerful contingent of the Royal army. But what is still more strange and incredible is the grave assurance that even now the Indian Government looks with unfriendly eyes upon all classes of Europeans not in its immediate and permanent service, no matter whether they are English soldiers or independent settlers. A more mischievous and unfounded statement could hardly have been made by the most jealous and narrow-minded foreigner than what has now been published to the whole civilized world on the authority of the Times. The good intentions of the Home Government, we are further informed, are neutralised and rendered void by the passive resistance of the civilians. And all this arrant nonsense, all these wild fables, are given out as historic truths, because that journal chooses to draw its inspiration from an inexperienced young man, whose whole knowledge of India is derived from a twelvemonth's residence at Serampore, diversified by an occasional visit to Calcutta, and who, on his own showing, failed to discover any objection to the abolition of the Grand Jury until his non-official friends suggested that it was an insidious attempt to introduce "the thin edge of the wedge," preparatory to the repeal of Magna Charta!

Now, it so happens that this Bill, so far from being the outward and visible sign or expression of civilian antipathies, is founded on an Act of the British Parliament which contemplated the introduction into India of provincial Courts and Circuit judges, preceded by the abolition of Grand Juries. At first sight our English readers may fail to discover what possible connection there can be between these two measures. Why, they will ask, should Grand Juries be abolished previous to the establishment of a branch of the High Court at Allahabad or Lahore? The answer, however, is easily found: it is simply this. At either of those two large stations it might be possible to obtain a sufficient number of intelligent and wealthy Europeans to constitute a Grand Jury list; but these are exceptional instances, and even the opponents of Mr. Maine's Bill are constrained to admit that it is only for the Presidency towns that they demand the preservation of this wonderful institution. That admission destroys their whole case. If, as they assert, the Grand Jury is the palladium of the rights and liberties of English settlers in India, how or why can it be dispensed with by the dwellers in Oude, Scinde, Central India, or the Punjab? There cannot be two sets of weights and measures—one for the exclusive use of those who reside within a certain radius from the Presidency towns, and another for the more enterprising adventurers whose lot is cast further a-field. And it is the latter who, one would think, must stand most in need of this protection, deprived, as they are, of the safeguard of a vigilant and influential press. It is also worthy of remark, that the Grand Juries of Madras and Bombay have followed the example of their London brethren, and presented themselves as a useless encumbrance and a nuisance. It is only in Calcutta that the non-official community—who have hitherto grumbled loudly and incessantly against the annoyance of being summoned to act as Grand Jurors—have made the notable discovery that this inestimable institution is the only barrier they have to oppose to the arrogance and antipathy of the governing class. According to the Friend of India, the mere fact of the Bill being unpopular is an argument against its adoption, and one that ought to be respected by the Legislature. And so it undoubtedly would be if such a thing as public opinion really existed in India, or if the English residents could adduce any sensible reasons in support of their opposition. It is not enough for them to say that they have a strong feeling or decided views upon the subject, unless they can show that that feeling and those views are not the mere offspring of prejudice and impulse. The Friend of India, indeed, calls upon the British Legislature to set the example by doing away with Grand Juries at home, and actually seems to think that it has marked a great point in its own favour when it reminds its readers that in declining to accede to a proposed amendment of another Bill upon a very different subject, Mr. Maine himself remarked that any alteration should first be made in England. This is a fair specimen of the style of reasoning taken up by the opponents of the new Bill. But even if Grand Juries were found to be necessary in England—which is at least very doubtful—that would be no proof of their utility in India. It is, indeed, one of the mistakes that Englishmen never weary of repeating, that whatever laws and institutions are good for them at home, must be equally good both for themselves and their dependents everywhere else.

Again, we are told that an acquittal by a Grand Jury is a better proof of a man's innocence than if it had been established by a long and elaborate trial. It is nothing of the kind. It is only a proof that a good prima facie case has not been made out, which may have been owing to the committing magistrate's carelessness or incompetency quite as much as to the real merits of the case. No doubt it is far more satisfactory to the prisoner himself, because few men, liable to being suspected of a felony, can come quite unscathed out of a searching cross-examination. But it is absurd and altogether unjust to assert that a truly innocent man, the victim perchance of a conspiracy, has not better cause to rejoice over his acquittal by a special or even by a petty jury than if the Bill were thrown out by the Grand Jury. Besides, were that institution abolished, no comparison of the kind could be made.

The Calcutta Grand Jury cannot even quote its own antecedents in its favour. It cannot refer to any long list of improvements that have originated with its presentments. By Mr. Maine's showing, which is not contradicted, it has not even presented the nuisances of the city since 1818. The Friend, indeed, flippantly replies to this, that at that time these nuisances had not grown beyond all hope of remedy, but now they were so "inconceivably great," that a presentment would be only a waste of time to draw up or to read. Perhaps so, but would they have attained to such a "bad pre-eminence" had the Grand Jury done its duty, and presented year after year? The true purport of all this agitation, however, is disclosed in a letter addressed by Mr. J. W. B. Money to Mr. Beckwith. The handful of settlers at present scattered over Lower Bengal and its outlying tea-districts, have already begun to speak of India as a British Colony, and to look forward to the time when they will be in a position to demand what they call a "responsible government"—probably meaning a representative government. Should that hour ever strike upon the horologe of time, it will be the knell of British supremacy in the East. In their own defence the natives will be compelled to rise and throw off the intolerable yoke, rather than consent to become hewers of wood and drawers of water. The non-official residents of Calcutta resemble the English settlers in China and Japan, against whom the Times is ever ready to lift up its powerful voice. They care nothing for the natives of the country, and very little for public opinion at home. Their only object is to accumulate money as rapidly as possible, and whoever would place an obstacle in their path, though in defence of justice and humanity, is pronounced an enemy of the human race. The Indian Government, we trust, will remain firm and unmoved by this wild unreasoning clamour. It cannot afford to part with a tittle of its despotic power. If once it allows itself to be swayed by pressure from without, it may as well lay down its insignia of office, and confess itself the mere executive and instrument of the Landholders' Association.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE MAHARAJAH DHULEEP SINGH.—His Highness the Maharajah Dhuleep Singh, accompanied by the Maharanee, has left Elveden, Norfolk, for Egypt. His Highness is expected to pass the winter in the East.

SPECIE TO THE EAST.—The specie taken by the Bombay mail steamer Syria amounts to £220,640, of which £14,000 in gold is for Alexandria, and £4,140 in gold and £202,500 in silver for Bombay.—The India and China mail steamer Poonah takes out specie to the value of £86,441, to be distributed as follows—viz., for Alexandria, £17,500; and for Madras, £561 in gold; and for China and the Straits, £2,000 in gold, and £66,380 in silver.

DARJEELING TEA COMPANY.—A prospectus has been issued of the Darjeeling Company, with a capital of £250,000, of which £150,000 is to be first subscribed in shares of £20. The object is to purchase two tea estates in the district of Darjeeling, containing 9,578 acres, of which 2,088 are under cultivation, the principal portion having been planted in 1862. The price to be paid is £200,000, half in cash and half in shares.

THE MAILS, &c.—SOUTHAMPTON, Jan. 12.—The Peninsular and Oriental Company's steamship Syria, Captain A. Parish, sailed hence to-day for Gibraltar, Malta, and Alexandria, with the Mediterranean and Bombay mails, a full cargo, and specie, jewelry, &c., value £221,739. 6s., viz.:—For Alexandria, sovereigns, £14,000; watches, £470. For Bombay, gold coin, £4,140; bar silver, £183,800; silver coin, £18,700; gold thread, watches, and jewelry, £629. 6s. The Syria takes out forty-one first and forty second-class passengers, and forty proceed by the corresponding steamer from Marseilles, making a total of 121. Among them are Ensign Lord G. F. Hamilton and Lieut. Molyneux, for Gibraltar; Colonel Donovan, for Malta; Earl Dudley, for Alexandria; Captain Warden, Captain and Mrs. Kirkpatrick, Major and Mrs. Penton, Colonel Smythe, Rev. A. and Mrs. Robinson, Lieut. Pigott, Captain and Mrs. Hancock, and Captain Hanson, for Bombay, &c.

THE MAILS, &c.—SOUTHAMPTON, Jan. 20.—The Peninsular and Oriental Company's steamship Poonah, Captain Field, sailed hence to-day at three P.M. with the mails for Gibraltar, the Mediterranean, Egypt, Aden, Ceylon, India, China, Australia, and New Zealand. She took out 100 first and 35 second-class passengers, and on freight 296 boxes specie, value £93,272. The Poonah also took out a full cargo of general merchandise, principally Manchester goods. Amongst the passengers by this mail are Lieutenants Jolliffe, Tucker, and Hall, R.N., Major Cookson, Major Radcliffe, Lieutenant Holdich, Surgeon Reade, Dr. Chase, Lieutenant Robertson, Surgeon Hannan, Lieutenant Campbell, Rev. Mr. Owen, Lieut.-Colonel Tooke, and Captains Morris, Ward, Reade, and Millett.

BILLS ON INDIA.—The biddings for £300,000 in bills on India took place at the Bank of England on Wednesday, Jan. 18th. The proportions allotted were—to Calcutta, £165,000; to Bombay, £120,000; and to Madras, £10,100. The minimum price was as before, 1s. 11½d. on Calcutta and Madras, and 1s. 11½d. on Bombay. Tenders on Calcutta and Madras at 1s. 11½d. will receive in full, and on Bombay at 1s. 11½d. about 13 per cent. Above these prices in full. The results indicate a diminution in the demand for bills both for Calcutta and Bombay.

CONSULAR APPOINTMENTS.—The Queen has been graciously pleased to appoint T. G. Knox, Esq., to be her Majesty's Consul at Bangkok, in Siam. The Queen has also been pleased to approve of M. Henri Du Chesne as Consul at Hong Kong for his Majesty the Emperor of the French.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT and PILLS.

—THE KNIFE SUPERSEDED.—All afflicted with ulcers, diseases of the bone, or inflammation of the joints, should read this testimonial to the curative powers of these healing and purifying remedies:—"Mr. John Allen, 17, Denmark-street, Leicester, suffered severely from a bad foot for three years, during which long period he was under surgical treatment without any perceptible benefit. He resolutely objected to amputation, which seemed the only course open, till he providentially tried Holloway's remedies; these gave him great relief, and at last completely cured him. Spots, blotches, sores, and skin diseases, arising from impoverished blood or a reckless course of life, may be removed by the judicious use of Holloway's Ointment and Pills.

WHITE'S MOC-MAIN LEVER TRUSS,
Perfected and Exhibited in the Great Exhibition of 1851, is allowed by upwards of 200 Medical Gentlemen to be the most effective invention in the curative treatment of Hernia. The use of a steel spring, so often hurtful in its effects, is here avoided; a soft bandage being worn round the body, while the requisite resisting power is supplied by the MOC-MAIN PAD and PATENT LEVER, fitting with so much ease and closeness that it cannot be detected, and may be worn during sleep. A descriptive circular may be had, and the Truss (which cannot fail to fit) forwarded by post on the circumference of the body two inches below the hips being sent to the Manufacturer, Mr. WHITE, 228, Piccadilly, London.

Price of a Single Truss, 16s., 21s., 26s. 6d., and 31s. 6d.; postage, 1s. Price of Double Truss, 31s. 6d., 42s., and 52s. 6d.; postage, 1s. 8d. Umbilical, 42s. and 52s. 6d.; postage, 1s. 10d.

NEW PATENT.ELASTIC STOCKINGS, KNEE CAPS,

&c.—The material of which these are made is recommended by the Faculty as being peculiarly elastic and compressible, and the best invention for giving efficient and permanent support in all cases of weakness and swelling of the Legs, Varicose Veins, Sprains, &c. It is porous, light in texture, and inexpensive, and is drawn on like an ordinary stocking. Price, 4s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 10s., to 16s. each; postage, 6d.

JOHN WHITE, MANUFACTURER, 228, PICCADILLY, LONDON.

NOTHING IMPOSSIBLE.—The greatest and most useful invention of the day, AGUA AMARELLA.—Messrs. JOHN GOSNELL and Co., Three King-court, Lombard street, Perfumers to her Majesty, respectfully offer to the public this truly marvellous fluid, which gradually restores the human hair to its pristine hue—no matter at what age.

The Agua Amarella has none of the properties of dyes; it, on the contrary, is beneficial to the system, and when the hair is once restored, one application per month will keep it in perfect colour. Price one guinea; half bottles, 10s. 6d. Testimonials from artists of the highest order and from individuals of undoubted respectability may be inspected on application.

Messrs. J. GOSNELL and Co. have been appointed Perfumers to H.R.H. the Princess of Wales.

DINNEFORD'S FLUID MAGNESIA.—

The medical profession for thirty years have approved of this pure solution of Magnesia as the best remedy for Gout and stomachic disorders of every kind; and as a mild aperient it is especially adapted for ladies and children. Prepared solely by DINNEFORD and Co., Chemists, &c., 172, New Bond-street, London; and sold throughout the world by all respectable Chemists. CAUTION.—See that "Dinneford and Co." is on each bottle and red label over the cork.

Quintessence of Jamaica Ginger and Camomile.
GINGER has long been deservedly known as an excellent domestic medicine, and combined with camomile, it is the most efficient stomachic tonic known, for while the ginger relieves the stomach from distension and flatulency, arising from impaired digestion, the camomile strengthens the coats of the stomach, and by that means gives it a healthy and invigorating tone. So highly concentrated is this preparation, it is unimpaired by age or climate, and well adapted for exportation. In Gout, Spasms, Dysentery, Cholera, or those complaints incidental to tropical climates, it is invaluable, as in numerous cases a dose or two has checked and frequently cured most alarming attacks. No family should be without it. Sold in half-pints, quarter-pints, and one-eighth pints.

Agreeable Seidlitz Powder, in one bottle, protected by a case, with measure and spoon included. The advantage of this preparation is the perfect combination of the solid ingredients of the Seidlitz Spring in one compound powder.

It is very cooling and refreshing, well adapted for exportation, or travellers by land or sea.

Aromatic Tincture of Quinidine.—For the prevention of Fever, Intermittent or Remittent Ague, and other effects of Malaria.

No person exposed to the influence or predisposing cause of Fevers should be without it, for it taken in small doses daily the system will become so thoroughly impregnated with its principles as to be rendered proof against all attacks of Contagion or Malaria.—Sold in pints, half-pints, and quarter-pints.

The above articles prepared only by THOS. WILKINSON late Wilkinson, Bridge, & Co., 270, Regent-street, London, W.

SUMMARY AND REVIEW.

As the news brought by the present mail from Calcutta is only one day later than that received by the last mail from Bombay, there is naturally but little to record. From Bhootan no more recent intelligence has come to hand than that we published in our issue of the 21st. The advance of the Russians, however, into Central Asia has furnished the local press with materials for composing sensational leaders, of which they have not been slow to avail themselves. According to the Friend of India, it is a mistake to suppose that the Russians have conquered Kokan, though it may be perfectly true that they have entered that country with the full and free permission of the Khan. That ruler, unmindful of the fate of the horse who invited the aid of man in overcoming the stag, is said to have been so ill-advised as to solicit the co-operation of the Muscovite in a projected invasion of East Toorkistan. That invasion has now taken place, having for its object the restoration of the ancient line of Khojeh chiefs expelled by the Chinese. The ultimate result of this perilous alliance may very likely be, as our Serampore contemporary confidently predicts, the cession of half of Independent, or Western Toorkistan, and the absorption of the whole of the Chinese or Eastern Provinces. The boundary of the Russian empire in Asia will then march with the frontier of Cashmere, and the Sepoy and the Cossack will be separated only by that narrow but mountainous barrier. In the general interests of humanity this is a consummation rather to be desired than deprecated, even should the misplaced zeal of subordinate Russian officials occasionally lead them to intrigue with our own disaffected subjects in British India.

We commend to the notice of our readers an appalling account, taken from an Indian paper, of the miserable condition of the peasantry in Lower Bengal. The distress of these wretched peasants dates from upwards of two years back, and may be traced to their own wilful neglect of the simplest injunctions of common sense. The Government has done all, and more than all, it could reasonably be expected to do, towards relieving the immediate necessities of the sufferers, and removing the primary causes of fever and other death-dealing diseases. But it has not been sufficiently supported by the native landholders, few of whom appeared to take any interest in the welfare of their tenants, while not a few have been found to ridicule the notion that property has its duties as well as its privileges, and have obstinately declined to assist in clearing the jungles and filling up the stagnant pools that breed malaria in every village.

People who are curious in collecting instances of singular coincidences may gratify their peculiar "humour" by making two selections from our miscellaneous paragraphs. A railway murder—and the second case chronicled in this paper within the last few weeks—is reported as having been perpetrated in a third-class carriage on the East India Railway, and, as it is supposed, in the very presence of several native eye-witnesses. The murdered man was the Gomashta of an up-county Mahajun, residing at Burdwan, and left Howrah by the morning up-train of the 18th December, taking with him a bag of Rs. 1,100, and some pieces of cloth. On the arrival of the train at the Bankipore Station he was found lying dead on the floor of the carriage in a pool of blood. The station-master sent on the corpse to Dinapore, where it was removed from the train, but no particular inquiries appear to have been instituted. A reward of Rs. 1,000 has since been offered for the detection of the murderer or murderers.

The other coincidence to which we have alluded is the fall of a part of the cornice of the new Post-office in Calcutta, by which six men were killed and a seventh so severely injured that he is not expected to recover.

So eager are speculators at Bombay in the pursuit of wealth that they have no time to consider what means are honest and reputable, and what the reverse of all that. Once every fortnight as the steamer from China arrives at Galle, the telegraphic wires are cut, and special intelligence forwarded to the ingenious, but not over scrupulous worshippers of Mammon. The Chambers of Commerce of the three Presidency towns have for once agreed to act in concert, in the hope of putting down this baneful fraud, and have offered a reward of five thousand rupees for such information as shall lead to the discovery of the offenders.

MAILS TO INDIA.

Mails to India and China, via Marseilles, are despatched from London as follows, viz.:—Those for Bombay packets, on the evening of the 3rd and 18th of each month; and those for Calcutta packets (including mails for Ceylon, Madras, and China), on the evenings of the 10th and 26th of each month. When any of these dates fall on a Sunday, the mails are made up on the following evening.

Letters and Newspapers can be forwarded to any part of India, via Bombay and Marseilles, and in most cases will reach their destination some days sooner than if despatched by the following Calcutta mail. The Bombay mails via Southampton, however, are no longer available for the transmission of Letters or Newspapers to the Madras Presidency.

Mails for the Mediterranean, and all parts of India and China, except the Bombay Presidency, are despatched via Southampton on the mornings of the 4th and 20th, or, when either of these dates falls on Sunday, upon the previous evening.

Mails for the Mediterranean, the Presidency of Bombay, and Upper or North-West Provinces of Bengal and China, are despatched via Southampton on the 12th and 27th of the month, except when these dates fall on Sunday, in which case they are forwarded on the previous evening.

A French line of mail packets now leaves Marseilles on the 19th of every month for Alexandria. Postage for letters and papers to India and China the same as is charged by the English mail via Marseilles. Letters intended to be forwarded by these packets must be specially addressed "By French mail packet from Marseilles."

From Ceylon we learn that Sir Hercules Robinson has accepted the governorship of that island, and is expected to assume office some time in April. General O'Brien, it is said, notwithstanding the impaired state of his health, will probably remain to inaugurate the new military system. The General seems to have had ample occupation of late, for, besides his official duties as Commander-in-Chief and Officiating Governor, he has been called upon to exercise a liberal hospitality towards two guests of high degree. These distinguished travellers were H.R.H. the Duke of Brabant, eldest son of King Leopold and heir to the throne of Belgium, and H.R.H. Prince Frederick of Schleswig-Holstein.

A private letter published in the Penang Argus gives a sad account of the destruction by the Taipings of the beautiful city of Chan-Chew, and the massacre of its 70,000 inhabitants. Great fears were entertained at Amoy of a similar visitation, and as it is a neutral port European intervention is not to be expected.

The Japanese have again resorted to assassination. Major Baldwin and Lieut. Bird, of H.M.'s 20th Regiment, have been barbarously murdered at Yokohama. We are indebted to the Japan Herald of the 26th November for the following particulars relating to this shocking outrage:—

"On the morning of the 21st November (Monday), Major George Walter Baldwin and Lieutenant Robert Nicholas Bird, both of the 2nd Battalion of her Britannic Majesty's 20th Regiment (two who, among all the respected and beloved of the officers of that regiment, had, by their gentle inoffensive natures and sterling worth, gained the foremost ranks in the affectionate regards of all who knew them), left Yokohama on horseback for an excursion to Kamakura and Daiboots. About half-past ten they arrived at Enosima, which place (after exchanging courtesies with other excursionists they met there) they left about twelve o'clock, with the intention of proceeding to Daiboots. The same night information from the district authorities was sent into the Governor of Yokohama, that two foreigners had been assaulted at or near Kamakura, that one was dead, but the other yet alive. This information having been communicated forthwith (about two o'clock a.m. of Tuesday, the 22nd) to the Foreign Consuls, Dr. Lindau (the Swiss Consul), Mr. Von Brandt (the Prussian Consul), and in various parties other foreign residents started, at or about four o'clock, towards the place indicated. Lieutenant Woods, with a party of mounted artillery, and Mr. Lachland Fletcher, Interpreter to the British Legation, being ordered to proceed there in all haste. A little after daylight they arrived at the 'three-fold road, leading from the great temple Hatchuma, where it divides into three smaller roads, one leading to Daiboots to the right, the second straight on to the sea, and the third into the country to the left.' Near this spot, and between a miserable ten-house and a hut for horses, two small sheds of mats propped up by bamboo, and disposed on mats laid on the ground, were found, most horribly mutilated, the bodies of the two unfortunate gentlemen; the pistol of one of them—one barrel of which appeared to have been recently discharged—by his side, that of the other yet undrawn from his belt. All the inquiries made by Mr. Fletcher failed to elicit any information. No one knew anything but that there the bodies were, and that one of the deceased—the younger one, who said his name was Bird—had lived for several hours."

The Indian Army and Civil Service List, which will positively be published on Monday next, the 30th inst., will contain the promotions in the three Presidency armies, substantive and by brevet, occasioned by the despatch of H.M.'s Secretary of State for India to the Viceroy and Governor-general in Council, dated June 17th, 1864.

THE LATE COLONEL PATRICK STEWART.—The death of such a gallant and distinguished young officer as Lieutenant-colonel Patrick Stewart, C.B., demands something more than the mere record of the sad event. Those who are well acquainted with recent Indian affairs know how great a career his early efforts promised, but the world at large can scarcely be expected to appreciate the loss which the service and his country have sustained, because his sun rose far away in India, and had not well rose before it set for ever. He was distinguished at Addiscombe, where he won not only the Pollock sword but the gold medal, as being the first and the best conducted boy of his year, and we believe he was the first who combined the qualities which gained those rewards in his own person. At the time of his death he was only 32 years of age, and he went to India when all was calm, but his scientific attainments and activity recommended him for various employments, in which he won golden opinions from his superiors, and when the mutiny broke out he was attached to the Telegraph Department, which, under Sir C. O'Shaughnessy, was then spreading its branches all over India. He was specially appointed to keep the column under Sir Colin Campbell in communication with the Government during the advance upon Lucknow, and he served throughout the first advance, the second advance, the siege, and subsequent operations in Oude under Lord Clyde, always displaying the same coolness, courage, and zeal which made him conspicuous even in such a gallant and distinguished corps as the Bengal Engineers. He was the first who ever marked the successive days' progress of an army by telegraph posts and stations, and his escapes from the enemy's horse were numberless; but nothing could daunt his spirit of enterprise and energy. Lord Canning, Lord Clyde, Sir James Outram, all those, in fact, who could appreciate devotion to duty, fearlessness, skill, and modesty, regarded him as one of the most rising officers in the army, and it was impossible to know him but a little and refuse assent to their judgment. On his return to England he was favourably received, and corroborated the impression produced on those who recommended him to the notice of the authorities at home by his aptitude for affairs and extraordinary intelligence. He was selected eventually to superintend the construction of the telegraph route to India, and made two journeys through Arabia and Persia with that object, in the first of which he returned home by Russia and arrived somewhat injured in health, and in the second he was arrested by the hand of death as he was on his way homeward. He died of fever at Constantinople, leaving many friends to cherish his memory and lament him. A keen sportsman, an indefatigable student, a naturalist, a soldier, unassuming and accomplished, genial and gentle, Patrick Stewart was a man to make and keep friends, and to make a name too, had he been spared, which would have made them prouder of his friendship.—Times.

BENGAL.

STATE OF BENGAL.

The condition of the native population in Bengal is such as to call urgently for the attention of Government. We are informed that the villages between Calcutta and Kedgeree, along the banks of the river, are in a most deplorable state. The native papers keep us well informed about the tyranny of English planters, but they are quite silent with reference to greater cruelty which is being practised by their own countrymen. A gentleman who went through a large portion of the suffering districts lately, distributing relief, states to us that everywhere the ryots came to him with touching complaints of the treatment they had experienced from the zemindars. "We do not want your money," they said, "but time to pay our rent, and that the zemindars will not give." Baboos who figure prominently in public meetings have refused to help their starving and houseless ryots in any way, and in the 24-Pergunnahs there are cases of oppression on the one side, and distress on the other, so inconceivable that they would be past belief, only that they are well accredited. In his worst phase the planter is a merciful man compared with some of these zemindars, for the planter is at least an Englishman, and not a coward by instinct, and a tyrant by nature, and a hypocrite by stress of both. "How could I act like this?" asked one zemindar of our informant, when the latter questioned him about his treatment of the ryots; "it would be against my reputation." Yet the ryots are driven out to perish in the fields, on which the crops are still rotting. Mr. Ashley Eden, who searches so carefully into every reported case of oppression in the indigo districts, might with advantage direct his enquiries into the 24-Pergunnahs. Our information comes, as we have said, from gentlemen who have been engaged in the distribution of relief, and it is very easy to ascertain on what foundation it is based. One fact is certain—the distress yet remaining throughout the flooded districts is very great. The loss of life has been estimated at no less than 60,000—upwards of 7,000 persons having been swept off the island of Saugor alone. In the Hooghly district there is also a really awful scene of want and misery in almost every direction. The magistrate of Serampore happened the other day to visit the village of Dwarhatta, in the Thannah of Hurrupal, and found unspeakable wretchedness and desolation. The epidemic fever had swept away whole households, or carried off adults, leaving only children to wander about the huts. The tanks were full of rotting vegetation, and the trees lay where they had fallen. On making known the case to the Relief Committee, one thousand rupees were sent, and with this sum Mr. Ryland has distributed medicines, and greatly lightened the distress. The ravages of the fever are appalling, or perhaps we should rather say they would be appalling in any land but India. The unhappy people fall sick, and lay themselves down to die without hope of help. If there happen to be a native doctor near, he refuses to visit them without a fee; and this world's goods they have none, so they simply perish. The medical men of Hooghly have been generous in going about, but the infected district is now very wide, and extraordinary measures would be required to do all that is called for. The fever is in itself a terrible one—even if it does not kill outright, it leaves its victims shattered so that they cannot work for months, or incapacitates them from future labour altogether. It is impossible to tell the extent of suffering which is going on in this one district alone. The missionaries, assisted by the Relief Committee, have done what they can to relieve it. But it is the barest truth to state that whole districts are at this moment being rapidly depopulated. In the Calcutta Gazette of the 21st December there is a report from the Commissioner of the Nuddea division upon the epidemic alluded to above. Mr. Dampier states that jungle has been uprooted, and lands have been cleared, wherever practicable. It seems that the cultivation of jute has given rise to much sickness. "The villagers appear to be in the habit of macerating the plant, in order to procure the fibre, in the nearest ditch or tank to the spot on which it has grown. The stench arising from this is almost intolerable." The natives, even in districts still healthy, show such an utter disregard of the commonest precautions that the difficulty of stopping the epidemic is inevitably increased. At Barrackpore, Major Sneyd states, "droves of pigs" are "fattened" on filth which may be good for manure, as our London correspondent "M." states, but which is not fit for the consumption of animals intended for human food. We warned the Indian public recently about this matter, and it is an important fact for them to consider that the pig of the country is the incarnation of town sewage. The hint may not be thrown away in the approaching Christmas time. Strange to say, in one of the villages which had been cleared to the largest extent—Kadhihatty—cholera broke out, and soon carried off upwards of fifty people.—Friend of India.

THE MARRIAGE MART IN THE OLDEN TIME.

Some amusement of a very unsubstantial character has been afforded to that portion of the community which relishes such things, by an advertisement which appeared in the three dailies, in which some disconsolate swain expresses his desire to do what Captain Cuttle called, enter into "a state of bondage." But although we are not inclined to follow the example of those who ought to have known better than to pen articles in connection with the subject, we are disposed to inquire whether the days of Stavorinus have returned. That quaint old writer, describing the ladies of Calcutta, in 1770, when they were both uncommon and expensive, says: "Domestic peace and tranquillity must be purchased by a shower of jewels, a wardrobe of the richest clothes, and a kingly parade of plate upon the sideboard; the husband must give all these, or, according to a vulgar phrase, the house would be too hot to hold him, while the wife never pays the least attention to her domestic concerns, but suffers the whole to depend upon her servants or slaves. The women generally rise between eight and nine o'clock. Dinner is ready at half-past one; but they go to sleep till half-past four or five; they then dress in form, and the evening and part of the night is spent in company or dancing parties, which are frequent during the colder season." Is it an easy question to decide whether Calcutta has changed since then? If we are to judge by the advertisement referred to, ladies must be nearly as uncommon and expensive as when Stavorinus uttered his lament. It is quite delicious to ramble over the chronicles of the days gone by, and laugh consumedly over such passages as the following, from Hickey's Gazette of 1780:—"In my last I sent you an account of the number of ladies which have arrived in the late ships; there came eleven on one vessel, too great a number for the peace or good order of a Round House. Millinery must rise at least 25 per cent.; for the above ladies, when they left England, were well-stocked with head-dresses of different kinds formed to the highest ton. But from the unfortunate disputes which daily arose during the space of the three last months of the passage, they had scarce a cap left when they arrived!" As may be imagined, in those days marriage was a matter of the very last gravity; and yet the demand appears to have been great, especially for Scotch girls, though why it is impossible to say, so that Edinburgh acquired a most unenviable title as a market for the Indian marriage mart. Matters have changed since then, it will be allowed, as regards the question of nationality, and in one other point also, namely, that the license of the Governor-general is not necessary now to constitute a legal marriage, as it was then. Perhaps we must add to the list that matrimonial notices are not written now in the following curious style:—"Married, last Saturday, at Cossimbazaar, the Hon. David Anstruther, a lieutenant of the Yellow, to Miss Donaldson, of that place, a young lady of beauty and infinite accomplishments." Perhaps it is a pity for amorous advertisers that the scenes which Grand Pre depicts are not now witnessed. "From a knowledge of this general predilection in favour of matrimony in India, the English, who are inclined to every sort of speculation, send thither annually whole cargoes of females, who are tolerably handsome, and are seldom six months in the country without getting husbands. These cargoes are impatiently expected by such as are tired of celibacy and on the look out for the arrival of the ships; they were eager, as in other places, for a freight of merchandise to make purchases of goods." The queer and quaint old records of those days, brown now and dingy with age, give us ludicrous pictures of the way in which these "cargoes" were beset by those who were "tired of celibacy," but how it came to pass that all the young ladies had come out to visit aunts, is a mystery we leave to the ladies to discover. It is clear that there must have been a great number of these old ladies in the land; the manner in which they and their nieces sat up nearly the whole night to receive visitors, and the agonies they suffered under the combined attacks of heat, mosquitoes, and tight lacing, are described with a quiet humour infinitely delightful. Our disconsolate advertiser must sigh for the return of the times when many matches were concluded before the third night of "exhibition"—(our fathers evidently went to work as if they were before so many redoubts which were to be taken at the bayonet's point), the queerest feature of which was that, on special occasions when matters were to be managed with a due and laudable regard to the decorous and the grand, a fourth night was allowed to intervene before the parties sought the Governor-general's license, which night was set apart for the banquet of bachelors from the interior! We suppose that this was a deeply planned device to make those hapless celibates weary the sooner of their celibacy, and to see them borne away in triumph at an early date by some inexorable Maecinger, like our erudite friend Captain Bunby. One of these non-descript residents "in the interior," moved perhaps by a keen sense of the intolerable wrongs he suffered, by the complete monopoly which the gentlemen residing in Calcutta enjoyed of the fair cargoes which the annual Indianmen landed, gives vent to his feelings in a few gushing lines in Hickey's Gazette, and winds up his pathetic peroration with the startling suggestion, that "gentlemen out in the provinces should apply to the Judges of the Supreme Court for an order of that Court, that an equal division of beauty may be made,"—adding that they "hope to have the support of Government in this their prayer, as remits are no less necessary than civilians to the welfare of the State." We are not in a position to state whether the brilliant idea travelled beyond Hickey's pages or not. But if it be true, as the same veracious chronicler informs us, that men old enough to make a girl guilty of a breach of the canonical articles were wedded to girls in their teens, with little or no attraction, and that it was consequently remarked that "Hymen in Calcutta is seldom attended at the nuptial ceremony by Cupid," these residents in the interior had not much to envy. Our ill-starred advertiser had also better take the hint.—Hurkaru.

THE EMPLOYMENT OF SOLDIERS ON RAILWAYS.

The rapid extension of railway enterprise in this country has produced a scarcity of labour, and railway companies are consequently very glad to obtain servants from the ranks of the soldiery. On this subject we have an important minute before us, by General Sir William Mansfield. The general question may be briefly indicated: is it desirable for the companies to employ soldiers? On this point there cannot be diverse opinions. The men are well disciplined, they are of good character, and ordinarily they make civil guards, trustworthy clerks, and the like. Does the plan offer any advantages to the army? That question also must be answered affirmatively. Our readers will recollect the publication of a Horse Guards' circular some months ago, recounting in gloomy terms the difficulty of obtaining recruits. It even went so far as to urge officers when on leave to "tout" for troops. Now, the great difficulty in the matter of recruiting was never experienced in the old local army, simply because India offered numerous prizes to the old Company's soldiers; these prizes could not be obtained unless a man had passed through the army. They have now been withdrawn, and hundreds of time-expired men have been sent back to England under the Limited Enlistment Act. The amalgamation of the Company's army with the Queen's has finally settled the question of a local army. Incidentally to the recruiting difficulty, we might remark that recruits could be obtained more easily if the standard was lowered. For Indian Service a small man is as good as a big man, and if the standard were lowered it would open up the service to thousands who are now shut out of it. It should be remembered, also, that we have now to raise double the number of men, by the same machinery as was formerly used to raise a limited Imperial army. But as the Horse Guards will not bear of this plan, the next best thing to do is to make the army as popular as possible, so that there may be no necessity to resort to the ignoble device recommended by the authorities at home this year. With these preliminary remarks, we invite the attention of our readers to Sir W. Mansfield's minute.

No doubt there are many officers who have a great objection to men leaving their regiments. General Mansfield evidently does not share in that feeling. The man who has completed his first term of service is very likely now to be caught up eagerly by some railway company. Both the soldier and the company are apt to forget that military service after twenty-one years gives a claim to a pension, and this ought especially to be borne in mind when the premature discharge of the men is sought for. On every ground such proposals should be discouraged, and Sir W. Mansfield does discourage them. At the same time he has pointed out a course by which the interests of the railway companies may be served, and at the same time the service will not be impaired. He observes that Government has a more direct concern in railways here than the Government has in England, and that therefore a system of co-operation with them might with propriety be introduced. "I should hope," Sir William says, "to see a supply of men, trained to habits of obedience and discipline, furnished to the railway companies under conditions which would not prejudicially affect the resources of her Majesty's regiments, while it would be regulated and gradually developed according to the growing exigencies of the railway system throughout India."

The next question, then, is how can this object be gained? Sir W. Mansfield declares it as his opinion that no inconvenience to the service would be caused by detaching a certain number of soldiers for employment by railway companies. Their names should still be kept on the regimental rolls and on the unattached lists, and the men should be subject to the same rules as others similarly detached for service in the Ordnance, Commissariat, and other departments of government. "We know," he says, "from long experience that the conduct of men so detached is generally excellent, the fear of remand to the strict life and scanty pay of the private soldier from the superior position and emoluments of staff situations being found with the vast majority to be an effectual guarantee in the motive it affords to prudence and self-restraint." So far there can of course be no doubt that Sir W. Mansfield is right. But whether this quasi independent employment would not eventually be productive of great inconvenience to the service is not so clear. It might not be so easy to preserve proper military discipline—and the selection of men for the coveted posts might give rise to much ill feeling and suspicion in the ranks. The employment of soldiers in the police in Bombay is scarcely a case in point, because they are still kept under restraint, and do not lose their respect for military authority. As Sir W. Mansfield himself says, "They are remandable to their regiments for misconduct, and are carefully looked after under the orders of the police commissioner." Probably something of the same plan might be tried on railways, but there is no disguising the fact that the men would have a much wider range before them—they would be left more to themselves, the supervision would be incomparably less efficient, and the opportunities for escaping detection would be much greater. If these difficulties can be satisfactorily arranged, Sir W. Mansfield's plan ought to be adopted. In the meanwhile, it cannot be too carefully discussed.

The railway companies are unquestionably great sufferers by the present arrangements. They go to the cost of bringing out men only to find that they fall into bad health, in consequence of their inexperience of the climate; or they take to drinking. The mortality among railway subordinates is very high. Petty native officials are abusive and rough to their countrymen who travel in third class carriages, and all this might be obviated if picked soldiers were at the disposal of the companies. The difficulty we foresee is thus alluded to by General Mansfield:—"It will be said by commanding officers of regiments that the superior emoluments of the railway would entice away all their best men, more especially the class of non-commissioned officers." But Sir William answers that the more numerous the prizes the larger will be the number of good men raised up to compete for them. This may be partially true, but it does not dispose of the difficulty in a way that is satisfactory to our minds. But for this the scheme would be a very beneficial one, since it would undoubtedly be an advantage to have on our railways, in seasons of trouble, well disciplined soldiers. "Times will occur," as is remarked in this minute, "when the defence of a station may be matter of prime necessity till aid can come, and when the old habits of the use of arms and of acting under orders for the combinations of defence may be of almost immeasurable importance." The rules which General Mansfield thinks would be sufficient to ensure the good working of the system may be thus summarised:—1. No soldier to be eligible for railway employment who has not completed his first ten years of service, except by special permission of the commanding officer—which, we must add, is not very likely to be obtained. 2. In the second period of his service the soldier may at any time be eligible for such employment, his name remaining on the rolls. 3. Commanding officers to furnish certificates of character, education, and health to the railway company. 4. Commanding officers shall be bound not to oppose their men who have completed ten years' service entering the employment of a railway company. 5. If the soldier is obliged to resign this employment through ill-health or other cause (except misconduct), he shall be allowed to return to his regiment. 6 and 7. A soldier discharged by the company for misconduct shall return to the ranks as a private soldier, whatever may have been his grade before, and be tried by the military authorities. A military staff officer should be employed by the railway company to go up and down the line exercising a proper control over the men, and to be the "authority for maintaining military discipline." It is plain that if this plan came into working, our railways could be much more efficiently managed than they are now. Whether it is practicable, remains to be proved.—Friend of India.

MISCELLANEOUS.

MURDER ON THE E. I. RAILWAY BETWEEN JUMALPORE AND BANKIPORE.—A murder, scarcely less atrocious than that of Mr. Briggs, has come to light, under circumstances very nearly analogous. It appears that the up-passenger train of the 11th Dec. left Jumal-pore at 10 P.M., and, as usual, the third-class carriages were occupied by natives, who were crammed into them to suffocation. On the arrival of this train at the Bankipore station, the station-master, perceiving an intermediate third-class carriage quite empty, had the curiosity to open it, and, to his astonishment, discovered the body of a native lying at the bottom of it in a pool of blood. A hurried examination showed that the body had received several wounds, one of them in the throat, which must have been the immediate cause of death. The station-master, not thinking himself justified in detaining the train, allowed it to proceed on with the corpse, and immediately telegraphed to the Dinapore station-master the circumstance above stated. On the arrival of the train at Dinapore, the corpse was removed from the carriage, and, incredible to believe, the station-master allowed it to proceed on without making any attempt to detain the third-class passenger train which, under the circumstance, he surely should have done. The magistrate and superintendent of police of Patna arriving several hours after, and, very naturally, remonstrating with the station-master for so foolishly allowing every clue to slip from the hands of justice, ordered the body back to Patna by the 12.45 P.M. down-train. Thus every clue to the perpetrators of this audacious murder has been so far completely lost save a Moha-jeiny letter found on the person of the deceased, which may possibly lead to his identity. It is worthy of remark that the railway ticket was no where to be found, the murderer having evidently taken it, to prevent the station where the ill-fated man entered the carriage from being known. It is believed that money was the incentive to this crime, but how it could have been perpetrated in a third-class carriage, full of passengers, without some of the occupants coming to the rescue of the unfortunate victim and attempting to seize the murderer at the next station is exceedingly mysterious. That the murder, however, was actually witnessed by a carriage full of natives is beyond doubt, hence the third-class carriage in which the murder was committed was found completely deserted on the arrival of the train at Bankipore, the occupants having done so evidently from fear of being suspected of complicity, rightly, or not.—Englishman.

MAJOR GOUGH, of the Hussars, now stationed at Meerut, has been appointed to officiate as second in command of the 13th Bengal Cavalry, at present under command of Major Watson.

PORT BLAIR.—A short time ago a meeting was convened by the Superintendent in his quarters on "Ross Island, Port Blair," for the purpose of taking steps for the establishment of schools for the children of the free and convict inhabitants of the settlement. The principal officers and inhabitants were present, and also several converts and Eurasian and native free residents. Major Ford addressed the meeting as follows:—"I find that we have in the settlement at present, twenty-six children of free European or Eurasian inhabitants, and fifty-two children of convicts; the parents of the former children, I believe, are well-disposed to avail themselves of the advantages that it is hoped the schools will afford; and the parents of the latter—of both boys and girls—have, with but one exception, assured me that they will thankfully avail themselves, as their children become old enough to be taught, of the education that I hope we may be able to commence imparting to them. Here, then, are no less than seventy-eight children, of whom twenty are of Christian parents, for whose education I am very desirous of making early arrangements. Of course, many are in a position to pay for their children's education without any help from the settlement; there are others, however, who, with small salaries, and some with large families dependent on them, are not, and it is for these I would hope some assistance may be here found. I doubt not but that Government will provide for, to some extent, the education of the convict children. There may be many, however, who, in these days of strong effort to extend the blessings of education, may be friendly to the cause of these unfortunate children, the offspring of convicts, to save whom from the fate of their parents, so far as education (the best preventive of crime) can accomplish such an end, is an object well deserving the sympathies of all connected with this settlement." The Rev. Mr. Corbyn then stated that he was most happy to inform the meeting that a school had already been established on this island. Mr. Hill, late Hospital Sergeant in the Naval Brigade, and subsequently in the P. W. Department, had been engaged as schoolmaster on a monthly salary of 60 rupees, and Mr. Green's and Sergeant Thompson's children, and a convict boy, five in all, were attending daily for instruction at his house, a part of which he had temporarily set apart to be used as a school-room, till the completion of a building promised by the Superintendent for the purpose. Having a large library of school books, embracing every branch of education, nothing was now wanting but funds to defray expenditure. The Superintendent in his circular on this subject had spoken of schools, and had therefore evidently in view the establishment of more than one school, and he certainly was of opinion that it would be desirable to have separate schools for the children of the free and the convict inhabitants; for European parents would naturally object to their children being associated with those of the convict population, apprehending moral harm from their companionship with the former. As the plan expanded, expenses would increase; even now, there were not sufficient funds for the payment of the schoolmaster's salary. Resolutions were carried in accordance with the objects of the meeting, and the plan, now fairly set on foot, is likely to be carried to a successful conclusion.—Friend of India.

HISTORY OF THE EAST INDIAN COMMUNITY.—We (Hurkaru) have been requested to intimate to our readers the approaching publication of a history of the East Indian community since the seventeenth century, containing some interesting particulars of their rise and progress, past and present condition. The work promises to be useful. The author is deserving of patronage, and we trust his intentions will receive the encouragement they merit.

INTRODUCTION OF THE SOVEREIGN AS CURRENCY.—The following is the explanation of the immediate effect of the notification relating to sovereigns, offered by Mr. Bullen, President of the Chamber of Commerce:—"It seemed scarcely likely that when sovereigns were worth as an article of merchandise more than ten rupees parties should be found willing to pay them away as currency at that rate, yet that was what had actually been done to some considerable extent during the last week. He believed the explanation of this was that the Government notification of the previous Saturday had been understood to mean, by the native dealers who were in the habit of buying sovereigns, that Government would in future supply those coins at ten rupees. In consequence the price, which before the appearance of that notification stood at Rs. 10-1-6, or thereabouts, at once fell to Rs. 10, and banks and others who had sovereigns to dispose of, finding they could not obtain more than that price for them in open market, paid them into the office of issue in exchange for notes. This might continue for some little time, but the ultimate effect would be to discourage rather than to encourage the importation of sovereigns, as bankers and others would be likely to cancel standing instructions for remittance in that coin. It was worthy, however, of remark that at the present price of standard gold, Rs. 14-9 per tola, a coin identical in weight and in fineness with the English sovereign could be struck off at the Mint at a cost of only a small fraction above Rs. 10-1, allowing a seniorage of 1 per cent.; but as the actual cost of coining gold was, he believed, only a $\frac{1}{4}$ per cent., an Indian sovereign at this moment could be coined at the required cost of Rs. 10. This measure had not, however, yet been sanctioned by the Home Government."

CONFIRMATION OF APPOINTMENTS IN THE CIVIL SERVICE.—We have been given to understand that the following gentlemen of the Civil Service are shortly to be confirmed by the Hon. the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in the appointments in which they have been acting for nearly the past twelve months, consequent on the permanent appointment of Mr. Charles Hallyburton. Mr. Campbell to the Commissionership of the Rajshaye Division; Mr. Francis B. Simson, Additional Judge of Jessore, to the Civil and Sessions Judgeship of that district; Mr. H. Baring Lawford, Magistrate and Collector of Furrudpore, to the Additional Judgeship of Jessore, vice Simson. —Hurkaru, Dec. 20.

AN ILLUSTRATED INDIAN PAPER.—We (Hurkaru) have before us the prospectus of the Illustrated Weekly Journal, the first number of which is promised on Wednesday, the 4th January, 1865. It is an attempt to supply a long-felt desideratum, and we shall be glad, therefore, to see it succeed. A picture gallery of these Anglo-Indians, who have made for themselves a local habitation and a name in this country will be an acquisition of no ordinary value. We trust that the enterprising publishers will not restrict their pages to the likenesses of the living, but will endeavour to secure those of the departed great. These, supplemented by graphic sketches of Indian scenes, Indian races, and Indian archaeology, ought to make the Illustrated Weekly Journal welcome in every house in the country. We have also the promise of a good letter-press, but the authors of this project may rest assured that unless the pictures themselves are of a superior character, no amount of good writing will support it.

THE "MATERIA MEDICA" OF CASHMERE.—Dr. Ince, who was deputed last year to Cashmere to report on its "Materia Medica," and furnish an elaborate report on the subject, more especially with reference to the use of wormwood in medicine, has been deputed a second time into the valley, for a more extended inquiry into the same subject.

THE A AND B BATTERIES OF THE C BRIGADE, Royal Horse Artillery, proceed to England. The Viceroy and the Commander-in-Chief have both issued highly flattering farewell orders on the occasion. The A Battery was formerly the 1st Troop, 1st Brigade, and the B Battery 1st Troop, 3rd Brigade of the Bengal Horse Artillery, and they proceed to England for the first time, under the operation of the amalgamation of the British and Indian armies. The career of these two batteries has been a long record of gallant deeds, and to write it would be to write the military history of the British Indian Empire. Of the old first troop of the first brigade, it may be said that a career begun with valour has been pursued with honour. The roll of its achievements may well challenge comparison with that of any artillery corps in the world. From Egypt to the Mutiny, the troop has been ever foremost, ever steadily raising the fame of the regiment to which it belonged, until the Bengal Artillery came to be considered the first in the world. Of its deeds in the dreadful Affghanistan campaign, Sir John Lawrence says that its heroic bearing acquired for the regiment and army to which it belonged undying honour. It must be a proud thing to receive such praise, and a prouder to have deserved it. Of both batteries his Excellency says he "loses the services of such troops with unfeigned regret;" a sentiment which will be echoed by the entire community. —Hurkaru, Dec. 19.

COMMERCE OF CALCUTTA.—The following figures will show that the value of the trade of Calcutta has more than doubled itself in the last ten years, and we have only to reflect upon the vast areas devoted to cotton and tea to form some idea of what the increase will be. In Cachar alone, we know that last year the outlay in the district showed an increase of eight lacs, or over 80 per cent. of the outlay of the preceding year. In cotton again, the figures are somewhat startling:—

	A. en.	Produce.	Percentage of increase.
1853 ...	11,35,668 ...	11,32,051 mds. ...	52 for area.
1864 ...	17,30,634 ...	19,48,966 " ...	74 for produce.

MEDICAL SERVICE.—Owing to the paucity of officers in the medical service, it was ruled by Government some months ago, that only one medical officer should remain in charge of a convalescent depot in a hill sanitarium on a staff allowance of Rs. 200 a month, instead of two assistant surgeons on Rs. 150 and 100 respectively, when the number of patients exceed one hundred. It has now been decided that the medical officers in charge of those depots shall receive a staff allowance of Rs. 150 only per mensem.

NATIVE EXTORTION.—The native subordinates of the vaccine department in Umritsar have come to grief, we hear, in consequence of their attempts to extort money from the parents of the children on whom they were to operate. They threatened to infuse poison into the arm instead of the vaccine lymph, and in some instances they operated in a way to place the lives of the children in great danger. The deputy commissioner is now investigating the case.

THE 31ST REGIMENT N.I., at Barrackpore, which according to the new relief was to proceed to Cawnpore, is to remain at the former station, probably for another year, in consequence of the Bhootan expedition.

THE TURNBULL FUND.—The friends of the late Colonel Turnbull, of the Engineers, are circulating an appeal with the object of establishing a fund for the endowment of scholarships in aid and encouragement of the education of the Jats, a people in whose advancement and welfare the deceased officer is known to have taken a great interest. Colonel Turnbull had himself made a commencement in carrying out such a project, by undertaking at his own expense the education of a few Jat boys; and he is known to have taken the greatest interest in the success of the attempt, and to have looked to the education generally of the Jat cultivators as an end of high importance, believing the men of this race to be possessed of qualities rendering them more than usually worthy of attention and consideration on the part of their British rulers. In this belief all that know the Jats will certainly concur, and it is the object of the appealers to give permanence and consistency to the educational scheme, which was too abruptly broken in upon by the death of its generous and amiable projector. Subscriptions will be received by Lieutenant Moncrieff, R.E., Saharunpore.

AN AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.—Lieutenant Murray, of the Rewah Topographical Survey, in a letter to the Government of the North-Western Provinces, proposes the establishment of an Agricultural College, in which instruction is to be given to one hundred selected students, in the different branches of theoretical and practical agriculture. Lieut. Murray thinks that the present system of Agricultural Exhibitions, which is becoming so popular throughout India, is premature, and that the natives are incapable of understanding or appreciating them. The Agricultural College which Lieut. Murray proposes, combined with model tuitional farms which would in time be self-supporting, will serve as a sound basis of systematic reform. The Lieutenant Governor, while acknowledging the merit of the proposition, thinks that the results proposed by the establishment of experimental farms are more likely to be attained through independent European agency than by any direct efforts of the Government. Normal farms may, when experience has been gained, be found beneficial to landholders, but now, even if all other objections were removed, the Supreme Government have expressed their unwillingness to connect themselves with experimental farming under any guise whatever.

ALLAHABAD AS A HALF-WAY STATION.—The 25th Regiment Punjab N.I., en route from the Presidency to Delhi, was at Allahabad on the 8th December, and was to halt there for a few days. The station was enormously crowded with troops passing through; the Bays on the march to Muttra; H.M.'s 55th Regiment going from the Presidency to Lucknow; four companies, H.M.'s 80th, proceeding to Darjeeling; the head-quarters and wing of the 36th N.I. coming down to Barrackpore; Sladen's battery of Royal Horse Artillery on its way down to Synthia, the Presidency, and England; and last, and most serious, a vast standing camp full of time-expired men, coming down to the Presidency, to quit the country and the service. These troops were all on the move through Allahabad; and the 25th Native Infantry was to have resumed its progress towards Delhi on the 11th. The weather at Allahabad is still warm, even hot at times, during the day, with cold nights.

VACCINATION.—Dr. Brake, at present in civil employ at Simla, is shortly to assume charge of vaccine operations in the Central Provinces. It is stated that Government have agreed to a scheme, drawn up by Mr. John Strachey before his departure from Nagpore, for the prosecution of vigorous vaccine operations under European supervision within the district of Nagpore and Chindwarra.

THE GORUCKPORE POLICE have been warned to hold themselves in readiness for service in Bhootan.

INSANITY IN INDIA.—A fanciful writer in the Hills, of Mussoorie, makes the following estimate of insanity in India. "One insane being assumed for every thousand individuals; and the population of Bengal, North-Western Provinces and Punjab at 100,000,000. Therefore the insanes of the Bengal Presidency equal 100,000, instead of 1,500 as before laid down on the mere strength of registration in existing asylums! The difference of 98,500, it must be observed, is based not on mere fictitious grounds, but on a scale coinciding with actual Government army records. By this scale we should be led to calculate the number of demented persons in the British Indian territories at about 135,000—in the following proportions:—

In Bengal and the N.W. Provinces	85,500
Punjab	14,500
Madras	23,000
Bombay	12,000
Total	135,000

Again, the population of native and foreign states, together, amounted in 1858 to 50,465,366, which (taking the same average), would give us, roughly, 50,000 more lunatics. We thus arrive at a sum total of 185,000 insanes over the length and breadth of the Indian peninsula (1,476,316 square miles). The same writer collects facts regarding insanity in different countries, with a praiseworthy diligence which shows how he grows enamoured of the subject. In England and Wales the proportion of lunatics is one to every 300 of the population. In France one to 795. In Norway one to 551. In Duke's Country, America, it is one to 159! The last fact is perfectly demonstrated by the war which is raging in that unhappy continent. Figures undoubtedly show that the ratio of insanity among all nations in the world is on the increase, and we can well believe it, considering how they are all going wrong from day to day. But it is also true that a great deal more of madness is outside than inside of jails and asylums; and that the former is much the more dangerous of the two."

EAST INDIAN RAILWAY.—The railways in this country cannot be said, as yet, to have had their utility in time of war put to any test that would fairly indicate its extent and value; but if we are to reason from what they cannot do, as regards conveying troops in a time of profound peace, we should not be very sanguine as to their war qualification, at least in their present single line condition. The headquarters of H.M.'s 54th regiment have been expected and wanted at the Presidency, from Benares, for a week past; but there has been no train available to bring them down, and Captain Sladen's troop of Royal Horse Artillery, en route to the Presidency, has also been detained at Benares from the same cause. We believe, too, that vast quantities of goods have accumulated at the stations all along the line of the East Indian Railway, insufficient means of carriage and the single line difficulty having brought matters to this inconvenient condition. In case of this important line of railway being required to-morrow for war purposes of any magnitude, it appears probable that all commerce along the line would be completely stopped. For, even in a time of profound peace, it is unable to contribute efficiently to the ordinary movements of troops in the busy season, and at the same time carry on its ordinary work. If, as we are glad to think, this speaks well for the prosperity of the East Indian Railway line, it nevertheless speaks badly of its efficiency and utility in emergency, and we should strongly suggest to everyone the advisability of doubling the line, a thing which must one day be done, and the delay in accomplishing which may at any time create serious inconvenience, if nothing worse.—Englishman.

MORE OFFICIOUS THAN OFFICIAL.—Our readers are probably aware that among those who were rewarded by Government, shortly after the cessation of the mutiny in the Upper Provinces, was Mr. Schilling, the Principal of the Martiniere of Lucknow. This gentleman received a grant of land of the annual rental of Rs. 10,000. When about to proceed to England, not long ago, he requested Capt. Thompson, officiating commissioner of the Khyrabad Division, to manage his estates for him during his absence. That officer consented to do so, and, we believe, fulfilled his engagement. This, it will be allowed, was a proceeding rather irregular in its character, and we are not, therefore, surprised to hear that the Governor General has come down on him with a severe wiggling, remarking that his conduct was inconsistent with his duty to Government, and that he deserved to be removed from his appointment of Officiating Commissioner of Khyrabad.—Hurkaru.

CALCUTTA CENTRAL AND NORMAL SCHOOLS.—The distribution of prizes at the Calcutta Central and Normal Schools took place on the 14th Dec. The Hon. W. Muir presided, and among the visitors were Lady Lawrence and her two daughters, and a large number of ladies and gentlemen interested in native female education. The Normal School was established some thirteen years ago, for the purpose of educating teachers, more particularly with a view to their entering the zenanas. The Central School was founded forty years ago, and admits boarders and day scholars. Both the schools have been amalgamated since 1857, and the Central School is now used as a training-ground for the Normal School, in which the pupils of the latter perform the duties of teachers.

FALL OF A CORNICE IN CALCUTTA.—A sad and fatal accident has occurred from the giving way of a portion of the cornice of the new Post Office building. It appears that the masonry, not being of the best materials, yielded suddenly, while seven men were working on the roof in adjusting the iron beam, three of which, with a great portion of brickwork fell, bringing down three unfortunate men and the entire scaffolding. Three men died on the spot, three others on their way to hospital, and as the seventh is also very badly hurt, we fear there is no chance of his recovery. The Coroner's inquest may discover carelessness somewhere, which will account for this very bad affair.

THE LAST OF THE MAHARANEE CHUNDA KOUR.—A contemporary quotes a letter from the Scindian, in which the writer states that he saw the body of the late Ranee Jhunn la burnt on the banks of the Godavery. The fact is simply this, that as the Sikh priests refused to burn it unless they were paid a lac of rupees, and as Maharajah Dhulkeep Singh refused to give anything like that sum, and as the Custom-house authorities voted the hog'shead which contained the "mortal remains" of the defunct lady a nuisance, both barrel and body were flung away, and rolled most likely to the bottom of the sea in the vicinity of Bombay Castle.—Hurkaru.

POLITICAL DEPARTMENT.—By a resolution, in the Gazette, Persian has been added to the list of subjects in which officers appointed to the Political Department must pass an examination. These are now "Indian History," "Mill's Political Economy," Vol. I of "Austin's Jurisprudence," "Maine's Ancient Law," "Wheaton's International Law," and "Aitchison's Treaties."

DEPARTMENT OF ACCOUNTS.—The services of Mr. J. L. Lushington, the deputy auditor and accountant, Bengal, being temporarily required by Mr. Foster, the English financial commissioner, Mr. H. D. Sandeman, the civil paymaster, has been directed by his Excellency the Viceroy to take up the current duties of Mr. Lushington's office, in addition to the work of his own office.

NEW MARKET AT KIDDERPORE.—There was a Masonic display on the occasion of laying the foundation-stone of a European market at Kidderpore. Thirteen lodges marched in procession to the locality selected for the ceremony, and there the stone was laid in a workmanlike manner by Mr. Sandeman, the Provincial Grand Master of Masons in Bengal, cups of corn, wine, and oil being poured upon it in due Masonic fashion. The new market is intended for the benefit of the Christian inhabitants of Kidderpore, Alipore, Cooly Bazaar, Garden Reach, and Fort William, and will be an immense convenience to them.

A ROYAL BIRTH-DAY IN SIAM.—The King of Siam, who has just entered on his sixtieth year, has been celebrating his birth-day in royal fashion. Illuminations and fireworks on a grand scale were exhibited to the people, to whom the occasion was a general holiday. A grand entertainment was given to the foreign community, at which, however, owing to some faulty arrangements, dissatisfaction was felt by the guests, and nearly all the merchants deserted what is described as "a rich and sumptuous banquet" in a body. The dinner given to the Bhuddist priests was not marked by any disagreeable incident, and some thousand of these gentry were fed by his Majesty in honour of the day.

THE BENGAL CHAMBER OF COMMERCE has issued its report of the meeting held on the 3rd Dec. One of the points alluded to by Mr. Bullen, the President, was that of bridging the Hooghly. He hoped no one was entertaining that scheme, "for he should have thought the late cyclone had demonstrated the great danger to which a bridge within range of the shipping would be exposed." Nevertheless, there can be no harm in making further investigations into the subject. Screw moorings for 100 vessels have been ordered from England, for the use of ships in the river.

TITLES IN OUDE.—The Chief Commissioner of Oude was instructed by the Supreme Government to investigate the claims of certain native gentlemen to titular distinctions, and the result, as confirmed by the Viceroy in Council, is now published. Nine Rajahs are allowed to keep their titles for life, one has got the privilege extended to his son, while fifteen are declared entitled to it in perpetuity. There is a Nawabship pronounced hereditary; and a Raiship expires with the present holder. Of the Rajahs, four happen to be Mahomedans.

CAPTAIN GRIFFIN, of the Bengal Artillery, who lost his life by the accident of a magazine blowing up at Dalimkote, had seen some service. He was in the trenches before Sebastopol, and commanded a battery throughout the late frontier war at Umbeylah, during which, the Mofussilite states, he rendered excellent service on several critical occasions. The Commander-in-Chief selected him for the charge of the Armstrong mountain battery with the Bhootan expedition.

A NATIVE TURFITE.—The Delhi Gazette hears from Nusseerabad that no little excitement prevails there, among the sporting community especially, owing to its having been discovered that the well-known horse Flea, the winner of several races on former occasions elsewhere, has been entered as a maiden in the Rajpootana meeting, under the name of Beauty, and as such has carried off the Joudpore cup, &c. Flea, alias Beauty, is the property of the Nuwab of Jowra.

TAMPERING WITH THE TELEGRAPH.—The Chambers of Commerce in Calcutta, Bombay, and Madras have agreed jointly to contribute towards the expenses of a criminal prosecution, in the event of the parties who have for a long time been systematically tampering with the telegraph at Galle, on the arrival of the steamer from China, being discovered, and for whose discovery a reward of Rs. 5,000 has been publicly offered.

TIME IS MONEY.—We hear from Lucknow that the petitioners under the late Bahoo Begum's Wuseeka have claimed to be paid according to the Mahomedan months, and that the Governor-general considers their claim a just one. There are twelve Mahomedan or lunar months and eleven days in every solar year, so that the Wusukadars will draw an extra month's stipend every third year.

WORK FOR THE LEGISLATURE.—At the Governor-general's Council on the 23rd Dec., Mr. Maine brings in a Bill making regulations for the management and preservation of Government forests, and Mr. Anderson introduces the Marriage Act. Mr. Cust will ask for leave to introduce a "Bill for regulating the judicial powers of the financial commissioner of Oude." This is the principal business to be brought forward.

ALL SAINTS V. THE SCOTTISH SAINT.—The Chronicle states that an abortive attempt was made to get up a Saint Andrew's dinner at Lahore this year. There was no want of Scotchmen, but some were keen, others lukewarm, and there was no unanimity. It has since been proposed to have an "All Saints" dinner. As this arrangement would include all nationalities, it would probably be successful.

THE REMOVAL OF DR. WILLIAMS from his post of Government Agent at the Court of Ava was not the work of the Governor-general, as some suppose, though there was more than sufficient in that officer's proceedings to excite the wrath of the Viceroy, but the result of the distinct instructions from Sir Charles Wood to that effect.

BOISRAGON V. MOORE.—The case of Major Boiragon v. Mr. Moore, of the Bengal Civil Service, for crim. con., was decided on the 22nd Dec. in the High Court. No defence was entered into. Damages were awarded to the amount of Rs. 5,000.—Hurkaru.

THE 40TH N.I., under orders for the N.W. Provinces, will probably leave the Presidency by the latter end of December, or as soon as it is relieved by the 29th N.I., now on its march from those provinces.

A MR. WALLACE applied the other day, we hear, for permission to supply the King of Ava with rifles, but the Viceroy has placed his veto on the application.

MR. THORNTON, D.C.L., has been permanently appointed secretary to the Punjab Government on Rs. 2,000 per mensem.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE HON. MR. MALTBY, who has so long deservedly occupied a conspicuous place in the estimation of the whole community, leaves us by the present steamer with his family, who—like himself—are universally respected, to return no more. Mr. Maltby bears with him from India not only an unblemished reputation in public and private life, but likewise the grateful recollection of all classes and races in these parts, that he has been for thirty-six years past a very valuable servant of the state; filling various offices, from the lowest to the highest grade of the Civil Service, and filling each well. His departure will be in every sense much regretted, but it fortunately happens that he has an able successor in Council, the Hon. Mr. Phillips, who has already won much honour, and will no doubt do much to compensate us for the loss of Mr. Maltby. The Society of Madras testified their respect for the latter, by entertaining him at dinner at the club a few days since. A large number of gentlemen, chiefly composed of the leading members of the community, were present, his Excellency the Governor heading the list. There was in the entertainment nothing which we may not safely leave to the imagination of our readers, except the unexpected and most welcome presence of the Honorable Shurf Ool Oomrah. It was the first time that we have seen in Madras a native gentleman joining in a dinner of the kind, but we heartily trust it may not be the last, and that our native friends and fellow subjects may always be equally fortunate in their representative.—Madras Athenæum, Dec. 27.

WASTE LANDS IN BRITISH BURMAH.—The question of waste lands in British Burmah is attracting the attention of the Government of India. Recently, upon an application from a Mr. Macdonald for a grant of land in the Martaban district in which that gentleman had discovered a kind of lead, the Viceroy decided upon permitting him to have the land on condition that he paid a moderate rent after a certain term of years, as well as a royalty on the out-turn of the mines from the commencement of the working. In the case of waste lands in Arracan, his Excellency has also determined to leave to capitalists the option either of buying waste lands set up for sale at the published rate, and under the recent rules, or of paying a small annual revenue after a fixed number of years, on the principle of the old rules.

THE MEMORIAL HALL.—We (Athenæum) are requested to make known that the Memorial Hall which has so long been under construction will be opened for public use at the beginning of the ensuing year. The first occasion of its use will be the Union Prayer Meetings, which will be held on the first week in January, and thus the inauguration of the hall will be very appropriately combined with a religious gathering of the most catholic character. The first meeting will be held on Monday, January 2nd, when an address will be given as part of the proceeding in relation to the hall. The second meeting will take place on Saturday, the 7th, when one of the prayers will have reference to the same. A collection after each meeting will be made in aid of the expenses that have been or have to be incurred for the platform and sittings. The hall will be supplied on the occasion of these meetings with borrowed seats, but it is hoped that a sufficient sum may be collected to supply it with sittings of its own for the future, as much of its practical usefulness will depend on its being in all respects suitably furnished and made convenient for public meetings. We trust, therefore, the collection will be a liberal one. A building of this kind, affording complete facility for public meetings, has long been needed, and will be of great advantage to the people of Madras. We hear that the employment of the hall is by no means to be restricted to meetings of a religious character, but that it will be available for all useful purposes. As a proof of this we are informed that the University of Madras has engaged the hall for the First Arts Examination in February next.

DEATH OF THE REV. S. NORMINGTON.—We (Bangalore Herald, Dec. 14) regret to have to record the death from fever of the Rev. S. Normington, of the Wesleyan Mission, after a very short illness. The rev. gentleman had been less than a year in the country, but during the few months he was, he gained the good will and attachment of all he came in contact with, and his death to all who possessed his acquaintance is cause for deep sorrow, and will be a loss to the Wesleyan Mission not easily to be replaced. He died at the early age of 25 years, and leaves a widowed mother and family in England.

THE REV. DR. WINSLOW.—On the 26th of August last we (Athenæum) noticed the departure of this venerable missionary to America, after having served for more than half a century in this country. He left in the Barham, and just lived to reach the Cape, where the ship arrived on the 20th of October, and we have information which leads us to believe that he died on the 21st or the following day. He was visited by the Rev. Samuel Hardey, late of Madras, and he recognised Mr. Hardey at once, saying to him, "When you were about leaving India I came and prayed at your bedside, and now you have come to do the same for me." He is buried near a child of Mr. Hardey's.

DEATH OF A KANDIAN CHIEF.—The Colombo Observer notices the death of the famous Kandian Chief, Deligame Nawaratne Attepattoo Wahale Mudianse Diwe Nilleme. He was one of the three chiefs who survived the ancient dynasty, and had held office under the late King of Kandy. When vaccination was first introduced among the Kandians, he was foremost in promoting the innovation, and received a gold medal and chain from the British Government as a mark of the estimation in which his services were held. At the time of his death he was in his seventieth year.

A LAMP-POST OF A MAN.—We learn that a man said to be eight feet high is travelling about the country. He has been drawing crowds at Kampotee and Nagpore. The person who gives the account had the curiosity to visit him, and says he is upwards of eight feet high, but a mere skeleton, and stoops very much, so that he does not look so tall as he really is. He must be making a fortune, for every one who visits him gives from one anna to a rupee, the natives as usual looking upon him as something wonderful.

FALL OF RAIN.—On a single day during the week ending the 20th of November, 9.35 in. of rain were registered in Madras. This was an extraordinary fall for the advanced period of the year, and such a down-pour has occurred on five occasions only since the year 1822.

BOMBAY.

SPECIMEN OF AN ABRIDGED CATECHISM FOR THE USE OF "YOUNG BOMBAY."

Benevolent Instructor: Come here, my young friend, and answer my questions boldly. What is the great object to live for? Young Bombay: Making money.

B. I.: Quite right. Now what are the best ways of making money?

Y. B.: There are very many ways, but perhaps the two best are developing the resources of the country, and being public-spirited.

B. I.: What do you mean by developing the resources of the country?

Y. B.: Embarking in a speculation that will return at least cent. per cent.

B. I.: And what is public spirit?

Y. B.: It is also known as "patriotism." It means making about 250 per cent. on the money you invest. Erecting some public building out of your profits is also known as "patriotism," and is not a bad investment, though the returns are not very tangible at first.

B. I.: When in these ways you have made much money, what are the consequences?

Y. B.: You are regarded as a public benefactor, and everything you do or say will be applauded. The representatives of H.M.'s Government will take every opportunity of expressing their high sense of your exceeding merit. People who now hardly condescend to look at you will attend your levees and obsequiously wait on you in the hope of getting shares. Every fresh investment you make will be regarded as a fresh benefaction to the public and as deserving the renewed thanks of Government.

B. I.: What, then, is the great practical lesson to be laid to heart?

Y. B.: That which Horace inculcated long ago.

Rem facias, rem,

Recte (si possis), si non quicunque modo rem.

By becoming wealthy you ipso facto become honourable, virtuous, and the best of citizens. Such is the opinion of our Government and of all whose opinion is worth having.

B. I.: You have answered quite correctly, my young friend; as you have learned your lesson so well, now go and act on it. The poor man only is an object of contempt, therefore avoid poverty by all means and seek wealth. Never forget this great principle, and you will thrive and be honoured by all.—Bombay Gazette.

MISCELLANEOUS.

NATIVE PUBLIC SPIRIT.—On the 2nd of November a meeting was held at Ahmedabad (Deccan) for the purpose of collecting funds in aid of the old and infirm in the city and suburbs. It was composed of European and native gentlemen; the proposition laid before them was to establish a fund for the purpose, consisting of donations as well as monthly subscriptions. One of the native speakers, in true Oriental fashion, threw political economy to the winds, assuring his hearers "that our comfort, wealth, and happiness are dependent on the poor, and as long as they are capable of maintaining themselves we are at ease, but while they are starving in consequence of the present famine prices of grain, if we do not pity them it is not unlikely that there will be an interruption in our comfort. He therefore earnestly requested all the gentlemen to sympathise with them and do their best in subscribing towards the relief fund, to alleviate their present calamity. It was, moreover, necessary to establish a Grain Company. He did not concur with Mr. Kikabhai, that our worthy Shetts would not willingly come forward as applicants for shares; they would, he hoped, cheerfully take an interest in a matter of such importance to the welfare of their fellow-citizens, and throw away all considerations regarding profit." Before the assembly broke up the subscription list was run up to 21,000 rupees, the amount of monthly contributions separately aggregating 1,200 rupees. A "loan fund" has been started, which, it is expected, will soon realise two lacs of rupees. The donations and subscriptions are mostly native.

FOLLOWING IT UP.—The Bombay Government is resolved to prove to the Viceroy in Council how unpopular the public service has become in that part of India, owing to the wretched manner in which it is starved. We hear that a circular has been issued to the heads of departments desiring information respecting the number of employees who have left the service within the past two years.

Under instructions from Horse Guards, Capt. E. M. Palliser and Lieut. W. E. Shaw, of the 7th hussars, are directed to proceed to England, at the public expense, for the purpose of joining the regt. depot.

Farewell Order to the Royal Horse Artillery.

No. 1,032.—H.E. the C. in C. has already issued a farewell order to the head qrs. and A and B batteries C brig. royal horse arty., but H.E. the Viceroy and Gov. gen. in Council feels that on the occasion of the departure for the first time to England of two batteries that prior to the amalgamation of the British and Indian armies belonged to the Bengal horse arty., the Govt. of India should not be silent.

These batteries were formerly the 1st troop 1st brig., and 1st troop 3rd brig. of the Bengal horse arty.

The former when only just raised, as the first body of H.A. formed in India, proceeded to Egypt with the force under Sir D. Baird, and earned for the Bengal H.A. the distinction of wearing the "Sphinx" with the word "Egypt."

Returning to India, the 1st troop 1st brig. served in Lord Lake's campaign of 1804-5; was present at the surprise of Holkar at Furruckabad, at the battle of Deig, and in the pursuit of Holkar to the Panjab.

In 1814-15 the troop served under Maj. gen. Gillespie against the Ghorkas in the Deyrah Dhoon.

In 1817 it was employed at the siege and capture of Hattaras.

In 1824-25-26 it served throughout the war in Ava.

Proceeding to Afghanistan early in 1841, the troop took part in some minor affairs, and subsequently, though perishing almost to a man, acquired undying honour for the regt. and the army to which it belonged by its heroic bearing under all the trials and disasters at Cabul in the winter of 1841-42 and in the retreat.

The troops served in the Sutledge campaign, and was present at the battles of Moodkee, Ferozeshur, and Aliwal.

It was engaged in several affairs on the Peshawur frontier under Sir C. Campbell in the year 1852.

The troop was at Jullundur when the native regt. mutinied at that station in June, 1857, and subsequently to that occurrence proceeded to Delhi. It was constantly engaged with the enemy until the capture of the city, and took part in the action of Nujfghur under Brigadier gen. John Nicholson on Aug. 25.

It marched from Delhi with the moveable column under Col. Greathed, and was engaged at Boolundshuhur, Allyghur, Agra, and other minor affairs, and subsequently, under Sir Hope Grant, crossed into Oude and relieved the Alumbagh.

The troop was distinguished in the operations for the relief of Lucknow under Lord Clyde, and afterwards served at Cawnpore and at Futtelghurh, as well as during the siege and capture of Lucknow in March, 1858.

Lastly, the troop was employed in the operations for the final suppression of the rebellion in Oude in 1858-59.

The 1st troop 3rd brigade was raised in 1809. It took part in the Nepal War in 1814-15, and served with the Grand Army in 1817-18, being engaged at Jawud.

The troop was present at the siege and capture of Bhurtpore in 1826, at Punnair in 1843, and in the Sutledge campaign of 1845-46, at the battles of Moodkee, Ferozeshuhur, and Sobraon.

It was attached to the Army of the Punjab in 1848-49, and was present at Ramnuggur, Sadohla-pore, Chilianwalla, and Goojerat.

During the mutiny one-half of the troop was engaged in a severe encounter with mutineers at Jhelum in 1857.

Brilliant as have been the services of these two batteries; they are but a type of those rendered by the other portions of the Indian Artillery, and the Viceroy and Gov. gen. in Council can bestow no higher praise than to record that, wherever or whenever engaged, these two batteries have maintained the distinguished reputation of the regt. to which they belonged; and that they have on numerous occasions elicited the warmest admiration of the various celebrated leaders of armies in India.

The Government loses the services of such troops with unfeigned regret, but H.E. the Viceroy and Gov. gen. in Council has the satisfaction to feel assured that on all future occasions they will serve their Sovereign and their country with the same ability and devotion that have distinguished them on the numerous battle-fields of India.

The Viceroy and Gov. gen. in Council takes leave of these batteries with the warmest wishes for their prosperity and honour.

Pensions to Uncovenanted Officers.

The following letter from the Government of India to the Government of Madras is published for general information:—

No. 3,469.

From E. H. Lushington, Esq., Secy. to the Govt. of India, financial dept., to the Secy. of Fort St. George, financial dept.

Fort William, Nov. 26, 1864.

Sir,—I am directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter, 526, of the 12th ult., recommending that the rule which requires extra allowances accruing from officiating appointments held by uncove-nanted officers to be discarded in the computation for pension, should be modified in favour of officers acting in fully vacant appointments in which they are eventually confirmed or which are subsequently abolished.

2. In reply, I am to state that the cases in question might be treated, without any change of rule, by requiring the confirmation to such appointments to be declared retrospectively with effect from the date of assumption of the duties, and informing the audit office accordingly.—I have the honour to be, &c., (Signed) E. H. LUSHINGTON, Secy. to the Govt. of India.

PATRONAGE OF ART BY LIMITED LIABILITY.

—We learn from Bombay that several European and Native gentlemen are engaged in endeavouring to form a "Photographic Association" with a capital of ten lacs of rupees, in 500 shares of 2,000 rupees each, to be placed under the management of Mr. Adolphe Engel, late of Poona. The object of the association will be to supply portraits of exceeding beauty and delicacy of finish, and, in fact, to have the art carried out by means of an establishment possessing all the art and skill possessed by the eminent establishments in Europe.

NATIVES OF THE TIME.—The Times of India notices the intended publication of a rather novel design in Bombay. The prospectus has been issued, and we may shortly expect to have on our tables an illustrated volume of "Men of the Time"—natives—existing in India. "Who they are, what they are, and whence they sprung" will be found recorded of all modern Indian celebrities. The work, which is, we are told, to be carried out in London under the highest artistic superintendence, will appear under the direct patronage of Sir Bartle Frere, Governor of Bombay.

To Correspondents.

All letters for insertion in Allen's Indian Mail should be accompanied with the real name and address of the writer, "not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith."

Communications for the Editor, and Advertisements, should be sent under cover to Messrs. W.M. H. ALLEN & Co., 13, Waterloo-place, S.W.

•• Should any delay or irregularity occur in supplying this Paper, communication of the fact to the Publisher will insure a remedy.

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL.

THURSDAY, January 26, 1865.

WEEKLY MAILS TO THE EAST.

A MEMORIAL, signed by the most wealthy and influential houses engaged in the India and China trade, has been presented to the Postmaster-general, praying for a very important change in the system of postal communication with the East. At present, as our readers are well aware, a mail is despatched from London, via Marseilles, on the 3rd, 10th, 18th, and 26th of every month, except when any of those dates happens to fall on a Sunday, in which case it is delayed until the following evening. The time was, and at no remote period, when the frequency and regularity of this correspondence were regarded as one of the greatest boons that could possibly be conferred on the mercantile community. Only a few years ago it took well-nigh twelve months to receive the reply to a letter addressed to any part of India, and half as long again to hear from Canton. This tardy intercommunication was at length superseded by a monthly mail, which speedily gave place to one despatched twice, and finally four times in the month, and for a while every one seemed content and satisfied with this arrangement. But now it is discovered that much inconvenience arises from the mail day falling on a constantly changing period of the week. Saturday, Sunday, and Monday, are comparatively blank days in the commercial world, whereas Friday may be looked upon as the summing up and epitome of the whole week's proceedings. It is, therefore, urged that it is on that day that the Eastern mails should be forwarded to their destination, an alteration that implies the despatch of four additional mails to India, two to China, and one to Australia, with a corresponding increase in the number of those received from those places. It is to be hoped that the Post-office authorities will accede to the wishes of the trading community, upon whose prosperity the success of that institution itself chiefly depends. All experience teaches us that, like the dirus hydrops of the Latin poet, the writing of letters is multiplied in proportion to the opportunities afforded for its enjoyment. The more frequent the communication, the more weighty will be the bags and boxes forwarded by each despatch. The change, of course, cannot be made all at once. Some little time must elapse before the P. and O. Company can be expected to be in a position to meet the new exigencies of their monopoly, though it is by no means improbable that the Messageries Impériales will attempt to strike in and avail themselves of the opening that presents itself to an enterprising competitor. Nor would it be unfair to the English company, or—what is more to the point—at all disadvantageous to the public interests, if the extra mail were given to their adventurous rivals. And there is another improvement that should immediately be made. On several occasions within the last few months the mails have been detained for two and three days in Egypt because no steamer was in waiting at Alexandria to carry them on to Marseilles. Such detention is altogether disgraceful, because it might easily be avoided by providing an extra steamer, or by placing the mails in the first steam ship ready to take them, whatever might be its nationality. Simultaneously with the establishment of weekly postal communications, we may reasonably look for a reduction of the rates of passage money. If the P. and O. Company consulted their real interests, they would lose no time in placing within the reach of every subaltern, and of almost every European uncovenanted servant of the Government, the possibility of "running home" for a few months in every five or six years. Up to the rank of a field officer, except in the case of officers holding lucrative staff appointments, a considerable reduction might be made in favour of military men, with whom even the sum of £10 is no trifling consideration, and the same wise liberality might be extended to their wives and families. Perhaps a still greater benefit would be to charge only for passage and board, requiring each passenger to pay only for so much wine or beer as he might actually consume. The present system is doubtless more profitable for the company, but in these days no selfish monopoly will long be permitted to exist, and small profits are better than none at all.

A CHIEF COURT FOR THE PUNJAB.

A VERY excellent Bill has been introduced into the Governor-general's Council by Mr. Cust, with a view to establish in the Punjab a Chief Court analogous to the High Court of Calcutta. The proposed Court is to possess both an ordinary and an extraordinary jurisdiction. It will be constituted by two judges, one of whom must have been a regular practising barrister, and accustomed to criminal procedure according to English law. Under its ordinary jurisdiction will fall all cases of final appeal, reference, and revision throughout the Province. All special or second appeals, which can only be on points of law, will be heard by this Court alone, as will also the final appeal in all cases affecting land, except in those districts where a settlement of land revenue may chance to be in actual progress, when the appeal will be to the Financial Commissioner. But it is the extraordinary jurisdiction assigned to the new Court which is especially worthy of eulogistic notice. Hitherto it has been asserted with too much truth that Europeans up-country enjoyed a virtual impunity of crime. The writer of this article himself remembers a case that happened some fourteen years ago, when a young officer in a native regiment, who had committed a double forgery, was permitted to escape with the loss of his commission, because the bank declined to incur the expense of taking witnesses a distance of nine hundred miles down to Calcutta. Sir Robert Napier likewise mentioned an instance that had occurred within his own knowledge several years ago. A European, he said, was charged with the murder of his sister-in-law, and on the evidence of his wife and bearers was committed by a magistrate and sent to Calcutta. On the way down, the wife was prevailed upon to retract what she had said, and the bearers absconded, so that when he came to be placed on his trial there was no one to appear against him. He was accordingly released, and the committing magistrate was severely censured by the Supreme Court. For all that, there was no moral doubt of the man's guilt, nor could he have escaped conviction but for the opportunity afforded by the length of the journey for tampering with the witnesses. And even when a successful prosecution has been instituted, the delay, costs, and inconvenience were quite intolerable. No further back than the last sessions of the High Court a European was prosecuted at the Government expense and found guilty of having stolen a bag of three hundred rupees at Lahore. But to effect this vindication of justice five European witnesses, including the head of the local police and the landlord of the chief hotel in that city, had to travel by dākh carriage, and railway train all the way to Calcutta. It was, perhaps, so far fortunate that the witnesses were Europeans, for had they been natives the probability is that some of them would have sickened and died before they could have been restored to their homes. Besides, it is quite certain that the moral effect of a punishment is greatly lessened when inflicted at a distance from the scene of the crime which it is intended to expiate. As a case in point, Mr. Cust alluded to that of the unfortunate man Rudd, who killed a native on the banks of the Indus, for which he was tried at Calcutta and hanged; but it is even now doubtful if the friends and neighbours of the murdered peasant have ever heard of the terrible atonement made for that crime. All that they actually know is "that one of their number was killed by a Sahib, and that, as a punishment to them, other members of the community were carried off 1,500 miles to Calcutta under charge of the police."

This Bill, however, makes no provision for a Grand Jury, for which a sufficient body of intelligent Europeans liable to such service is not to be found in the cities of the Punjab. The Petty Jury will benefit by the absence of the twin institution. Not even military men will be exempt from sitting as jurors. And the experience of the recent trial for infanticide in Calcutta shows how much need there is for improvement. A young woman, named Emma Keith, who had been seduced by one Bogie, apothecary to the Bhowanipore Asylum, was delivered of a child some time in the course of the night. At an early hour on the following morning she was found lying on the floor of her bedroom, literally bathed in blood, and marks of blood were traced down the backstairs which led to the compound. At a short distance from the house a newly-born babe was discovered, lying in an open drain among broken bottles and other household debris. One hand was cut and a thigh bone fractured, so that the poor little sufferer must have been dropped into the drain, and not gently laid in it. That it was Emma Keith's baby is not disputed, but it was urged by her counsel that, as her mother was confined in the Lunatic Asylum at Bhowanipore, she also was not to be held strictly responsible for her acts. It was further pleaded that immediately after delivery a woman is too weak to walk down stairs and carry her child to a spot some yards distant. But if she were really under the influence of mental disease there was nothing wonderful in this result of extraordinary excitement. And it is clear that the child could not have walked of itself to the drain. Somebody must have conveyed it thither, and there was no one else at all likely to do so, save the unhappy mother. However, the jury acquitted her, in teeth of the evidence and of the adverse summing up of the Judge, and in spite of a particularly feeble defence, and now it is proposed to make a public subscription for this wretched girl, because she is the first European woman ever brought to trial in Calcutta on the charge of destroying her own infant! It may be said, perhaps, that it is not only the jury, but the public also, that stands in need of moral amendment. But, be that as it may, it is abundantly manifest that there is ample room for improvement in the materials of which petty juries are composed, and this may in some degree be accomplished by introducing military men and the higher class of merchants. Sir Robert Napier expressed an opinion to the effect that verdicts of condemnation should be unanimous, but Mr. Anderson opposed this, for the reason advanced by Jeremy Bentham, that to demand unanimity is to enforce perjury by means of torture. And he quoted as an illustration of this objection that "on a day when the liberties of England were at stake, the day of the trial of the seven Bishops, the cause of all right was imperilled by the fact that Arnold, the King's brewer, was on the jury. He retarded the acquittal of the Bishops for a whole night, and might have worn out his brother jurymen, but for the statement of one, the largest and strongest of the twelve, that he would remain there until he was as thin as a tobacco pipe before he would consent to a verdict of guilty." Of petty juries in Bombay Mr. Anderson spoke in terms of unmitigated contempt. Their verdicts, he said, had in many instances for years past been simply scandalous, not indeed through vulgar corruption or gross stupidity, but from "the absence of that higher intelligence which can discriminate between facts as they really stand upon the evidence, and facts as discoloured by forensic fustian." He imputed to them an exaggerated sympathy for prisoners, and "a kind of bastard sentiment of mis-called independence which leads them to imagine that the acquittal of a prisoner inflicts some sort of discomfiture on the Government." This is, we fear, a true and graphic delineation of an India petty jury, and it will be well for the Punjab if, instead of the venerable but doubtfully advantageous grand jury, it be endowed with an improved edition of the less august but more useful institution. That Mr. Cust's Bill marks a decided progress in the judicial administration of the country will not be denied by any one, least of all by the European settlers at present scattered over its surface.

WEEKLY POSTAL COMMUNICATION WITH THE EAST.

For a long time past all the classes connected with the vast business of India and China have experienced inconvenience from the mails for the East being made up at specific dates of the month instead of on a fixed day of the week, as is the case with the Cunard and other steamers for America. The circumstance has at length led to the following memorial—which, as regards signatures, is one of the most unanimous and influential ever prepared in the city—being addressed to the Post-office for a remedy. As there are now four mails per calendar month to the East, the adoption of a system of regular weekly departures would entail only a slight addition to the existing services, and the suggestion is that Friday should be appointed the day of departure, when the advices carried out would virtually embrace all the transactions of the week, the operations on Saturday being now merely nominal, and also the returns of the Banks of England and of France, the report of the produce of Manchester markets, the cotton statement from Liverpool, &c., and, indeed, its complete history from its commencement to its close, leaving the mercantile community with the opportunity of a quiet Saturday, which, under the present arrangement, is frequently rendered impossible:—

"TO THE RIGHT HONOURABLE THE LORD STANLEY OF ALDERLEY, HER MAJESTY'S POSTMASTER-GENERAL.

"71, Old Broad-street, London, Jan. 20.

"My Lord,—I have been requested to place in your lordship's hands the accompanying memorial from the principal merchants and bankers of this city engaged in the trade with the East, in which your lordship's attention is drawn to the loss of time and general inconvenience attending the despatch of the mails on fixed days of the month, but varying days of the week; and a suggestion is made that instead thereof, for reasons which are strongly felt, the mail via Marseilles shall be despatched on the evening of Friday in every week.

"I venture to express the hope that the unanimity of opinion upon the subject in question, indicated by the number and character of the signatures attached to the memorial, will secure your lordship's co-operation in carrying the proposed change into effect.—I have the honour to be, your lordship's obedient servant, "R. W. CRAWFORD."

"TO HER MAJESTY'S POSTMASTER-GENERAL, POST-OFFICE, LONDON.

"London, January 11, 1865.

"My Lord,—We, the undersigned, merchants, bankers, and others, engaged in commercial and monetary transactions with the East, wish to bring under your lordship's notice the inconvenience attending the present system of despatching the East India, China, and Australian mails, and to submit for your consideration a proposal for changing the times of their departure.

"The East India mails, via Marseilles, are now despatched on the 3rd, 10th, 18th, and 26th of each month. This arrangement causes the mail day to fall on a constantly changing day of the week, and when that day is a Sunday the mail is postponed until the following Monday, thus causing a loss of not less than three days, because the business transacted on Saturday and Monday is of a very restricted character, and the really important intelligence to be transmitted is that of the preceding Friday. This loss happens practically in the case of nearly one half of the mails despatched in the course of the year.

"It is suggested that a weekly mail, to be fixed on one convenient day, will be far more suitable to the habits and arrangements of men of business, especially those who have fixed weekly engagements, and for the regular and methodical transmission of mercantile correspondence.

"The despatch of the American mails by the Cunard steamers is an instance in point.

"If the Indian mails were invariably despatched on Friday evening, the letters they carry would contain the Bank of England weekly account and all the financial and market intelligence of the week up to the last moment; no transaction of importance being effected on Saturdays, Friday appears to be in every way the best day for selection.

"The proposed arrangement will involve the despatch yearly of four additional mails to India, two to China, and one to Australia, and a like additional number from each of these places. Your memorialists have no doubt but that the countries named will be very grateful for the additional postal communication with England which they would thus enjoy.

"We have the honour to be, "Your Lordship's obedient, humble servants, "Crawford, Colvin, and Co.; Forbes, Forbes, and Co.; Finlay, Hodgson, and Co.; Matheson and Co.; Baring Brothers and Co.; N. M. GERMAN LIFE AND MANNERS.

As seen in Saxony at the present day; with an Account of Village Life—Town Life—Fashionable Life—Married Life—School and University Life, &c., of Germany at the present time. Illustrated with Songs and Pictures of the Student Customs at the University of Jena.

By HENRY MAYHEW.
Author of "London Labour and London Poor," "Great World of London," &c.

Two Volumes, 8vo., 32s.

ATHENÆUM, Dec 5, 1863.—"This is a work, which in its outspoken and perhaps sometimes boisterous frankness, will shock many admirers of Goethe and Schiller, and of the land they lived in; but which, nevertheless, in spite of the hotly directed blows which Mr. Mayhew distributes so freely with his English cudgel on the members of almost every German class and profession, and on almost every German custom and institution, is full of original thought and observation, and may be studied with profit by both German and English—especially by the German."

BELL'S MESSENGER, Jan. 23, 1864.—"Mr. Mayhew's very amusing volumes well deserve careful perusal. The Luther exploration is deeply interesting."

MORNING POST, Dec. 31, 1863.—"Mr. Mayhew has made up two very interesting volumes."

ILLUSTRATED TIMES, Jan. 16, 1864.—"Mr. Mayhew has produced the most entertaining and (to a careful reader) instructive book we have seen for a long time—a book that will be greedily gone through and long remembered by everybody that takes it up."

ILLUSTRATED NEWS, Jan. 2, 1864.—"To say that Mr. Henry Mayhew has written two exceedingly entertaining volumes will appear to those who know anything of his writings, equivalent only to saying that he has written two volumes. He has now left English for German life; so far, at least, as Saxony offers a specimen of it, and his descriptions are characterised by thorough, studied, as usual, by gems of wit, humour, and anecdote, and illustrated by comparisons or contrasts, drawn from that vast stock of experiences with which his acquaintance with an extensive range of society has supplied him."

GLASGOW MORNING JOURNAL, April 19, 1864.—"Mr. Mayhew's work is excessively interesting, and in many passages excessively amusing, there can be no manner of doubt, while we have every reason to believe that the picture it presents of German life and manners is in the main strictly and literally true."

LONDON REVIEW, Jan. 16, 1864.—"We do not know where to look for a better view of the student life of a German university than Mr. Mayhew gives us à propos of that of Jena."

THE ILLUSTRATED HORSE MANAGEMENT.

Containing Descriptive Remarks upon Anatomy, Medicine, Shoeing, Teeth, Food, Vices, Stables; likewise a Plain Account of the Situation, Nature, and Value of the various Points; together with Comments on Grooms, Dealers, Breeders, Breakers, and Trainers; also on Carriages and Harness. Embellished with more than Four Hundred Engravings from Original Designs made expressly for this Work.

By EDWARD MAYHEW, M.R.C.V.S.,
Author of "The Illustrated Horse Doctor," and other works,
In One Volume, 8vo., pp. 612., price 18s. 6d.

Contents: The body of the horse anatomically considered. Physic—the mode of administering it, and minor operations. Shoeing—its origin, its uses, and its varieties. The Teeth—their natural growth, and the abuses to which they are liable. Food—the fittest time for feeding, and the kind of food which the horse naturally consumes. The evils which are occasioned by modern stables. The faults inseparable from most present erections which are used as stables. The so-called "incapacitating vices," which are the results of injury or of disease. Stables as they should be. Grooms—their prejudices, their injuries, and their duties. Horse-dealers—who they are; their mode of dealing; their profits; their morality, and their secrets. Points—their relative importance, and where to look for their development. Breeding—its inconsistencies and its disappointments. Breaking and Training—their errors and their results. Carriages—their cost; their make; their excellencies, and their management. Saddlery, Harness, and Stable Sundries—of what these consist; their application, and their preservation.

Mr. Mayhew's "Illustrated Horse Doctor," and his companion volume, "The Illustrated Horse Management," should be in the possession of all who keep horses.

ATHENÆUM, Feb. 20, 1864.—"Mr. Mayhew thoroughly comprehends the matter, and all masters of studs we may say every owner of a single pony or ass—will derive much profit and an equal amount of pleasure by perusing this volume; for the book is not only distinguished by common sense, but by the power of amusing. We never met with a volume which is more honestly and efficiently carried out the promise made on its title-page. A large amount of English life, ways, manners, as morals, dogmas, and dogmas is described by Mr. Mayhew, as well as more serious matter connected with the question which he so ably handles."

ALLEN'S MAPS OF INDIA & CHINA.

MAP of INDIA; showing the British Territories subdivided into Collectorates, and the position and boundary of each Native State; chiefly compiled from Trigonometrical Surveys, executed by order of the Honourable Court of Directors of the East India Company. On six sheets—Size, 5 ft. 6 in. high; 5 ft. 8 in. wide. £2; or, on cloth, in a case, £2. 12s. 6d.; or, with rollers and varnished, £3. 3s.

The object kept in view in compiling this map has been to render it available to the greatest possible extent for popular use. For this purpose the names of all stations, civil and military, are inserted, as well as those of all towns and places of note likely to be looked for. To make clear the subdivisions of the whole of the country, both British and native—the limits of the various districts and collectorates, with their names, are distinctly indicated. The railways and telegraphs are laid down, and the trunk roads conspicuously coloured. The newly-acquired district in Burmah is included. To avoid, however, the confusion consequent upon over-crowding, and make the map clear and easy for reference, the names of many small villages, and places of no present importance, have been omitted, and thus a very wide measure of comprehensiveness has been attained, while needless diffusiveness has been avoided.

A GENERAL MAP of INDIA; compiled chiefly from Surveys executed by order of the Honourable East India Company, with the railways and telegraphs. On six sheets—Size, 5 ft. 3 in. wide; 5 ft. 4 in. high. £2; or, on cloth, in a case, £2. 12s. 6d.; or, with rollers and varnished, £3. 3s.

MAP of the ROUTES in INDIA; with Tables of Distances between the principal Towns and Military Stations. On one sheet—Size 2 ft. 3 in. wide; 2 ft. 9 in. high. 9s.; or, on cloth, in a case, 12s.

In this map are given the whole of the military and civil stations, together with the principal towns, the villages being omitted, so as to make the stations more prominent. The colouring defines the boundaries of the three Presidencies and shows also the railways and telegraphs.

MAP of INDIA and CHINA, BURMAH, SIAM, the MALAY PENINSULA, and the EMPIRE of ANAM. On two sheets—Size, 4 ft. 3 in. wide; 3 ft. 4 in. high. 16s.; or, on cloth, in a case, £1. 5s.

MAP of AFGHANISTAN, and the ADJACENT COUNTRIES. On one sheet—Size 2 ft. 3 in. wide; 2 ft. 9 in. high. 9s.; or, on cloth, in a case, 12s.

MAP of CHINA, from the most Authentic Sources of Information. One large sheet—Size, 2 ft. 7 in. wide; 2 ft. 2 in. high. 8s.; or, on cloth, in a case, 11s.

A MAP of the WESTERN PROVINCES of HINDOOSTAN, the PUNJAB, CAROL, SINDE, BHAULPORE, &c., including all the States between Candahar and Allahabad. On four sheets—Size, 4 ft. 4 in. wide; 4 ft. 2 in. high. 30s.; or, on cloth, in a case, £2; rollers, and varnished, £2. 10s.

MAP of ARABIA, from all the most recent Authorities, by order of the Court of Directors of the East India Company. Size, 3 ft. 3 in. high; 4 ft. 3 in. wide. On cloth, in a case, £1. 5s.

HAND-BOOK to the MAPS of INDIA, giving the Latitude and Longitude of all places of note. By Major H. V. STEPHEN, late of Bengal Army Revenue Survey Department. In 18mo, bound, price 5s.

MAP of INDIA; from the most recent Authorities, showing the railways and telegraphs. On two sheets—Size, 2 ft. 10 in. wide; 3 ft. 3 in. high. 16s.; or, on cloth, in a case, £1. 5s.

MAP of the STEAM COMMUNICATION and OVERLAND ROUTES BETWEEN ENGLAND, INDIA, CHINA, and AUSTRALIA. In a case, 14s.; on rollers, and varnished, 18s.

AND

ROBERT GORDON LATHAM, M.A., M.D., F.R.S., &c.

The Illustrations drawn on Wood expressly for the Work, by PAUL J. NAFTEL, Member of the London Society of Painters in Water Colours.

"The 'Channel Islands' is an excellent book of its class—well conceived, well written, well illustrated, well printed. It is the produce of many hands, and every hand a good one. Nearly every thing which a man can desire to know about Jersey, Guernsey, Alderney, and Sark—about their history, Geography, and natural history—Professor Ansted and Dr. Latham have contrived to tell. Altogether the contents of the volume are as varied and interesting as a well-sustained drama; and to this drama no more graceful and picturesque scenery could have been furnished than we find in the illustrations so profusely given by artists worthy of the subject and equal to their worth—Paul Nafel and M. Petere Le Lièvre. The result is not a merely handsome volume of the old 'Keepsake' style, made to sell and be looked at, but a book of rare merit and value, made for instruction and delight, to be read with pleasure and to be referred to with profit."—Athenaeum, Nov. 15, 1862.

RUPTURES.—BY HER MAJESTY'S ROYAL LETTERS PATENT.

WHITE'S MOC-MAIN LEVER TRUSS,

Perfected and Exhibited in the Great Exhibition of 1851, is allowed by upwards of 200 Medical Gentlemen to be the most effective invention in the curative treatment of Hernia. The use of a steel spring, so often hurtful in its effects, is here avoided: a soft bandage being worn round the body, while the requisite resisting power is supplied by the MOC-MAIN PAD and PATENT LEVER, fitting with so much ease and closeness that it cannot be detected, and may be worn during sleep. A descriptive circular may be had, and the Truss (which cannot fail to fit) forwarded by post on the circumference of the body two inches below the hips being sent to the Manufacturer, Mr. WHITE, 223, Piccadilly, London.

Price of a Single Truss, 16s., 21s., 26s. 6d., and 31s. 6d.; postage, 1s. Price of Double Truss 31s. 6d., 42s., and 52s. 6d.; postage, 1s. 8d. Umbilical, 42s. and 52s. 6d.; postage, 1s. 10d.

Post-office Orders payable to JOHN WHITE, Post office, Piccadilly.

NEW PATENT.

ELASTIC STOCKINGS, KNEE CAPS,

&c.—The material of which these are made is recommended by the Faculty as being peculiarly elastic and compressible, and the best invention for giving efficient and permanent support in all cases of weakness and swelling of the Legs, Varicose Veins, Spains, &c. It is porous, light in texture, and inexpensive, and is drawn on like an ordinary stocking. Price, 4s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 10s. to 16s. each; postage, 6d.

SUMMARY AND REVIEW.

By the arrival of the mail via Marseilles we are placed in possession of intelligence from Calcutta to the 6th of January, and from Bombay to the 12th of that month. The Bhootan expedition has terminated in the occupation of the Dooars, after encountering a resistance that may be characterised as contemptible. At the entrance of the Bala Pass the Bhootiahs opened a running fire upon the Ghoorkas who were in advance, and wounded two of them, but were unable to make any stand against the Armstrong guns that had been hastily brought up to the front. The fort of Dewangiri was captured with equal facility by a detachment of police under Captain MacDonald. And on the last day of December Brigadier Dunsford's column stormed a strongly stockaded position at Chamoorchee, with the loss of two sepoy killed and fifteen wounded. The bodies of thirteen Bhootiahs were found, and one elephant was captured. With this feat of arms the war has been brought to a speedy and successful termination, as the enemy will hardly attempt to recover the territory now wrested from them. It is stated, indeed, that the Dhurm Raj of Bhootan has turned aside his wrath from the English Government upon a weaker foe, and has declared war against "the Sikkim man Cheboo Lama," for introducing into Bhootan "a band of Feringees, in spite of frequent warnings not to do so." The Governor-general is also requested "not to listen to Cheboo or Eden, as both are dishonest." The inhabitants of the annexed Dooars are represented as quite reconciled to their new masters, and the country is described as naturally fertile, though at present much covered with jungle. The climate of Dhalimkote is spoken of as being healthy and temperate; turnips, radishes, and onions of excellent quality growing there in abundance. It is possible, therefore, that this hill fort may be selected as an advanced post and sanitarium, answering the double purpose of checking the incursions of our troublesome neighbours, and of restoring the health of the European soldiery stationed in Lower Bengal.

If implicit reliance can be placed in the statements of the Englishman newspaper, a civil war is imminent in Nepal. It would be matter for regret if the Maharajah Jung Bahadoor should fail to preserve his hold on the Government of that country, but it may safely be predicted that he will not fall without a struggle. The Maharajah, apparently occupied with affairs of greater importance at home, has withdrawn his complaints of the aggressive encroachments of British subjects in the Terai frontier of Goruckpore.

Another Wahabee conspiracy is said to have been discovered at Purnea. The report, even if true, is worthy of as little thought as the rumour of fresh disturbances on the part of the Waghurs in the Presidency of Bombay. The unruffled contentment and tranquillity of a hundred and fifty millions of human beings, whether Asiatics or Europeans, is a phenomenon not likely to occur until the return of the golden age.

The Ameer of Cabul is seemingly a prince who likes to have his hands fully occupied. Not satisfied with alienating the good will of his own subjects by his vile treachery towards his own brother, or with having created unfriendly relations with his other neighbours, the Ameer is now trying to pick up a quarrel with the British Government. His ground of complaint is the refusal to supply him with muskets, following upon the asylum afforded to Azim Khan. The time may not, however, be far distant when he himself may be glad to find shelter and protection beneath the ægis of the Government whose neutrality is at present so displeasing in his eyes.

Changes and promotions appear to be the order of the day. Sir Hugh Rose had reached Lucknow on his way to Calcutta, where his Excellency will take ship for England. Sir William Mansfield succeeds to the chief command of her Majesty's forces in India, and is himself succeeded at Bombay by Sir Robert Napier, whose seat in the Governor-general's council will be filled by Colonel Durand. This last appointment creates a vacancy in the post of Foreign Secretary, which will probably be supplied by Mr. R. Temple, at present Chief Commissioner of the Central Provinces. Then, the retirement of Sir Robert Montgomery from the Lieutenant Governorship of the Punjab has led to the selection of Mr. Donald MacLeod, C.B., for that high and honourable office. And finally, Sir Hope Grant makes an opening for a new Commander-in-Chief in the Madras Presidency, by returning to England to assume the Quartermaster-Generalship of the British Army. By way of postscript, it may be mentioned that Mr. Beadon has so far benefited by his cruise at sea as to have given up his intention of taking a trip to Europe. The Hon. Mr. Grey, who is regarded as his successor, has likewise decided upon remaining at his post. The appointment of Mr. W. N. Massey as Finance Minister is noticed elsewhere.

Military men will rejoice to learn that the half-batta system has at length been abolished, and that full batta will once more be given, as in the days prior to the unpopular retrenchments inaugurated by Lord William Bentinck. They have also reason to be gratified by the Viceroy's recent decision that the posts of Financial and Judicial Commissioner in the Punjab may be held indiscriminately by members of either branch of the public service. We fear, however, that the Medical Service will not be equally satisfied with a correction that has been made in the Royal Warrant issued on the 20th June of last year. It is not true, indeed, as stated in certain papers, that that warrant has been withdrawn and cancelled, but an alteration has been made which will operate injuriously, if not unjustly, in the case of those medical officers who retired in India on the faith of that despatch. It will be remembered that retiring allowances were promised in accordance with the provisions of the Royal Warrant of Oct. 1st, 1858, which in some grades would have amounted to thirty per cent. higher than the allowances named in the Warrant of Jan. 13th, 1860.

But it is now ruled that it is the latter warrant which should have been quoted, and it is said that the higher standard will not be allowed to those officers who were induced by this official blunder to retire from the service before the error was known. Such a proceeding, however, would be so extremely ungenerous, and so little in harmony with the otherwise liberal treatment of the medical service sanctioned by H.M.'s Secretary of State, that we prefer for the moment to withhold our belief in the correctness of the report.

According to Solomon, whose knowledge of natural history is stated to have been very considerable, the daughters of the horseleech are in the habit of crying "Give! Give!" To those insatiable reptiles a brother has now been born, and an addition has been made to the four things that never say "It is enough." Prince Gholam Mahomed intends—at least, so we are assured by the Hurkaru—to apply to the Secretary of State for a personal allowance, as the half-million grant was for the benefit of the family at large, and not for its head. That such an application, if ever made, will be treated otherwise than as a monstrous impertinence, cannot for an instant be doubted.

Two meagre paragraphs in the Queen's Speech at the opening of Parliament yesterday afternoon are devoted to the British dominions in the East. They refer to the "little war" in the North-East frontier and to the cyclones at Calcutta and Masulipatam. It would have been impossible to have said less, or to have avoided any particular point with greater delicacy. It is something, however, that India has not been altogether forgotten, and it is well to be thankful for small mercies in the absence of greater. And this is what her Majesty's Ministers wish the British people to know about India:—

"Her Majesty rejoices at the general tranquillity of her Indian dominions, but her Majesty regrets that long-continued outrages on the persons and property of subjects of her Majesty, and for which no redress could be had, have rendered it necessary to employ a force to obtain satisfaction for the past, and security for the future.

"Her Majesty deeply laments the calamity which has recently occasioned great loss of life and property at Calcutta and at other places in India. Prompt assistance was rendered by the officers of the Government, and generous contributions have been made in various parts of India to relieve the sufferings which have thus been occasioned."

Casualties by Death in the Armies of India reported since last Publication.

BENGAL.

THE GANGES CANAL.

The necessity of constructing permanent head works for the Ganges Canal has long been insisted on by the North-West Government. At the close of 1862 it submitted to the Supreme Government a plan for the necessary operations, but the Governor-General at that time "was of opinion that the question was not in a state to admit of final orders being passed on it." A long correspondence has now been published on the subject, and it is quite evident from it that the proposed works are absolutely necessary to the success of the undertaking. The superintendent general of irrigation was Colonel Turnbull. He had repeated occasion to report serious accidents. In February, 1863, he wrote a letter concerning the giving way of a bund at the Mymoodpoor Falls of the Ganges Canal. This accident was estimated to entail a cost for repairs of upwards of forty thousand rupees. In July of the same year Colonel Turnbull had to communicate the news of another serious accident at the Jowlee Falls. A portion of the flooring of one of the chambers, about fifty feet long, was carried away, and the whole fall was placed in a dangerous state. The next stage in the series of events was a recommendation from the North-West Government that a lakh of rupees should be set aside for a dam across the Hurdwar channel at the head of the canal, and half a lakh for the falls below Roorkee. This proposal was deferred for future consideration, and in the meantime orders were given that fresh surveys should be made. The really essential works are set forth distinctly in a memorandum which Col. Strachey and other officers drew up. It says:—"It is admitted by everyone that the Ganges Canal was originally designed with too strong a slope for its bed. The primary result of this error is the erosion of the earthen channel. From this follow two secondary results. First, the formation of rapids on the masonry works which occur along the canal, by which the foundations are undermined. Second, a direct dangerous action takes place on the masonry of the falls, at which the level of the tail water has been in many cases very greatly depressed by the erosion of the earthen channel; and a condition of things is brought about which these works were not designed to meet, and which, in fact, must eventually almost certainly destroy them if some complete restoration of the original water levels is not accomplished."

Except to the professional man, it would be tedious to detail the improvements which were thought by the engineers to be indispensable. All that has been decided on up to the present time is that preliminary investigations should be made. The Governor-General has stated his opinion that nothing should be attempted at the head works above Hurdwar, until the main canal is placed in proper order. The expense involved is immense, and it is even doubted whether it would not be cheaper in the end to cut a new channel altogether than to patch up the present canal. The new channel could be made to pass large towns, and surveys for it have actually been taken and estimates prepared. The new canal is estimated to cost forty-seven lakhs. To repair the old one would require about thirty-nine lakhs. Up to the 30th April, 1863, the total expenditure on the canal and its branches amounted to Rs. 2,03,66,000.—Friend of India, Dec. 29.

"AUT CÆSAR AUT NULLUS."

An article appears in the Bombay "Saturday" Review of December 17th headed "The Army," the object of which is to show that the Commander-in-Chief of the Indian Army has not the power which he ought to have, and that India ought neither to be governed by a military viceroy, nor that there should be a greater amount of the military element existent in the Indian Council.

Now we have no hesitation in saying that such an opinion is diametrically opposed to the views of all the most experienced men who have given their attention to the subject. The writer does not advance any one single argument in favour of his extravagant proposition, and his crude suggestions and hypotheses prove that he has studied the page of Indian history to very little purpose. He commences his "theme" by the strange assertion that "whether Sir Charles Napier did or did not foresee the mutiny of 1857, few persons are left with any doubt that fuller powers entrusted to him would have made such a rising as that of 1857 very unlikely."

We must confess ourselves to be amongst these few, for we have very strong doubts on the subject; and remembering the memorable "passage of arms" between Sir Charles Napier and Lord Dalhousie, in which it is now universally admitted that the former showed neither command of temper nor judgment, we consider it fortunate that fuller powers were not entrusted to him. If they had been, it is not unlikely that the conqueror of Scinde would have put the Governor-General under "close arrest," or possibly "in irons," and made himself Dictator.

So completely blinded by passion and personal prejudice was the Commander-in-Chief on that occasion, that we have little hesitation in saying that had his powers been greater he would have precipitated instead of retarded the events of 1857, by ordering some coup d'état to be carried out, of which the degradation of political and civil officers would have been the very mildest act in the programme. It was fortunate for India that Lord Dalhousie was Governor-General.

Again, let us pass over a few years, and come to 1858. Was not the wisdom of having the supreme power invested in a civilian instead of a military officer demonstrated beyond a doubt in the events that succeeded the mutiny, when the fierce passions of the conquering army gained the mastery over both justice and humanity, and when, if it had not been for the strong will and cool judgment of Lord Canning, we should have drifted into a war of extermination between the two races, and all hopes of settling the country must have passed away? Again, we say, it was fortunate for India that she had a non-military Viceroy, who had both the power and determination to be supreme.

Let us take one more instance. What would have been the result at this time last year if the Commander-in-Chief, not satisfied with putting troops of all arms into motion throughout the entire Presidency of Bengal, and ordering regiment after regiment to be warned for immediate service, had been permitted to carry out his wish of taking the field in person?

Is there any sane person who does not admit that the whole of the mountain tribes would have risen against us, and that we should have found ourselves embroiled not only with the Akond of Swat, but probably with the Ameer of Cabul? We repeat emphatically that it was the want of discretion on the part of the chief military authority, and his interference with the plan laid down by the local Government, which caused the panic in the country, and sent the Five per Cents. down below par. All thinking men, and all who held any stake in the empire, had cause to be thankful that, instead of having his powers increased, they were checked by the veto of a higher power forbidding him to proceed further.

We might multiply instances of the same kind, by going through the whole muster roll of Commanders-in-Chief in India during the present century, from Lord Lake down to Lord Gough and Sir William Gomm, and then take the votes of every Englishman, whether in this country or at home, as to the advantage of increasing their powers either in the Council Chamber or the field.

But we are inclined, now that the subject is mooted at Bombay, to go still further, and to affirm that it would be wise to lessen rather than increase the authority and functions of the chief military commander in India. We would confine his duties—as they are in England—solely to the army. These are quite sufficient to occupy his time fully, while his views on any military question would be submitted through the member of council who represents the Minister of War at home.

The anomaly which at present exists, of a general holding the high military office he does, discussing in council the gold currency question, or arguing about grand juries and remarriages of converts, is ludicrous enough; but this is nothing to the palpable irregularity of a Commander-in-Chief voting on matters which specially affect himself or those under him; at one time urging a reckless expenditure of public money in abandoning military stations or building palatial barracks; at another, introducing the personalities of a Crawley court-martial or a commissariat commission, on which he is known to have strong and decided views that he will not give up.

We do not wish to be misunderstood in this matter. It is not the individual but the system, not the man but the training that he has had, which we object to in the Council Chamber. Brought up in a different school, with totally different ideas and feeling, from either the Viceroy or his colleagues—with no knowledge of finance, and with a supreme contempt for economy—with a natural disposition inseparable from his profession to look at every question solely from a military point of view, instead of considering it in its political bearings, can we wonder if it is found that his presence is an incubus and not a help, and that time is wasted and temper tried in attempting to reconcile the opinions of men who are both by training and office in directly opposite grooves?

To those who will take the trouble to consider the matter thoroughly and impartially it will be self-evident that the military element is already too preponderating in the Indian Council to allow of the machinery working easily and without friction. Instead of standing alone like the financial or legal member, the Commander-in-Chief has the whole army at his back, the entire patronage of which is in his hands. In bringing forward any question he can have the assistance of a highly-paid staff of officers in the Adjutant-general's, Quartermaster's, and Judge Advocate's Departments. These men all look to him for promotion and appointments; they aid to his prestige, and his cause is theirs; he can recommend them for "honours," and a diminution or increase of his powers is shared in equally by themselves. In England he has the support of the War Office, and he corresponds direct with the Horse Guards. In Parliament, also, from identity of interests, he has a strong party ready to uphold him. Our space will not permit us to do more than notice one or two more points referred to in the article before us. The attempt to compare the Government of this country with that of France is singularly infelicitous, and totally repugnant to our ideas. India is not Algeria, and we have no desire to see a Pellissier at the helm instead of a Lawrence, or our civil rights and liberties superseded by martial law. We believe that we have nothing to learn from France on the subject of managing our colonies.

Nor does the writer's reference to the fact that in many continental countries the quasi-military policy of the Government "is secured by the king and princes of the blood, being soldiers by education if not by actual experience," help him at all to establish his case.

"The playing at soldiers," or the Field Marshal's baton held in the cradle conjointly with the bells and coral, prove but of little service when an angry mob are tearing up the pavement to form barricades, and the hoarse cry of "aux armes" resounds through the streets. If it had been so we should not have witnessed in 1848 the ignominious spectacle of kings and princes hurrying away from their palaces at dead of night, with false passports and borrowed garments, and "a new constitution" bawled out once a week by the newsboys in the streets.

But failing in his wish to make the Commander-in-Chief in India supreme, by adding to his already excessive powers, the Bombay writer would content himself with a Military Viceroy. We know what men thought in this country of Lord Hardinge exposing his life to the murderous fire of the Sikh artillery on the field at Ferozeshah, when he destroyed his despatches, and ordered his son and the prince Waldemar off the ground. But, passing over that instance of chivalrous rashness on the part of the last Military Viceroy India has seen, we would point out as a grave difficulty in such an appointment, the undue influence of the Horse Guards over an officer who has, throughout his service, been dependent on them for his advancement, and who may still have to look to them for a supreme military command. The Government at home would find a serious difficulty in carrying out with rapidity or certainty any measures they felt to be necessary in the way of military reductions or reforms, for at every step they would have to enlist on their side the good will and understanding of a great military organisation, both at home and in this country. The people of England would soon see the mistake Government had made, for with such a power as India now-a-days is, the commander-in-chief at home, having it at his back, would be doubly strong, and this strength in the hands of a single individual might prove injurious to the best interests, as well as to the peace and prosperity, of Great Britain.—Friend of India, Dec. 29.

MISCELLANEOUS.

CASH BALANCES.—The following is a statement of cash balances in the Government treasuries at the close of the month of October last, contrasted with that of previous years:—

According to the present limits of the several Governments.	1862. Oct.	1863. Oct.	1864. Oct.
Govt. of India	Co's Rs. 5,70,22,469	Co's Rs. 5,47,24,892	Co's Rs. 1,64,05,006
" Bengal	1,87,30,927	2,49,67,147	1,58,95,878
" N.W. Provinces	2,45,98,700	2,26,20,664	1,45,74,415
" Punjab	86,04,561	89,10,073	1,11,06,281
" Bombay	2,39,22,469	1,81,57,679	1,76,17,691
" Central Provs.	48,71,936	39,50,182	36,33,763
" Decan	12,39,844	22,67,559	16,11,541
" Madras	2,14,08,856	2,83,96,670	1,86,31,750
Total	15,91,99,372	13,19,94,896	9,91,09,665

The effect of the reduced price obtained for opium is here painfully seen. But any sum above eight millions sterling is a sufficiently large balance.

WAJID ALLY SHAH, ex-King of Oude, is now about to make another move. It appears that his father or grandfather, we are not sure which, advanced to the British Government a large sum of money, which was repaid in the shape of lands in Goruckpore. His Majesty now requests that the money then lent may be restored to him, as the lands in question have been taken back by the Government. It will also be remembered that for some two years from the date of his deposition he refused to touch a shilling of the pension which had been set aside for him, but as his extravagance is doubtless bringing its usual consequences, he has sent in an application for the payment of the pension for those years. He sends an agent to England, we hear, in order to support his suit.—Englishman.

THE HETAMPORE MINOR.—The case of the Hetampore minor has made its appearance in the High Court. The minor, it will be remembered, is heir to a very considerable estate in the district of Beerbhoom, and his custody was demanded by the Court of Wards. His grandmother refused to give the lad up, and the judge of the district empowered the collector to seize the boy. The grandmother appealed against this decision, on the grounds that the Civil Court had no power to aid the collector in the matter, and that its summary jurisdiction could not be evoked nor granted in such a case. The High Court has decided that such power did exist, and while blaming the grandmother for "her unseemly and discreditable course," in obstructing the legal action of the authorities, hopes that "the spirit of recusancy has been manifested for the last time."

RAILWAY PROGRESS.—The Delhi Gazette corrects the contradictory statements which have appeared here and there with reference to the opening of the railway from Allahabad to Bombay. The following information on the point is authentic:—The branch of the E.I.R. from Allahabad to Jubbulpore will, it is believed, be completed in 1867. The line from Bombay to Nagpore will, it is stated, be ready before that year. In that case travellers from the N.W.P. will be able to proceed to Jubbulpore by rail, thence to Nagpore by horse-draw, and from Nagpore to Bombay by rail again. The main line of the G.I.P.R. from Bhosawal to Jubbulpore via Hurda, Husungabad, and Nursingpore is progressing slowly. It is impossible to say when it will be ready. The year 1870 has been mentioned as the probable time.

INDIGO RIOTERS.—In our issue of the 13th of October we (Friend of India) mentioned a case in which Mohesh Chunder Chatterjee, a Nuddea zemindar, and his brother Madhub Chatterjee, were found guilty by the assistant-magistrate of Kooshtea of aiding and abetting a riot, in which Mr. Meares, an indigo planter, and some of his friends were attacked. The Baboos were sentenced to six months' rigorous imprisonment, and to a fine of five hundred rupees each. They appealed against this sentence, and although they enjoyed the benefit of Mr. Cochrane's advocacy, the Sessions judge of Kishnagar has upheld the judgment of the lower Court. Thus, these "most zealous and undaunted friends in the cause of ryot emancipation from indigo serfdom," as the Hindoo Patriot has it, have met with their deserts.

THE CALCUTTA MENAGERIE.—A lady in Calcutta, residing in the classic region of Raneemooly Gully, lives "partly on her own money, and partly by exhibiting strange animals." An advertisement in the papers called upon the public to see "an animal like a human being. Terms moderate. Go upstairs." Upstairs accordingly went a ship-captain, and to his great surprise was introduced to a monkey, which animal, although bearing a painful resemblance to a human being, can hardly be termed "strange." The captain feeling himself imposed upon, broke a few articles lying about to relieve his mind, and finally struck the old lady, having first seized her by the hair. The magistrate fined him thirty-two rupees. The captain would have done better by keeping his own counsel, and recommending the "strange" animal to his friends.

THE CROPS ABOUT DELHI.—The accounts of the crops in the districts about Delhi are far from satisfactory. We are told that there is no cultivation in places, beyond the influence of artificial irrigation; even the Nujafgurh Jheel is dried up; and lakes of some extent, full of water at the corresponding period last year, are now as dry as a Punjab report! Cotton alone has saved the cultivators from utter ruin, but much distress is in store for the poor.

HIS EXCELLENCY THE COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF left Meerut for Delhi on December 26. Sir Hugh Rose was accompanied by Major-general Wheler, C.B. Prior to his departure the Commander-in-Chief, the Mofussilite tells us, gave a fete to the children of the troops quartered at the station. It took place on the cricket ground, where a match was played between the boys of the Hussars and those of the Rifles. To this succeeded a variety of games and a capital dinner. On the same occasion Sir Hugh distributed prizes to the troops for gardening. Sir Hugh Rose is expected in Calcutta in the middle of January.

A BENGAL CREDIT MOBILIER has been projected with a capital of Rs. 60,00,000, in 15,000 shares of Rs. 400 each. The object of the new scheme is to apply the advantages of associated capital and interest to the development of joint-stock industrial enterprises, and the directors in Calcutta and the proprietors in Bombay are confident that it will prove eminently successful. It is proposed to establish the new company in connection with the Financial Association of India and China, limited, and while freedom of action is secured to each, the two companies will mutually do all in their power to advance each other's interest. Messrs. Schiller, Knowles, and D. Mackay, form the Calcutta board. We trust the mania which is now, with some good, threatening Bombay with commercial ruin, is not about to take too fast a hold of Bengal.

HOCKEY ON HORSEBACK.—The Munipoories, who, under the leadership of Captain Sherer, so completely discomfited the Calcutta Hockey Club last year, have again made their appearance. This time they are under the leadership of Mr. Deveria, and on Wednesday evening, Dec. 21, an exciting match came off between the strangers and the club. The result was looked forward to with much interest, as the club has very much improved in its play since last year. A large number of spectators was on the ground. The first game was won by the club, but in the end the Munipoories were declared victorious by a single game. The return match has yet to be played.

CONSULAR CONDOLENCE.—The King of Siam's Consul at Rangoon, a Mr. E. Fowle, writes his Majesty a curious letter acknowledging the receipt of two autograph letters of the King, and two photographic likenesses addressed to the Commissioner of British Burmah, and to Colonel Fyche, Commissioner of Tenasserim. Besides acknowledging them, he takes the opportunity of sympathising with his Majesty on the death of his "beautiful white female elephant," a misfortune which they had not as yet experienced in Burmah. They had, however, a very heavy shock of an earthquake recently in that province, which may be supposed to counterbalance the public calamity caused by the death of the elephant in Siam. On the whole the letter is a remarkable production, coming from an educated Englishman.

CALCUTTA UNIVERSITY.—The results of the entrance examination of the Calcutta University just given in are these. There was the large number of 1,397 candidates, of whom 142 passed in the 1st division, and 554 in the 2nd. Rather more than one-half were successful, 17 having been absent. There were 321 candidates in the first arts examination, of whom 16 passed in the 1st division, and 135 in the 2nd, while 7 were absent. Again almost exactly one-half passed. The result of the examination of the Ceylon candidates is not, however, included. The Bachelor of Arts and of laws examinations began on Monday. There are 82 candidates for the degree of B.A., 17 for that of B.L., and 7 for the inferior diploma of Licentiate of Laws.

TREASURY AMALGAMATION.—The long talked-of amalgamation of the Loan Branch of the General Treasury with the Bank of Bengal will shortly take place.

MUSSOORIE.—The Hills continues to put forward the claims of Mussoorie to public notice, and believes that in a few years it will become the most frequented sanitarium in the Himalayas. Its accessibility is great, and the advantages of its natural position, overlooking as it does the lovely valley of the Dhoon, are not the least of its recommendations. So long as Government remains at Simla living there will be necessarily expensive, but in Mussoorie, the establishment of new hotels, in which the prices are moderate, places a hill residence within the reach of small incomes.

LIEUTENANT BIRCH, of the Small Cause Court, at Unirsutur, has got into hot water. He was deputed by the Government of the Punjab to the foot of the Cashmere Hills to investigate the causes of the death of certain travellers, who appear to have come to an untimely end by fraud or violence. Whilst engaged on this duty he considered it necessary, for reasons best known to himself, to stop the luggage of a Captain F. W. Russell, of the late 3rd Cavalry, at Rawul Pindee, to the great annoyance of that officer. Lieutenant Birch has been called upon for an explanation. —Hurkaru, Jan. 4.

TUG-STEAM PASSENGERS.—The captain of the Lady Elgin, tug steamer, brought an action against Mr. Folkard for Rs. 96, the amount of that gentleman's passage and mess money during a trip to the Sandheads and back to Calcutta. The trip lasted over six days, and Mr. Folkard contended that Rs. 8 a day was ample remuneration, as he had been obliged to furnish his own wines while on board. The judge of the Small Cause Court thought so too, and a verdict was given for the defendant. Sixteen rupees a day seems a monstrous charge for a river steamer.

MR. LACKERSTEEN, a merchant residing in Calcutta, brought an action in the High Court against Tarrucknauth Poramanick, for erecting close to his premises on the Strand-road a building which deprived him of his "ancient" light, and prevented the free access of air. Damages were laid at Rs. 30,000, and it was estimated that the house, in consequence of the new erection, had deteriorated at least one-fourth in value. Mr. Justice Levinge, in an elaborate judgment, awarded Mr. Lackersteens Rs. 17,300, with costs.

MOZUFFERPORE AGRICULTURAL EXHIBITION.—There is to be an agricultural show at Mozufferpore on the 17th of January and following days. The Government has contributed three thousand rupees towards the expenses, and more than three times that amount will be raised by public subscription. The last day of the show will be distinguished by an exhibition of flowers, fruits, and vegetables, for which prizes will be awarded.

CONSECRATION OF BURIAL GROUND AT LUCKNOW.—On the 26th Dec. the Bishop of Calcutta consecrated a portion of the Residency Churchyard at Lucknow. His Lordship's address was, we read in the Outh Gazette, impressive and affecting. He spoke of the associations connected with the spot, and quoted the last words of the great Henry Lawrence to impress upon his hearers that our best endeavours in life formed only our duty.

DEATH OF MRS. VINTON.—We notice in the Rangoon papers the death of Mrs. Vinton, the widow of the late well-known American Missionary, the Reverend Justus Vinton. The deceased and her husband were distinguished by their ministrations among the Syar Karens, among whom they had established schools and founded a church.

SUICIDE.—The captain of the ship Startled Fawn, lying in the Hooghly at Calcutta, committed suicide on the 28th Dec. by cutting his throat. No cause is assigned for the act. The Indian Daily News states that he told the steward of the ship the day before that he would not be alive the following morning. The steward should have reported the strange remark.

DHALIMKOTE.—We (Englishman) have letters from Brigadier General Dunsford's, the Left, Column of the Bhootan field-force, dated Dhalimkote, December the 18th. Since the capture of the place the sepoys of the Native Regiments had been actively employed in cutting roads, throwing up field-works, and constructing fortifications, without any show of the old Pandey objection to the use of the spade and mattock. A few days after the capture of Dhalimkote, General Dunsford had prepared a compact force to march against another fort about three marches to the N. N. W., the commandant of which collected a considerable force within the stronghold, removed all the thatched buildings, and apparently intended to show fight. Before, however, the force going against this stronghold had got far from Dhalimkote, intelligence reached it that the Bhootan Chief, discouraged by the fall of that place, had surrendered his fort, which had been taken possession of, without resistance, by a small British party that had gone on a few days ahead, and the column returned to Dhalimkote, where the force was awaiting the completion of the arrangements for the civil administration of the country. We are sorry to hear that, if the Bhootan Court gives in and leaves the British in peaceable possessions of the annexed dooars, there is a strong probability of our still paying an annual subsidy for our new possessions, stated at rupees 25,000 a-year in the first instance, and eventually rupees 50,000 a-year, should our possession of the dooars prove profitable enough to afford such a large compensation to the rulers of Bhootan. If, however, as we hope is intended, the expenses of the expedition will have to be deducted from this annual subsidy, it will be many a year before the latter will much enrich the Court of Bhootan. It is important to know that the climate and weather at Dhalimkote are described as "delightful," and thoroughly capable of producing all fruits, vegetables, &c., which can be grown in England. At Dhalimkote the British column found turnips, radishes, and onions of the best quality and flavour; and there is no doubt that all English vegetables could, under better management, be brought to the same perfection. Since our last letter from Dhalimkote two more Artillerymen had died; one from the effects of the explosion, and the other consequent upon amputation of the leg following a gun-shot wound. Lieutenant Collins, who legs had been broken by the gunpowder explosion the day that Dhalimkote was taken, was at Julpigoree, doing well; and Lieutenants MacGregor and Loughnan, wounded on the same occasion, were also convalescent at Julpigoree. The health of the column generally was excellent, but rain was impending at date of writing, and it was feared that the damp would create sickness amongst the troops. Nothing whatever had been heard from the Court of Bhootan.

SIR R. MONTGOMERY.—As a mark of respect due to the character and services of Sir R. Montgomery the Viceroy and Governor-general has directed that all the honours and distinctions to which he is entitled as Lieutenant-governor shall be continued to him from the date of his resignation until the period of his embarkation for Europe.

THE PRESIDENCY MINTS.—During the month of November the value of bullion coined and examined at the Calcutta Mint was Rs. 53,62,149; at the Madras Mint, Rs. 2,92,445, and at the Bombay Mint, Rs. 77,97,775.

A CHRISTMAS TREAT.—On the evening of the 30th of December those of the Calcutta Free School children who had no homes to resort to during the Christmas vacations were, through the generosity of Mrs. Colonel Guthrie and the Hon. Claude Brown, entertained to tea and cakes and a Christmas tree.

THE DIRECTORS OF THE NATIONAL BANK have established a Branch office at Cachar.

NEPAUL.—The news from Nepaul portends a civil war, unless Maharajah Jung Bahadoor has taken his measures with great foresight. There appears to have been some intrigue afoot for placing the heir apparent on the throne, and it is with this object the Rajah has been inveigled into visiting the Terree. The Sirdars of Nepaul, however, do not all view this scheme with favour; and some resistance is preparing. The Maharajah has withdrawn his complaints of aggressions in the Terai frontier of Goruckpoor. Some other differences still require to be cleared up, and Mr. Knighton, Deputy Commissioner of Khyrabad, has been deputed to Katmandoo to investigate the questions which have arisen, in conjunction with two Goorkha commissioners appointed for the purpose.—Englishman.

INDIAN MUSEUMS.—The Home Government has sanctioned the expenditure in Calcutta connected with the conversion of the valuable collections of the Bengal Asiatic Society into an Imperial Museum. A skilled curator will shortly arrive from England. Thanks to the zeal of Dr. Birdwood, Bombay will soon have its Victoria Museum, and Hindostan and the Deccan will thus be worthily represented. Some reform is needed in the Madras Museum. Attention should also be given to the despatch of duplicates to the India House Museum, which, as a collection, is most disappointing to the visitor who knows the vast and varied resources and curiosities of India.

JUDGES ON CIRCUIT.—The Hon. Mr. Maine is about to introduce a Bill into the Viceregal council to provide for the judges of the High Court going on circuit. It contemplates the despatch of four judges at a time, out of the twelve, and will remove the ancient cause of complaint, anent the trouble and expense to which Government is subjected by the transport to, and prosecution of offenders at Calcutta. The Bill will contain a clause similar to that which will appear in Mr. Cust's Bill for the formation of a Chief Court in the Punjab, and which refuses to recognise a Grand Jury.

SUTTEE IN MEYWAR.—The inhuman practice of Suttee is still observed by people of the Meywar territories, among whom it has taken so deep a root that it is regarded as one of the most essential features of their religion. Col. Eden, the British Agent, has exerted himself vigorously to put a stop to the hateful practice, but has not yet succeeded to any very material extent. A case of the sort is now pending. It will be in the recollection of our readers that on the death of the Maharana of Oodeypore, the late Maharajah Suroop Sing, a slave girl ascended the funeral pyre. An investigation was instituted, but it resulted in nothing beyond the confiscation of the poor girl's jewels.

THE REV. R. ROBINSON.—This truly respected and esteemed minister of the Dacca Baptist Chapel has been forced from illness to avail himself of a furlough. He left Dacca on the 19th December for Calcutta, whence he proceeds with his family to England. He succeeded in endearing himself so completely to all here, both in his social and ministerial character, that his friends made up, by voluntary subscription, and presented him with a purse of about 800 rupees before his departure, as a token of their sincere regard for him. As the probable period of his absence from Dacca will be three years, it is hoped he will, at the end of that time, return to us with renewed health and vigor.—Dacca News, Dec. 31.

THE "BENGAL."—The P. and O. Company's steamer Bengal has been got off her perilous position, and is safely anchored at Garden Reach. She will carry the mails on the 23rd January.

PRICE OF INDIGO.—At a sale of indigo in Calcutta on the 23rd of December some samples of the dye realised two hundred and forty rupees per chest. This was the highest price obtained.

THE TRUTH ABOUT THE MAHARANEE CHUNDA KOWR.—We (Friend of India) continue to see in several Indian journals discussions as to the disposal of the remains of the late Rane Chunda, which must be inexpressibly painful to her son, the Maharajah Dhuleep Sing. Once for all, it should be known that his Highness entrusted the body, with a sum of Rs. 3,000, to the deceased's Sikh attendants, and it was dealt with in the usual Hindoo way on the banks of the Nerbudda. The Maharajah meanwhile remained in Bombay. He was unable as a Christian to be present at a ceremony which, in Brahminical eyes, he would have defiled. He was equally unwilling to seem to sanction a superstition which he has long since abandoned.

AN INDIAN DIANA.—Mr. Boulderson, joint magistrate of Moradabad, lately brought in the head of a very fine tiger, which had committed great havoc in the district for some time past. The animal measured nine feet three inches from tip to tip, and showed an unusual amount of pluck. His charges were very frequent, and he managed to seriously injure two elephants, on one of which was Mrs. Boulderson. This is said to have been the ninth or tenth tiger whose death this lady has witnessed, on all of which occasions she has exhibited wonderful nerve and coolness.

THE DELHI ROYAL FAMILY.—The family of Bahadoor Shah, the late ex-King of Delhi, petitioned the Viceroy not long ago for permission to return to their old home, which is doubtless associated with many delightful memories of the slaughter of infidels in 1857. The petition was referred to the authorities of the North-Western Provinces, who have begged that such applications be discouraged, and that these sprigs of royalty be allowed to remain among the Burmese.

THE LATE DR. SIMPSON.—We learn from the Dacca News that a movement is on foot to take measures to perpetuate the memory of the excellent and most popular civil surgeon Dacca ever had. It is intended to have either a statue or a full portrait in oil colours, to be placed in the Mitford Hospital in which he philanthropically laboured for many years of a useful life.

FREE MASONRY IN MOOLTAN.—We learn from Mooltan that the brethren of the "Mystic tie" there have opened a lodge, under the name of Lodge "Faith." "Their banner," writes our correspondent, "is a sprig of evergreen, with the motto Toujours le meme. The lodge has taken its warrant from the Grand Lodge of Scotland, and is presided over by an old Past Master."

THE "LAGOMYS CURZONAE."—At the last meeting of the Bengal Asiatic Society, a paper by Dr. Stoliczka was read on the Lagomys Curzonae, several specimens of which hitherto secured in Eastern Ladak. This species does not live at a less elevation than 15,500 feet above the sea, and has been found so high as 18,672 feet, on the very confines of vegetation.

FATAL RAILWAY ACCIDENT.—Another fatal accident has occurred on the East Indian Railway. On the evening of the 27th December the guard of the goods train, while getting into his van at Mullarpore station, stumbled across the iron trap door on the platform and fell down on the rails. The waggons passed over him, and he was killed immediately.

PENNY WISE—POUND FOOLISH.—A wealthy native resident of Nagpore affixed an obliterated four anna stamp to a letter which he attempted to have registered at the post office. There the fraud was detected at once, and the man fined fifty rupees. This same individual would probably spend thousands of rupees in a nautch or on some ridiculous ceremony, and still think it worth while to defraud the revenue of four annas.

MR. G. C. FLETCHER, Judge of Bancoorah, West Burdwan, will, it is said, resign the Civil Service shortly.

THE BANK OF BENGAL raised their rate of discount on the 5th January 2 per cent. all round, and again 1 per cent. on the 12th. At the meeting of the directors on the 5th, a dividend at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum, free of income-tax, was declared on the Bank's increased capital of nearly two millions sterling.

MR. DONALD MCLEOD, C.B.—The official Punjab seems delighted with the selection of Mr. Donald McLeod to preside over its destinies for the next five years. Kind-heartedness, absence of guile, unimpeachable integrity of purpose, and large experience, are powerful auxiliaries to success.

MR. BEADON has so far benefited by his trip to sea as to have abandoned his intention of proceeding to England, but he is still not altogether freed from the complaint which once before necessitated his proceeding home before he could entirely shake it off.

GOVERNMENT PROMISSORY NOTES.—The statement of Government Promissory Notes, enfaced for payment of interest in London, shows the total amount outstanding up to 21st December 1864 to be Rs. 9,51,14,100.

CIVIL SERVANTS IN MADRAS.—As one of the facts for the contemplation of the age, which but ten years ago would have been perfectly incredible, we learn that in Madras the Government finds a difficulty in providing suitable employment for the junior civilians in the Presidency, and is perplexed what to do with those who are annually arriving. The collectors of districts have their full quota of assistants; some of the young gentlemen are put into the Government offices, whilst others, apparently because there was nothing else for them, have been drafted into the new police. The times, indeed, have changed so completely that it is utterly impracticable to create appointments with the sole object of giving them to civilians, whose only part in the business of the administration will be in the monthly signing of bills for salaries on the Public Treasury.

A PROPHET IN THE NIZAMUT.—We learn from Hyderabad, in the Deccan, that one of the sages of the dervishes has prophesied that within four months Hyderabad will be annihilated from the face of the earth, by fire from Masulipatam; this prophecy is to date from the disaster at Masulipatam. The would-be prophet has foretold this event with such bold and brazen-facedness, offering to submit to any punishment at the expiration of the said period, if it did not come to pass, that it has tended to throw the majority of the native population into an awful state of mind, particularly the monied portion, and they exclaim (finding no chance of escape) let us eat, drink, have nautches, and make a display before the world, for very soon we shall either be burnt up alive or drowned. Such is the sad and dreadful state of things in Hyderabad, and before the four months are ended, many will come to grief through the caprice and infatuation of one man.

TEA PLANTING.—We are glad to learn from a letter from Captain H. W. Daly to the Collector of Coimbatore, dated Neilgherries, 2nd November, 1864, that since Mr. Rae's hurried departure in April last, in consequence of ill health, the behaviour of the tea manipulators on the plantation at Shoolar has been quite satisfactory. About 100 acres of the plantation are in cultivation, containing between 12,000 and 15,000 four-year-old tea plants, and about three or three and a-half lacs of plants, aged two and three years; scarcity of labour and Mr. Rae's unavoidable absence have prevented a larger area being opened out. There are also extensive nurseries, but what may be the out-turn of seedlings from them next season it is difficult to estimate. Samples of tea taken home by Mr. Rae have been highly approved of by tea brokers in London. For further information regarding the progress of the tea experiment on the Neilgherries, in reply to the collector's inquiry, Captain Daly refers him to Mr. Rae himself, whose return to the Neilgherries may be expected before the end of the year.—Madras Times.

TELEGRAPH FRAUDS.

A short time ago the Chamber of Commerce offered a reward of Rs. 5,000 for the detection of persons intercepting telegraphic messages. Since that time the attention of our indefatigable Commissioner of Police having been directed thereto, he has been doing his utmost, with the aid of some of his most intelligent constables, to bring the scoundrels to justice. On Friday, January 6th, two boys, named respectively Daniels and Maloney, were taken into custody, who were employed as signallers in the Government Telegraph Office at Colaba. Since that time they have made certain disclosures which go far to implicate other parties. Summonses were issued from the Fort Police-office calling upon the suspected parties to appear and answer certain charges to be preferred against them. It appears from what has transpired that a regular system has been for some years past carried on by which important commercial messages have been surreptitiously abstracted from the Colaba office. A man of the name of Lawless was formerly employed as a signaller in this (Colaba) office who became acquainted with certain opium brokers who, it is said, induced him to purloin telegraphic messages and transmit the same to them, of course being well paid for the same. Subsequently this man left the office and entered into permanent employment of the brokers. But, before leaving, he managed to introduce a boy named Walton into the office, as a signaller. This boy was taken to the house of the brokers, where he was well plied with wine and money, and thereby induced to supply those people with messages as had been previously done by the other. From some cause or another this lad was suspected, and in consequence dismissed from the office. He and Lawless, however, managed to introduce the two boys Daniels and Maloney into the office, who, of course, continued to supply the information required by their patrons, the brokers, as already described. Every arrangement appears to have been made for the successful "working" of the messages. On the occasion of the boys being taken to the house of their tempters they were told that they would be paid a monthly salary of Rs. 50 each, and also a share in any profits that might be made by the advantage gained thereby through "early news." A cipher was arranged, which was to be made use of on all occasions, and servants were employed to take the boys' meals in to them who were made use of to bring out the news, of course in cipher. Some of these servants are likewise, we believe, in custody, and they admit having been in the habit of conveying money and messages between the boys and the brokers. The same parties, it is also said, some time ago sent a signaller to Galle. It appears that a boy named, we believe, Spencer, was employed at the Colaba office as a signaller, and all at once he absconded. There is reason to believe that this boy was induced to leave his work in the Colaba office at the instigation of the suspected parties, by whom he was despatched to Galle with the view of being employed in the telegraph office there. This, however, could not be arranged, but he managed, after a time, to get into the Colombo office, where it is believed he is still employed, under an assumed name, being still in the pay of the brokers.

Mr. Mayhew, barrister-at-law, instructed by Mr. Cumrodeen Tyabjee, appeared on the 11th, at the Fort Police-office, before Mr. Oliver, the senior Magistrate of the police, on behalf of Kissondass Hurkisondass, Jeykisondass Hurkisondass, Goverdhundass Hurkisondass and Purshotumdass Hurkisondass, who are, on the information of several parties, charged with offering bribes to persons in the employ of Government, in order to induce such persons to act in a manner inconsistent with their duties. The learned gentleman applied for a copy of the proceedings, which he stated were conducted secretly. His worship said that it was for the interest of the public that he conducted the proceedings in his chambers, and not with any other motives. The proceedings of this court were always laid before the public, but in the present instance, for the sake of justice, he did not think it advisable to conduct the case in open court. Mr. Mayhew was quite satisfied with what passed from the Bench, and asked his worship to postpone the case for some other day. His worship ordered the case to stand over until Wednesday, the 18th January, and in the meantime allowed the advocate to take a copy of the depositions.—Bombay Gazette.

MISCELLANEOUS.

MAMMON WORSHIP.—The lust of gain has had the effect of practically abolishing the institution of the Sabbath in Bombay. The Guardian complains that all the reclamation companies, not to mention the P. and O. and the railways, have their works going on all the week round, and that Europeans and natives alike are employed on Sunday. It was on a Sunday evening that the late fatal accident occurred at the Back Bay operations.

SCHOOL OF INDUSTRIAL ART.—On the recommendation of the Government of Bombay, and of the local committee of the Sir Jamsetjee Jeejeebhoy School of Industrial Art, of which Government is a trustee, the Governor-general in Council has sanctioned an increase of salary to the secretary of that institution from Rs. 300 to 400 a-month. The above-mentioned institution has proved a decided success in Bombay, and the students appear to have made rapid improvement in modelling and drawing, some specimens of which have been submitted to Government.

JUVENILE SPECULATORS.—A portion of Rampart row, called the "Share Market," is daily crowded with hundreds of speculators, among whom we observe native boys of twelve years of age, styling themselves brokers, who may be seen running from one end of the row to another, creating disturbances on the public thoroughfares, resisting the police authorities, and, in short, playing every trick in their transactions with other parties.

ON DITS.—Professor Hughlings is appointed acting Professor of Moral Philosophy; and Professor G. Oxenham is to act as Professor of English Literature.—It is reported that the Hon. Mr. Justice Westropp intends to proceed to England on six months' leave.—Dr. Coles, Secretary to the Principal Inspector-General, Medical Department, is allowed a furlough to Europe for two years, on medical certificate.—Assistant Surgeon G. Birdwood, M.D., is permitted to resign the Medical service from the 27th December last.—It is rumoured that Mr. Maneckjee Cursetjee, third Judge of the Bombay Small Cause Court, has applied to Government for leave to proceed to England.—The Hon. W. R. Cassels has been elected a Director of the Bank of Bombay in the room of Mr. R. McIlwraith, who has gone to Europe.—It is stated that the Hon. Mr. Justice A. K. Forbes has been appointed Vice-Chancellor of the Bombay University.—Dr. F. S. Stedman is appointed Assistant-Surgeon to the Jamsetjee Jeejeebhoy Hospital, and also Professor of Medicine in the Grant Medical College.—The Satya Dipaka understands that Mr. Maneckjee Cursetjee has tendered his resignation of his appointment as third Judge of the Bombay Small Cause Court.—Surgeon Major W. Thom, M.D., has been appointed to officiate as Deputy Inspector-General of Hospitals from the date of Deputy Inspector-General Davidson's departure to Europe.—N. W. Oliver, Esq., Deputy Provincial Grand Master, Provincial Grand Lodge, Western India, Scottish Constitution, has been elected Master of Lodge Perseverance for this year.—Dr. Herbert Giraud has been appointed Surgeon to the Jamsetjee Jeejeebhoy Hospital, and Principal of the Grant Medical College, from the 1st January, in the room of Dr. Peet, who proceeds to Europe by the next mail.—Lieutenant Sargeant, R.E., Deputy Consulting Engineer, Railway Department, has been ordered to proceed to Nagpore on duty, in consequence of an officer of the department being much needed at that station.

DISAPPEARANCE OF AN ISLAND.—One of the Maldivé Islands, about 100 miles from Cananore on the Malabar coast, has suddenly disappeared. Such a phenomenon is not of unusual occurrence, several islands having been seen by the crews of vessels to sink. The Rajah of Cananore, it appears, is a loser to the extent of three lakhs of rupees by the singular casualty we have chronicled. Some fishermen living on the island went out in the morning to pursue their usual avocation; on their return in the evening they found their homes non est, greatly to their surprise and mortification.—Our Paper.

ANOTHER HOSPITAL FOR BOMBAY.—The Hon. Rustomjee Jamsetjee Jeejeebhoy has placed at the disposal of Government the sum of Rs. 2,50,000 for the opening of an hospital in Bombay, on a model of the Jamsetjee Jeejeebhoy Hospital. This magnificent gift will be the means of supplying a want that has been long severely felt in so large and populous a city as Bombay. The hospital will, we understand, be erected somewhere on the Esplanade-road.

THE WAGHURS.—We observe from the Bombay papers that the Waghurs of Kattywar, who had become rather troublesome, and against whom a small force had been despatched, have offered no active resistance. They have simply retired to their mountain fastnesses, and the authorities appear to be contented with this result. The field force under the command of Major Dennis has been ordered to return to quarters.

THE INDO-EUROPEAN TELEGRAPH.—It is proposed to abandon Mussendom as a station for the cable of the Indo-European Telegraph, and that the Imaum of Muscat has been consulted as to the selection of another point. We believe this change has been determined upon in consequence of the unhealthiness of Mussendom.

THE SHRINE OF PARBUTTEE.—The Bombay Review states that the Brahmins of the shrine of Parbuttee, on a rock overlooking Poona and the scene of the battle of Kirkee, have applied to the English Government for an increase to the monthly allowance made to the shrine, on account of the rise in prices. The present sum, we believe, is Rs. 18,000 a year. After the Act vesting all property granted by former heathen or Mussulman rulers to idol shrines and mosques, in committees of the worshippers, we thought it incredible that this abuse should be allowed to continue. But, in answer to the repeated cross-questioning of a recent visitor, the Brahmins asserted that the allowance is still drawn by five of their number every month from the Poona treasury, and they boast, doubtless falsely, that the shrine is directly maintained by the Bombay Government.

BOMBAY INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION.—The commission appointed by Government to arrange the terms on which a concession of land to the promoters of the International Exhibition should be made met on the 4th January, in Mr. Ravenscroft's office in the Secretariat. Mr. Hayllar and Mr. Leith, accompanied by Dr. Birdwood, secretary to the Exhibition, appeared on behalf of the company. It was settled that eleven acres of ground on the esplanade lying near the Boree Bunder station should be conceded to the company free of rent for three years; and that the company should, on the other hand, as a guarantee for their bona fides, deposit five lacs of rupees with Government, to be returned upon the completion of the building. The Government also, we understand, promised to give the scheme countenance and support, by communicating with foreign Governments on its behalf, and by taking under its own control the distribution of the prizes. The promoters will probably enter upon the land in March.

BOMBAY BANKS.—The Bank of Bombay has declared a dividend for the last half-year at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum, with a bonus of 30 rupees per share, being at the rate of 16 per cent. per annum on the capital stock of the bank. The Bombay Joint Stock Corporation have declared a dividend at the rate of 15 per cent. per annum on the paid-up capital for the period of four-and-a-half months ending on 31st December. The affairs of the Commercial Bank of India were on the 6th January, at a meeting of the shareholders, voluntarily agreed to be wound up. The bank, under the new charter, is now called the Commercial Bank Corporation of India and the East.

THE CURRENCY IN KATTYWAR.—In his annual report on the administration of the province of Kattywar for the year 1863, Major Keatinge, the Political Agent, draws attention to the complete disorganisation of the coinage which existed in the beginning of the year. The currency in many talookas was some obsolete native coin, or the produce of the mints of the only three native states which have a prescriptive right of coining. The Government Rupee was not a legal tender, and not being received in payment of rent, was valued at an unduly low rate, compared with the adulterated or irregular coins. The latter were consequently the favourites, and Major Keatinge has effected a great improvement by directing the Talookdars to introduce the Rupee as a legal tender. Generally speaking this has been effected without any great degree of opposition.

SIR WILLIAM MANSFIELD.—At a recent meeting of the Senate of the University of Bombay, the name of His Excellency Sir William Ross Mansfield was, by a resolution which was unanimously carried, inserted in the list of the Faculty of Law.

THE GOVERNOR AND LADY FRERE, and Admiral King, who have been in Central India, visiting the caves of Ajunta, returned to Bombay on Thursday evening, January the 12th.

ROYAL ASIATIC SOCIETY.—The museum of the Bombay branch of the Royal Asiatic Society has recently been enriched by the addition of a valuable collection of coins. It consists, we learn from the annual report, of modern coins, European, American, and Asiatic; of ancient Bactrian, Parthian, Sassanian, Cufic, Gupta, and Sah coins; coins of the Patan and Mogul dynasties of India, and the most complete collection ever made of rupees current in Western India, which were in 1844 called in and withdrawn from circulation. The collection has been presented to the society by Mr. Cowasjee Jehangier.

PRACTICAL JOKING.—A Captain Tyrwhitt, it will be remembered, was lately charged by the Sind Railway Company before the magistrate of Kurrachee for exploding a cracker at the terminus of the company. The magistrate dismissed the charge, but the commissioner of Sind has reversed this decision, and ruled that the use of a cracker at a railway station was a nuisance within the meaning of the Railway Act. This trumpety case has served to supply column after column of disquisition to the Kurrachee papers.

CHECK TO SPECULATION.—The rapid increase of Financial Companies has frightened the banks in Bombay, and driven them to adopt a rather strong measure. As a precaution, we learn from the Mercantile News, the principal banking establishments have come to the determination not to advance money on the deposit of shares of some of the new Associations. This will probably serve in some degree to check that wildness of speculation which is still doing so much mischief in the Western Presidency.

CONFIRMATION OF NATIVE CHRISTIANS.—At the annual commemoration of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel held in Bombay, on the 21st December, a special confirmation was held of native Christians—nine males and ten females—connected with the Society's Bombay Mission. Of the males, one was a Parsee, two were Mussulmans, one was a Tamulian, four were Mahrattas, and one was a native of Oudh. Of the females, one was a Brahmin, one belonged to the Copper-smith caste, three were of other Hindoo denominations, two were Mussulmans and three Mahrattas. The Bishop's address to the newly-confirmed was read in Hindustani and Marathi.

MR. SCOBLE has been appointed to succeed Mr. G. Taylor on his resignation of his appointments in the High Court, with the exception of that of Registrar of Joint-stock Companies. Mr. Spencer Compton is to perform the duties of the last named office on a salary to be hereafter determined. The Government will, it is believed, take the fees for registration. Mr. Taylor's resignation takes effect from the 9th of January. Mr. George Taylor gave over charge on that day of his duties as Master in Equity, Commissioner for Taxing Accounts, &c., to Mr. Scoble.

MR. BERKELEY, now in the Guzerat Revenue Survey, has been offered the appointment of Assistant Settlement Officer at Shikarpore, vice Captain Wallace, who has been placed under Major Francis. It is also stated that Mr. F. Gibbons, the Hoozoor Deputy Collector of Hyderabad, now on sick leave, is likely to succeed to another appointment in the Deccan.

MASONIC.—Mr. Cursetjee Nusserwanjee Cama has presented the P.G. Lodge of Western India with Masonic clothing and jewels. Mr. N. N. Franjee also contemplates building a Masonic hall; the ceremony of laying the foundation stone will take place early in February, the site being near the Byculla Club.

CYCLONE IN THE ARABIAN SEA.—In the month of December there was a cyclone in the Arabian sea, usually at that season so like a lake. It delayed H. M. steamer Dalhousie 13 days in her passage from Aden to Vingorla.

THE CORONER'S DEPARTMENT.—From the year 1827 up to the last year 5,000 inquests were held by her Majesty's coroners for the town and island of Bombay. Of late the business of the coroner's department has so much increased that the Government of Bombay, with the view of increasing the department, have requested the coroner to inform them how many inquests were held from the opening of the department up to the present time.

GUN CARRIAGE PREMISES FOR SALE.—Government intend to dispose of the gun carriage premises at Colaba, consisting of the ground and all buildings standing thereon at the present time, as well as the right of reclaiming the foreshore abutting on the harbour. The Government will grant a lease for 999 years subject to certain stipulations.

BOMBAY UNIVERSITY.—The results of the last matriculation examination of the Bombay University show a decided advance on previous years. Of 244 candidates 109, or less than half, have passed, chiefly Hindoos. The proportion from non-official schools is larger than usual. In this respect there is a steady progress in all three Universities.

A NATURAL CURIOSITY.—Very few of our readers can be aware of the existence of a large cave among the Clifton rocks. It is inhabited by a few Faqueers who have paved the floor and keep the place very clean. The cave is sufficiently high for a person to enter on horseback. It is worth seeing, and would add to the pleasure of an evening stroll in that direction.—Sindian.

SURGEON-MAJOR T. B. JOHNSTONE has been appointed secretary to the principal Inspector-General, Medical Department, in room of Dr. Coles.

A. Keogh, M.D., J. B. Gaffney, W. Durrant, J. A. Gaven, R. Fitzgerald, A. Mulcahy, W. F. Fenton, W. Adams.

BREVET.

Lieut. gen. Sir W. Mansfield, K.C.B., to have the local rank of general in the East Indies.

Maj. gen. Sir R. Napier, K.C.B., to have the local rank of lieut. general in the East Indies.

Lieut. col. and brev. col. F. Adams, C.B., 28th foot, to have the temp. rank of brigadier general, while in command of a brigade.

Capt. F. C. Griffin, R.A., to be major.

Qrmr. J. Menzies, of a depot battalion, who retires upon half-pay, to have the honorary rank of captain.

The New Passage Warrant.

The following regulations in regard to passages and passage allowances have been issued:—

Officers, civil and military, who, being entitled to passages at the public expense, shall be ordered to or from foreign stations and her Majesty's East Indian possessions shall be provided with passages in a contract packet, in a Government vessel, or in a vessel wholly or partly engaged by a public department, and where they cannot be so accommodated will receive passage allowances at the rates hereinafter prescribed, or at such rates as may from time to time be established. Officers are entitled to passages at the public expense:—

1. If proceeding to serve upon the general, medical, or civil staff of a foreign station, or returning therefrom in consequence of reduction or removal; or if proceeding with or upon the first appointment of the general officer to whose personal staff they belong, or returning in consequence of such general officer ceasing to hold his appointment.

2. If attached to and ordered to proceed with their regiments, or in charge of detachments of their regiments.

3. If proceeding to fill up vacancies occasioned by death, by promotion, by augmentation, by resignation, by dismissal, or by the exchange, removal, or retirement of officers who have returned home on account of ill health, who have been ordered home on duty, or who have served two years at the depots of their regiments.

4. If ordered to proceed upon courts-martial, or upon any other special public duty, upon which their presence is considered absolutely necessary, or if returning after the performance of such public duty.

5. If returning home in consequence of regular regimental promotion, of promotion to the rank of general officer, of promotion under the Warrant of 6th October, 1854, of being placed on retired full pay under the Warrant of 14th October, 1858, or on half-pay under the Warrants of 17th December, 1855, and 2nd December, 1857, or of promotion to the medical staff, or promotion in the civil branches of the Army.

6. If ordered home to undergo instruction at the Staff College or School of Musketry, to join the regimental depots of their regiments in their regular tour of duty, and actually joining such depots without obtaining previous leave of absence.

7. If returning home on leave on account of ill-health upon the report and recommendation of a medical board, or if returning to their stations after the expiration of such leave.

8. The officer commanding at a foreign station on being satisfied of the inability of an officer removed from or dismissed the service for misconduct, to provide his own passage, may use his discretion in ordering a passage for him at the public expense, a report of every such case being made to the Secretary of State for War.

9. An officer, who on the expiration of his leave of absence on private affairs, is ordered to do duty with detachments, will be allowed cabin accommodation, paying only the usual contribution for messing.

10. An officer, who when at home on leave of absence on his private affairs, shall subsequently do duty for two years with the regimental depot, shall, when ordered to rejoin his regiment, be allowed a passage at the public expense.

11. If belonging to a colonial corps, and returning home on leave of absence on their private affairs, and if returning to their stations after the expiration of such leave, provided they shall have previously completed seven years of foreign service with their regiments.

Officers are not entitled to passages at the public expense: If returning home on resignation, or in consequence of removal for misconduct or dismissal by the sentence of court-martial, except as specified in clause No. 8. If exchanging with other officers for their mutual convenience, if coming home on their private affairs, or if returning to their stations on the expiration of their leave of absence upon private affairs. Officers returning home on their private affairs will be required to sign the declaration prescribed by the regulations, and will, if when in this country they exchange or retire from the service, be liable to pay the expense of their successors' passages to the stations from whence they have returned. Officers retiring from the service by the sale of their commissions will, unless they have served twenty-five years on full pay, be liable to the expense of their successors' passages. When an officer is provided with a passage on board a ship of war, troop-ship, transport, freight ship, contract steam-vessel, or when a field-officer is accommodated at the captain's table on board a ship of war, and is maintained while on board with a proper mess at the public expense, he will be liable, on account thereof, to the following deductions by the Secretary of State for War from his regimental or staff pay:—If a general officer, 8s. a day. If under the rank of a general officer, 3s. 6d. a day; but when wine and beer are not included in the mess, and it is so stated on the messing certificate, the daily contribution required will be 2s. 6d. only. The officer will be further liable to a deduction of 9d. a day for each of his civil servants actually embarked with him and victualled at the public expense. By the naval regulations, general officers, field officers on the staff, colonels, and lieutenant-colonels are to be entertained at the table of the captain or commander; majors not on the staff, and officers of the army below the rank of field officers, at lieutenants' mess. If, however, staff field officers are embarked with their families, they will be allowed the option of messing either at the captain's table or the lieutenants' mess. Officers of the civil branches of the army should be entertained according to relative rank. When an officer is provided with a passage to or from a foreign station on board any vessel hired, freighted, or chartered by or on account of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, the charter party or contract will prescribe that a suitable table shall be provided by the master of such vessel for the wife, children, and female servants of such officer who may be ordered on board by the said Lords Commissioners, or by other competent authority.

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL.

WEDNESDAY, February 8, 1865.

THE NEW FINANCE MINISTER.

A SUCCESSOR to Sir Charles Trevelyan, as Finance Minister of India, has been found in the person of Mr. William Nathaniel Massey, member for Salford. The selection thus made is of a negative character. If very little can be said against it, quite as little can be said in its favour. It is urged, indeed, that Mr. Massey is free from Indian traditions and prejudices, but is he equally free from the restless and fanciful empiricism of the present day? It is well not to be hampered by mere routine, or misled by hereditary dogmas; but neither is it amiss to possess some special acquaintance with the department which one is suddenly called upon to guide and administer,—for the preconceived conclusions of ignorance are certainly not less dangerous than the prejudices of an ancient experience. There is this much, however, to be said in favour of Mr. Massey, that he is a man, not only of liberal views, but also of a grave and thoughtful frame of mind, that his administrative abilities are very considerable, and that his political and historical knowledge is far beyond the average. His history of "England under George III." is a work of no ordinary merit, and one that placed him in a conspicuous position among the best writers of the day. For two or three years he held the onerous post of Under-Secretary of State for the Home Department, and for some time past he has officiated as Chairman of Committees of the House of Commons in a manner to command the respect of all parties. The duties he will be called upon to fulfil in his new capacity are, in fact, far more of an administrative than a financial character. The organization of a financial system for India commenced by Mr. Wilson was successfully prosecuted by Mr. Laing, and has since been completed under Sir Charles Trevelyan's incumbency by Messrs. Forster and Whiffin. Sir Charles himself appears to have imagined that his own proper function was that of a drag on the wheels of the state carriage, and to this no objection could have been made, had he simply confined himself to preventing a too rapid progress down hill. Unfortunately, he also checked all advance along the straight and level road of regular progress, and became an insuperable obstacle to every attempt to surmount an ascent. Not that we are of those who find fault with the Government for not having afforded greater encouragement to the cultivation of cotton. In that respect we believe that everything has been done that could reasonably be expected. The only permanent and truly advantageous encouragement that can be given to any branch of industry must come from the purchasers of that particular kind of produce. All other help must be of a spasmodic and fitful nature, and is likely, in the long run, to work quite as much harm as good to the producer. But there is one point on which we trust to find Mr. Massey entertaining more sound and enlightened views than his predecessor, and that is with regard to the extension of the money order system throughout the length and breadth of Hindostan. Sir Charles, it is well known, was opposed to the establishment of that great convenience even in these islands, and has never disguised his unfavourable opinion of its introduction into India. For all that, it has answered admirably thus far, and only needs further development to become a most valuable boon to the commercial community, native as well as European.

PORT CANNING.

THE advocates of the Mutlah River scheme have, at least, the doubtful merit of being earnest in season and out of season. A memorial, signed by fifty-nine mercantile firms in Calcutta, has been presented to the Viceroy through a deputation of thirty gentlemen, headed by Mr. Kilburn, praying his Excellency to give some substantial aid towards the completion of the Port of Canning. The chief argument adduced by these gentlemen appears to have been that the Government is already pledged to pay £20,000 a-year to the shareholders of the hitherto useless railway which connects Calcutta with the river Mutlah, and that this annual burden might be compounded for by an immediate outlay of fifty or sixty thousand pounds. The Hooghly, they coolly affirm, in direct contradiction to Mr. Leonard's Report, is becoming year by year less accessible to ships of heavy tonnage, whereas the Mutlah is a broad, deep, noble stream, up or down which the largest ships may sail in perfect safety in any state of the tides and at all hours of the day or night, when not too dark. Wharves and jetties will there be provided, alongside of which the state-liest ships will load, or unload, their cargoes without damage to the goods, and without loss of human life. It is true the place enjoys an evil reputation so far as its healthiness is concerned, but insalubrity alone is no vital objection, or else how should Akyab, or Calcutta itself, have risen to importance? Besides, by the clearance of the surrounding jungles, and the cultivation of the ground with rice, the atmosphere has become greatly improved, and, to a certain extent, purified from its tendency to malaria. The disastrous results of the late cyclone, they further allege, prove the unfitness of Calcutta to serve the purposes of a large and crowded port, but they omit to explain how these fearful consequences would have been avoided had the hurricane burst over Port Canning, when frequented by an equal amount of shipping. Now, it is all very well to accuse the Government of apathy, but what have the merchants themselves been doing all these decades of years, during which the trade of Calcutta has been so rapidly increasing? Much inestimable time has been lost since the project was first started of building wharves along the banks of the Hooghly, from the Armenian Ghat to below Fort William, but as yet nothing has been done beyond the institution of half-a-dozen desperate squabbles among the members of the Chamber of Commerce. The promoters of the Mutlah scheme themselves have accomplished very little more than this, though they have certainly lost no opportunity of blowing their own trumpet and puffing the matchless virtues of their embryo port. The town, named after Lord Canning, consists of one two-storied house, the residence of the unfortunate magistrate, the railway station, a score or two of native huts, a wooden jetty, and numberless holes filled with stagnant water. The soil is excessively saline, and for miles in every direction there is nothing to be seen but a low scrub, until quite recently the haunt of tigers. On paper, indeed, the town presents as inviting an aspect as the celebrated plan of Eden which proved so irresistibly tempting to Martin Chuzzlewit. Churches, chapels, spacious squares, a theatre, pleasure grounds—nothing, in short, was omitted, save only a cemetery, and that happened to be the very thing that was first needed. The station master, being one day found with his feet in the air, and his head firmly embedded in the mud in one of the delightful holes formed by the natives when constructing their wretched hovels of mud, it was discovered that there was no consecrated ground to bury him in, and the corpse had to be conveyed to Calcutta. It is not Canningtown, assuredly, that is ever destined to supplant the present capital of British India, nor will the Mutlah divert any appreciable proportion of the trade of the Hooghly. And it is distinctly shown in Mr. Leonard's report that the navigation of that river has not seriously deteriorated of late years, while, on the other hand, a partial experiment to clear the channel by dredging has proved eminently successful. The greatest draught allowed at the end of last century for ships leaving Calcutta was 17 feet, and for ships putting out to sea 18½ feet, whereas now a draught of 20 to 24 feet is no uncommon event, and in 1857 H.M.'s ship Simoom was taken out to sea with a draught of 27 feet. A very great change, too, has taken place during the last thirty years in the character of the shipping frequenting this port. In 1835 the average tonnage was only 260 tons, while in 1863 it was 770 tons, and the total tonnage had increased from 400,000 tons in 1852-53 to 700,000 tons, and yet in 1863 only three ships were lost against four in 1835. These figures speak for themselves, and explode the fallacy of the dredging up of the Hooghly, or rather the filling up of its channels. What is really wanted is wet docks at Kidderpore, and quays or wharves lining the river bank from that point to the Armenian Ghat. Sir John Lawrence himself informed the Port Canning deputation that the future action of the Government would greatly depend upon the official report on the proposed wet docks and wharves. His Excellency further stated that for the moment the hands of the Government were tied, and that no material assistance must be expected. The public expenditure was already too great—a famine was impending in the North-West Provinces and in the Deccan—and there was the war with Bhootan; while, on the other hand, the income-tax was about to expire, and thus the revenue would be diminished simultaneously with an augmented outlay. But, as good wine needs no bush, neither should the Mutlah scheme, if really feasible, require the aid of Government to insure its success. Surely, if £60,000 will suffice for its completion, there can be no difficulty in raising so small a sum among the "merchant princes" and wealthy tradesmen of Calcutta.

FORESHADOWINGS.

To kick at a dead lion is a very safe if not a particularly magnanimous proceeding, and certainly not more profitable than the conversion of windmills into giants for the sake of running a tilt at them. And yet for some weeks past this has been the favourite pastime of the leading journal in this country, though it may well be with some ulterior and definite object in view. Once upon a time it was the fashion to belaud the old East India Company as the noblest exponent of the indomitable energy, enterprise, and perseverance of the Anglo-Saxon character. It had subdued by force of arms a vast and populous empire, which it afterwards governed with justice and moderation. But all that is now changed, and whatever goes amiss in India is unhesitatingly ascribed to the effete traditions of the old system. It is still admitted that the administration of the country was lenient and impartial, but it is seriously urged that nothing was done to enlighten the natives, or to aid their progress in the knowledge of the useful arts or in the acquisition of wealth, and that the natural resources of the land were entirely neglected. The accusation is wholly unfounded. It was under the East India Company's Government that the railway and the telegraph were introduced; that the Ganges Canal was constructed and opened; that the Grand Trunk-road from Calcutta to Lahore was laid out and completed; that tea plantations were formed on the lower spurs of the Himalayas; that the geological survey was instituted; that experiments in the cultivation of American cotton were attempted; that a cheap and uniform postal rate was successfully inaugurated; and that colleges and schools were founded and endowed for the especial purpose of placing all the arts and sciences of the West within easy reach of our Eastern fellow-subjects. It is true, indeed, that an onerous debt was incurred through the oft-recurring necessity of having recourse to arms, but no small portion of this debt must be traced to the Afghan and China wars, which originated with the Imperial Government, and were carried on in support of an Imperial policy. That the native armies in the already olden time were too large and too highly favoured has been proved beyond all dispute, but it cannot be conceded that civilians of the present day "sigh in private for the privileges of a time when the Indian armies were their own," for that time never existed; and it is notorious that, instead of looking upon the native army as a field for the exercise of patronage, civilians were far more disposed to murmur at the fat appointments that were filched from their own branch of the public service and bestowed upon military men. We are assured, however, that their jealousy was directed only against the Royal troops—from whom they had nothing to apprehend—and that this feeling, aggravated almost to an involuntary antipathy, still subsists to a very injurious extent. The European soldiery, it is said, complain that the Government does not care for them, is not solicitous for their welfare, does not value their health and comfort, and keeps them in the hot, dry, wearisome plains to watch the native levies, when it would be far pleasanter to be stationed in the hills and have nothing to do, till some fine day their communications with the sea were cut off by a general rising of the people, and nothing left for them but to reconquer India, beginning from the apex instead of the base of the pyramid. It cannot, of course, be denied that service in India is unpopular with European troops; but the real fact is that the men are becoming as much spoiled and pampered as were the Company's sepoy, and the officers are disgusted in having to act in the capacity of dry nurses. Then is it not a contradiction to be told in almost the same breath that a native army is worse than useless, and yet that native troops are indispensable for expeditions beyond the mountain frontiers to the north-west or the north-east? If European soldiers have not been sent to act against the Bhootiahs, may not this be simply attributed to a very reasonable reluctance to sacrifice such costly materials on such an insignificant service? The country, truly, is rugged and difficult, and there would be much difficulty in transporting sufficient supplies of animal food for beef-devouring Highlanders; but the enemy is armed chiefly with bows and arrows, and only occasionally with an old flint musket. With such a foe native troops may be quite good enough to cope, but that by no means proves that they are more suitable than Europeans. At the same time it cannot be denied that the armed force now on foot in India is much greater than is at all expedient from either a military or a financial point of view. It is ridiculous to suppose that it can be necessary to maintain 120,000 armed and disciplined policemen in the single Presidency of Bengal, in addition to 70,000 sepoy. And if the European contingent is about to be reduced, it is plain that this step must be preceded by a corresponding reduction of the native levies. If so large a police force be judged requisite, at least deprive them of their fire-arms, with the exception, perhaps, of a small body of mounted police who might be furnished with carbines; and as for the Sepoy, a strength of 50,000 men is ample for any duty on which they are ever likely to be employed. Some such measures are probably in contemplation, for on no other hypothesis can we account for the reiterated attacks on the existing state of things that have lately appeared in the columns of the Times. Possessed, through its wondrous and dangerous influence, of a foreshadowing of most innovations that are about to be introduced, it usually affects to originate such changes by a series of articles that, in truth, precede action, but come long after counsel. It is as if a weathercock were to ape the functions of Æolus, or as if a raft floating down the Ganges pretended to guide and impel the mighty stream on whose surface it was borne along. That the Times is a tolerably correct exponent of public opinion, whether well founded or erroneous, may not be gainsaid; neither can it be disputed that its foreknowledge of official movements is generally sound and accurate. For this reason we look forward not only to a large reduction of the European and native armies in India, but also to a reorganisation of the Civil Service. These constant sneers at its alleged incapacity, these exaggerated statements of its unpopularity and obstructiveness, are only to be explained by some embryo intention on the part of the present ministry to do away with the Covenanted Service, and to send out men direct from England to hold the higher offices, assisted by permanent secretaries acquainted with the language and other characteristic peculiarities of the people. Such an experiment, though perilous, might perchance turn out successful.

DIVORCE COURT.—FEB. 2. HUDSON V. HUDSON AND BARROW.

Dr. Spinks and Mr. Wrenfordsley appeared for the petitioner.

The petitioner, who was an artist at Calcutta, married the respondent at that place in November, 1856. They lived happily together for several years, and the respondent then formed an improper intimacy with Mr. Frank Barrow, a solicitor. The respondent and co-respondent have since lived together in England.

Decree nisi, with costs against the co-respondent.

FEBRUARY 3. HOLLINGS V. HOLLINGS.

Mr. Field, Q.C., and Dr. Swabey, appeared for the petitioner; Dr. Tristram for the respondent, who had entered an appearance, but had filed no answer.

The petitioner, who was formerly in the Indian Civil Service, was staying at Hobart Town, in Tasmania, in 1855, on leave of absence, and in the month of June in that year he there married a lady named Addison, the widow of a captain in the merchant service. She had four children and considerable property. In September, 1855, Mr. Hollings returned to India, in order to entitle himself to his pension, leaving his wife at Hobart Town. They corresponded on affectionate terms, and in the course of a year or two she removed from Hobart Town, and went to live at Illawarra, in New South Wales. She has since resided in England. Mr. Hollings remained in India until 1861. It was proved that while he was absent the respondent had given birth to two children—one born in January, 1857, and the other in April, 1859. He had been unable to discover their father, and the Court had dispensed with a co-respondent.

Decree nisi granted.

MISCELLANEOUS.

DOLLARS FOR CHINA.—According to the London and China Telegraph, the Secretary of State has decided that the new British dollar for China shall have a milled, and not a lettered edge. It is found that to place a lettered edge upon the dollar would require a complicated and expensive addition to the coining presses, which would be very difficult to work and liable to disorder. At present it is uncertain whether any of the dollars will be coined here for shipment. Captain Kinder and staff will most probably leave England by the mail, and arrive at Hong Kong about the end of June.

DR. HUGH FALCONER.—On the last day of January there died in London a man of science who was little known to the public, but who had made a great reputation for himself in the various scientific societies of London. He died at the age of fifty-five, and twenty of the most active of these years were spent in India in the service of the East India Company. It is this absence from England that has chiefly retarded his public reputation. During the few years in which he has been at home he quickly became known as the possessor of one of the most scientific intellects in England. His chief field of study was palaeontology, but he was also favourably known as a student of botany, and indeed generally of natural history. His scientific memory was prodigious, and he had such stores of knowledge at command that men of science in London are just now speaking of his loss as if with him had perished a great treasure of information which is not likely to be soon amassed again. From this enormous knowledge of his great things were expected; but he was cautious to a fault; never liked to commit himself to an opinion until he was perfectly sure of it; and he has died in the fulness of his power, before his race was run. He was born at Forbes, in the north of Scotland; he studied successively at the Universities of Aberdeen and Edinburgh; and went out to India in 1830. His two official appointments there, in which he became best known, were those of superintendent to the Botanic Gardens at Saharunpore, in succession to Dr. Royle, and afterwards of those at Calcutta. It was to information supplied by him that we owe the cultivation of tein in the district of Assam. It was through his exertions also that the Cinchona plant has been introduced into India. The South American supply of quinine threatened failure through bad management. He suggested the cultivation of the plant in India, and the result has been completely successful. But beyond this he made great discoveries of fossils in India, and the results of his researches, arranged by himself, is a splendid gallery of specimens in the British Museum, the like of which is not to be found in any other collection in the world. He has been one of the chief instigators and directors of the inquiries which have been recently raised as to the antiquity of man. Many of the facts bearing on the question, such as those connected with flint implements, have been discovered either by him or by friends whom he urged to this or that course of investigation. About ten years ago he returned from India with shattered health, and he has died before his time. All those who had any knowledge of him will deeply feel his loss.—Times.

THE CALCUTTA AND CHINA MAILS.—The Peninsular and Oriental Company's steamship Nyanza, Captain J. Weeks, arrived at Southampton at 4 P.M. on the 1st inst., bringing the heavy portion of these mails, sixty-one passengers, 2750 in specie, 1,285 bales of silk, 244 bales of goats' hair, twenty-five casks of wine, and 110 packages of sundries. Among the passengers are Commander Heathcote, Mr. Smyth, Mr. Benyon, Mr. and Mrs. Horte, Mr. M. Brytan, and Mr. Passnett. The Nyanza left Alexandria on the 19th of Jan., Malta, the 23rd, and Gibraltar, the 27th. In the Mediterranean and along the coast of Portugal she had fine weather and moderate breezes; across the Bay of Biscay fresh gales and high seas; and in the Channel moderate breezes and fine weather. Our usual advices and files of papers from Gibraltar have not come to hand by this steamer.

THE ASIATIC BANKING COMPANY have notified their intention to increase their paid-up capital from £500,000 to £1,000,000, by an issue of 25,000 new shares of £20 each, of which 5,000 are to be offered in London, at a premium of £15. The deposits held by this bank exceed £3,000,000, and in Bombay the existing shares are quoted £35 premium.

WRECK OF THE "ASSAYE."—On Monday, Jan. 30, telegrams were received in the City announcing a very disastrous shipwreck on the extreme portion of the south coast of Ireland, in Ross Bay, near Galley Head, between Cape Clear and the old Head of Kinsale. The unfortunate vessel was a fine large teak-built ship, called the Assaye, originally constructed as a screw steam frigate for the East India Company. She was launched at Bombay in 1856, and was of more than 1,500 tons burden. The Assaye left Bombay, with a most valuable cargo of East India produce, for Liverpool in the course of last October, and nothing was heard until the receipt of the telegram, intimating that the ship had been cast on the rocks in Ross Bay early that (Monday) morning, and that the commander had been drowned in endeavouring to reach the shore. The first despatch left some hope that the cargo would be saved, but a subsequent telegram announced that the ship had gone to pieces. Notwithstanding the second report, a hope is still entertained that the statement of her breaking up is premature, as she was a very strong-built ship. The cargo comprised 6,254 bales of cotton, 556 bales of wool, 200 bales of jute, 99 tons of linseed, and other merchandise. The ship was valued at £40,000. Both vessel and cargo were largely insured at Lloyd's and in the different marine insurance-offices in London, Liverpool, and Glasgow. The Assaye was the property of Messrs. D. Bushore and Co., of Liverpool.

THE MAILS, &c.—SOUTHAMPTON, Jan. 27.—The Peninsular and Oriental Company's steamship Ripon, Captain J. M. Rogers, sailed hence to-day for Gibraltar, Malta, and Alexandria, with the Bombay mails, a full cargo, and 349 boxes of specie, jewelry, &c., value £104,490, consigned as follows:—For Gibraltar, gold coin, £128. For Alexandria, silver coin, £200. For Bombay, gold coin, £4,960; bar silver, £91,740; silver coin, £5,500; watches, jewelry, &c., £1,962. The Ripon takes out thirty-six first and seventeen second-class passengers, and twenty-five proceed by the corresponding steamer from Marseilles. Among them are Surgeon Dunwoodie, for Malta; Captain and Mrs. T. C. Davidson, Major Crichton, C.B., Captain Mathew, Lieutenant E. P. Alleyne, Lieutenant-colonel Prettijohn, Major Brown, Rev. Mr. Holland, Captain R. Curling, Lord John Hay, and Captain Ransfield, for Bombay.

THE MAILS, &c.—SOUTHAMPTON, Feb. 4.—The Peninsular and Oriental Company's screw steamship Pera, Captain T. Jamieson, sailed to-day for Gibraltar, Malta, and Alexandria, with the Calcutta and China mails, a full cargo, and specie, jewelry, &c., value £96,233. 12s.—viz.:—For Galle, gold coin, £215; watches, £66. For Madras, gold coin, £1,219. 10s.; silver coin, £37. 7s.; bar silver, £15,600; gold thread, watches, &c., £1,590. 5s. For Calcutta, gold coin, £48. 10s.; jewelry, £1,084. For Singapore, dollars, £24,620. For Hong Kong, dollars, £44,620; jewelry and watches, £2,329. For Shanghai, dollars, £3,800; bar silver, £570; jewelry, £134. The Pera takes out 55 first and 20 second-class passengers, and 40 proceed by the corresponding steamer from Marseilles, making a total of 115. Among them are Captain Lock, and Captain Stillman, Gibraltar; Commander H. Benson, Captain F. Cole, Sub-Lieutenant R. W. Evans, R.N., and Dr. M. Rodgers, for Malta; the Rev. J. Stoughton and the Rev. J. Spence, for Alexandria; Captain Hervey and Surgeon W. Jeives, for Ceylon; Captain Stuart, the Rev. Mr. Anderson, Captain Oakes, Major G. and Mrs. Baldock, and Lieutenant Briggs, for Madras; Captain Whiteside, Major Brownlow, R.E., Major J. Leven, the Rev. W. M'Farlane, and Surgeon W. Mills, for Calcutta, &c.

THE BRITISH INDIAN TEA COMPANY have declared a dividend at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum.

BILLS ON INDIA.—The biddings for £300,000 in bills on India took place at the Bank of England on Wednesday, Feb. 1. The proportions allotted were—to Calcutta, £162,700; to Bombay, £120,000; and to Madras, £22,200. The minimum price was as before, 1s. 11½d. on Calcutta and Madras, and 1s. 11¾d. on Bombay. Tenders on Calcutta and Madras at 1s. 11¾d. will receive about 27 per cent., and on Bombay at 1s. 11¾d., about 41 per cent. All above these prices in full. These results show a further diminution in the demand for means of remittance.

INDIAN PHOTOGRAPHS.—Early in the summer the publication of a magnificent series of photographs, of the greatest interest in an ethnographical sense, will be commenced under the auspices of the Indian Government. This will be comprised in five folio volumes, containing in the aggregate 400 photographs of the people of India in all their important races and castes, their costumes, manners, and customs, their modes of living and manufacturing processes, from that of the man and his craft which are concerned in the humblest trades, to those who practise the immemorial skill which produces magnificent shawls and kincobs of cloth of gold or silver. Here we have the native goldsmith at work, spinning metal into filigree; there the embroiderer, there the smith, the potter, the cook, the weaver, the carpenter, &c. Dr. Forbes Watson and Mr. Kaye have this work in charge, and will contribute its appropriate text.—Athenæum.

THE HONG KONG AND CHINA GAS COMPANY.—The last mail has brought the account of the lighting up of Hong Kong with gas on the 3rd of Dec. last. The company have had to contend with difficulties of a local character and of climate which have delayed this event beyond their expectations; but it is now brought to a most successful issue, without a single accident or hitch of any kind. The brilliancy of the gas made from Australian coal, delivered at a moderate price at the company's own wharf, has caused the greatest surprise to the Chinese and satisfaction to the Europeans. The orders for fittings were coming in from both classes much faster than the agents could supply them, and, with a population now exceeding 120,000, and with twelve hours of dark out of the twenty-four all the year round, the demand will doubtless be very great. The Governor had strongly expressed his entire satisfaction with the substantial manner in which all the works had been carried out, and himself had charged the first retort. The effect of the lighting up of the Queen's Theatre and other public buildings had been highly appreciated by their officials and by the public. The European labourers were returning home, the manager now depending on his staff of well-trained Chinamen.

TELEGRAPH TO INDIA COMPANY.—The report states that they have received the half-yearly payment of £1,250 from the Telegraph Construction and Maintenance Company, for the rental of the company's line in Egypt, to 31st December, 1864, and recommend that a dividend at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum, free of income-tax, be paid to the shareholders for the half-year ending the 31st December, 1864, payable on and after the 15th February.

SCOTTISH ASSAM TEA COMPANY.—A prospectus has been issued of the Scottish Assam Tea Company, with a capital of £100,000, in shares of £10. The proposal is to purchase an estate of 4,000 acres (of which 500 have been brought under cultivation) in the Jorehaut district, the price agreed upon being £52,000, of which £10,000 is to be in shares and the remainder in cash.

TELEGRAPH BETWEEN BAGDAD AND BOMBAY.—Intelligence from Constantinople dated Feb. 1 states that telegraphic communication between Bagdad and India is now open. The first telegram was sent by the Governor-general of Bagdad to the Governor of Bombay on the evening of the 29th ult.

OPENINGS FOR ENTERPRISE IN CEYLON.—This colony has been eminently favoured in being enabled to obtain a higher remuneration for her staples, against a given expenditure of capital and labour, than is, perhaps, possible in any other country. The limited liability companies established last year in London, for purchasing various coffee estates, bringing them under one management, and extending the area of cultivation, cannot fail, if judiciously conducted, to secure high dividends for their shareholders, judging by the large returns to individual proprietors. We have reason to know that arrangements are being made for additional combinations, bringing together adjacent plantations. There are millions of acres of fine forest land awaiting the enterprise of additional companies—land suitable for the cultivation not only of coffee, but spices, indigo, and other valuable products. A Ceylon dye-wood or plumbago company, with practical managers, would give high returns, and an additional opening for good profits would be found in the extraction of cocoa-nut oil. Had the resources of this island been better known, more capital would have been turned upon it. Individual fortunes are there proverbially acquired with rapidity, yet such is the want of monied accommodation in operations connected with its trade, that from 10 to 12 per cent. discount is charged by the local banks on good mercantile bills, whilst in the Colombo bazaar it is no less than 25 per cent.; and this in a colony which can obtain returns from Madras and Bombay in two weeks' time, and which, within the last four years, has received £12,000,000 in specie from the mints of India and the gold-fields of Australia. The amount of foreign bills negotiated at Colombo reaches £4,000,000 per annum. The local circulation of the Oriental Bank Corporation and Chartered Mercantile Bank of Ceylon, which are authorised to issue notes against a reserve of cash equal to one-half of their weekly average circulation, exceeds £300,000, and the floating and permanent balances of customers of these institutions £1,250,000.—Money Market Review, Feb. 4.

EASTERN BENGAL JUTE MANUFACTURING COMPANY.—At the meeting held on the 30th January the report was adopted, and a dividend to the 31st December last was declared at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum.

LUCKNOW AGRICULTURAL EXHIBITION.—An Agricultural Exhibition for Oudh was planned in 1863, but the design was subsequently postponed to enable the projectors to use the experience of the Calcutta Exhibition. The day before Christmas, however, saw the ceremonial which attended the opening of the Oudh Exhibition, in the almost historical spot bounded by Neil's gate, and the road by which Havelock advanced to the relief of the Lucknow Residency. In the presence of the Bishop of Calcutta, General Beecher, the Brigadier, the Rajah of Kuppurtulla, the Nawabs and the Talookdars of the province, Sir George Couper, Bart., opened the proceedings by reading to Mr. Wingfield, C. B., the Chief Commissioner, an address worthy of the author of the Lucknow Despatch. He said, "The ruined towers behind us, close to which lie the remains of him who, but for an untimely shot, might have ruled the destinies of the empire, bear silent testimony to the scenes of warfare and anarchy which have passed around this spot since then. Indeed, there is perhaps no place in our Eastern dominions where an exhibition of the results of progress and of peace would have a deeper significance or bear a more marked contrast in regard to the past." The Nizam's Minister, Salar Jung, Mr. Yule, the Resident, the various Indian Governments, and Sir Charles Wood have sent articles for exhibition. The liberality of the local residents is likely to meet all the expenses of the undertaking.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

INDIA OFFICE, 4th February, 1865.

THE following NOTIFICATION of the GOVERNMENT of INDIA, dated the 18th of November, 1864, No. 3,354, is REPUBLISHED for general information.

FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 3,354.

FORT WILLIAM, the 18th November, 1864.

Whereas frequent complaints have been made of the great inconvenience experienced by the holders of 4 per Cent. Government Securities of Sica Rupee Loans, in consequence of the difficulty of negotiating these Securities at their full value, as compared with those of other Loans, the Right Honourable the Governor-general of India in Council has determined to offer to the holders of such Securities the option of converting them into 4 per Cent. Securities of a Loan in the Government Rupee at the intrinsic rate of Rupees 106. 10. 8. Current Government Rupees for every 100 Sica Rupees.

2. Notice is accordingly hereby given that, from and after the publication of this Notification, and until the 31st December, 1865, Promissory Notes of the 4 per Cent. Loans of 1824-25, of 1828-29, and of the 1st May, 1832, and also Stock Receipts of the 4 per Cent. Sica Rupee Book Debt, will be received in Calcutta by the Accountant-general to the Government of India, and in Madras and Bombay by the Deputy Auditors and Accountants-general of those Presidencies, for conversion into a 4 per Cent. Loan in Government Rupees, to be designated the "4 per Cent. Transfer Loan of 1st May, 1865."

3. Promissory Notes of the 4 per Cent. Transfer Loan will be issued for sums of Rupees 500 and for sums above that amount in even hundreds, and the holders of Securities of the above Sica Loans, who may present them for conversion, will be allowed to make up by cash payments to the next amount in hundreds above Rupees 500, or to receive payment of the broken amount in cash, at their option.

4. The Accountant-general at Calcutta and the Deputy Auditors and Accountants-general at Madras and Bombay, are hereby authorised to receive Notes and Stock Receipts of the above-mentioned Sica Rupee Loans tendered for conversion, and to grant an acknowledgment for the same in the following form:—

I hereby acknowledge that has this day tendered the undermentioned Government Securities for conversion into the 4 per Cent. Transfer Loan of the 1st May, 1865, for which he is entitled to receive a Promissory Note bearing interest from the (1st May or 1st November next, as the case may be), of the tenor and subject to the conditions of the Loan specified in the advertisement published in the Gazette of India of the

5. Loan acknowledgments granted at Madras and Bombay, together with the notes in lieu of which they were issued, will be transmitted by the Deputy Auditors and Accountants-general of those Presidencies to the Accountant-general to the Government of India in Calcutta, who will cause to be issued, free of expense, to the parties entitled thereto, Promissory Notes in the 4 per Cent. Transfer Loan, in the following form:—

FORT WILLIAM, 1st May, 1865.

PROMISSORY NOTE AT 4 PER CENT. FOR GOVERNMENT RUPEES.

The Governor-general of India in Council does hereby acknowledge to have received from the sum of Government Rupees as a Loan to the Secretary of State in Council for India, and does hereby promise, for and on behalf of the said Secretary of State in Council, to repay the said Loan by paying the said sum of Government Rupees to the said his executors or administrators, on his or their order, on demand, at the General Treasury of Fort William, after the expiration of three months' notice of payment, to be given by the Governor-general of India in Council in the Government Gazette, and to pay the interest accruing on the said sum of Rupees at the rate of 4 per cent. per annum, by half-yearly payments at the General Treasury of Fort William to the said his executors or administrators, on his or their order, until the expiration of three months after such notice of payment as aforesaid, when the amount of interest due will be payable with the principal, and (such notice being considered as equivalent to a tender of payment at the period appointed for the discharge of the note) all further interest shall cease.

Signed by the authority of the Governor-general of India in Council, Secretary to the Government.

6. Upon all Notes and Stock Receipts received for conversion by the Accountant-general in Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay, interest up to the day preceding the date of tender will be paid in cash, together with anticipation interest on the new note from that date to the close of the half-year then current.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.
—EFFECTUAL AID.—In the sad time of sickness it is cheering to know that a remedy does exist, and that it can be procured at a little cost. Holloway's Ointment and Pills are always useful in relieving pain, in reducing inflammations, and regulating disordered actions. They never can be misapplied, nor can they under any circumstances cause mischief. They are a blessing to the rich when tormented by indigestion, gout, skin diseases, &c., and a precious boon to the poor when struck down by illness. Holloway's medicines should be in the possession of all soldiers, sailors, and emigrants, who will then be in a position to ease pain and cure disease when medical assistance cannot be obtained.

WHITE'S MOC-MAIN LEVER TRUSS,

Perfected and Exhibited in the Great Exhibition of 1851, is allowed by upwards of 200 Medical Gentlemen to be the most effective invention in the curative treatment of Hernia. The use of a steel spring, so often hurtful in its effects, is here avoided; a soft bandage being worn round the body, while the requisite resisting power is supplied by the MOC-MAIN PAD and PATENT LEVER, fitting with so much ease and closeness that it cannot be detected, and may be worn during sleep. A descriptive circular may be had, and the Truss (which cannot fail to fit) forwarded by post on the circumference of the body two inches below the hips being sent to the Manufacturer, Mr. WHITE, 22s, Piccadilly, London.

Price of a Single Truss, 16s., 21s., 26s. 6d., and 31s. 6d.; postage, 1s. Price of Double Truss 31s. 6d., 42s., and 52s. 6d.; postage, 1s. 6d. Umbilical, 42s. and 52s. 6d.; postage, 1s. 6d.

Quintessence of Jamaica Ginger and Camomile.

GINGER has long been deservedly known as an excellent domestic medicine, and, combined with camomile, it is the most efficient stomachic tonic known, for while the ginger relieves the stomach from distension and flatulency, arising from impaired digestion, the camomile strengthens the vessels of the stomach, and by that means gives it a healthy and invigorating tone. So highly concentrated is this preparation, it is unimpaired by age or climate, and well adapted for exportation. In Gout, Spasms, Dysentery, Cholera, or those complaints incidental to tropical climates, it is invaluable, as in numerous cases a dose or two has checked and frequently cured most alarming attacks. No family should be without it. Sold in half-pints, quarter-pints, and one-eighth pints.

Agreeable Seidlitz Powder, in one bottle, protected by a case, with measure and spoon included. The advantage of this preparation is the perfect combination of the solid ingredients of the Seidlitz Spring in one compound powder.

It is very cooling and refreshing, well adapted for exportation, or travellers by land or sea.

Aromatic Liniment of Quinine.—For the prevention of Fever, Intermittent or Remittent Ague, and other effects of Malaria.

No person exposed to the influence or predisposing cause of Fevers should be without it, for it taken in small doses daily the system will become so thoroughly impregnated with its principles as to be rendered proof against all attacks of Contagion or Malaria.—Sold in pints, half-pints, and quarter-pints.

The above articles prepared only by THOS. WILKINSON late Wilkinson, Bridge & Co., 270, Regent-street, London, W.

NOTHING IMPOSSIBLE.—The greatest and most useful invention of the day, AGUA AMARELLA.—Messrs. JOHN GOSNELL and Co., Three Kings-court, Lombard street, Perfumers to Her Majesty, respectfully offer to the public this truly marvellous fluid, which gradually restores the human hair to its pristine hue—no matter at what age.

The Agua Amarella has none of the properties of dyes; it, on the contrary, is beneficial to the system, and when the hair is once restored, one application per month will keep it in perfect colour. Price one guinea; half bottles, 10s. 6d. Testimonials from aristocrats of the highest order and from individuals of uncounted respectability may be inspected on application.

Messrs. J. GOSNELL and Co. have been appointed Perfumers to H.R.H. the Princess of Wales.

MAILS TO INDIA.

Mails to India and China, via Marseilles, are despatched from London as follows, viz.:—Those for Bombay packets, on the evening of the 3rd and 18th of each month; and those for Calcutta packets (including mails for Ceylon, Madras, and China), on the evenings of the 10th and 26th of each month. When any of these dates fall on a Sunday, the mails are made up on the following evening.

Letters and Newspapers can be forwarded to any part of India, via Bombay and Marseilles, and in most cases will reach their destination some days sooner than if despatched by the following Calcutta mail. The Bombay mails via Southampton, however, are no longer available for the transmission of Letters or Newspapers to the Madras Presidency.

Mails for the Mediterranean, and all parts of India and China, except the Bombay Presidency, are despatched via Southampton on the mornings of the 4th and 20th, or, when either of these dates falls on Sunday, upon the previous evening.

Mails for the Mediterranean, the Presidency of Bombay, and Upper or North-West Provinces of Bengal and China, are despatched via Southampton on the 12th and 27th of the month, except when these dates fall on Sunday, in which case they are forwarded on the previous evening.

A French line of mail packets now leaves Marseilles on the 10th of every month for Alexandria. Postage for letters and papers to India and China the same as is charged by the English mail via Marseilles. Letters intended to be forwarded by these packets must be specially addressed "By French mail packet from Marseilles."

SUMMARY AND REVIEW.

THE Calcutta mail of the 9th of January brings us no further news from Bhootan. The Bhootias appear to have had enough of fighting for the present, but occasional raids into British territory will probably take place hereafter from time to time. The institution of a belt of fortified advanced posts, similar to those on the North-Western frontier, will suffice, however, for its protection from any very serious insult or injury. The annexed Dooars, it is said, are likely to prove much more valuable than was at first anticipated, so that the future revenue to be derived from them will yield a handsome return for the money costs of the expedition.

Sir Hugh Rose was expected to arrive in Calcutta in a few days, and will probably return to England by the first steamer in March. His Excellency is accompanied by only a small personal staff,—the officials of army head-quarters having pushed on to the Presidency. It is authoritatively stated that the command-in-chief at Madras, vacant by Sir Hope Grant's appointment to be Quartermaster-general of the Army, will be filled by Lieutenant-General Sir John Gaspard Le Marchant, lately Governor of Malta.

On Tuesday, the 3rd of January, a levée and drawing-room were held at Government House, which were attended by all the beauty and fashion of Calcutta. A separate levée for the reception of Native Chiefs and gentlemen, at which many Civil and Military Officers also were present, was held on Saturday evening, the 7th. The "Palatial City," as it is facetiously called, was indulging in the full round of its mild winter festivities. Fancy fairs at Howrah and at the Botanical Gardens, balls in the Town Hall, the San Francisco Minstrels, and the Lancashire Bell-ringers, constitute an amount of dissipation only to be enjoyed during the Calcutta "season." The Justices of the Peace alone decline to come together, that is, for the despatch of business—for they mustered in sufficient numbers, both at the St. Andrew's dinner, and at the annual banquet given by the Trades' Association.

Small-pox, we regret to hear, was still raging among the native population of Lahore. Out of 50,000 inhabitants 7,000 are said to have fallen victims to that dreadful scourge during the months of November and December.

A very important Bill has been brought before the Legislative Council by Mr. Maine, with a view to legalise, under certain circumstances, the re-marriage of native converts to Christianity. This Bill, to use Mr. Maine's own words, as reported in the Hurkaru, is intended to be an interposition of the secular power on purely moral grounds, leaving missionaries and clergymen, and ministers of religion generally, to remarry native converts, repudiated by their wives or husbands for religious reasons, or not to remarry them, according as circumstances may seem in their eyes to justify or forbid the performance of the marriage ceremony. That is, no minister of religion will render himself liable to any penalties or legal coercion by either consenting, or refusing, to solemnise such marriages. In either case it will rest solely with their individual judgments and consciences to check or to encourage concubinage. A "Native Husband" is defined as "a married man domiciled in India, being neither a Christian nor a Jew, who shall have completed the age of sixteen years," the same description applying to a Native Wife, except that the age of consubial discretion is fixed at thirteen years. The present measure is avowedly founded on the draft Bill prepared by Sir Barnes Peacock, which assigned as ground for relief the desertion or repudiation of the Native husband by the Native wife, on the sole plea of the husband's conversion to the Christian faith. The mode of proceeding will be by suit for conjugal society, which cannot be instituted until after the lapse of six months from the alleged desertion, or repudiation. The respondent will have to appear in person before a High Court judge in the Presidency town, and a zillah judge in the Mofussil, and will be closely interrogated—not necessarily in public—as to her real motive for refusing to cohabit with the petitioner. At the close of this preliminary examination the case will be adjourned for a month, to possess a thorough knowledge of what he is writing about, we propose to gather up all the "useful information" in his account, and lay it in a compact form before our readers. Many facts, which hereafter it may be useful to remember, will thus stand prominently out.

Dr. Mouat begins by remarking that a proper system of registering judicial statistics is much to be desired. "Regarding crime and the criminal population, little or no reliable information is at present available in India." This is obviously a great omission, and when we are told that it is impossible even for the most careful inquirer to form an opinion as to whether imprisonment is a deterrent to crime or not, because there are no records of recommitments, it is clear that Dr. Mouat's suggestion ought not to be lost sight of. In the letter from Mr. Ashley Eden, which acknowledges the Report, dated the 30th of November last, it is stated that the "Lieutenant-governor is awaiting the orders of the Government of India on the subject." There is thus reason to hope that the want complained of will not long remain an impediment to legislation, as it affects crime in India. Dr. Mouat says:—"As a member of the Prison Committee, I visited the Great Jail and House of Correction of Calcutta officially, but a record of that visit cannot properly be introduced in the present report." His statement will be read with interest whenever it appears.

During the year there were 77,091 prisoners in the Bengal Jails, of whom 2,525 were women. The prisons in the Sonthal Pergunnahs are not included in these returns. "The mortality had increased, the capital sentences had diminished, and the escapes were within one of the same number as in 1862." Some of these prisoners seemed to Dr. Mouat to have been sentenced to imprisonment without labour, and upon this he writes rather warmly through three paragraphs. But a foot note explains that it is all a mistake, and that there is no such sentence as imprisonment for life without labour. With regard to the important question of the mortality in the jails, we find that 1,711 deaths occurred during the year 1863, among an average of 17,957 prisoners in custody. This is in the proportion of 9.52 per cent. In some of the jails there were epidemics of cholera—and in the Hooghly, Jessore, and Nuddea districts the terrible fever made great ravages. The cause of this fever Dr. Mouat does not pretend to explain. "All the unfavourable conditions of the villages affected," he says, "have existed in just as great intensity ever since I have been in Bengal, now a quarter of a century, without producing the present result." But that is nothing to the point, because the existence of "unfavourable conditions" must some day or other produce the lamentable results we are now witnessing, and the commissioners who inquired into the subject proved that the same fever, or a very similar one, swept away thousands in Bengal many years ago. The number of prisoners who were admitted into the hospitals was no less than 30,081, thus showing a "ratio per cent. of aggregate in hospital to strength of 167.52." The mortality was greater among the Hindus than the Mussulmans, and less among Christians than either. Prisoners employed on the road are very unhealthy, and we are told, "garden work would seem to rank high in the mortuary scale," but the men chosen for this employment were weak and sickly. We may mention that the mortality was greatest among prisoners between twenty and thirty years of age. This, however, only applies to the particular year under consideration—in the previous year persons between seventy and eighty suffered most. Altogether the returns show a decided deterioration in the sanitary state of the jails, and the Lieutenant-Governor expresses his regret at the circumstance. The mortality in the jails in the Kossyah hills reached the enormous percentage of 87.50; in Monghyr it was 45.12, in Backergunge 28.98, in Darjeeling 15.78, in Hooghly 14.35, in Howrah 14.65. The neglect of the officers in not distributing warm clothes at the proper time, and other faults, call forth a strong expression of disapprobation from the Lieutenant-Governor. In the Kossyah hills, it should be stated, 29 per cent. of the deaths were caused by cholera.

The sentences of imprisonment with labour had somewhat decreased during the year, but a larger number of convicts was employed in working on the roads. The total value of the manufactured articles was Rs. 5,83,036—of which sum over four lakhs were actually paid into the Treasury. The net profits of the year were Rs. 2,19,771. The press department at Alipore (where, by the way, this report is printed) was so profitable that the "excess of earning over cost" amounted to Rs. 132-2-11-1 each prisoner. In seven other jails the prisoners earned more than they cost, which must be pronounced an entirely satisfactory arrangement. In jails where the prisoners were not self-supporting, the lowest net cost to the State was Rs. 4-10-10 per prisoner; the highest was Rs. 73-12-5. Dr. Mouat is satisfied with the general results obtained, as he has reason to be when he remembers that within eight years "a little more than one-third of the whole outlay incurred on account of the prisons, or nearly twenty-three lakhs of rupees, have been returned to the State by the labour of the convicts without taking into account the very large sum which has been saved by the employment of prison agency in such menial or other occupations in jail as afforded suitable labour of a penal kind, for which paid agency would otherwise have been necessary."

A code of rules for the management of these jails is still under consideration. The system of placing well-conducted convicts in positions of trust has answered "as well as could be expected"—a phrase that rings very like the "it might have been worse" of the Howrah police officer. A ticket-of-leave system, under certain restrictions, was begun during the year, the convict being obliged to work each day in the jail. Want of space in the jails is the great evil of which Dr. Mouat has to complain. All these defects are under the consideration of the Government.—Friend of India.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A STRANGE MURDER has been committed in Calcutta. According to the papers, "a gentleman" who lives near Creek-row, states that his wife heard a "great bawling" about three o'clock in the morning, and asked him to see what was the matter. He did not go out—perhaps in this country few would have done so under the circumstances, an uproar among natives being no very startling novelty. However, there was mischief going on this time. A chowkeedar found the bodies of two men by the door of a shop, with wounds upon them which had evidently been inflicted by an axe or a bar of iron, lying near. The Daily News regrets that some European who went to see the bodies indulged in "unfeeling and profane jests." This is minute reporting, and deserves to be carried into more important matters. The perpetrators of the murders have not been discovered.

THE MUNICIPALITY.—There was to have been a quarterly meeting of the Municipality on the 2nd January. So just is the estimation in which that body is held, that only sixteen justices attended—twenty-five being the number required to form a quarterly meeting. This is another illustration of the importance and value of the body.

A DRAWING ROOM AND LEVEE were held on Tuesday, January 3, at Government-house, at nine o'clock. The presentations were more numerous than has been known in India for many years. The Viceroy and Lady Lawrence seemed in excellent health.

RAILWAYS IN THE PUNJAB.—We (Hurkaru) are informed that the railway line from Umritsur to Mooltan—254 miles—is complete throughout its whole length without a break, and the agent, Mr. Stevens, and a party of friends, travelled the other day from end to end. It will be opened for traffic in the course of January. Mr. Henfrey, of the firm of Brassey and Co., the great English contractors, has arrived at Delhi in order to arrange for the construction of the line—280 miles—between that city and Umritsur, which is to be completed within three years. The services of all the contractors previously employed by the Punjab Railway Company on this work, including Messrs. Courtanze, Reid, and others, have been dispensed with by Messrs. Brassey and Co., according to a stipulation to that effect in the agreements made between the former, in event of the whole line being contracted for by a single firm or person. The rate to be paid to the contractors by the company is about £15,000 per mile, which includes the cost of bridges over the Sutlej and Beas, and other works of great magnitude. Messrs. Brassey are willing to arrange with sub-contractors for lengths of ten miles each person, but for no greater length.

TEA PLANTING ON THE MURREE HILLS.—The first attempt to introduce the tea-plant into the Murree Hills was made in 1852, at a place called Seelah, on the high road to Murree, but it proved a failure. A second attempt was undertaken in 1855, at Shamlee, sixteen miles from Murree, but with similar bad success. In 1859 Sir Robert Montgomery tried a third time to establish an experimental plantation, but, owing to the lateness of the season when the seeds arrived and were sown, the plants died. The fourth attempt failed in 1862. The Lieutenant-governor, remembering that it was some years before the tea cultivation succeeded in the Dehra Dhoon, was determined to give the experiment in the Murree Hills a fifth trial, under native gardeners experienced in the culture of the plant. The labours of these men were partially successful only; and it being found that a higher kind of experience than theirs was required, a head gardener was procured from the Saharunpore Gardens to act as superintendent. This man discovered that the plants had suffered from over-watering, and from being too much earthed up, and not properly protected. Under his directions a material improvement was soon visible, and the Lieutenant-governor of the Punjab was so encouraged in consequence that he ordered a careful examination of all the adjacent hills, and the sowing of seed in as many promising localities as possible. The results of these measures are reported to have proved highly satisfactory. On the arrival of the overseer there were but 150 plants at Seelah, 3 at Tret, and a few more at Shamlee—the survivors of 70,000 seedlings sent up by Dr. Jamieson from the Government Plantation at Holta. But when Sir Robert Montgomery visited the hills in September last he found the following number of young trees, all in a healthy state:—12,000 at Seelah, 9,000 at Tret, 2,500 at Shamlee, and 14,000 at Bissah. The area of these plantations was as follows:—Seelah, 3 acres; Tret, 1½; Shamlee, 1; and Bissah, 3. Three other plantations—Dukhain, 1,200, and Rujial and Kuror, 500 acres—had been fixed upon also; and there were 10,000 seedlings in the Government nursery. The Lieutenant-governor has great hopes that, with due care, the culture of the tea-plant will become as important in the Murree Hills as at Dera or at Kangra.—Scindian.

STEAM ON THE UPPER INDUS.—The Government of India, undeterred by the insignificance of the results, so far as pecuniary returns are concerned, of the attempt to introduce steamers into the traffic on the Upper Indus, have ordered out more vessels from England, better adapted than those hitherto in use to the peculiarities of the navigation.

MR. BUCKLE, of the Civil Service, who was removed from the judgeship of Moorshedabad in September last, has again appealed to the Viceroy against the decision of the Lieutenant-governor. Considering that Mr. Buckle had been nearly all his service of twenty-four years in the salt department, and was made a judge, nolens volens, on the abolition of his former appointment, and that the Lieutenant-Governor himself admitted that he was a hard-working and painstaking judicial officer, it is impossible to think otherwise than that he has been treated with a harshness almost unjustifiable. It is true that the High Court recommended his removal from Moorshedabad, but they also represented that, in their opinion, Mr. Buckle was competent to perform the judicial duties of a lighter district. In the case of a man who had done good service in his own department, this recommendation might have received some consideration; but it did not, and the result is that the outside world are disposed to regard Mr. Buckle as a victim to the fact of belonging to some imaginary clique not marked out for promotion, but reserved for treatment best described as "amalgamation justice."—Englishman.

MOULVEE AHMED-OOLAH.—Besides Mr. Mackenzie we (Englishman) hear that Mr. Fagan has been specially retained to defend Moulvee Ahmed-oollah, the late Municipal Commissioner and Income-tax Assessor at Patna, who was arrested so long ago as the 5th November last upon a deposition taken, as appears from the magistrate's own handwriting, a month subsequently, viz., the 5th December. The Moulvee is to be tried on two charges, under sections 121 and 123 of the penal code, for abetting the Sittana people in making war upon the Queen, and for concealing such treasonable practices on the part of some of his family. Some very curious revelations are expected of the mode in which the provisions of the twocodes which have been prepared with so much pains and care by the legislature are set aside by the local authorities. The single deposition under which the Moulvee has been detained in custody for more than two months is as follows:—

"The deposition of Isri Persad, son of Ram Sur-run Loll, of Hurdawar, pergunnah Shergotty, zillah Bhar, taken before me, James Munro, Officiating Magistrate of Patna, the 5th day of December, 1864—being sworn, states:—There are just now up at Umballa some Bengalis, Whazhun Sirdar, Kazi Meah Jan's brother, and others, who can testify to Ahmed Oolla being also concerned in the treasonable practices of which his brother and others have been convicted, and I have reason to believe that if his house . . . be searched, treasonable correspondence will be found. . . .

True copy of deposition so far as regards Ahmed Oolla. (Signed) J. MUNRO, 13th December, 1864. Officiating Magistrate.

We hear that witnesses in this case have been in custody fifteen or twenty days. In the trial at Umballa, Sir Herbert Edwardes made some severe remarks upon the pleaders retained for the defence, because he thought that some of the witnesses for the defence appeared to have been tutored.

MILITARY PAYMENT.—From the 1st of January a new system of military payment for officers has been inaugurated, in accordance with which, for the future, those drawing out their pay bills will be obliged themselves to make all the monthly deductions for the different funds, &c., and the pay and examiner's offices will only make any extraordinary deductions which may require to be enforced. We think this new rule an improvement upon the former system, being of opinion that a military officer ought, like other people, to be able to look after his own pecuniary affairs, and keep his own accounts; but, at the same time, it must be remembered that the officers of the Bengal army keep up some rather expensive secretariat establishments in connection with their funds; establishments, too, which, in case of errors in an officer's fund accounts, ignore all respectability, and tell the sufferer that he must be his own accountant. However, we think that it is quite right to relieve the paymasters of circles of the trouble of also keeping these fund accounts, and looking after the realisation of subscriptions, donations, &c., and we believe that, after a little trouble, the new system of payment will work well and give satisfaction.—Englishman.

THE E. I. RAILWAY.—If the Government cannot, or will not, take action as regards the serious state of affairs on the East Indian Railway, perhaps the Chamber of Commerce, many of whose members are interested in the matter, may think it right and wise to make a move. The line of railway between Allahabad and Calcutta is literally almost at a dead lock; troops, produce, imports, exports, merchandise, and property of every description, being accumulated, heaped up, and delayed in transit for want of the means of carriage. We are not here imputing blame to any person or persons. We believe that everything which zeal, energy, and unremitting attention can effect is being done by the railway officials; but it is this very fact that shows the necessity for something being done to secure despatch and evolve order out of the chaos which exists, and which is, of course, daily becoming worse and more embarrassing. It is, we understand, the fact that the value of the property of all kinds now accumulated at the East India Railway line may be estimated in millions sterling; and it is also a fact that many mercantile houses in Calcutta are anxiously awaiting the arrival of most valuable consignments long overdue, and which, if delivered in due course, might have been long since very profitably disposed of. It is a question whether, under these latter circumstances, the railway is not legally liable for the loss involved in the delay; but we pass over this point, as we are not writing in a spirit of accusation against the railway or its officials. The worst and the most hopeless feature of the case, as it now stands, is that it is really one of "nobody to blame;" the fact being simply that the East Indian line is, for four or five months of the year at least, unable to perform the enormous quantity of work which is required of it. In short, without a double line and more rolling stock, the railway will not fulfil the object for which it was undertaken.—Englishman.

ALLEGED UNPOPULARITY OF INDIAN SERVICE.—Brevet Major H. F. Brooke, of H.M.'s 48th Regiment, heretofore Brigade Major at Meerut, and just appointed Assistant Adjutant General of the Presidency Division, in Fort William, has, on the departure of his regiment for England, effected an exchange with Captain and Brevet Major H. J. Wilkin, of H.M.'s 94th Regiment, and aide-de-camp to his Excellency the Commander-in-Chief. Much as military employ in India has fallen in popularity, we have of late had several instances of officers of H.M.'s British corps who have elected, even at considerable regimental disadvantage, to exchange in order to remain out here on Staff employ. This, however, is a very different thing from going into the Staff Corps, which would leave the officers so doing with but one iron in the fire, whilst those exchanging to remain out have two.

THE NAGPORE GIANT.—Our Nagpore contemporary gives this account of the man of length whom we noticed the other day:—"This Polyphemus is seven feet four inches in height, and of enormous amplitude of chest. As regards the lower extremities, however, he is very ill-proportioned, having comparatively spindle shanks. When first he entered the city he was mobbed. An immense concourse, consisting of men, women, and children, gathered round him, and stoned him for an incarnation of the Evil One. But, luckily for him, somebody having discovered five mysterious marks on the crown of his head, announced that he was a god, and thereupon the fickle and superstitious populace immediately prostrated themselves before him, and actually worshipped him as a divine being! When he was at Kamptee all the Marwarree women paid him divine honours, and literally adored him. He is said to have led for some time a life of asceticism, and to have gone through an ordeal of extraordinary austerities, which is likely to be the truth, as the man is so weak that he cannot stand without being supported. He is performing a pilgrimage to the shrine at Indore, where he has a vow to fulfil. His head is not unusually large, but his aspect is hideously repulsive, and had he but one eye centrally placed, he would be no bad representative of the blinded Cyclops groping in his cave. His voice has an unearthly hollowness, and one of his hands would make four of an ordinary man's. He is now exhibiting himself, under the protection of the police, in a house outside the city, each curious spectator having to pay one pice for a peep at the live giant."—Hurkaru.

THE LATE EUROPEAN REGIMENTS.—We once again venture to lay before the subalterns of the late European regiments, who did not volunteer for general service, the hopeless chance of their getting their captaincy with the pay of the rank, unless they, without delay, memorialise Parliament, that the same boon be given in the cadre of their regiments as Sir Charles Wood has granted to the officers of the native regiments and General List, (viz., "The steps of the officers who have been appointed to the new line regiments") for the following reasons:—In the cadre of the late European regiments, there are twice and in many cases three times as many officers as there are in the native regiments, and therefore they will take at least twice as long, in getting their company in the same, although there are twice as many of captains in a cadre of a European as there are in a native regiment; but considering that the new line regiments are chiefly officered from the late European corps, who will have their turn of home service, the chances of mortality are less than those of a native regiment, and the consequence is, that the junior lieutenant of the late European regiments has not the same chance of his company. Again all the officers of the General List will get their promotion before them, for, when a captaincy becomes vacant in a native regiment (it being out of the question that such an occurrence should take place in a cadre of a European corps) they will get their company, since captaincies are not to be advertised as was formerly the case when a lieutenantancy fell vacant, and therefore all the General List officers will get their promotion before the junior lieutenants of the late European regiments, although all are many years their junior. We have tried to point out the hopeless condition of the late European regiments, unless one and all of the subalterns (who remained local) petition Parliament through the Committee of the Indian Army Grievance, that steps of all officers who were appointed from their regiments be given in the cadre, as has been granted in the cadre of the native regiments.—Englishman.

TIME-EXPIRED SOLDIERS.—The reason that no attempt has been made to retain in the country and the service the large number of time-expired men and trained soldiers now flocking down to the Presidency to embark for England is, that the only course which could be adopted to retain them would, if followed by the Government, constitute a precedent which might become exceedingly inconvenient and troublesome, if not dangerous, in the future. The case is a very difficult one to manage, and the seriousness of the dilemma is undeniable. The passage home to England of each of these trained soldiers will cost the Government £50, and to replace each man with a comparatively new and inexperienced soldier will cost at least £100 more; making, together, about Rs. 1,500. Now, without fixing any exact sum as a temptation to these men to remain in the service, we may safely assume that the mass of them, possibly every one of them, would accept a bonus of bounty money much less than the above sum; would, for it, forego their intention of leaving India and the services, and engage for a further period of ten years, at the end of which time the military career of those who survive will be at an end. But the Government is afraid, under what we may call exceptional circumstances of its own creation, to diverge from the beaten path of former times, and the consequence is that we are willingly, and with our eyes open, allowing a number of soldiers of inestimable value to leave our standard rather than purchase them back into our ranks at a price which we know would be beneath their worth to the public. This may be good policy, but it is not good business, as any man who has ever bought and sold can understand.—Englishman.

CATHEDRAL MISSION COLLEGE.—The late Bishop Wilson, chiefly from his own pocket, created a fund for the endowment of canonries in St. Paul's Cathedral, Calcutta. Unable to obtain a charter, the Bishop made over the fund to the Church Missionary Society, after it had been employed in the Cathedral Mission, which supported one or two agents. That fund is now to be devoted to the very best of purposes—the establishment of the Cathedral Mission College, for the training of undergraduates of the Calcutta University, with which it will be affiliated. Temporary premises have been taken for the college in Sukea's-street, near the late Rammohun Roy's house. It will open on the 15th Jan. under a principal and professors so competent as the Rev. J. Barton, M.A., the Rev. R. W. Shackell, M.A., Fellow of Pembroke College, Cambridge, and the Revs. E. C. Stuart, S. Dyson, and J. Welland. The college promises to take an important part in supplying the Christian element in that reformation which is going on in educated Bengalee society.

THE TERAI.—Ever since the gift of the Nepal Terai to Jung Bahadoor our enterprising timber dealers have experienced great difficulty in obtaining their supplies for Oudh and the N.W.P. The Nepalese officers offer every obstruction until they are well bribed into compliance. Complaints are made to the local Governments of Oudh and Allahabad, but without avail. We learn that one person, after getting permission from the Nepaul durbar and a purwannah to cut trees for 3,000 sleepers, was kept by one of these lieutenants, Hussey Buckt, at Bhurm Deo, months before he would look at the purwannah, and then, when the money was paid over, it was upwards of six months before he could get the timbers, and when he did get them 25 per cent. was added to the cost. It had to be paid, as there was no one to whom to appeal.

A SUTTEE was committed at Beygoon, in Rajpootana, in April last, under peculiar circumstances. The widow is said to have been determined on committing the act, and not only did her relations take no steps to prevent her, but rather appear to have encouraged her. One man, named Dwarkadoss, who was the uncle of her husband, was especially to blame. He rode to the place of cremation upon his horse, and, by his own confession, he stood passive by her whilst she was burnt alive at a distance of thirty yards. It is also said that seven hundred people were present at the suicide. The political agent of Meywar sentenced the chief offender to five years' imprisonment for culpable homicide, and two or three other offenders to shorter terms of imprisonment. In such cases mercy is cruelty, and the agent of the Governor-general for Rajpootana has very properly told the agent at Meywar that such crimes demand a severer punishment. The Viceroy has fully endorsed this view.

COST OF TRANSLATION.—A circular was issued some time ago by the Government of India regarding the cost of translating documents at the various Presidencies and Governments. The return made is curious enough, especially as we understand that all concur in the impossibility of reducing the expenditure under this head—

The Govt. of India pays monthly	Rs. 2,165
" N. W. Provinces	6,021
" Punjab	585
" Oude	200
" Central Provinces	150
" British Burmah	455
" Straits Settlements	872
" Madras	6,715
" Bombay	7,382

Monthly Rs. 37,473
or four lacs and forty-nine thousand two hundred and seventy-six rupees per annum. The heavy amount paid in Bengal is evidently on account of the expense of translating voluminous papers for the High Court. Besides this, the cost of translating to litigants must be enormous.

ONLY A NIGGER.—The life of a native pilot plying his trade on the River Indus is sometimes varied by rather disagreeable incidents. According to a news-writer in Kotree one of them stationed at Sehwan received very rough treatment at the hands of the officer commanding one of the steamers, and had it not been for the timely assistance rendered by the quartermaster of the vessel, he would in all probability have met with a watery grave. The circumstances of the case are as follows. The steamer was coming down stream, and on arrival at a certain position where the water was shallow, the pilot requested the captain to have the vessel turned round, whereupon the captain it appears got quite enraged at being addressed by a "nigger," and without any consideration threw him overboard. This is not the first time that the pilots have been subjected to the like treatment. There are many commanders of steamers on the Ganges who could tell similar tales.

THE VOLUNTEERS.—The first meeting of the Volunteers for prize shooting has been held during the first week in January. The first prize, a silver cup valued at Rs. 700, was won by Lieut. Mackenzie, who made thirty-seven marks in shooting at 300, 500, and 700 yards. In the second match Sergt. Dodds carried off the first prize; in the third Lieut. G. Teale came first on the list; in the fourth match Private Boggs won the first prize of Rs. 333, and Colour Sergt. G. Robb the second of Rs. 185. In the All Comers' match Lieut. Mackenzie again took the first prize of Rs. 250. The secretary states that "in the All Comers' match outsiders had no chance whatever against the Volunteers, and were 'nowhere.'"

SMALL-POX AT LAHORE.—The accounts of the ravages of small-pox in the city of Lahore are truly distressing, and so are they from Anarkullee. The cry from all parts of the country is for more European doctors. It is remarkable that the natives, educated in the Government medical colleges, are distrusted when the object is to combat this formidable disease.

ENGLISH AS THE OFFICIAL LANGUAGE.—The Bombay Gazette has some just remarks on Sir John Lawrence's order, directing that in future correspondence with native princes and chiefs shall be carried on as far as possible in English, and that in the event of a treaty being concluded the English copy shall be considered the authoritative and binding one. It was undoubtedly a mistake of Lord Canning in 1858 not to declare English the official language of the empire then placed directly under the Crown, but the behaviour of the Ranees of Dutteea in 1859 led him to revive Lord W. Bentinck's admirable rule on the subject. With Asiatic peoples the use of the ruler's language in treaties and courts, no less than the sole right of coining, and bestowal of titles, is a mark of suzerainty. It is significant, as the writer reminds us, that "the wretched sepoy mutineers seemed to have had a sort of instinctive apprehension of the effects likely to be produced by English, for in Delhi they forbade the use of the language, and maltreated any one who was supposed to be acquainted with it." We trust Sir John Lawrence will not stop at this order.

TENANT RIGHT AGITATION.—The Lahore Chronicle says that the great question of tenant rights, regarding which nearly all the District Officers have been called upon to give their opinion, is about to be brought very shortly before a Committee of Revenue Officers to assemble at Lahore. The necessity for considering this question has arisen out of a series of mistakes made on a very extensive scale at the Lahore Revenue Settlement. These mistakes, it is to be feared, have been made all over India, wherever the Government, led away by the theory of erecting a great landed aristocracy, as the only basis of national prosperity, has ignored the rights of the actual occupier of the soil.

MR. NEWMARCH, the barrister, retires, we believe, for good from India, having reaped the harvest he so richly deserved by his indefatigable assiduity and painstaking study of cases entrusted to him. To him the bar are indebted for Act XXI. of 1853, under which attorneys of the late Supreme Court are authorised to practise in the Sudder and Mofussil Court. It was Mr. Newmarch who first agitated the matter, and thus obtained a provision which was not at that time in the hands of the attorneys. In return these gentlemen entertained him at a grand ball at the Town-hall in 1853. Mr. Newmarch's departure will cause a gap in the legal ranks which will not be easily filled up.—Hurkaru.

HOWRAH FANCY FAIR.—The Fancy Fair at Howrah on Monday, January 2, for aiding the Zenana Mission, establishing a five's court and swimming baths at the hospital, and some other purposes, was a great success. The ladies who kindly interested themselves in the undertaking were, as the visitors say, resistless; the result was that the stalls were cleared, and the rupees abundant. This Fair is now a standard amusement of the season, and a praiseworthy one, inasmuch as it always accomplishes real good.

THE MADRAS MANCHESTER COTTON COMPANY.—We hear that the sanguine anticipations of Mr. A. C. Brice, and the other promoters of the Manchester Cotton Company at Madras, have been sorely disappointed, and that the undertaking is now being wound-up. The cotton presses, cotton gins, steam engines, machinery, land, houses, stores, and all other property belonging to the company in Karwar and the Dharwar district, are already advertised for sale. The company have sunk a very large capital in Shedashghur or Karwar, and the failure will, we fear, result in a great loss to shareholders.—Indian Daily News.

H.R.H. THE DUKE DE BRABANT.—The mail steamer from Suez, which called at Madras on the 8th January, had on board his Highness the Duke de Brabant, who paid a short visit to the shore during the time the steamer was in the roads. His Excellency Sir W. Denison, Major-general McCleverty, and their respective suites, were on the pier to receive his highness. The Duke de Brabant proceeded to Government-house, and partook of the Governor's hospitality. On his return to the steamer several gentlemen had assembled on the pier to pay their respects to the duke, who appeared to be well pleased at the respect and hospitality he had met with. The native community was represented by the Hon. Shurfool Oomrah Bahadur, who was introduced by Sir William Denison to the duke, and was very politely received.

THE RED HILLS.—An excursion to this neighbourhood will amply reward holiday-makers who may take the trouble to travel as far as the Red Hills. Leading to the Hills there is a splendid carriage-road, decidedly one of the best in Madras. The lake is exceedingly full—more than is usual even at this season of the year, there being sufficient water to float a comparatively large sized pinnace. The beauty of the scenery is exquisite. Nature seems to revel luxuriantly in verdant fields; few are the barren and uncultivated spots on which the eye may rest, the corn stalks bend with their ripening load—in a word, the country seems to invite the weary from his drudgery to a glorious indulgence for a few days in pleasure and health. The temperature is mild and bracing, the air is cool and yet not disagreeably keen, the rays of the sun are in a great measure tempered by the humidity of the atmosphere, and the Red Hills seem to recommend themselves as an unquestionable sanatorium for the sickly invalid. It is to be deplored that the public does not avail itself more largely of the natural attractions of this lovely little village, and of the advantages to be derived by life at, and cultivation of, the Red Hills.

PROGRESS IN HYDERABAD.—The Nizam of the Deccan, charmed with the beautiful results obtained by the British Government, by the institution of boards and bodies, has set up a Revenue Board of his own. His Highness has likewise thought of a Court of Appeal, and with these two imitations of John Company's weaknesses, it must be confessed that the happiness of his people must be complete. The Board of Revenue at Hyderabad seem, however, to possess rather anomalous functions. According to a writer in the Englishman it has determined that all Jagheers, Inams, endowments, &c., which have been conferred within the last twenty-six years, shall be re-called. This period fixes it to the time when Rajah Chundoolal quitted office, and is an official expression of the opinion that, since that period till Salar Jung obtained office, all has been absolute anarchy, a phantasma. Chundoolal's administration was most profuse in gifts of this nature, an inquiry into which, however, would have taken away from numerous influential persons privileges and rights which, not by the gift of Chundoolal, but by prescription, have become legally their own. It would surprise any one unacquainted with the state of Hyderabad to see how many of these gifts, bestowed within this period, are held under Sunnuds granted by Talookdars, and by Zemindars. Chundoolal had just as little right as these persons to give away anything permanently, but to call his grants into question would be a bouleversement of the condition of most of the subjects and servants of the Nizam. Then, again, the Board have framed regulations for the district police, probably it being a necessary portion of the duty of the police to collect his Highness's revenues. Fully resolved to carry their energy into every minute detail of the administration, in laudable emulation of the Bengal board, the Nizam's board of revenue have ruled that its Amlah shall not absent itself from its duties on the plea of sickness without sending in a medical certificate. (!) It would be laughable to think that a matter so trivial should be put forward in commendation of the board, but a stranger can have no conception of the retardation of business in every office of the Government but the Minister's own, by the subordinate officers absenting themselves on the occasions of births, marriages, or deaths occurring in their family, although of persons distantly connected with them, and of celebrations of all sorts.—Hurkaru.

MEMORIAL HALL CONVOCATION.—The last general convocation for thanksgiving took place on Saturday evening, January 7, at the Memorial-hall, the Hon. Hatley Frere having consented to take the chair on this occasion. The following gentlemen took their places on the dais:—His Lordship the Bishop, the Hon. Hatley Frere, the Archdeacon, the Rev. Messrs. Synonds, Richards, Smith, Gray, Corbold, Bartlett, Bower, Bell, Stephenson, Burgess, and Vencataramiah.

MISCELLANEOUS.

WHARFAGE ACCOMMODATION.—The Government of Bombay, to protect the public from the consequences of a monopoly of the whole foreshore of the island by two or three great Land Companies have, the Gazette states, appointed a commission to inquire into the subject of wharfage accommodation and wharfage dues. The Government can, if it thinks proper, withhold its sanction to the scale of fees to be finally adopted by any of the companies, which is, in fact, to fix and regulate the wharfage fees. Mr. Inverarity, Commissioner of Customs, is President of the Commission, which is composed of nominees of the Chamber of Commerce, and of the Wharfage and Railway Companies.

ARCHDEACON LYE.—The Bishop of Bombay has appointed the Rev. C. H. Leigh Lye, Archdeacon of Bombay, as successor to Mr. Boyes, who has gone home. The appointment is the best that could be made, though Mr. Leigh Lye is still a junior chaplain.

KATTYWAR.—The last petty conspiracy in Guzerat has been trampled out by the energetic Colonel Keating. His last report spoke of "the landing of armed mercenaries on the coasts of Kattywar." The Bombay Gazette now states that all the ringleaders, and especially the soucars who had advanced money to enlist troops, have been arrested. Whether they will be tried by a commission or by court-martial has not yet been decided.

THE KOOKEES.—The Englishman states that the Kookes on the frontier at Chittagong have attacked the villages in the district of Poangra, and that application has been made for more police.

MR. L. C. INNES, C.S.—The Queen has been pleased to appoint Lewis Charles Innes, Esq., of the Madras Civil Service, to be a judge of the High Court of Judicature at Madras.

The New Medical Warrant.

No. 1,060.—Fort William, Dec. 23, 1864.—The following military letter from the Right Hon. the Secretary of State for India, No. 340, of the 7th November, 1864, is published for general information:—

To H.E. the Right Hon. the Governor-general of India in Council.

Sir,—In continuation of my despatch, No. 152, dated 16th May, 1864, and with reference to your reply thereto, No. 242 of the 29th June, 1864, I have now the honour to communicate to your Excellency the decision at which H.M.'s Government has arrived regarding the future establishment of medical officers for service in India.

[Here follows copy of the despatch, which was published in No. 652 of November 28, 1864.]

No. 1,064.—The despatch published in the foregoing general order having been received on the 14th inst., its provisions, with such modifications as are hereafter directed, will come into effect from that date.

2. With reference to paragraphs 15 and 16, the Governor-general in Council is pleased to direct that, under further orders, the numbers of the administrative staff of H.M.'s British and Indian medical services in the three presidencies and the present system of medical administration shall remain unchanged.

3. To enable the future establishment of the Indian medical service to be laid down, it is requested that the Governments of Fort Saint George and Bombay will forward to the military department of the Government of India a detailed statement of the number of medical officers of H.M.'s Indian service required for the duties of those presidencies under the system now ordered, taking into account, as directed in paragraph 20 of the despatch of the Secretary of State, the several situations which may be properly filled by uncovenanted members of the medical profession.

4. Any assistant surgeons on the establishment of the three presidencies who may be entitled to promotion under paragraph 24 of the despatch are to be at once promoted with effect from the 14th of December, 1864.

5. The rates of pay specified in para. 28 of the despatch will be passed from the 14th instant, officers now in the Indian service continuing to receive the pay of their rank as laid down in para. 10 of Sir C. Wood's despatch of 16th May, 1864, G.G.O. No. 507, dated 20th June, 1864, when such pay is in excess of the consolidated salaries now fixed.

6. The pay of medical officers of H.M.'s British forces in India, as laid down in G.G.O. No. 507, of 20th June, and No. 953 of 26th November, 1864, is unaffected by this order.

7. Pending the revision of the salaries of all medical appointments in the civil and military departments directed in para. 30 of Sir C. Wood's despatch, officers holding such appointments will draw the same aggregate salaries as at present, and remuneration of all extra regimental charges as well as the salaries authorised for the charge of divisional and brigade staff, will continue to be passed.

8. Officers now holding the appointment of deputy inspectors-general of hospitals will have the benefit of serving the periods prescribed in para. 32 of the despatch, but officers hereafter appointed to this office will vacate it, if not re-appointed after a tour of five years.

9. The rules regarding absentee pay of inspectors-general and deputy inspectors-general, contained in para. 38 of the despatch, will at once be brought into operation.

10. Such promotions and alterations of rank as may be rendered necessary by para. 41 of the despatch will be made as soon as practicable by the Governments of Fort St. George and Bombay, and a roll of such promotions and alterations of rank as may be requisite in the Bengal Presidency will be submitted to the Government of India in the usual manner.

Station Staff Appointments.

Fort William, Dec. 29.—With reference to G.O. by the Gov. gen., No. 156a, of Oct. 13, 1863, the following rules are laid down for the classification of "station staff appts." at garrisons for which a brigade major or fort adjt. may not be authorised, with effect from Jan. 1, 1865:—

I. First Class.—With a staff salary of Rs. 150 per mensem (including all office charges), stations at which not less than the head quarters of two British regiments, or the head quarters of one British and one Native regiment and a battery of British artillery, are located.

II. Second Class.—With a staff salary of Rs. 100 (including all office charges), stations at which are located the head quarters of one British and one Native regiment; or of one Native regiment and a battery of British artillery and a detachment of a British regiment; or of a Native regiment, a wing of a British regiment, and a detachment of a second Native corps; or the head quarters of three Native regiments; or where there are detachments of a British and of two Native regiments of not less than two troops or companies each and without any regimental staff officer; or where there are wings or detachments of a British and a Native regiment and a battery of British artillery.

III. Third Class.—With salary of Rupees 50 (including all office charges). Such stations as have the head quarters of a British regiment with a battery of British artillery or with a wing of Native infantry, or of two Native regiments; or detachments of a British and of a Native regiment, of not less than three companies in the aggregate without a regimental staff officer; or the head quarters of a Native regiment and a British detachment.

2. At other stations the rule laid down in G.G.O. No. 1,461 of Oct. 28, 1859, as below, will hold good.

[At other stations where a station staff officer may be required and is authorised, the duties will be performed by one of the regimental staff officers, who will receive, if the force be less than two regiments, Rupees (25) twenty-five per mensem including writing and stationery.]

3. No detachment is to be reckoned unless equal to, or exceeding a troop or company, and no merely temporary diminution of strength of a garrison is to affect the salary of a station staff officer.

4. Station staff appointments can be held by officers of regiments quartered at the stations, or by unemployed officers of the staff corps or Indian armies. When officers not of the staff corps hold these appointments, the staff salary will be in addition to their regimental pay and allowances.

5. No officer will be allowed to hold the appointment of station staff who is not eligible for staff employment under existing rules, or who has not passed the examination in the lower standard, as laid down in Government General Order No. 734 of Sept. 9, 1864, unless at stations where there are only British troops, or temporarily, where no passed officer is available.

6. No appt. of a station staff officer will have effect unless made or confirmed by H.E. the C. in C. This order is applicable to the three Presidencies.

With reference to G.O. by the Gov. gen. No. 156a of Oct. 13, 1863, the following rules are laid down for the classification of "Convalescent Depots":—

I. First Class.—With a command allowance of 200 rupees. All depots intended for 200 men or upwards.

II. Second Class.—With a command allowance of 100 rupees. All depots intended for less than 200 men.

Staff officers of first class depots will receive a staff salary of 150 rupees, and of second class depots of 10 rupees per mensem—these salaries to include all office charges.

This order is applicable to the three Presidencies.

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL,

THURSDAY, February 16, 1865.

JUNIOR OFFICERS.

HOWEVER naturally the officers of the old Bengal and Bombay armies may plume themselves on the peaceful laurels won by their comrades and brothers-in-arms amid the wild solitudes and still more inhospitable peoples of Central Africa, there is a matter which concerns the efficiency of their service much more closely than the discovery of Lake Nyanza, or even of the sources of the Nile. Whether that fabled river flows out of an inland sea, or issues in dribblets from a mountain's side, is a question quite suitable for the idle industry of geographers, but which cannot be regarded as of any practical utility to mankind at large, and far less to that portion of her Majesty's forces serving in India. Of much greater moment is it to discover the sources whence the future supply of officers is to be derived to provide a reserve against the ordinary contingencies of a military career in the East. In the Bengal Presidency, owing to the defection of the sepoys and the consequent collapse of the entire native army, there was, for some time, a plethora of unemployed officers, and even now there remains an excess of supply over demand. Every year, however, that passes by sensibly reduces this "stock-in-hand," and, ere long, the same want will be felt that has already been experienced in the sister Presidencies. For the higher grades of staff employment, whether civil or military, no lack of candidates need be feared. Rank, comparative independence, and handsome allowances, will never fail to attract applicants possessed of every degree of merit. The difficulty only arises when subordinate posts, with scanty remuneration, have to be filled up; and yet if a good foundation be not laid, no lasting superstructure can ever be raised. It is now very nearly two years since it was commonly rumoured in Bombay that both Sir William Mansfield and Sir Bartle Frere had directed the attention of the Home Government to the drying up of the sources whence a supply of young officers was to be obtained for police duties and the humbler grades of staff employ. At that time the entire reserve, or surplus, consisted of no more than seventy officers, and of these upwards of a dozen were absorbed in the early part of 1863. Indeed, the annual consumption, according to the average rate of casualties, is estimated at very nearly thirty, so that by this time there cannot be more than twenty or thirty supernumeraries left "in stock." And even in 1863 it had become necessary to decline compliance with a requisition made by the Supreme Government for young probationary officers to serve with police corps. Besides, no small number of clever and promising subalterns have been detached from military duties to assist in the Public Works Department, and thus, with a diminution of the raw material there has been a constantly increasing demand for the manufactured article. This deficiency in the junior grades would be felt as a serious weakness should the Indian Government unhappily become involved in lengthened hostilities. One sharp campaign, even, might make a breach in the ranks of the senior officers which, under existing circumstances, it would be no easy matter to repair. It may be that a thorough soldier, like a poet, must be endowed by nature with a certain amount of inspiration, but for all that it cannot be doubted that personal experience and a familiar acquaintance with details are equally indispensable. But these essential requisites cannot be looked for in beardless boys who have scarcely mastered the mysteries of the goose step. The directors of the East India Company kept this obvious truism ever in mind, and took care to have a sufficient number of supernumerary ensigns always ready to take the places of those promoted to a higher rank. Of late, however, no cadets have been sent out to learn their duty on the spot, nor has the expectation been fulfilled that officers of European regiments would volunteer for service with native troops. The simple fact that, whoever entered the staff corps thereby forfeited whatever he had paid for his commission and subsequent steps, was of itself sufficient not only to make men pause, but to determine them as to remaining with their regiments. Neither was it likely that men devoted to their profession, and eager to distinguish themselves, would voluntarily forego all chance of displaying their valour and prowess in the face of an European enemy, and, as it were, under the very eyes of their own fellow-countrymen. But, whatever the cause, it is beyond all dispute that there is a scarcity of junior officers in the Indian armies, and it is equally apparent that no steps are being taken to remedy that evil. What, then, is the intention of the Government? Is it proposed to do away with the employment of military men in the public works and in civil or magisterial capacities? No doubt uncovenanted civilians and trained surveyors and engineers might be found to fill such posts, with adequate ability, and possibly at no greater cost than under the present system; but in the absence of such prizes the service would lose what few attractions remain to it, and no young men of promise would care to accept of an appointment that sentenced them for life to the monotony of a native corps. Service in India is by no means too popular as it is, though there is still some hope left to brighten the gloomy horizon. But let the few advantages it now possesses be taken away, and no man will be found to enter upon it who can earn an honest livelihood in any other profession or calling. Still the question recurs, how is it intended to supply the raw material for our future Malcolms, Nicholsons, and Outrams?

THE TALOOKDARS OF OUDE.

THE explicit and straightforward answer given by Sir Charles Wood to Lord Stanley's inquiry as to Sir John Lawrence's alleged interference with the rights of the Oude Talookdars will, it is to be hoped, put an end to the hasty and uncalled-for agitation that has been set on foot on behalf of the landowners of that province. A London weekly contemporary, a well-known organ of the Conservative party, has been particularly conspicuous in appealing to public opinion against the assumed intention of the Viceroy to repeat the errors of the settlement officers in the north-west. In a series of well written but highly coloured articles—in which the agony is sometimes piled up to a very tall height—the people of England are warned that their "good name for truth and honesty, which has always been (their) pillar of strength in India" is about to be "for ever tarnished"—like an electroplate ornament displayed in a smoky room. Sir John Lawrence, so we are assured, is bent upon undoing the beneficial work of Lord Canning—"in a word (he) is desirous of depriving the Talookdars of the proprietary rights which they indefeasibly hold in their estates, and of converting them into mere Government rent collectors," although by so doing he is certain to "outrage the feelings, and alienate the goodwill and loyalty of the people whom he has been appointed to govern." These are, unquestionably, very serious charges to bring against her Majesty's representative in India, and, if substantiated, would justify the instant dismissal and disgrace of such an unjust steward. Let us examine, then, into the grounds on which this impeachment is laid.

In the first place, we are reminded of her Majesty's gracious Proclamation on the assumption by the Crown of the direct Government of India, and our attention is particularly directed to the following paragraph:—"We know and respect the feelings of attachment with which the natives of India regard the lands inherited by them from their ancestors; and We desire to protect them in all rights connected therewith, subject to the equitable demands of the State; and We will that generally, in framing and administering the Law, due regard be paid to the rights, usages, and customs of India." In virtue of this august declaration the Talookdars of Oude have hitherto felt the most perfect confidence in the inalienable nature of their ancient rights and titles, and have administered their vast estates in the most liberal and enlightened manner. "These Talookdars," we are told on the authority of Mr. Kaye, "have always been regarded as independent landlords, who have held their estates subject only to the payment of the annual revenue to the State, and to their remaining 'faithful and zealous in their allegiance to the British Government.'" Lord Canning himself characterised the Talookdaree system as "the ancient, indigenous, and cherished system of the country." The Talookdars, in short, are "the nobles and chiefs of the country, who have as much right to their possessions as any of our noble families have to their estate;" and what,—we are asked in a tone that brooks no difference of opinion—"what would the representatives of some of our great ducal houses say if an official investigation were now to be made into the manner in which their vast possessions were originally acquired, and if the result of such an investigation should prove that the present dukes were not the bona fide proprietors of their estates, which in reality belonged to the tenants who had acquired by prescription, or a long course of years, hereditary rights superior to their own?" And if some foreign conqueror were to declare that the tenants of the Duke of Northumberland, or of his Grace of Cleveland, were "the actual proprietors of the farms they are now cultivating, would it be thought strange if these noble dukes, in the event of a rebellion, felt but little inclination to side with their despoiler? But this is precisely what Sir John Lawrence proposes to do with the long descended Talookdars of Oude. "The Viceroy, in fact, is desirous of stepping in between the Talookdar and his tenants, and prescribing to him the rate at which he must let his lands." Truly, a hard case, and, seeing that, in almost all respects, "the power of the Talookdar over his estates is undoubted and illimitable," it is an evident encroachment upon his title as a landlord to recognise any sort of proprietary rights in his tenants and subordinate cultivators of the soil. And if Sir John Lawrence is permitted to indulge his despotic humours in this unjustifiable fashion, can it be questioned that "Englishmen will be deterred from embarking their capital in India, and devoting the best years of their lives to the great work of contributing to the material, social, and ultimately, to the religious welfare of her people"? Certes, it would be a sad thing if the adventurous Anglo-Saxon were discouraged from bartering Christianity for cotton, and tracts for tea-leaves. It is such a well-known fact that the first thing a planter strives to accomplish is to make his ryots and coolies thoroughly comfortable, and then, after providing them with a mechanics' institute well supplied with the Calcutta papers, to bring them by precept and example into the Christian fold. Who would not grieve to mar the simple and touching picture of the Sir Roger de Coverley of Assam, or Cachar, proceeding in state to the village church, surrounded by his grateful coolies, their blooming wives, and reverential babes? Let us be thankful that no such disaster is at hand, that no such danger is impending. Sir John Lawrence has no more idea of depriving the Oude Talookdars of a single right to which they are fairly entitled, than he has of absolving the tenants of the Duke of Sutherland of their duty to pay his Grace the rent they owe him.

What the Viceroy really desires to do is to fulfil the spirit as well as the letter of her Majesty's most gracious proclamation to the princes, chiefs, and people of India. He is anxious that all owners of land, small as well as great, should be protected, and that due regard be paid to the rights, usages, and customs of the lowliest as well as of the loftiest of her Majesty's subjects in the Far East. He is fully aware—to use Mr. Kaye's concise and graphic description—that "the Talookdar was little more than an hereditary revenue contractor. His right was the right to all the just rents paid by the actual occupants, after the satisfaction of the Government claims. His property was the rent, minus the revenue of a particular estate. This Talookdaree right, or right of collection, was distinct from the Zemindaree right, or proprietary right in the soil. The Talookdar, who paid to Government the revenue of a large cluster of villages, had, perhaps, a proprietary right in some of these small estates; perhaps, in none. The proprietary right, in most instances, lay with the village communities." Neither can his Excellency be ignorant of the very hasty conclusion reached by Lord Canning per saltum that the Talookdaree system was "indigenous," and, further, that in Oude the cultivator of the soil has no sub-proprietary right, or right of occupancy at a fixed unvarying rent. Sir John Lawrence, we may rest assured, thoroughly understands how it was Lord Canning, in the spirit of magnificence, overlooked the rights and usages of the small fry, and how Lord Elgin, in the spirit of affable indolence, decided upon letting well alone. But when the real state of the case was officially represented to him, when a very high officer of the Oude Commission insisted that for years past a large number of cottier-tenants had been kept out of their hereditary rights, could he do otherwise than order an impartial inquiry to be made, preparatory to meting out even-handed justice unto all? No man knows his duty better, or will discharge it more impartially and firmly, than the present Viceroy of India, and his knowledge of the customs and usages that prevail in the North-west is so extensive and familiar that he is not likely to be easily misled. Whatever power the Oude Talookdars are justly entitled to exercise, that they will continue to wield without let or hindrance. But they will certainly not be permitted to dispossess the humble tiller of the soil of that which has been bequeathed to him through a far longer "line of ancestors" than the proudest Talookdar can boast of, and which he enjoys, not, indeed, as the result of any "indigenous" system, but as a part of the institutions inherited from his Aryan forefathers. All that Sir John Lawrence seeks to attain is the realisation of that happy time when every man shall sit under his own fig-tree and no one shall make him afraid, and this, in simple truth, is the head and front of the offence for which he has so sharply been taken to task in the columns of our weekly contemporary, the Press.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—FEB. 9. INDIAN PETITIONS.

Petitions were presented, by Colonel SYKES, from Captain and Brevet-major C. E. Taylor, of the Madras 35th Native Infantry, stating that the scheme to carry out the recommendations of her Majesty's Commissioners by the Secretary of State for India, published in the Madras Gazette of August, 1864, has not only failed to afford redress, but in his case has aggravated his grievances, and praying for redress of this and other grievances; also from Colonel W. B. Wemyss, of the Bengal Army, stating that he has been thirty-nine years in the service; that, in consequence of two lieutenant-colonels who have retired from the service upon their pensions being retained upon the army list, he is deprived of his colonel's allowances, which he should have had on the 30th of September, 1862; complaining likewise of other violations of the Parliamentary guarantee, and praying for redress; by Lord STANLEY, from Captain Whittaker, of the Indian Army, complaining of arrangements consequent on the amalgamation of the armies; by Mr. JACKSON, from W. D. Broughton and Thomas W. Seager, praying for inquiry and consideration of their claims as Indian officers, affected by the recent changes made in the Army of India; by Captain JERVIS, from Colonel Bishop, Bengal Army, Lieutenant Grylls, late 18th Bengal Native Infantry, Captain Jenkyns, late 4th European Cavalry, and Lieutenant-colonel Strangways, Bengal Infantry, for redress of grievances.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—FEB. 10.

Petitions complaining of the arrangements of the Government in respect of the Indian Army were presented by Colonel SYKES, from Major John Langston, of the 4th Bombay Native Rifles; also from Captain and Brevet-major James Blair, v.c., of the 2nd Bombay Light Cavalry; by Mr. MOOR, from Lieutenant-colonel Molyneux Capel Spottiswoode, 24th Regiment Madras Native Infantry; also from Major Francis Mardall, 16th Regiment Madras Native Infantry; from Captain John Alfred Ellis, 8th Regiment Madras Native Infantry; and by Mr. H. J. BAILLIE, from Major Ewen Grant.

THE TALOOKDARS OF OUDE.

Lord STANLEY asked the right hon. baronet the Secretary for India whether the inquiry now being carried on into the respective rights of the talookdars and cultivators of Oude was in pursuance of instructions issued by him; and whether he would lay upon the table any correspondence that may have passed on the subject; and also whether he could give any explanation of the nature and purport of that inquiry?

Sir C. WOOD: I have no difficulty in answering the question of my noble friend, and as considerable misapprehension exists upon this subject, it may be desirable that I should state very briefly the circumstances under which this inquiry has been instituted. It has, I know, been represented that Sir John Lawrence has materially reversed the policy of Lord Canning with regard to the settlement in Oude, and been guilty of a breach of faith with the talookdars. I hope that the House will feel sure that Sir John Lawrence is incapable of doing anything of that kind. The great feature of Lord Canning's policy with regard to the settlement of Oude was to restore the talookdars to the position of independent native landowners and gentlemen, and to make the settlement direct with them, in lieu of the system which had prevailed in the North-West Provinces of a settlement with the under proprietors. That remains perfect and altogether untouched; but there is a question as to the existence of certain rights of cultivators in Oude. The Chief Commissioner believes that such rights did not exist; the Judicial Commissioner believes that they did. The Chief Commissioner admits frankly that if they did exist they are preserved under the summons of Lord Canning to the talookdars, in which a condition was inserted that all the rights of persons holding under them and subordinate to them should be secured; and the object of the inquiry ordered by Sir John Lawrence is simply to ascertain whether these rights did or did not exist. If the result should be that they did not exist, there is an end of the question. If the result should be that they did exist, then it will be the duty of the Government, under the stipulations of Lord Canning's grant to the talookdars, to respect them. It was not in consequence of any instructions from home that the inquiry was ordered. I shall not have the slightest objection to lay on the table all the papers that we have upon the subject. I am only sorry to say that some documents which we ought to have received have not been transmitted to us, and, therefore, the information which I can give to the House is, like what I possess myself, very imperfect.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—FEB. 13.

CONTRACTS IN INDIA.

Sir H. CAIRNS asked the Secretary of State for India whether the Legislative Council of India have passed an Act enabling district and other judges in India to enforce specific performance of personal contracts by sentencing the defendants in actions on such contracts to terms of imprisonment; and whether he would lay the Act upon the table?

Sir C. WOOD said that a measure for enacting a code of civil procedure had been published in India which contained some clauses for the purpose referred to in the question of the hon. and learned gentleman; but, as there was no intention to propose those clauses in the form in which they now stood, no object would be served by laying them upon the table.

THE EXPEDITION TO BHOOTAN.

Lord STANLEY inquired of the Secretary of State for India whether he would lay papers on the table showing the present state of affairs in Bhootan, especially with reference to the recent acquisition of territory in that country?

Sir C. WOOD said that had it not been necessary to go back some time in order to make the history of those transactions intelligible, he should have laid the papers on the table as soon as Parliament met; but they were in course of preparation, and would be produced as soon as they were ready. The extent of our acquisition would be confined to the occupation of a line of forts to protect our own territory.

MOORINGS AT CALCUTTA.

Sir J. ELPHINSTONE asked the Secretary of State for India whether anything as yet had been determined on towards replacing the defective moorings that were carried away bodily during the cyclone of October last in the Calcutta river; and whether some more efficient plan or appliance ought not now to be tried, in order to prevent, as far as possible, the recurrence of similar shipping disasters?

Sir C. WOOD said that a despatch had been addressed to the Government of India at Calcutta calling their attention to this subject, but it was crossed by another from that Government asking for a supply of screw piles, with mooring-chains attached. Some doubts being entertained as to the sufficiency of the piles for which they had asked, he had appointed a small committee of officers of the Indian navy and Bengal marine, who were all acquainted with the Hooghly, to consider and report to him how it would be most desirable to comply with the desire of the Government of India. As soon as he had received their report it would be his duty to send out the necessary materials by the overland route.

INDIAN PRIZE MONEY.

Mr. COX asked when the Central Indian prize money would be distributed?

Sir C. WOOD replied that the question of the distribution of the Central Indian prize money had been made the subject of discussion in that House last Session, and that his noble friend at the head of the Government had then announced it to be his intention to abide by the decision of the Admiralty Court with respect to it. That decision had not yet been pronounced, and no distribution could in the meantime take place.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—FEB. 14.

Petitions complaining that the measures adopted by the Secretary of State for India to remedy supersession afford no redress whatever, and praying for redress, were presented by Mr. HADFIELD, from Brevet-major Holmes, of the 17th Regiment Madras Native Infantry, and from Lieut. John Beresford Gahan, of the 3rd Madras European Regiment; by Mr. HEYGATE, from three officers in the Indian Army; by Colonel SYKES, from Major Young, of the Royal Army, and Captain and Brevet-Lieut.-Colonel Cooper, of the Madras Army; by Sir J. HAY, from Captain Patrick Salter, 4th Regiment Madras Native Infantry and from Major Charles Hight, 18th Regiment Madras Native Infantry.

THE NAWABSHIP OF THE CARNATIC.

Sir F. KELLY gave notice that on Tuesday,

March 14, he should move the appointment of a Select Committee to inquire into the claims of Prince Azeem Jah to the Nawabship of the Carnatic.

SANITARY STATE OF CALCUTTA.

Mr. VANSITTART asked the Secretary of State for India whether anything had been done to improve the sanitary state of Calcutta; if so, whether he had any objection to produce papers relating to the same; and, whether it had been determined to relieve the European troops serving in India by the overland route; if so, whether any and what arrangements had been made for their transmission.

Sir C. WOOD said, in reply to the first question, that a sanitary commission had been some time ago appointed, and that they had made a report on the subject to the Government of India. He, however, had as yet received no account of what had been done in consequence of that report. It was, he might add, the intention of the Government to send out the troops to India overland.

MISCELLANEOUS.

GENERAL SIR J. W. SLEIGH, K.C.B.—The name of General Sir J. W. Sleigh, who is just dead, is associated with many of the leading military engagements of this country. The deceased general was born at Hanworth, Middlesex, in 1780, and having received his education at Winchester School, entered the army in 1795, and was constantly employed regimentally for a period of 47 years. In 1839 he became colonel of the 9th Lancers, and in 1854 attained the rank of general. In 1795 he served in Flanders, and in 1799 in the campaign in North Holland and the Helder, being present in the actions of the 10th and 19th of September, and the 2nd and 6th of October. He served in the Peninsular War, 1811-12, at the siege of Badajoz, the battle of Salamanca, at Elbodon, and the cavalry affair at Torres. At Waterloo he commanded the 11th Dragoons, and succeeded to the command of the 4th Brigade of Cavalry, which he held on the advance to and the taking of Paris. In 1819 he accompanied his regiment to India, and commanded the cavalry at the siege of Bhurtpore, 1825-6. Afterwards he received the thanks of Parliament for his gallant and meritorious conduct. His next appointment was that of Inspector of the Indian Cavalry, after which he became Military Secretary to the Governor-General (Lord William Bentinck). This led to his being placed as Major-general of Division on the staff at Bombay, and he remained there for three years. On returning to England in 1839 he was made Inspector-general of Cavalry. The deceased was a K.C.B., a Knight of the Bavarian Order of Maximilian Joseph, and had medals for Waterloo, Bhurtpore, Salamanca, and other places.

CONSULAR APPOINTMENTS.—(Foreign Office, Feb. 1.)—The Queen has been pleased to approve of Mr. G. Overbeck as Consul at Hong Kong for his Majesty the Emperor of Austria.—(Feb. 9.)—The Queen has been pleased to approve of Mr. Giovanni Edoardo Leveson as Consul at Singapore for his Majesty the King of Italy. CHINA STEAMSHIP AND LABUAN COAL COMPANY.—A prospectus has been issued of the China Steamship and Labuan Coal Company, with a capital of £500,000, in shares of £25. This is not a new undertaking, but an apparently useful junction of two old ones, with the view of each bringing to the other an important element of success and of remedying a deficiency of capital with which both have hitherto had to contend. The Labuan Coal Company, as far as the development of a superior quality of coal is concerned, are understood to have more than realised their original expectations, but are without the means of bringing it to market in an efficient manner, while the China Steamship Company have a fleet to the operations of which an economical and unfailing supply of steam fuel is of primary importance. The present price of coal in China, although exceptionally low, is 45s. per ton; while its cost is but 6s. 9d. at Labuan, and would be but 25s. reckoning freight and all other expenses connected with its delivery in China. The coal, it is stated, is contracted for extensively by the Admiralty, and the mines, which are practically inexhaustible, are held under a grant from the Government. The direction is mostly composed of capitalists and others of Eastern experience.

BILLS ON INDIA.—The biddings for 30,00,000 rupees (£300,000) in bills on India took place on Wednesday, Feb. 15, at the Bank of England, and the following are the official particulars. The proportions allotted were—to Calcutta, 15,39,000 rupees; to Bombay, 12,00,000 rupees; and to Madras, 2,61,000 rupees. The minimum price was as before, 1s. 11½d. on Calcutta and Madras, and 1s. 11½d. on Bombay. Tenders on Calcutta and Madras at 1s. 11½d. will receive about 43 per cent., and on Bombay at 1s. 11½d., about 92 per cent.; above these prices in full.

THE MAILS, &c.—SOUTHAMPTON, Feb. 12.—The Peninsular and Oriental Company's steam ship Massilia, Captain J. C. Almond, sailed this morning for Gibraltar, Malta, and Alexandria, with the Mediterranean and Bombay mails, a full cargo, and 148 boxes of specie, jewelry, &c., value £54,513, viz.:—For Alexandria, silver coin, £175; watches, £60. For Bombay, bar gold, £10,000; gold coin, £3,100; bar silver, £37,900; silver coin, £1,700; coral, beads, &c., £1,578. The Massilia takes out forty first and twenty second-class passengers, and twenty-three proceed by the corresponding steamer from Marseilles, making a total of eighty-three. Among them are the Rev. W. G. Codrington, for Gibraltar; Lieutenant Geneste, R.N., and Ensign Hamilton, for Malta; Colonel Lacey, Cornet Du Vernet, Captain Wallace, Dr. W. R. Elliott, Captain Marett, Captain J. W. Fitzmaurice, Lieutenant E. Pottinger, Captain J. H. Castell, Captain and Mrs. Stevenson, for Bombay, &c.

DR. HUGH FALCONER.—It is contemplated to erect a memorial of the late Dr. Hugh Falconer, in the form of a marble bust, in the rooms of one of the learned societies of which he was so great an ornament. The following gentlemen have undertaken to receive subscriptions for this purpose:—Dr. J. Percy. G. Busk, Esq., C. Macrae, Esq., and Dr. C. Murghison.

MAPS OF INDIA & CHINA.

MAP of INDIA; showing the British Territories subdivided into Collectorates, and the position and boundary of each Native State; chiefly compiled from Trigonometrical Surveys, executed by order of the Honourable Court of Directors of the East India Company. On six sheets—Size, 5 ft. 6 in. high; 5 ft. 8 in. wide. 22; or, on cloth, in a case, 22. 12s. 6d.; or, with rollers and varnished, 23. 3s.

The object kept in view in compiling this map has been to render it available to the greatest possible extent for popular use. For this purpose the names of all stations, civil and military, are inserted, as well as those of all towns and places of note likely to be looked for. To make clear the subdivisions of the whole of the country, both British and natives, the limits of the various districts and collectorates, with their names, are distinctly indicated. The railways and telegraphs are laid down, and the trunk roads conspicuously coloured. The newly-acquired district in Burmah is included. To avoid, however, the confusion consequent upon over-crowding, and make the map clear and easy for reference, the names of many small villages, and places of no present importance, have been omitted, and thus a very wide measure of comprehensiveness has been attained, while needless diffusiveness has been avoided.

A GENERAL MAP of INDIA; compiled chiefly from Surveys executed by order of the Honourable East India Company, with the railways and telegraphs. On six sheets—Size, 5 ft. 3 in. wide; 5 ft. 4 in. high. 22; or, on cloth, in a case, 22. 13s. 6d.; or, with rollers and varnished, 23. 3s.

MAP of the ROUTES in INDIA; with Tables of Distances between the principal Towns and Military Stations. On one sheet—Size 2 ft. 3 in. wide; 2 ft. 9 in. high. 9s.; or, on cloth, in a case, 12s.

In this map are given the whole of the military and civil stations, together with the principal towns, the villages being omitted, so as to make the stations more prominent. The colouring defines the boundaries of the three Presidencies and shows also the railways and telegraphs.

MAP of INDIA and CHINA, BURMAH, SIAM, the MALAY PENINSULA, and the EMPIRE of ANAM. On two sheets—Size, 4 ft. 3 in. wide; 3 ft. 4 in. high. 16s.; or, on cloth, in a case, 21. 5s.

MAP of AFGHANISTAN, and the ADJACENT COUNTRIES. On one sheet—Size 2 ft. 3 in. wide; 2 ft. 9 in. high. 9s.; or, on cloth, in a case, 12s.

MAP of CHINA, from the most Authentic Sources of Information. One large sheet—Size, 2 ft. 7 in. wide; 2 ft. 2 in. high. 8s.; or, on cloth, in a case, 11s.

A MAP of the WESTERN PROVINCES of HINDOOSTAN, the PUNJAB, CABOOL, SINDE, BHAHWALPORE, &c., including all the States between Candahar and Allahabad. On four sheets—Size, 4 ft. 4 in. wide; 4 ft. 2 in. high. 30s.; or, on cloth, in a case, 22; or on rollers, and varnished, 22. 10s.

MAP of ARABIA, from all the most recent Authorities, by order of the Court of Directors of the East India Company. Size, 3 ft. 3 in. high; 4 ft. 3 in. wide. On cloth, in a case, 21. 5s.

BY DAVID THOMAS ANSTED, M.A., F.R.S., &c.

AND

ROBERT GORDON LATHAM, M.A., M.D., F.R.S., &c.

The Illustrations drawn on Wood expressly for the Work, by PAUL J. NAPPÉ, Member of the London Society of Painters in Water Colours.

"The 'Channel Islands' is an excellent book of its class—well conceived, well written, well illustrated, well printed. It is the produce of many hands, and every hand a good one. Nearly every thing which a man can desire to know about Jersey, Guernsey, Alderney, and Sark—about their history, Geography and natural history—Professor Ansted and Dr. Latham have contrived to tell. Altogether the contents of the volume are as varied and interesting as a well-sustained drama; and to this drama no more graceful and picturesque scenery could have been furnished than we find in the illustrations so profusely given by artists worthy of the subject and equal to their worth—Paul Nappé and M. Pierre Le Lièvre. The result is not a merely handsome volume of the old 'Keepsake' style, made to sell and be looked at, but a book of rare merit and value, made for instruction and delight, to be read with pleasure and to be referred to with profit."—Athenæum, Nov. 15, 1863.

RUPTURES.—BY HER MAJESTY'S ROYAL LETTERS PATENT.*WHITE'S MOC-MAIN LEVER TRUSS,

Perfected and Exhibited in the Great Exhibition of 1851, is allowed by upwards of 200 Medical Gentlemen to be the most effective invention in the curative treatment of Hernia. The use of a steel spring so often hurtful in its effects, is here avoided; a soft bandage being worn round the body, while the requisite resisting power is supplied by the MOC-MAIN PAD and PATENT LEVER, fitting with so much ease and closeness that it can be detected, and may be worn during sleep. A descriptive circular may be had, and the Truss (which cannot fail to fit) forwarded by post on the circumference of the body two inches below the hips being sent to the Manufacturer, Mr. WHITE, 225, Piccadilly, London.

Price of a Single Truss, 16s., 21s., 26s. 6d., and 31s. 6d.; postage, 1s. Price of Double Truss 31s. 6d., 42s., and 52s. 6d.; post 6d., 1s. 6d. Umbilical, 42s. and 52s. 6d.; postage, 1s. 10d.

NEW PATENT.ELASTIC STOCKINGS, KNEE CAPS,

&c.—The material of which these are made is recommended by the Faculty as being peculiarly elastic and compressible, and the best invention for giving efficient and permanent support in all cases of weakness and swelling of the Legs, Varicose Veins, Sprains, &c. It is porous, light in texture, and inexpensive, and is drawn on like an ordinary stocking. Price, 4s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 10s. to 16s. each; postage, 6d.

JOHN WHITE, MANUFACTURER, 225, PICCADILLY, LONDON.

POWDER.

For which a Prize Medal was awarded to the Producer at the International Exhibition, 1862.

THIS POWDER is quite harmless to animal life, but is unrivalled in destroying Fleas, Bugs, Flies, Cockroaches, Beetles, Gnats, Mosquitos, Moths in Furs, and every other species of insect.

SPRATSWEN will find this an invaluable remedy for destroying fleas in their dogs, as also ladies for their pet dogs. It is perfectly harmless in its nature, and may be applied with out any apprehension, as it has no qualities deleterious to animal life.

Sold in Packets, 1s., 2s. 6d., and 4s. 6d. each, or post free for four, on order, six post age stamps, by THOMAS KEATING, Chemist, 79, St. Paul's churchyard, London, E.C.

Take notice each genuine packet bears the above name and address. See The Field, October 7th and 9th, pp. 263, 263, and 294.

SARSAPARILLA.

WILKINSON'S (late BRIDGES) ESSENCE OF FLUID EXTRACT OF RED JAMAICA Sarsaparilla is a preparation for its Purity, and marked superiority, daily prescribed by the Faculty for Impurities of the Blood, Affections of the Liver, Constitutional Debility, Attenuation of Body, as an Alterative Medicine at the Changes of the Seasons, and for freeing the system from the effects of Mercury.

In India and the Colonies it is extensively used to prevent taking complaints incident to Tropical Climates, and as a renovator of the system after Sickness invaluable.

"A superior preparation, that may always be relied on."—Sir Astley Cooper.

"We are in every respect satisfied with it."—Lancet.

"We recommend your Sarsaparilla as the best."—Medical Review.

"Lastly, in consequence of much debility, &c., subsequent to Cholera, I have freely used 'Bridges' sarsaparilla' myself, with complete benefit and success."—J. Poett, F.R.C.S.

Sold in pints, half-pints, and quarter-pints. One pint equal to eight pints of the ordinary preparations.

IMPORTANT CAUTION.—The public are cautioned against cheap preparations of Sarsaparilla, which, instead of being what they profess to be, are nothing but a decoction of common herbs sweetened with molasses, and flavoured with American Winter Green. The genuine has "Thos. Wilkinson (late Bridge and Co.), 270, Regent-street, London," engraved on each bottle.

AGREEABLE SEDLITZ POWDER in one bottle, protected by a case with measure and spoon included. This preparation is highly recommended, not only as a Mild Aperient, but to allay Fever, Thirst, &c.

AROMATIC TINCTURE of QUINIDINE for the prevention of Fever, Intermittent or Remittent Ague, and other effects of Malaria. No person exposed to the influence of or predisposing cause of Fevers should be without it, for if taken in small doses daily the system will become so thoroughly impregnated with its principles as to be rendered proof against all attacks of Contagion or Malaria. Sold in pints, half-pints, and quarter-pints.

The above articles prepared only by Thos. Wilkinson (late Wilkinson, Bridge, & Co.), 270, Regent-street, London, W.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT and PILLS.

DROPSICAL SWELLINGS.—Whatever may be the remote cause of collections of water in the human body it must be prudent to disperse them as soon as possible. The ready means of accomplishing this end are supplied by using Holloway's Ointment to increase the activity of the absorbents. When this Ointment is well rubbed in on the skin it removes all venous congestion, overcomes all mechanical obstruction to the free return of the blood, and prevents the deposit of serum and water. Holloway's Pills likewise augment this absorbing power; they move circumspectly on the capillaries through the circulation, while his Ointment acts directly through the skin. Both should be employed in dropsies and diseases of the kidneys.

MAILS TO INDIA.

Mails to India and China, via Marseilles, are despatched from London as follows, viz.:—Those for Bombay packets, on the evening of the 3rd and 19th of each month; and those for Calcutta packets (including mails for Ceylon, Madras, and China), on the evenings of the 10th and 26th of each month. When any of these dates fall on a Sunday, the mails are made up on the following evening.

Letters and Newspapers can be forwarded to any part of India, via Bombay and Marseilles, and in most cases will reach their destination some days sooner than if despatched by the following Calcutta mail. The Bombay mails via Southampton, however, are no longer available for the transmission of Letters or Newspapers to the Madras Presidency.

Mails for the Mediterranean, and all parts of India and China, except the Bombay Presidency, are despatched via Southampton on the mornings of the 4th and 20th, or, when either of these dates falls on Sunday, upon the previous evening.

Mails for the Mediterranean, the Presidency of Bombay, and Upper or North-Western Provinces of Bengal and China, are despatched via Southampton on the 12th and 27th of the month, except when they fall on Sunday, in which case they are forwarded on the previous evening.

A French line of mail packets now leaves Marseilles on the 19th of every month for Alexandria. Postage for letters and papers to India and China the same as is charged by the English mail via Marseilles. Letters intended to be forwarded by these packets must be specially addressed "By French mail packet from Marseilles."

POSTAGE.

SUMMARY AND REVIEW.

THE Bombay Mail via Marseilles brings us papers from that Presidency to the 28th of January, and from Calcutta to the 21st of that month. The most interesting news from the latter city relates to the reception of the Duke de Brabant, who arrived by the Simla on the 11th January, and landed under a salute from Fort William. H.R.H. was, of course, the guest of H.E. the Viceroy, who not only gave several dinners in honour of the Prince, but also accompanied him to an Assembly Ball at the Town Hall. The Duke is said to have expressed great interest in the sale of waste lands and in the progress of tea planting, and seemed much surprised at the extent and general appearance of the capital of British India. H.R.H. is, perhaps, slightly sarcastic. In any case he was soon satisfied with the charms of the City of (stuccoed) Palaces, and proceeded to Benares on the 15th, attended by Lieutenant-Colonel Blane, Aide-de-Camp on the Personal Staff of the Viceroy, who is charged to exhibit to the Prince all that is most noteworthy in Upper India.

Mr. Readon has so recovered from his late indisposition as to be able to open in person the Agricultural Show at Mozufferpore, the chief city in Tirhoot. These Exhibitions appear to have taken hold of the native mind, and already to have created considerable emulation. At Dacca, for instance, the Mymensingh Zemindars waited upon his Honour, and offered to double both their subscriptions and contributions if next year an Exhibition were held in that town; whereupon the people of Dacca promised to raise 20,000 rupees, instead of 10,000, to secure that favour a second time for themselves. The benefits to be expected from these Shows were clearly expressed by the Lieutenant Governor in the following paragraph:—

And indeed, Ladies and Gentlemen, it is only to the development of her agriculture that India can look for material improvement and for the augmentation of individual and national wealth. She has no manufactures to speak of, and it is for this reason all the more important that her landholders and her vast population, who are nearly all agriculturists, should give their attention to the introduction of improved methods of culture, so that a still larger population may be maintained in comfort from the produce of the soil, and that her surplus agricultural wealth may be exchanged in an ever increasing ratio for the industrial products of the whole civilized world.

On the 11th January Sir Hugh Rose arrived in Allahabad, and on the following morning inspected H.M.'s 107th regiment, and presented the corps with new colours. A dinner was afterwards given by the officers to the men, eight hundred sitting down at one long table. His Excellency looked in upon the men while thus pleasantly engaged, and in the evening was present until a late hour at a Ball given in honour of the occasion. Early on the following morning the "ever-green chief"—cruda deo viridisque senectus—inspected two batteries of artillery, and the 21st N.I., and in the afternoon proceeded by rail to Benares. On the 17th Sir Hugh was at Bhaugulpore, where he had another narrow escape from a serious accident, through a young horse in his carriage taking fright at the guard of honour presenting arms, and smashing the vehicle.

Sir Robert Montgomery had arrived at Calcutta, and was to leave by the next homeward-bound steamer, which, by-the-bye, was not to start before the 24th, instead of on the 22nd, as usual. The Hon. Mr. Maine is also coming home on six months' leave, and Colonel Strachey expects to get away by the second steamer in February, being succeeded by Colonel Dickens as Secretary to Government in the Public Works Department. Sir Robert Napier's successor as military member of Council will, it is said, be Colonel Durand, while Mr. G. Noble Taylor will take the seat likely to be vacated by Mr. Harrington in April next. Sir Charles Trevelyan will probably quit India for ever after laying his budget before Council—his successor, the Hon. Mr. Massey, going out by the Marseilles mail of the 26th instant. Colonel Carmichael, C.B., at present in command of H.M.'s 106th Regiment, is spoken of as the new Adjutant-general of the Indian Army.

An attempt has been made at Peshawur to assassinate Major Adams, the Deputy-commissioner, which was so far successful that a dangerous wound was inflicted. The Major's assailant was a Mahomedan fanatic, who was instantly cut down by the guard at the gate.

There is no further intelligence from Bhootan of a nature to interest the general reader. The Deo Llama, indeed, appears to have resigned all hope of arresting the progress of the British by natural means, and threatens the invading force with a "spiritual manifestation," of upwards of one hundred thousand "fierce and ferocious ghosts." A more formidable enemy, however, than this shadowy host is the jungle fever, which has already broken out among the troops. Several officers have been attacked, and Lieutenant-Colonel Haughton was so much reduced in strength that he was obliged to be carried on the back of a coolie.

The three eldest sons of H.H. the Nawab Nazim of Bengal are about to visit England under the tutelage of Lieut.-Colonel Herbert, C.B. Major Malleon will succeed Colonel Herbert in political charge of the ex-King of Oude and the Mysore Princes.

The death of Mr. Theodore Dickens, senior magistrate of Calcutta, is announced in the local papers. Mr. Dickens was the son of the energetic denouncer of the Black Acts, and has died of a disease of the lungs, in the thirty-fourth year of his age.

The news from Central Asia is disquieting and unsatisfactory. The Ameer, seemingly bent on effecting his own ruin, persists in a course of mingled treachery and violence. He has now thrown his step-brother and several influential Sirdars into prison, in violation of his sacred oath to respect their persons. His rival, Azcem Khan, who fled for refuge into British territory, has been removed from Rawul Pindie to Jhelum, as it was discovered that he was intriguing with the disaffected chiefs of Cabul. The Russian envoys to Bokhara are reported to have been well received by the Khan, to whom they presented £30,000 worth of rare and useful articles. It is more to the point that they are employing thousands of workmen to construct roads in Tashkund in the direction of Bokhara. Wells and roads are the real sinews of European conquest in the East. The Journal de St. Petersburg, however, positively states that no Russian Envoy has been sent to Bokhara since 1857, that no presents whatever have been forwarded to the ruler of that country, that Tashkund is not in Russian occupation, and that consequently no roads are being constructed and no taxes have been remitted.

The B. C. R. S. N. Co.'s steamer Johnston Castle has been wrecked off Malwan, on her way to Bombay from Goa, but no lives were lost.

BENGAL.

REPORT ON THE COTTON DISTRICTS.

The following is a brief précis of the voluminous report on the rise in cotton, published in the Gazette of India of the 31st December:—In October, 1864, at the instance of the Bengal Chamber of Commerce, steps were taken by the Government to procure statistics regarding the effect of the high prices of cotton upon native manufactures. An impression prevailed that Indian cotton, notwithstanding its enhanced price, could be worked up by native weavers into cloth which could be sold in this country at a lower rate than Manchester goods; and it was an especial object of the enquiry to ascertain whether there were any grounds for this impression. Replies have now been received from every part of the Bengal Presidency; and the result makes it appear that, except in a few instances, native manufactures have declined. It is remarked that in Bengal the cultivation of cotton is inconsiderable, except in Assam, Tipperah, and Chittagong. In the two latter districts a large export trade in this article appears to be growing up, but, with this exception, the whole of the cotton of lower Bengal is retained for home consumption. The high price of the raw material in Bengal has not yet, as in the North-Western Provinces, led to any great increase of cultivation; and it is remarked that the low prices quoted as prevailing in Assam, Chittagong, and Tipperah, seem to indicate that capital might be advantageously employed there. The Bengal Government is of opinion that the real cause of the falling off which is obvious in the demand for Manchester goods in the Lower Provinces is the general rise in the prices of all the necessaries of life, and partly the superior suitability of native manufactures for the requirements of the masses. In the North-Western Provinces the proportion of the cotton retained for domestic use is estimated at from one-fourth to one-sixth. There has been in that part of the Presidency no increase in native weaving, and the demand for native manufactures, especially in the Eastern districts, is steadily declining. In the Western districts the decline is not so marked; and the result is that there the consumption of English has decreased more, in proportion, than that of native fabrics. The decrease in the demand for both native and English fabrics is attributed to the extraordinary rise of price. It is found that the decline in native weaving is confined principally to the towns; in the villages it is still going on much as usual. As to the cause of this result we quote the words of the report:—

In the villages both the cotton growers, and those who receive cotton from them as a payment in kind, find it more convenient to make their own cotton cloth at home than to purchase it ready made. The women spin the thread, and the village weaver is then hired to manufacture the piece, or the work is given out to him by the job, and he is paid in cotton. Thus, whilst the weavers in towns are unable to purchase cotton from its excessive dearness, the weavers in villages are supplied with the material by the persons who employ them, and who also pay them in cotton. In the Eastern Districts, as already stated, the cotton weaving has declined altogether, simply from the fact that there is little local cultivation, and, consequently, the facilities indicated are not afforded to the native weavers, and the demand for native goods is greater than in the Western Districts.

The decreased demand for English goods is also partly attributed to other causes, among which are the tightness of the money market, and the overstocking of 1858, 1859, and 1860. It is, moreover, remarked that imports are beginning to find their way to Jhansee, Gwalior, and Rajpootana via Bombay, and the exports of raw material of the North-Western Provinces are also beginning to take a westerly route from Hattas, Muttra, and even Mirzapore. As the Bombay railway advances the diversion of trade from Calcutta may be expected to increase. The high price of cotton goods has led in the North-Western Provinces to an increased demand for woollen fabrics. There is a class of native manufactures not supplied by Manchester, which the people consequently have to purchase at the ruling prices, unchecked by English competition. Among these may be enumerated dhotees, pugrees, kummurbunds, loongees, dosootees, guzzes, garah, kharooa, tulloo, durrees, and cotton ropes; and it is suggested that the Bengal Chamber of Commerce might find it expedient to procure samples of these articles for the information of the home manufacturers. In Oude, also, it is the opinion of the authorities that there are no grounds for the apprehension that the demand for Manchester goods has been injuriously affected by native weaving, which is on the decline. The state of the cotton trade in the Punjab is said to be similar to that in the North West Provinces, though in eight out of twenty-one districts there has been an increase in the number of native looms. In the Central Provinces the demand for English goods has greatly increased, probably owing to the efforts that have been made during the last three years to open up the country. At the same time the high price of cotton has nearly ruined the manufacture of coarse native cloth. It was expected that the outturn of the cotton crop of 1863-64 in the Central Provinces would be nearly thirty seven millions of pounds.—Englishman.

THE FAIR OF NOVGOROD.

We English have of late been accustomed to regard ourselves as those most interested in the development of the trade with Central Asia; but a visit to the fair of Nijni Novgorod, made in August last by Mr. Forsyth, the Commissioner of Lahore, who has the interest of a true Punjabee in the subject, enables us to place before our readers some account of the dealings in that region of our rivals the Russians.

Comfortable railways make travelling easy, and the three hundred miles between Moscow and the fair are traversed in one night. The town of Nijni is on the Volga, but the fair is held in wooden booths on the triangle formed between the Okha and Volga. There were about 300,000 people collected, and the goods were valued at fourteen millions sterling. The chief business was in tea, some of which had come overland through Siberia, but the greater portion from China by sea to St. Petersburg. The caravan tea is most esteemed, but it does not appear that it commands any advantage in price. We need hardly repeat how it is brought from Khatka across the Khirghy steppes to Troitska. The reigning price was three shillings and twopence per lb. There was plenty of cotton on sale from Persia and Bokhara. The latter had arrived late. In the last Punjab Report there is a story about some Italian gentlemen having been sent to try and procure fresh silkworms to regenerate the falling stock. The Amir-al-mouminin caught them surveying or photographing, clapped them into the Black Well, and considered that he had "disposed of the case." The British Government was profoundly sorry; the Afghan deeply sympathising; but nothing was done on this side the Oxus. But when the cotton laden camels from Bokhara arrived on the Russian frontier at Orenburgh, they found the gates shut, nor was admission granted until a telegraphic message was received by the Czar announcing the safe arrival of the persecuted Italians. On a large scale it was a barbarous tribe brought to its senses by an embargo laid on its trade. It is pleasant to find that a sanguinary bigot can be made to eat humble pie somehow or other. It is said that Bokhara sent 100,000 bales of cotton to this year's fair, fetching close upon £160 per ton. Both Persian and sea-borne Indian is somewhat dearer. All is of inferior quality, dirty, and badly packed.

The Indian comes to St. Petersburg by sea, the Persian across the Caspian by steam to Astrakhan, and up the Volga, on which are some 300 steamers of 400-horse power, towing two barges each, drawing only three feet of water, and reaching Nijni in nine days. These details make us blush for the backward state of the Indus navigation.

Mr. Eastwick has told us of the eight war steamers, of three hundred tons each, comfortably riding in the land-locked harbour of Ashuradah; but the passenger steamers of the Mercurei Company on the Caspian do not, according to him, exceed 120-horse power. Still, it is pretty evident the department is paternally looked after, and the new harbour is most conveniently situated in relation to the passes, whether towards Herat or Tehran. The remaining imports selling at the fair are dried fruits, rice, dyed silk, mulder, bez (native cloth), silk girdles, turquoises, shawls and furs, potash, wool, nutwood, logwood. It seems doubtful if any indigo reaches this market, though a good deal goes from the Punjab through the Afghan passes.

Boklara takes readily copper, iron, and cutlery. The last-mentioned article is not of the best Russian manufacture. Prints are in good demand at from 16s. to 20s. the piece of thirty-five yards or so. Calico in pieces of ten, measuring ninety yards, run from 12s. to 24s. Only inferior muslins are exported. Woollen cloth at 8s. 9d. the yard is sent out, but the better description is furnished by England. But at the fair everything under the sun is to be seen—Paris bonnets, pianos, firepumps, chaff-cutting machines, patent stores, all the latest varieties of iron fabrication.

Russia has, through the poverty of her people, been hitherto driven abroad for a market for her manufactures; but now a great change is passing over her. Alexander has, by a most sweeping ukase, given all the occupant peasantry a heritable interest in land to the extent of seven acres per man, which they may even mortgage, but not sell, except to the commune. The immediate effect is, of course, to stimulate immensely the demand for the ordinary manufactures. They calculate the number of serfs at twenty-two millions, who formerly consumed only 8s. worth of cotton goods per head per annum. They have already reached £1. 7s. per head, and will probably go much further. Whilst, then, the demand for raw produce will increase enormously, the home market for manufactures will be proportionately expanded, and it will take the Russians some time before they are ready to supply Central Asia as they have done of late. Already their monopoly is attacked. Trebizond is becoming a great port for Persia, and the chintzes and cloths of England are beginning to fill the growing void. A similar hiatus must soon be felt across the Hindookoosh, and if Shere Ali Khan will only make haste to come to an understanding one way or the other with his brothers at Candahar, keep Afzul safe, pay his troops, and guard his roads, there could not be a more favourable time for the execution of Sir Robert Montgomery's plan of establishing a fair at Peshawur, and of strengthening the Punjab Flotilla. And as a part of the general system of trans-Himalayan trade communications, the Hindustan and Thibet roads should not be left in an unfinished state. It is absurd that, whilst from both the Chinese and British sides these mountains can for a considerable distance be traversed by mules, there should remain through sheer laches a bit along which no animals but coolies, sheep, and goats can pass. The missing link here should certainly be put in by making a practicable mule road from China to the Chinese frontier. Half the work originally contemplated has been done, and it is stultification to pull up at this point. What has already been done will be nearly valueless unless completed, especially to the traders interested. We hope, therefore, that we do not err in prophesying that this road will be soon completed according to the original design.—Friend of India.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE DUKE DE BRABANT.—India has never before been visited by the heir to a European throne. After a pleasant week's ramble through Ceylon, His Royal Highness the Duc de Brabant has been the guest of the Viceroy in Calcutta for some days, and has now left for the Upper Provinces, attended by Colonel Blane, in addition to his own suite. Health is the main object of the Duke's travels, but we believe he has already experienced an amount of pleasure and interest in our great Eastern dependencies which the wonders of Benares, Agra, Delhi, Lahore and the Himalayas will greatly increase. His Royal Highness has abandoned his intention of returning to Europe by Bombay, and expects in the course of a few weeks again to be a guest at Government House, where a large collection of curiosities is being made for him. The natives of Ceylon and India who have seen the Duke cannot understand why he wears plain clothes and looks exactly like other Sahibs. His Royal Highness has not been slow to express disgust at the accommodation and general arrangements of the French steamers, especially the Imperatrice, in which he sailed from Suez to Ceylon. Since the heir to the throne of the Belgians finds he can travel so easily to and throughout India, why should not Prince Alfred, in semi-regal state, spend a cold season among the millions of her Majesty's Indian subjects? The political effect would be incalculable.—Friend of India.

NATIVE GENTLEMEN AND THE GOVERNOR-GENERAL'S LEVEES.—At the levée held on Saturday, Jan. 14th, for the native chiefs and gentlemen of Calcutta, only sixty-six non-Europeans were present. On the other hand, there was a large assemblage of the beauty and fashion of Calcutta. This unfortunate display of feeling by some of the native community is, doubtless, due to their non-invitation to the recent levée and ball. Educated native gentlemen are well aware of the reasons which led Lord Elgin, first of all, and still induce Sir John Lawrence, to confine parties at which ladies are present to the English or Christian residents. But though, for the sake of the natives themselves, we regret the form in which Bengalee gentlemen have been childish enough to evince this soreness of feeling, we see in it hopeful signs of better days for India. The great question of educating and elevating the female members of their families must be brought home to them by the present circumstance. They will be constrained to see that, in allowing themselves to be hindered from this good work by the slavish fear of custom, and the teaching of an ignorant priesthood or of relatives of the old school, they shut out themselves as well as their wives from free intercourse with the world, and practically nullify the best efforts made for social and moral improvement. They are not probably aware of the English rule on which it henceforth becomes the Viceroy to act, by inviting to Government House no one who has not appeared at the levée.—Friend of India.

ATTEMPTED ASSASSINATION OF MAJOR ADAMS.—An unpleasant occurrence has just been reported from Peshawur—the attempted assassination of the Deputy Commissioner, Major Adams. While riding out of the Cabul Gate of that city on the 16th January he was attacked by an Affghan, and received a dangerous wound across the back. The assailant was at once cut down by the guard at the gate, and though severely injured was not killed. No cause is assigned for the deed; the would-be assassin has resided in Peshawur for the last five years. He is not a fanatic, and was joined by no others. Everything was quiet when the news left.

CENSUS OF THE N.W.P.—A census of all classes in the North-Western Provinces was taken on the night of the 10th January. It was applicable not only to the native population, but to all European troops, officials and non-officials, so that the ludicrous mistakes of the English census of 1861 will be corrected to some extent. The census of Bombay was successfully taken last year owing to the admirable arrangements of Dr. Leith, and the belief that the law would enforce certain penalties, for the fact that Sir C. Wood had ignorantly disallowed the Act was not generally known. However justifiable legislation may be for a census of the great cities, it would defeat the object of the enumeration if applied to the more ignorant rural classes of the interior. The North-West census has accordingly been made under the control of the energetic Revenue Board at Allahabad, and on the principles laid down by Mr. Thomason for the last enumeration of 1852-53. A law would have excited suspicion and given occasion for extortion by native officials. The results promise to be quite as accurate, for every official and department has been most zealous in the good cause. In agricultural districts the Putwarces were employed as enumerators; in towns the duty was undertaken, as in England, by the most suitable and influential person in each ward, or by a paid officer of the Collectorate. Fortunately the police had nothing to do with work too delicate for such agency. To prepare the people for their part of the undertaking the tables were filled up, in most cases, during a sort of rehearsal some weeks before. A good feature of this census is that the chief castes, as well as those who can read, are distinguished. When we remember the mutiny and partial famines of the past ten years we are curious to learn if the population has increased. The belief of the best authorities is that an improved land-tenure, and consequent agricultural and commercial prosperity, have far more than compensated for these disasters. The results cannot be published for several months. Meanwhile will other Governments follow the good example of Bombay and the north-west?—Friend of India.

THE MOORSHEDEBAD PRINCES.—The Calcutta papers state that "Husain Ally Mirza, Hosein Ally Mirza, and Mohammed Ally Mirza," the three eldest sons of H.H. the Nawab Nazim of Bengal, are to visit England for a year in charge of Lieut. Colonel Herbert, each receiving £1,000 to defray expenses from the Nizamut Deposit Fund. Two of these youths had the advantage of an English education under Mr. Browning, who is now acting Director of Public Instruction in the Central Provinces. It is a pity their father also does not go. In the course of two generations there can be little doubt that all our leading Indian nobles will know more or less of the English language and literature. Major Malleson will act for Colonel Herbert in charge of the Oudh family.

THE KING OF SIAM is quite as good a political economist as he is an English scholar. Owing to scarcity of rain a famine threatens, and the King publishes a declaration of perfect free trade, to put the people on their guard against the tricks of the rice-dealers. "Should any declare that there is an order from either of their Majesties, the first or the second King, limiting the price of rice to prevent its being sold at high rates, or to constrain the seller, do not believe him, but seize him, and deliver him over to the civil authorities."

THE 7TH BENGAL CAVALRY.—As the necessity for another regiment of cavalry for Bhootan no longer exists, besides the two already despatched, the 7th Bengal Cavalry, under command of Colonel Wilson, recently arrived from Oule, en route to Bhootan, and now quartered at Bhaugulpore, has been ordered to return to Lucknow. The regiment proceeds to its destination by easy marches.

GAMES IN THE PUNJAB.—The chivalrous Punjab Force on the frontier are in the habit of introducing the new year by prize tournaments, which are to the men what the tourneys were to knights of old, with the serious exception of the absence of ladies of their own race. At Dehra Ismael Khan, as described by a correspondent of the Lahore paper, the 4th Punjab Cavalry, officers and men, under Captain Godby, enjoyed hurdle races, riding at the peg, single-stick on horse-back, cutting at the sheep at the gallop, and a ludicrous camel race. The horsemanship could not easily be matched in Europe. The writer justly says:—"In such mock scenes of 'derring doo' the soldier is taught self-reliance, his emulation is evoked, he is made proud of himself, and he thirsts for the real encounter of war! A feeling of brotherhood, too, is generated by these gay meetings, where the men and officers of different regiments mingle freely."

FRUITS OF EDUCATION.—The Urdu Guide, a Mussulman paper, written in English and Urdu, in discussing Indian nationality, is of opinion that, however much it is for the interest of the English Government to prevent the formality of a united nationality in India, education will gradually fuse together the two hundred millions of our subjects. The very fact that Government promotes education by every means, shows that, whether nationality and independence be the result or not, the English in India will govern only for the good of their subjects. Our own belief is that Christianity and education together must lead to the independence of India in time. But, in that case, there are just as likely to be several distinct national powers in India as in North America. Extent of area must be taken into account, and this Russia is forgetting in her too superficial conquests.

ASSUMPTION OF TITLE.—We (Friend of India) would direct the attention of the Viceroy to an assumption which should not be allowed to pass unnoticed. In the announcement that the sons of the Nawab Nazim of Bengal are about to proceed to England, the three young gentlemen are for the first time dignified by the title of Mirza. This is the well-known title of the sons of the Shah of Persia, and of those of the old Emperor of Delhi; and its English equivalent, prince, ought not to be applied to any but those justly entitled to it. Formerly the Nawab-Nazims of Bengal were addressed by Government as "Excellency," and it is only of late years that the term Highness has been used. The Nazims, as their title shows, were never sovereigns, but only viceroys; and up to the present date the title of Highness has never been applied to their sons, who were simply Sahibs Zadehs. This is the recognised term, used by the late Nazim in speaking of his son, the present one, and continued to this day. It will be anything but advantageous for these young gentlemen to be treated as princes, and to have baseless pretensions recognised or sanctioned by the inadvertence of Government.

COMMISSIONERSHIPS.—Sir J. P. Grant, when Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, proposed to reduce the number of Commissioners from eight to six, but Mr. Beadon, then in Council, opposed the measure. The establishment of the High Court and new Police led the Government of India to ask if the reduction could not now be effected, but, the Englishman informs us, Mr. Beadon is still opposed to it. The public cannot see why both the full staff of Commissioners and the Board of Revenue should be maintained. If the former, then the latter should be superseded by a Financial Commissioner with one or two assistants.

BANK OF BENGAL.—The demand for money in Calcutta continues to be so great that the bank has again raised its rates one per cent. The rise has been three per cent. in a fortnight.

HINDOO WIDOWS.—"Bad as the lot of married women may be, it is the happiest condition that can befall her in this country; and it is always reckoned in the light of a reward for virtue. The women themselves admit no blessedness to be greater than dying in the married state. The very name of widow is a reproach; and when women quarrel with one another, and when their mutual hatred becomes deadly, they can conceive no greater abuse than wishing each other to survive their husbands. Widows, however young, cannot re-marry. They are excluded from all scenes of gaiety and all ceremonies of rejoicing. Their appearance at marriages is never solicited, and where, on account of their near relationship, they do appear, they are not permitted to take any active part in the rites and ceremonies connected with them. They are not permitted to wear ornaments. Immediately after the death of her husband, the wife strips off all her jewels, and renounces them for ever, often selling them at once and converting the property into cash. Nor are widows permitted to dress themselves in coloured clothing, or in any robe which is not absolutely white. Of these, and of every other emblem or privilege of matrimony, they are forthwith divested. To appear slovenly is meritorious; and they are bound to keep frequent fasts, that the cravings of the flesh may be thereby subdued. From these fasts neither age nor infirmity can exempt them—nay, not even illness, except when it is very serious. 'Let the widow emaciate her body by living on roots, fruits and flowers,' says Menu; 'Let her not even pronounce the name of another man after her lord is deceased; let her continue till death forgiving injuries, performing harsh duties, avoiding sensual pleasures, and practising virtue.' The number of widows amongst the natives is very great. In many families the widows considerably outnumber the married women. As old widowers are constantly re-marrying, and as the girls they marry seldom exceed the tender age of ten, the cause of this is certainly not inexplicable. An old husband of fifty has but small chance of surviving a girl of ten or eleven years, and, amongst Kulin Brahmins, one such old man has often a plentiful harvest of little wives. Hence not unfrequently girls find themselves in the most miserable condition before they have become women, and even such cannot re-marry. The prejudices of the country will not permit the idea being thought of even for a moment, and this is the origin of much misery within the family circle."—Baboo Degamber Mitter's Letter to Mr. Eden.

CABUL.—The troubles of the Ameer of Cabul are thickening. Mahomed Ameer Khan and the Candahar family have raised the Suleman Khyle and other tribes. He has sent to Kheilat for assistance against the Ameer, who has accordingly ordered an expedition against Candahar, as his great father once did. We learn from the Delhi Gazette that the Ameer declares all the Barukzai chiefs are against him. Grain is selling at famine price in Cabul, the winter is unusually severe, and the Ameer's sepoys are deserting to Candahar, from want of pay. The longest purse will gain in the end. The Ameer has offered to free the brother of the late Sooltan Jan of Herat, but the old man will not leave prison without Shah Nawaz Khan, his nephew, whom it would be dangerous to let loose at present.

HIS ROOM BETTER THAN HIS COMPANY.—The residents in British Burmah will be pleased to learn from the Gazette of India that Dr. Clarke, their unpopular and certainly incompetent Recorder, has obtained leave of absence for fifteen months. Mr. J. Pitt Kennedy is to act as Recorder, on the full salary.

BABOO JUGDANUND MOOKERJEE.—The Nur-kura hears that the first Native Judge of the new High Court for the North Western Provinces, is to be Baboo Jugdanund Mookerjee, a good English scholar, and at present the junior Government Pleader.

TRANSIT THROUGH EGYPT.—Some time back we had occasion to call in question the advertised reduction of fares for the transit through Egypt. Experience has proved the correctness of our supposition, that the saving effected was merely in name; as passengers have to pay 18s. 6d. per cwt. for all baggage in excess of 80lbs. in weight, instead of 6s. per cwt. for all over 336 lbs., according to the old regulations. This is not the worst result of the change. Previously one could travel through Egypt with a degree of confidence that at all events the baggage would be quite safe, however much it might be knocked about; but now things are so changed, that for the supposed reduction in charge the Transit Administration seem to think that any amount of looting will be allowed. The complaints on the subject have already been numerous, but the following extract from a letter dated Malta, December 1st, exposes such an outrageous and disgraceful state of affairs that the P. and O. Company are bound, for their own interest, to take immediate steps to have it remedied. The writer was a passenger from Bombay by the mail of November 14. He says:—"We are just off Malta. I just drop you a line to say that a great lot of the passengers' baggage took place in its transit across the desert. The vagabonds robbed me of the entire contents of my portmanteau, including all the things I had bought as presents for my friends. It was lucky for me that I took the precaution of carrying with me all my jewellery, or perhaps that would have shared the same fate. I sincerely hope that the Southampton portion of our luggage has escaped these merciless wretches. One of our passengers lost among other things 120 sovereigns, another lady all her under-linen, and the gentlemen nearly the whole of their woollen clothing. As the weather is now very wet and cold, you may imagine the distress that this has occasioned. There must have been some combination among the employees, for the loot was general, and must have required some time, for out of the whole number of passengers the luggage of only three of them escaped pillage. I have written you this hurried account that you may perform an act of charity to my fellow-countrymen in Bombay, by getting the above noticed in the Times of India, so that they may be on their guard when they pass through Egypt, and take in their own charge the valuable portion of their luggage."—Times of India.

APPLICATION FOR EXTENSION OF LEAVE ON M.C.—An alteration has been made in the rule regarding the appearance of Civil and Military officers on sick leave at home, requiring an extension of the same, before the Medical officer at the India House. Hitherto they have been examined for the purpose by Sir Ranald Martin. The practice for the future will be as follows:—If the applicant for an extension of leave on medical certificate be residing within 20 miles of London, he must produce a certificate from the Medical Board attached to the India office, showing the necessity for such extension. If residing beyond that distance from London, certificate in the second of the above forms must be produced from two Medical Practitioners.

ANOTHER WAHABEE TRAITOR has appeared in Purneah. His tale is the old story of the coming of the twelfth Imam preparatory to the great Jehad for which the faithful must now subscribe. The cyclone he used to gild his eloquence, describing it as a blast from the Imam's nostrils against the infidel. After making a good deal of money the arrival of troops led to his disappearance, and now the "loyal" Mussulmans of Purneah speak of him as "the mad Moulvee."

A PORTRAIT OF SIR J. P. GRANT, subscribed for by the Bengalees, has been hung in the upper lobby of the Calcutta Town Hall. It is likely to be much injured by the careless manner in which repairs are being done to the Hall.

Financial.—No. 282.

India-office, London, Nov. 30, 1864.

To his Excellency the Right Hon. the Governor-general of India in Council.

Sir,—I have to acquaint you that it has recently been resolved that officers of the Indian civil and military services in this country, on leave of absence, and requiring extensions of leave, instead of being examined by the examining physician, as heretofore, shall appear before a medical board, of which Sir R. Martin, C.B., is president.

2. In accordance with this arrangement, I have to request that the last clause of the appendix to the revised code of civil absentee rules forwarded with my financial despatch, dated the 7th inst., No. 262, may be altered as follows:—

"If the applicant for an extension of leave on medical certificate be residing within 20 miles of London, he must produce a certificate from the medical board attached to the India-office, showing the necessity for such extension. If residing beyond that distance from London, certificates in the second of the above forms must be produced from two medical practitioners."—I have, &c.,

COLONELS OF THE OLD ROYAL ARTILLERY.

No. 18.—With reference to Govt. G.O., No. 222 of March 15, 1864, the following mily. letter from the Right Hon. the Sec. of State for India, No. 375, dated Nov. 25, 1864, is published for general information:—

Military.—No. 375.

India Office, London, Nov. 25, 1864.

To H.E. the Right Hon. the Gov. gen. of India in Council.

Sir,—With reference to my despatch of Jan. 30 last, No. 26, I have to inform you that in a communication recently received from the Horse Guards, I have been informed that as the absorption of supernum. cols. and lieut. cols. in the old royal art. was contingent upon an addition being made to the funds for retired full pay, which was not, however, provided for in the estimates for 1864-65, none of these officers have been absorbed, except those required to form a new brigade. H.R.H. the Field Marshal C. in C. has accordingly proposed that in the new brigades such officers shall be placed on the supernum. list as heretofore, until such a practice has ceased in the old royal art.

To this proposal I have agreed, and accordingly the field officers of the new brigades, who may be appd. to the ordnance dept., will continue to be seconded as heretofore, until further orders.—I have, &c. (Signed) C. Wood.

No. 19.—The services of Asst. surg. W. Watson, m.d., are placed at the disposal of the Govt. of the N.W.P.

No. 21.—The underment. officer has reported his return from England:—

Asst. surg. B. W. Switzer, F.R.C.S. of the med. dept., date of arrival at Fort William, Jan. 1.

STAFF SALARIES.

No. 24.—The following paras. of a mily. letter from the Right Hon. the Sec. of State for India, No. 344 of Nov. 7 last, are published for general information:—

In reply to your letter (No. 322) dated Sept. 19 last, which submits for my decision a question which has been mooted, whether the provisions of the G.O. by your Govt., dated Aug. 1, 1863, No. 494, should apply to appts. with native regts., I have to inform you that I agree with the C. in C. and your Govt. that the provisions of that order would not be appropriated to regtl. appts.

That order declared that henceforth no officer acting in an appt. should receive more than one-half the staff salary attached thereto, until he should have acted six months in it. I am of opinion with you that when there is a full vacancy in the command or other appts. in a native regt., or an acting vacancy in which the whole staff salary is available, the acting incumbent should receive full pay.

This interpretation is, of course, subject to the condition referred to in the 5th para. of your letter under reply, that under no circumstances shall the Govt. have to pay more than the authorised salary of appt., whether drawn by one officer or divided between two; and that no officer acting in an appt. shall draw more than the full salary belonging to it.

Military Letters.

QUALIFYING SERVICE FOR RANK OF COLONEL.

No. 58.—The following military letter from the Right Hon. the Secretary of State for India, No. 377, dated Nov. 25, 1864, and the abstract of rulings therein referred to, are published.

The principle of the rules will apply to officers of the Indian army holding qualifying appointments as well as to officers of the staff corps similarly situated, and whose promotion to the rank of colonel is not provided for under para. 2 of the Staff Corps Warrant.

Military No. 377.

India-office, London, Nov. 25, 1864.

To H.E. the Right Hon. the Governor General of India in Council.

SIR,—The Secretary of State for War has recently determined on a revision of the computations of qualifying service upon which officers of H.M.'s service have obtained promotion to the rank of colonel under the Royal Warrant of 1858.

2. An abstract of the rulings of the Secretary of State for War, in interpretation of the Warrant, which have governed the revisions in the cases of British officers, is herewith transmitted, in order that a similar course may be adopted in reference to officers of H.M.'s Indian forces under the Warrant applicable to them.—I have, &c.,

(Signed) C. Wood.

Qualifying service required of a lieutenant colonel previous to his obtaining the rank of colonel in the army under the provisions of the Royal Warrant of Oct. 14, 1858:—

Horse-guards, Sept. 8, 1864.

Lieutenant colonels after serving five years in the following appointments will be promoted to the rank of colonel:—

1. Regimental lieutenant colonel, command of a regiment, second lieutenant colonel of a regiment.
2. Major and lieutenant colonel, household cavalry.

8. Major, household cavalry.
 4. Mounted officer, foot guards.
 5. Deputy adjutant general.
 6. Deputy quartermaster general.
 7. Assistant adjutant general.
 8. Assistant quartermaster general.
 9. Military secretary (or assistant military secretary when there shall be no military secretary) to such general officers alone as are exercising the supreme command of a station.
 10. Commissioner to the head-quarters of an allied army.
 11. Members of the council of military education.
 12. Inspector general of army schools.
 13. Lieutenant governor or superintendent of studies at the Royal Military College.
 14. Commandant of the Staff College.
 15. Military superintendent of a manufacturing department of the army.
 16. Regimental majors who are brevet lieutenant-colonels in temporary command of regiments in the absence of the lieutenant-colonel shall reckon any periods of temporary command which exceed one calendar month.
 17. Captain or major with rank of brevet lieutenant-colonel in command of a mixed force amounting to 400 men for a period exceeding one calendar month at a time, unless the officer in temporary command shall be in receipt of the pay of the command owing to the death or removal of the commandant, when the period (short of one calendar month) for which he receives the pay will be admitted as service of a qualifying nature under clause 11.
 18. Regimental major who is a brevet lieutenant-colonel in command of a wing of a regiment serving abroad which may be so divided as to constitute two distinct commands.
 19. Deputy inspector of fortifications.
 20. Assistant inspectors of volunteers if substitute field officers.
- Lieutenant-colonels after serving eight years in the following appointments will be promoted to the rank of colonel:—
1. Equerry to Sovereign.
 2. With the rank of lieutenant-colonel obtained for service in the field.
 3. In a civil appointment, provided the nature of such be considered calculated to give the officer such practical experience as may afterwards prove advantageous to the service to which he belongs.
 4. Appointment as commanding R.E.
- Assistant instructors of volunteers, if captain, with brevet rank of lieutenant-colonel obtained for service in the field.

NOTES ON FOREGOING.

All periods of leave of absence granted to an officer will be considered as part of his service.

The only service which a captain who is a brevet Lieut. col. can reckon towards promotion after 5 years is named on page 3, No. 17.

Officers appointed to staff situations at home (not commissioned) will reckon service from date of taking up the staff duties, and officers selected for similar appointments abroad will reckon service from date of embarkation to the station until date of disembarkation when returning home. Officers acting in staff appointments which qualify for the rank of colonel are not permitted to reckon such service unless confirmed in the appointment.

Durbar by the Lieut. gov. of the Punjab.

Jan. 9.—No. 37.—At noon, on the 7th inst., the Hon. the Lieut. gov. held a Durbar, for the purpose of conferring on the honorary magistrates of Lahore and Amritsur the titles and distinctions lately bestowed on them by H.E. the Viceroy in token of his approbation of their services; and also for presenting khilluts to those who had distinguished themselves in the cause of female education.

The Judicial and Financial Commissioners, the Commissioner of Lahore, and many civil officers and non-official gentlemen were present as spectators, also their Highnesses the Rajahs of Kapurthalla and Faridkot, and a large number of the native gentry of Lahore, Umritsur, and its vicinity.

His Honour opened the proceedings with an address in Hindustani, to the following effect:—

“Chiefs, Sardars, and Gentlemen,—

“I hold this Durbar for the special purpose of conferring upon the Honorary Magistrates of Lahore and Amritsur the titles graciously bestowed upon them by H.E. the Viceroy, as a mark of his approbation of their services in the promotion of the public good, and more particularly in administering justice and aiding the cause of female education.

“But others, too, in many of the cities and districts of this province, in Jullundhur, in Rawalpindi, in Gurgaon, in Amballa, in Delhi, in Ferozepur, in Mooltan, and other places, have, in like manner, exerted themselves in promoting female education, as may be seen in the list I now hold in my hand. I would that they too were here, that I might now thank them for the assistance they have rendered in a cause which I have so much at heart; but though absent they shall not be forgotten.

“Those who are present will receive khilluts at my hands, those that are absent will also receive khilluts through the commissioners of their respective divisions.

“When I addressed you two years ago and asked for your assistance, there were only a few females here and there under instruction.

“Female education has now been introduced into sixteen districts; there is an aggregate of 662 schools, and more than 13,000 female scholars.

“In addition to the approval of his Excellency the Viceroy and my own, it is gratifying to me to announce to you, that I have recently received from Sir C. Wood, the Secretary of State for India, a letter dated the 31st October, in which he has expressed his great gratification at the spontaneous efforts made by the chiefs and others in furthering female education, and has specially mentioned the exertions of Baba Khem Singh.

“Chiefs, Sardars, Citizens,

“I am now about to resign the government of this province, and leave you; but I feel confident that when I am gone you will continue your exertions. Write and tell me how female education progresses, for you may rest assured that though absent I shall feel a deep interest in what I know will add so much to the happiness of your households.”

The following titles and distinctions were then conferred, accompanied by appropriate khilluts:—

Ali Reza Khan, hon. mag. of Lahore; the title of Nawab.

Ajoudhia Parshad, hon. mag. of Lahore; a letter from the Viceroy, containing the complimentary prefix of “Diwan.”

Sardar Mangal Singh, hon. mag. of Amritsur; a letter from the Viceroy with the complimentary suffix “Bawekar.”

Abd-ul-Majid Khan, hon. mag. of Lahore; the title of Nawab.

Lala Ratan Chand, Datiwalah, hon. mag. of Lahore; a letter from the Viceroy, with the complimentary prefix of “Diwan.”

Fakir Shamsh-ud-din, hon. mag. of Lahore; the title of “Khan.”

Misa Giran Chand, of Amritsur; the title of “Rae.”

Pandit Shankar Nath, of Lahore; a letter from the Viceroy, with the prefix of “Diwan.”

Babu Mohan Lal, of Amritsur; the title of “Rae.”

Mian Mahommed Shab, of Amritsur; the title of “Khan.”

Duni Chand, of Umritsur; the title of “Rae.”

Khilluts and complimentary parwanabs were then presented to the following persons, in approbation of their exertions in the promotion of female education:—

Sardar Shamsher Singh, Raja Harbans Singh, Baba Khem Singh, Sardar Bhagwan Singh, Nihal Singh Chachi, Bhai Charanjit Singh, Ghulam Mahbub Subhani, Bhai Nundgopal, Bhai Khesraj, Bhai Mihan Singh, Bhai Pardoman Singh, Sardar Mahtab Singh, Mahant Brambuta, Sardar Jaimal Singh, Pandit Manphul Syud Hadi Hosein, Agha Kalbaid, Pandit Jaishi Ram, La a Kanhai Lal, Pandit Shama Charn, Ram Balawa Mal, Bhai Bhagat Ram, Pandit Rha la Krishn, Rae Mu Singh, Sheo Das, Mian Mahammad Shab, Fakir Kamrudin, Bakshi Kunhia Lal, Barkat Ali, Sohan Lal, Syud Reza Shab Sandhe Khan, Sheikh Ferozedin, Nand Singh, Divan Bishan Singh, Lala Sahib Singh, Harkishan, Sikandar Khan, Shih Ram Das, Madde Mal, Harjas Rae, Baggu Mal, Harsukh Rae, Ram Dial, Jowahir Mal, Parma Lal, Daryana Mal, Mathra Parshad, Kalum Singh, Mangu Mal, Mahammad Jan Gurditt Singh, Ghulam Hasan, Pandit Billu, Bhai Gulab Singh, Sardah Khan, Ram Kishen, Buda Singh, Jehangiri Mal, and Ditta Shab.

After the above khilluts had been presented, a letter was read, from his Highness the Raja of Kapurthalla, intimating that he placed at the disposal of the Native Committee of Female Education a donation of Rs. 500, and a further monthly subscription of Rs. 100.

Two farewell addresses were then read and presented, one by H.H. the Raja of Kapurthalla, and one by a deputation of the citizens of Lahore and Amritsur.

The letter was to the following effect:—

“Your Honour is about to leave us, with all honour, for England, your native country, and our grief for your departure will never be effaced, and your liberality and benevolence will never be forgotten. Your departure for Europe is honourable and propitious, and you leave a glorious name behind you.

“It is impossible for us to express our thanks for all your goodness. Our children, and our children's children, throughout all time, will be mindful of your good deeds.

“Your honour came to this province at the time of the annexation; and you were first appointed Commissioner of Lahore. It was the commencement of a new rule, and of a new order of things; but through your kindness and impartiality and justice all, both nobles and peasants, rich and poor, were contented and grateful; and the business of the State was well performed. The country was happily settled, encamping grounds and roads were made, trees and gardens were planted, and rest-houses and granaries for the use and comfort of travellers were built. By your energy and good management Thuggee, Dacoity, and highway robbery were stopped; the people were secure, and the country became populated; and these crimes have been so completely extirpated that their names are now all but forgotten.

“Schools were established in towns and villages, and a Government College and Medical Hall were formed, in which thousands may obtain a good education and means of livelihood; and our nobles have acquired the unfading riches of science and wisdom.

“When our good fortune appointed your Honour Judicial Commissioner, the practice of female infanticide, common in some tribes, was stopped. The people of this country were preserved from a great crime, and the lives of their infant daughters are now for ever secure. The extravagant expenditure at betrothals and marriages, which was in some measure the cause of the murder of our girls, has been by you regulated, and betrothals and marriages are now easy of accomplishment.

“What can we say of the criminal and civil administration? The offices are full of the records of your good government. You had compiled a Civil Code, which is a clear exponent of Muhommedan and Hindu law and the local customs of the people.

“In 1857 it was much owing to the energy of your Honour that the province was preserved in peace. What you did at the disarming of the mutinous sepoy at Meean Meer, in guarding the gaols and in extinguishing the flame of sedition, which threatened the destruction of the whole province, are matters of history. The preservation of the capital was the preservation of the entire province.

“It is owing to you that we now possess a conviction that the Government appreciates our loyalty, and knows that we will not betray its confidence. Our prosperity and our loss is now one with that of the State.

“You were selected to be chief commissioner in Oude, and that province was restored to tranquillity. At length our good fortune brought you again to us as lieut. gov., and your benevolence and good deeds in this office are beyond our praise. From a wilderness the country has become like a garden in spring. Upon the deserving amongst us you bestowed rank, titles, and estates; to the great chiefs the right of adoption was secured; scattered estates have been consolidated; Panjabis have been encouraged to enter the armies of the State; and portions of our jagirs have been upheld in perpetuity; our honour has been increased, and we feel that we are acknowledged as well-wishers of the Government. From the establishment of municipal committees the people have received much benefit, and the introduction of the new police has caused diminution of crime, and has given confidence to the public.

“Your Honour has well commenced the education of those very girls whose lives were preserved by your labours, and whose betrothal and marriage you had rendered easy. These and many other good deeds will ever preserve your memory fresh amongst us.

“At the commencement of 1864 you inaugurated an Industrial Exhibition, collecting all the products of the Punjab in a stately and matchless building, which you had caused to be erected at the capital. You gave rewards and certificates to mechanics and workmen, and encouraged them to improve the manufactures of the province. The gardens and canals you have made around the city of Lahore are proofs of your kindness and liberality. All have received benefit. What comfort and convenience have all derived from railways and telegraphs! The in-

THE TALOOKDARS OF OUDH, under the name of the British Indian Association, held two meetings in the Kaisur Bagh on 30th December last and again on the 4th January, to protest against enquiry into the rights of their tenants. They concluded a series of long and excited speeches by appointing a committee, representing the various estates in the province, to sit in permanence and watch over their interests. Moulavee Fazal Rasool, Sahib of Jelalpoor, thus described the paternal relation of the talookdar to his tenants: "Our pockets are all empty by advancing money to our ryots, to till our lands, and to alleviate their sufferings. At that we do not murmur, because they are our children, and their wants must be looked at first." Maharajah Man Sing thus put his view of the case: "You are all aware that our ryots live on our estates only by sufferance. They have been allowed to retain hold of our lands for generations not because they had any right to what they held, but because we were kind enough not to deprive them of their homes and comforts every now and then. We made them settle on our lands, advanced money to them to till our soil, took care of their eternal and worldly welfare, and permitted their children to occupy the holdings with which their dearest associations were connected, not because they had any right to them, but because it is the nature of man not to oust and unmake those whom we have made with our own hands." And Baboo Dukhinarunjun Mookerjee, the Bengalee founder of the association, advanced this statement:—"The rights of the under-proprietors we have acknowledged. The others were but retainers, who, instead of being paid in money, were allowed to take pieces of land at a rate less than the others. These retainers, in most cases, did not cultivate the lands themselves. They let them to low caste persons who paid rent to them again. Now who should have the right of occupancy? The retainers, or their tenants? Mr. Thomason himself says, that these low-caste under-tenants have no right; consequently the retainers must have the right. The retainers received the use of the lands on the express condition that as long as their services would be required so long shall their holdings continue. Their services are now dispensed with. They were only needed in times of anarchy and misrule." One speaker exclaimed, "We will adopt all constitutional means to prevent invasion of our rights, albeit we may have to cross the ocean." (Cries of "Albut" from all around.) The Talookdars, we trust, are unnecessarily alarmed. The best thing for their own interests is to assist in making the enquiry into tenant rights as full and complete as possible. Till action is taken on the results of the enquiry there is no ground for such excitement.

ENFACED GOVERNMENT PAPER.—The total amount of enfaced Government paper in London, as shown by the books in Calcutta up to the 6th January, is £9,552,060. Of this £4,747,540 is in the Five per Cents. of 1856-57, and £2,362,300 in the Five-and-a-Half per Cents. The amount of our debt is steadily rising, as held in England. Every additional rupee held there is a new guarantee that England will take more interest in India.

VICEREGAL PATRONAGE.—The Englishman says that Colonel Strachey goes home by the second steamer in February, Colonel Dickens succeeding him as Secretary to Government in the Public Works Department. The chief engineer of the North-West Provinces has gone home; those of the Punjab, Bengal, British Burmah, and Lighthouses are about to follow, so that within the space of a few months the Viceroy will have had at his disposal five chief engineerships, besides the post of chief secretary.

EDWARD CLEARY, who showed such heroism on the Hooghly during the cyclone, has received the gold medal of the Shipwrecked Fishermen and Mariners' Royal Benevolent Society.

THE OUDH EXHIBITION.—The Oudh Exhibition closed on the 2nd January, Mr. Wingfield, accompanied by Sir Hugh Rose, and surrounded by ladies, officers and talookdars, distributed the silver and bronze medals and money to the successful competitors in the four great classes of live stock, machinery, agricultural progress and arts and manufactures. The first department was superintended by Major Aitken, Dr. Cannon and Captain Ryall. The Oudh Mail states that the little Gyeree cow, the Thibetan sheep, dogs belonging to the Commander-in-Chief and Captain Chapman and the pack of harriers attracted most attention. In the department of agricultural implements most of the prizes were taken away by Messrs. Thomson and Co. and Messrs. Lepage and Co. of Calcutta, to whom special gold medals were awarded as the two most enterprising exhibitors. Gold medals were awarded also to Messrs. Hamilton and Co., Osler and Co., and E. Thompson and Co., the Maharajah of Bulrampore, Maun Singh, and Mr. W. Duff Bruce. The Exhibition seems to have been conducted in a most spirited manner, and reflects credit on all who are connected with it.

A METEOROLOGICAL PREDICTION.—Since 1857 there has been a Meteorological Committee attached to the Bengal Asiatic Society. In June, 1862, it recommended the Government of India to constitute a body similar to the Meteorological Committee of the Board of Trade. As if anticipating the cyclone of 1864, the writers warned Government of the possible near approach of one of "the terrific hurricanes that from time to time have swept over the seas of Bengal, causing the most calamitous destruction of property in shipping, and carrying death almost to the entire population of whole districts, that have been submerged by the storm-wave." The Government of Lord Elgin then called for a definite report, but meanwhile Sir John Lawrence has made over the whole subject to the new Sanitary Commission. The Society, however, have published their report, recommending the expenditure of Rs. 67,600 a year on a General Superintendent, seven local reporters, each attached to one of the seven administrations, and local observers selected, assisted and supervised in a really efficient manner.

PAPER CURRENCY.—The following figures show the state of the paper currency at the close of the year:—

The amount in circulation continues to rise, especially in Bombay. Why not invest the other million sterling allowed by law and so set it free for trade?

HARVEST PROSPECTS.—The Pioneer gives a hopeful account of the prospects of the crops in the North West. More grain has been sown than wheat, and wheat and barley are not a failure, but merely below average. Cotton is bad, except where it has been cared for by irrigation. A timely fall of rain has removed all anxiety.

DEATH OF MR. T. H. DICKENS.—We notice the death of Mr. T. H. Dickens, late senior magistrate of Calcutta, on his return from Rangoon.

CALCUTTA VOLUNTEERS.—The Viceroy and Lady and Miss Lawrence were present at the review of the Calcutta Volunteers on the 11th January by Major-general Sir R. Napier. Of the 250 men, who constitute the regiment, only half were on the ground. Lady Lawrence, after a few successful words, presented four silver cups to the four successful candidates at the Barrackpore rifle matches. Sir Robert Napier complimented the regiment on its efficiency, and assured them that though he was leaving them, the Viceroy, as an old volunteer, would take a deep interest in their success. With cheers for Lieut.-col. Herbert, the Commandant, and Lady Lawrence, the inspection closed.

RUHMAN KHAN has been sentenced to 8 years' imprisonment as a conspirator. He forged letters from the Maharajah of Cashmere to the Benares chief, inviting the latter to rise against the English, and declared he had a similar mission to the Akhoond of Swat, Feroze Shah, Gwalior and Rewah. The scoundrel was arrested when holding an interview with the Maharajah of Benares, who had given notice to the authorities. The remarkable part of the story, as told by the Lahore Chronicle, is that Feroze Shah should be mentioned. If alive he is supposed to be either in Mecca or Persia, but this traitor declared he had a mission to him in India.

TENANT RIGHT IN THE PUNJAB.—The Lahore Chronicle states that a committee of revenue officers is to be held at Lahore to consider the question of tenant right in the Punjab, on which the district officers were lately asked to give their opinion. At the last Revenue Settlement, as during all periodical settlements, great mistakes were made, and the object of the committee is to point to a remedy. We feel assured that the Governor-General knows too well the people he so long ruled to create rights, as the writer fears. It is another question whether it is expedient now to enquire into the existing state of things and to attempt to remedy past mistakes either in the Punjab or Oudh.

JAILS.—We hear that the changes and improvements in the internal management and regulation of Mofussil Jails, as proposed by the Indian Prison Committee, have been partially carried out in Bengal and the N. W. Provinces. A Code of Jail Regulations has been prepared for Bengal, and approved of by the Lieutenant-Governor. By the proposed changes, the work of the Inspectors-General of prisons will increase to a certain extent, for which additional office establishments have been allowed to them. The departmental work in the N. W. Provinces will be greater than that in Bengal, for, by the proposed changes, some 27 bowluts in those provinces, which were hitherto under the immediate control of the magistrates, will be made over to the Inspector-General of Prisons. In fact, we observe from reliable data that the number of jails under the Inspector-General of the N. W. Provinces is about 69 in excess of that under his brother officer in the Lower Provinces. Besides the above the management and general supervision of all the charitable dispensaries have lately been made over to that officer.—Hurkaru, Jan. 12.

THE RUSSIANS IN KHOKAND.—A letter to the Amcer of Cabul, in the Delhi Gazette, states that there is a famine in Khokand, and the Russians have proclaimed a remission of land assessment for two years. They are, then, complete masters of the place. They have engaged thousands of labourers to make roads towards Bokhara, and have sent to the Khan of that country four envoys with three lakhs of rupees worth of presents.

THE RAILWAY MURDER.—The Indian Daily News states that the probable authors of the Briggs-like murder in a third-class carriage on the East Indian Railway have been discovered in the persons of a jemadar and two pointsmen employed by the railway.

THIBET.—We are now in a position to state the causes of the present struggle in Thibet. Sithia Kazee, the King of Thibet, died the other day, as we stated in a late issue. He was an usurper, and had gained the throne by the expulsion of the rightful owner, Reting. This man took refuge with the Rajah of Nyakoon, and with his assistance, backed by a strong force of Chinese, has entered Llassa. As his expulsion had been effected by the aid of the Dhurm Rajah of Bhootan, he now breathes threatenings and slaughter against that ill-starred potentate, who between Reting on one flank and the British on the other, is in anything but an enviable position. Great disturbances are said to be going on in Thibet, and we are led to suppose that these are caused by the friends and supporters of the now defunct Sithia Kazee.—Hurkaru, Jan. 12.

MILITARY OFFICERS IN CIVIL EMPLOY.—The rule which requires the retirement of all civil officers on completing thirty-five years' service has been extended to military officers in civil employ. The latter must retire on attaining the age of fifty-five, and enter into more active employment:—"We are informed that the Secretary of State has established a rule applicable to military officers in civil employment analogous to the rule of thirty-five years in the civil service. It is said that he has ordered that officers in civil employment having reached the age of fifty-five must resign. We do not understand that they must leave the service, but only the civil departments. So that a sixty-year-old may serve as a general, but not as a commissioner—a curious distinction."

A NATIVE OPINION OF THE CONVERTS RE-MARRIAGE BILL.—The Hindoo Patriot approves of Mr. Maine's Converts' Re-marriage Bill as giving certain rights to the woman after separation and granting the husband a most necessary relief. The writer cannot see any difficulty in permitting a purdanashen woman to be examined by commission in a suit for conjugal society as in other civil suits; and thinks the provision taken from the English law, that the children are to be made over to the father when they are three years old, will be regarded by the people "as a means cunningly devised by the British Government for the forcible conversion of native infants to Christianity."

THE NEPAUL DUKBAR is now interfering, we hear, with the trade with the British provinces, and this interference assumes the worst of all forms, viz., a monopoly. The members of the Dukbar control most of the internal trade of Nepaul, and without their license no one is allowed to sell any article. The trade in tobacco has consequently diminished, and such profits as still accrue fall into the pockets of the Dukbar. It is so adulterated, as might be expected, that the people refuse to touch it. These monopolies are in direct contravention of the spirit of the engagement of 1839. In remembrance of the services of Jung Bahadoor, in 1857, the Governor-General is not inclined to disturb him with any references.

PORTRAIT OF GENERAL NICHOLSON.—Mr. J. C. Parry of the Delhi Bank is raising subscriptions in small sums to supply a portrait gallery of Indian notabilities to the Delhi Institute. There are already portraits of Lord Elgin, Sir John Lawrence, Sir Robert Hamilton, Lord Canning, Sir Henry Lawrence, Lord Lake, Sir Robert Montgomery, Lord Metcalfe, and Mr. F. Cooper, C.B., founder of the Institute, either presented or promised chiefly by native gentlemen. Mr. Parry now asks the adherents of General Nicholson to subscribe Rs. 500 for a portrait of one of whom the Viceroy lately said that, without him, Delhi would not have been taken.

EXTENSION OF SMALL CAUSE COURTS.—The Government of India, under Section 6, Act XXII. of 1864, has sanctioned the establishment of Courts of Small Causes in the cantonments of Lucknow and Fyzabad.

HONOUR TO THE BRAVE.—We learn that in the presence of the entire garrison of Lucknow, comprising 1 Troop of Horse Artillery, 2 Field Batteries, H.M.'s 5th Lancers, and 8th Bengal Cavalry, H.M.'s 36th and 55th Foot, and the 2nd and 33rd Bengal N.I., Major R. M. Aitkin was presented by the Commander-in-Chief with the Victoria Cross. The troops were drawn up round the angle of the Residency nearest the river. His Excellency made an excellent speech and pinned on the decoration with his own hand, after which Major Aitkin returned thanks for the honour which had been conferred upon him.

MR. FLETCHER.—We stated the other day that Mr. Fletcher, the Judge of Bancoorah, had retired on his pension. We believe that this has been the result of certain enquiries which were instituted into his conduct under the orders of Government. Mr. Fletcher was accused of having entered the house of a certain Moonsiff and walked into the female apartments, though without using any violence. It is also alleged that Mr. Fletcher on one occasion introduced his translator into his Court dressed so as to personate a Mr. Mussebrook, and that he has been in the habit of driving natives to court in his carriage.—Hurkaru, Jan. 11.

THE FIRST WINDMILL IN CENTRAL INDIA.—The Central India paper mentions that a windmill, just erected by Captain Nembhard in Jubbulpore, is the first the natives had seen. The mill is intended to grind flour and sorkee, and Nursingpore, Seonee and Saugor intend to have one each. It is strange that in a country, and in a high part of a country, where the two monsoons blow so steadily, this kind of mill has been so neglected by Asiatics who love to see results without working for them.

THE BRAMHO SOMAJ.—It was stated at the annual meeting of the Calcutta Tract Society, held in the Town Hall on Monday evening, the 16th January, that on the application of the secretary of the Bramho Somaj the society's Christian publications are to be regularly exchanged for those of the Somaj. The most hopeful sign of the Somaj is the evident earnestness of its leaders in seeking for truth. Like men who wish to get out of the mist, they are feeling after truth if haply they may find it.

CIVIL FURLONGS.—We understand that the following gentlemen, members of the Bengal Civil Service, proceed to England on an early date on furlough:—Mr. H. C. Wake, C.B., Deputy Commissioner of Darjeeling; Mr. J. D. Ward, Magistrate and Collector, Second Grade, Chittagong; Mr. J. D. Dodgson, Civil and Sessions Judge of Mymensing. Mr. Wake leaves India in February, and Mr. Ward in March.

BRITISH BURMAH.—Intelligence has been received from Rangoon to the effect that the Chief Commissioner of British Burmah, under instructions from the Viceroy, has been in treaty with the Count of Ava for the protection of British travellers through his territories, and that Captain Browne, who has reached Mandalay in his capacity of Government Agent, has been instructed to give his attention to the subject.

SOME years ago the Senate of the Calcutta University made a rule that no one could pass for the B.A. who had not matriculated at home, without passing the entrance examination first. We are now informed that this rule has been broken through in favour of Mr. Blochman, a gentleman connected with the Dorseton College.

OPIMUM SALE.—Still the price of opium falls so as to affect seriously the coming budget. On the 11th January the prices were:—

	Chests.	Average.	Proceeds.
Behar.....	2,920	85-11-3½	25,07,125
Benares.....	2,135	77-0-1	15,77,400

DR. CREW, the civil surgeon of Bhaugulpore, goes to the 7th N.I. at Lucknow, and will be succeeded in his post by Dr. Allan.

A SPIRITUAL MANIFESTATION.—The Englishman publishes a translation of a characteristic and amusing letter from Deo Llama, of Bhootan, to "the Sahib accompanying troops." It begins by stating that the Deo Dhurma Raja is so content with his little kingdom that he has no desire to seize Chinese Tartary, China, and India. "The Queen and the Deb Dhurma Rajah are like sister and brother. Last year, when Mr. Eden came to me, I paid him such respect as was due to him, and introduced him to our Rajah, who settled the matter of captives with him. He, Mr. Eden, solemnly promised that he would never break the peace existing between us or fight with us, but in spite of this promise you fight, which I do not like." If we do not cease to fight the writer is to "send the force of the Deo of 82 gods, who are very fierce and ferocious ghosts. Of this force 7,000 stop at Chamoorchee, 5,000 at Doomna, 9,000 at Buxa, and 1,02,000 at Daling Dooar."

MAJOR MACDONALD, Inspector of Schools in Madras, has been appointed Registrar General of Insurances, and Mr. Fortey, another Inspector, has taken leave of absence. To fill both appointments Mr. H. Bowers has been appointed inspector, conditionally on passing an examination in Telugu. The educational departments in all the Presidencies, but especially in Bengal, find it difficult to secure competent men for the higher appointments. The pecuniary inducements are hardly sufficient, the necessity for knowing the vernacular is deterrent, and the certainty of succeeding to the directorships has been removed by the occasional appointment of incompetent outsiders.

RAJAH DINKUR RAO.—The Indore correspondent of Native Opinion states that Rajah Dinkur Rao has received from Scindia a Jaghire worth Rs. 40,000 a year for his services in the crisis of 1857-58. This comes rather late. It is a pity that the Maharajah's jealousy will not allow him to use Dinkur Rao as a constant and official adviser, except in cases of difficulty which have arisen owing to the neglect of his counsels.

THE FRENCH IN THE EAST.—The French have not yet given up their design of checking Perim from the Abyssinian coast. Last time they made use of an usurper, who was overthrown by the Emperor Theodorus. Now, M. Mouchi, attaché to the French consulate at Jeddah, has gone to Zila, on the Abyssinian coast, nominally to establish a factory, but really, the Levant Herald says, to make that a new basis for diplomatic intrigue.

CIVIL CHANGES.—Mr. H. D. Sandeman, Civil Paymaster of Fort William, has succeeded Mr. J. L. Lushington, of the Madras Civil Service in the office of Deputy-Auditor and Accountant-General of Bengal. Mr. Lushington takes the place of Mr. Birch, Accountant-General of Bombay.

THE GENERAL ANNUITY FUND, established in Calcutta last July, to give non-officials benefits similar to those of the uncovenanted pension funds, has published its first report. There are twenty-five subscribers, and honorary agencies are established in Akyab, Allahabad, Benares, and Lucknow.

THE NEW ADJUTANT-GENERAL.—The Mofussilite understands that Colonel Carmichael, C.B., of H.M.'s 94th, is to succeed Colonel Haythorne as Adjutant-General of the Indian Army. When commanding H.M.'s 106th, Colonel Carmichael was under Sir W. Mansfield.

LAND IN GOWHATTY.—The Englishman mentions that at the last waste land sale in Gowhatty two lots measuring 1,300 acres brought an average price of Rs. 8-12-10 per acre.

MR. G. G. BALFOUR, Civil and Sessions Judge of Chittagong, intends to resign the service, and retire on the annuity of his rank at the close of the present official year.

MADRAS.

MISCELLANEOUS.

MADRAS MUSSULMANS.—We are glad to see the Mussulman community engaged in any public act. Those of Madras have presented to the Hon. E. Maltby a really model farewell address. They regret that the personnel of our administration should be so fluctuating, and that when an official really learns to know the people he should be forced to leave them. At the same time they congratulate the retiring member of council and his family on being spared to return, as "it is impossible to expect one, and especially an Englishman, to ex- patriate himself from all that is dearest and sweetest in life." Mr. Maltby's brother, after doing good service as resident at Travancore, left India two years ago.

CIVIL ENGINEERING COLLEGE.—Lieut.-Col. Walker, R.E., has presented the sum of Rs. 4,000, bearing the annual interest of Rs. 200, to endow a scholarship at the Madras Civil Engineering College. Candidates who are not military men are eligible for the scholarship, if they pass the college vernacular test in Can- narese or Malayalam, in addition to the usual entrance examination. When more than one is eligible, the preference is to be given to a Protestant Christian, failing such candidate to a Roman Catholic, and finally to a Hindoo or Mussulman candidate.

INAUGURATION OF THE MEMORIAL HALL.—The Bishop of Madras presided at the inaugu- ration of the Memorial Hall on the 2nd Jan. The building was crowded to excess by the clergy and religious public of all denomina- tions. The Bishop explained the origin of the hall. "In the Madras Presidency there was no mutiny, and this hall is a memorial of that great fact. It stands, therefore, not as a glaring exhibition of cruel rebellion on the one hand and of triumphant might on the other, but as a conspicuous monument of the loyalty of the people of this Presidency, and of thankfulness on our part to Almighty God." The Bishop's address was suitable at once to the occasion and the beginning of a new year.

STORMS ON THE COROMANDEL COAST.—The Master Attendant of Masulipatam has submitted the following information to Go- vernment. It is taken from a book in his possession, belonging formerly to a very old resident of Masulipatam, and may prove in- teresting at the present time:—

1788 May	Gale on the Coast, Coringa inundated.
1792 do.	do. do.
1800 Oct.	do. Masulipatam do.
1811 May	do. Madras.
1817 Sept.	do. do.
1818 Oct.	do. do.
1819 April	do. do.
1827 May	do. do.
1832 do.	Coast Coringa do.
1836 do.	do. do.
1839 do.	do. do.
1843 May & Oct.	Masulipatam inundated.
1844 Dec.	do. Madras.
1846 May	do. do.

NAWABSHIP OF THE CARNATIC.—The advisers of the family who claim the extinct Nawabship of the Carnatic have obtained a guardedly favourable opinion from Dr. Travers Twiss. He does not think "That the East India Com- pany are bound explicitly by any article of the treaty to recognise the claimant as the successor to the estate of Azem ul Dowlah, as Nabob Soubadar of the Carnatic, "but they are im- plicitly bound to do so." Again, "apart from the obligations of the East India Company, under the treaty of 1801, to recognise the claimant as the successor to the rank and dig- nity of the Nabob Azem ul Dowlah, the character of the status of the claimant and his family must be determined by the consue- tude prior and subsequent to 1801, and that consuetude is conclusively in favour of the status of the claimant and his family in refer- ence to the Nawabship of the Carnatic being hereditary." A less favourable opinion than this could not have been expected. When a litigant consults his paid lawyer, he expects more encouragement than this.

THE Madras Athenæum thus truly describes Madras as it strikes all visitors:—"A dirty insignificant place, with scarcely a single build- ing worth looking at." But now we are glad to hear a great deal has been effected in the way of improvements within the last six years. "A fine Park, a Memorial Hall, a splendid Hospital have sprung up, and what is perhaps of much more importance, the natives have begun to build for their own use a far better class of houses than they ever did before." Only a wise despotism, uninfluenced by the sham of a self-governing municipality, will make the three Presidency cities at all com- parable to what Akbar made Agra and Shah Jehan did for Delhi.

DEATHS IN MADRAS.—Government passed the following order on the 4th Jan., on a report on the causes of death in Madras for the year 1863. The year under review was, on the whole, tolerably healthy, and the mortality which prevailed during its first quarter alone prevented its forming a favourable contrast with the unhealthy seasons which have pre- ceded it. The later returns of the year show a decided decrease in the great epidemics, more than three-fourths of the whole deaths from cholera having occurred during the first quarter of the year. The seasonable and copious falls of rain in the third and fourth quarters had a remarkable influence on the cholera death-rate, which fell in the third quarter to 15, from 1,279 in the first quarter, and 257 in the second. Dr. Cornish con- sidered that the hot season is undoubtedly the most healthy, and the cold seasons of January and February the most unhealthy, but appears to be of opinion that neither wea- ther nor temperature is to be looked to as the cause of the prevalence of cholera or other epidemics. It would, however, seem clear from the report that a plentiful rain fall, and the prevalence of high winds, have a favourable influence on the public health, and the contrary state of weather, the reverse. The very im- portant question of the sanitary condition of the fort will be referred, through the military department, to the president of the sanitary commission.

BOMBAY.

MISCELLANEOUS.

BRETHREN DWELLING TOGETHER IN CHA- RITY.—Our Poonah contemporary reports a quarrel between two officials at Sholapore—the district judge and the station doctor—about seats in the church, in which these gentlemen displayed so much unnecessary ill- feeling that the station chaplain excommu- nicated them both. The judge appealed to Government against this sentence, and we have now learnt that an answer to the appli- cation has been received. The Governor in Council very properly refuses to interfere in a matter purely ecclesiastical, and declines to entertain Mr. Sandwith's complaint. The papers will, probably, soon be published.

OPENING OF THE THULL GHAT.—The official opening of the Thull Ghat on the 30th of December last is an event of great interest in the history of engineering enter- prise in India. Mountstuart Elphinstone pro- nounced it impossible to make a decent road over the Ghat, and even Lord Dalhousie was advised by the engineers of his day that the ghats must be avoided altogether, and the route by Rajpootana to Surat be adopted.

Now the genius of Berkley and the energy of the contractors, Messrs. Wythes and Jackson, have made a railway which is thus described by Mr. Graham, the contractors' manager. Taking "the Bore Ghaat with the Thull Ghaat, mile for mile, the latter displays an equal amount of science and engineering skill as the former. In the Bore Ghaat the gradient is 1 in 37 in a mile and a quarter; the same gradient extends in the Thull Ghaat in four and a half miles. In the first there are 26 tunnels and viaducts, the maximum height of the latter being 190 feet; in the Thull Ghaat there are thirty with a maximum height of 290 feet, 100 feet more than in the Bore Ghaat." It is a wonderful fact that the Eahgaum viaduct, consisting of a mass of materials weighing 700 tons and rising 180 feet, till the massive piers looked, when we saw them recently, like fairy pillars, was built with only one accident. Sir Bartle Frere, who opened the Ghaat, was accompanied by Sir W. Mansfield and Admiral King. The new incline will save five hours on the present journey from Calcutta to Bombay, but the unwillingness of Government to run special mail trains will probably keep the public from feeling the advantage of it in the more speedy transmission of letters.

THE TELEGRAPH FRAUDS.—A clue has been found to the origin of the telegraph frauds in Bombay, which were so serious that the Chamber of Commerce offered a reward of Rs. 5,000 for the discovery of the guilty parties. It appears from the Bombay Gazette that a dismissed signaller named Lawless has, in combination with certain opium brokers, been in the habit of inducing the mere boys, who work the line in the Colaba office, to abstract important commercial messages. The boys were well plied with wine and money in the brokers' houses, and were promised Rs. 50 a month with a share in the profits arising from "early news." A cipher was arranged which was to be made use of on all occasions; and servants employed to take the boys' meals into them were made use of to bring out the news. Some of these servants are in custody, and have confessed. The gang even went so far as to send a signaller of the Colaba office specially to Galle, and he is now in the Colombo office under an assumed name and in the brokers' pay. Two boys, Daniels and Maloney, are in custody, and the evidence is thought to be conclusive.

DEATH OF VENKAJEE RAO.—We notice in the Poona Observer the death of Venkajee Rao, son of the last Rajah of Sattara. This is the prince who as a boy was adopted by the last Rajah in 1848 just before his death, and whom Lord Dalhousie declined to recognise. So passes away the last representative of the great Sivajee.

TRAMWAY LINE FROM KHANGAUM TO SHEOGAUM.—While Sir Macdonald Stephenson's Indian Tramway Company has been forced by Sir C. Wood's unwillingness to grant liberal concessions to confine itself to a single line in the Madras Presidency, a tramway company established in Bombay proposes to lay a line from Khangaum to Sheogaum, the present terminus on the Nagpore branch of the G. I. P. Railway. Till the trunk lines are doubled and decently managed they need no feeders. They are already choked with traffic.

THE EXHIBITION.—Dr. Birdwood has resigned the Bombay Medical Service, and will take charge of the arrangements for the projected Exhibition. Government has conceded to the projectors the use for three years of eleven acres of the esplanade close to the G. I. P. Railway terminus, on condition of their depositing five lacs of rupees as a guarantee that the building will be erected. Sir Bartle Frere has agreed to request other countries to assist, and the erection of the building will begin in five or six weeks. Dr. Birdwood's resignation seems to have been followed by that of Dr. Sinclair, Professor in the Presidency College and Registrar of the University, who has become Secretary of a financial association. Dr. Sinclair is an able scholar; but in Bombay men must live, and having accomplished what is impossible in so many official positions, they are soon seized with the mania of fortune-making.

A DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.—There has been a serious fire, destructive of much property, in the business part of Bombay, at the corner of Church Gate-street and Rampart-row. At nine in the morning the fire broke out in a room used to store photographic chemicals by Messrs. McCombie and Sons. It spread to the adjoining offices and was finally subdued after raging three hours by the united efforts of the police, the men of the 4th Rifles and 21st N.I. and Marines from the Princess Royal. Compared with Calcutta, with its thick brick walls and heavy masonry roofs, Bombay is at present a city of wood in which fires ought to be as frequent as in Rangoon.

A NATIVE PROFESSOR OF MATHEMATICS.—A native, Mr. Keru Luxamon, has been transferred from the Poona to the Elphinstone College, to succeed Dr. Sinclair as Professor of Mathematics. This case, and that of Ramchunder of the Delhi College, illustrate the general belief, that of all European branches of study the Asiatic excels most in that which requires least creative power—mathematics.

RENTS AT POONA.—The Government of Bombay lately sold Dapoorie, the Governor's unhealthy residence at Poona, and are building a new house on a better site. Meanwhile, according to the local Observer, Sir Bartle Frere has rented at Rs. 6,000 a year Baron Larpet's house at Gunness Kindee, which Sir Jamsetjee Jejeebhoy has just purchased for £12,000. High rents and costly living are not peculiar to Bombay; Poona, to which during the rainy season half Bombay rushes, is nearly as bad.

Truth—will prevail in the long run. If nothing more than a verbal profession of faith is required, it is very likely that preaching may produce the greatest number of converts in a given time. But if it is intended to impart to the Natives of India something more pure and excellent than the superstition of a Calabrian peasant, it is rather by teaching than by preaching that any lasting success can be hoped to be attained.

POPULATION OF BOMBAY.

IN the interests of sanitary science it is fortunate that it is no longer deemed a sin of presumption to number the people. Not even the Evangelical Alliance would think of hurling an anathema against the Census Commissioners, or of menacing the humbler enumerators with the wrath of offended Heaven. It is now only the ignorant and superstitious who object to make a truthful return of the members of their household, with the ages, occupation, and religious belief of each individual. In England, at least, this silly repugnance to furnish reliable data to the Government is gradually disappearing, but it still prevails in the Eastern possessions of the British Crown. It has, therefore, been a task of no ordinary difficulty to arrive at a tolerably correct estimate of the multiform population of the island of Bombay, notwithstanding the great pains that were taken to explain the real motives of the Government, and to disabuse the minds of the natives of the fixed impression that a capitation-tax was in contemplation. Perfect accuracy was not to be expected, but it is believed that the returns obtained on the 2nd of February, 1864, contain much fewer errors than might have been anticipated, and indeed, err only in this respect—that the total exhibited is somewhat below that which actually exists. Two hundred years had then elapsed since the island of Bombay was ceded by the Portuguese Government to Great Britain as part of the dowry of the Infanta Catherine. At that time the population was computed at 10,000 individuals, of whom the larger portion dwelt at Mahim. Fifteen years later their number had increased sixfold, "most of them fugitives and vagabonds." The town is described as being then "a full mile in length, the houses low, and thatched with oleas of the cocoa trees, all but a few the Portuguese left, and some few the Company have built; the custom-house and warehouses are tiled or plastered, and instead of glass use panes of oyster-shells for their windows." It is probable that what Fryer mistook for the nacre of oyster-shells was nothing but talc. That, however, is a matter of little importance, and it is more to the point to state that by 1815 the population exceeded a quarter of a million, of whom 11,000 were located in the Fort. According to this return, there were 4,300 Europeans, military, marine, and civilians, 12,300 native Christians and Jews, 28,000 Mussulmans, 103,800 Hindoos, and 13,150 Parsees. Of the grand total, nearly one-fourth, or 60,000 persons were accounted as birds of passage, or merely temporary residents. The number of houses was set down as 20,786. Several attempts were subsequently made to obtain a correct census of the inhabitants of the island, but with very indifferent success. At length Sir Bartle Frere called together the native justices of the peace, and having explained to them "how the knowledge of the people that is sought for in a census conduces to good government, and to sanitary and social improvement," invited their co-operation and support. His Excellency's appeal was responded to with intelligence and cordiality, and a Parsee gentleman, Mr. Dosabhoj Framjee Kuraka, circulated at his own expense 2,000 copies of a pamphlet, in which the nature and objects of a census were clearly set forth. The night of the 1st and the early morning of the 2nd of February, 1864, were fixed upon for the date of enumeration, and 843 enumerators, with 148 superintendents of districts, were engaged to execute the delicate operation. Of these, 331 wrote in English, 147 in Guzrati, 423 in Marathi, and 20 in Hindustani, besides the 70 enumerators employed in the harbour. There was thus one enumerator for every 968 individuals, with respect to whom there were seven points to be ascertained, and the difficulty of obtaining reliable information was enhanced by the fact that in some instances as many as thirty, forty, and even fifty families resided beneath the same roof.

The total population of the island of Bombay was discovered to be 816,562, of whom 530,450 were males and 286,112 females—the proportion of the former to the latter being as 185·4 to 100. This enormous disparity between the sexes is partly attributed to the harbour population being included, which consisted of 32,582 males with only 55 females. But even after allowing for this the ratio would still be 174 to 100. The difference in numbers was greatest among the Europeans, owing to the preponderance of sailors and soldiers. Next to these came the Chinese, while among the Parsees the proportion was as 133 to 100, and among the Jews as 112 to 100. Under one month the males were as 95 to 100, from one month to two years as 101·4, from two to fourteen as 131·7, and from fourteen to forty-four as 221. Under the age of two years there were 17,644 persons, and between two and fourteen 155,328, or 172,972 under the age of puberty. Between fourteen and forty four there were 526,523 souls, and above that age 117,067. The proportion of children under two years old to females between fourteen and forty-five is much greater than in European countries, but this chiefly arises from the number of women who repair to Bombay in search of employment, and who seldom bring infants with them, nor do they themselves travel when in a pregnant state. Thus it happens that among the migratory Hindoos the ratio of little children to females of the procreative period of life was 9·8 to 100, while among the more settled Jews, Parsees, and Indo-Europeans it was nearly 16. Taking the entire population the proportion was as 10·7 to 100, whereas in Great Britain it was as high as 40, though in 1841 it was no more than 22½. Classing the inhabitants of Bombay under their respective castes or races it was found that there were 8,021 Buddhists, 30,604 Brahmins, 1,598 Lingaets, 21,771 Bhatias, making a total of 61,994 persons who refrain from eating flesh. Besides these there were 491,540 Hindoos of the Shenvee, Koonbee, Panchkulsee, Sonar, and other castes who do not object to eat animal food, and 32,434 Untej or outcaste Hindoos, who will eat anything that comes in their way. Of Asiatic Mussulmans there were 145,880; of Negro Africans, also believers in the Arabian Prophet, 2,074; of Parsees, 49,201; of Jews, 2,872; of Native Christians, 19,903; of Indo-Europeans, 1,891; of Europeans, 8,415; and of Chinese, 8,415. There was thus one European to every hundred of the mixed population, a proportion that may be taken as the relative standard of British and Native energy—leaving the Jews and Parsees out of the question. As the surface of the united islands is reckoned at 18·62 square miles, there would be one square mile to every 42,104 of the land population, or one acre to every 65·8 persons, were the population equally distributed over the entire area; but a considerable space is described as being not only unoccupied by buildings, but laid out in salt pans or lying waste. So densely, indeed, are the inhabitants packed together, that if even the whole surface of the island were equally portioned out, each individual would have no more than 73½ square yards to himself, while in London each individual has 114½ square yards. In the Native Town the average space to each inhabitant is only 6½ square yards—the maximum area being 9½, and the minimum 5 2-5ths—this minimum, moreover, falling to the lot of 135,661 native inhabitants.

The inhabited houses, exclusive of barracks, gaols, hospitals, reformatories, orphanages, &c., amounted to 24,206, of which 6,676 were thatched huts in the rural and suburban sections. The streets vary from 6 to 49 feet in width, giving a mean width of 26½ feet. The average of families to each house was 3·97, or 30·6 persons to each house, including the out-houses inhabited by servants. Of occupations furnishing a livelihood there were 77 varieties, classed under 14 divisions. The first included bakers, butchers, cooks, confectioners, fishermen, grain-dealers, grain-parchers, gardeners and green-grocers, grocers, poulterers, purveyors, salt manufacturers and vendors, tavern and hotel keepers, and water-carriers; forming 100·5 in every 1,000 of the population. The second comprised clothiers, cotton-work retailers, dyers, leather-workers, silk workers and dealers, tailors, weavers, washermen, and woolwork dealers; in all 91·2 in every 1,000. In the third were the domestic servants and sweepers, making 66·8. In the fourth we find brick and tile makers, masons, painters, palmleaf workers, plumbers, and umbrella dealers; giving 40·2 to the 1,000. Under the fifth head come the charcoal-dealers, crockery and glass dealers, copper-smiths, oil-dealers, and tin smiths; or 18·5 to 1,000. The sixth class consisted of bracelet-dealers, goldsmiths and jewelers, hooka pipe dealers, liquor sellers, musicians, photographers, prostitutes, tobacco, betel, and opium dealers, toy-makers and dealers, and watch-makers; or a proportion of 60·6. To the seventh belong the druggist, leechmen, and medical men, or 11·9, and to the eighth, the priests, printers and booksellers, and school-masters and teachers, or 18·2 per 1,000. A ratio of 56·7 was furnished by the auctioneers, hawkers, merchants and bankers, moneychangers and assayers; while the tenth class were 31 in the thousand, and consisted of lawyers and the covenanted servants of the Government, military men, policemen, and watchmen. Under the eleventh head were ranged bullock, engine, and horse drivers, seafaring men, marine storedealers, porters and palkee bearers; making 105 per 1,000. The twelfth division contained contractors, civil engineers, gunpowder dealers, hemp and coir workers, iron workers, pitch and tar dealers, workers and dealers in wood, writers and accountants; in all 113. The thirteenth class was devoted to unskilled labour, amounting to 234 per 1,000; and the fourteenth to annuitants and beggars, or 52·2 in the thousand. Of the 76 actual occupations above detailed there were only 18 in which Brahmans were not personally engaged, and of these, five were the pursuits of the civil engineer, the photographer, the grain-parcher, the dyer, and the umbrella dealer. It is worthy of note that the 30,604 Brahmans of Bombay embraced in their number 10,370 beggars and paupers, 5,973 writers and accountants, 2,616 priests, 720 school-masters and teachers, 1,728 merchants and bankers, and 1,795 domestic servants. The employments they refuse are those relating to the supply of animal food, working in leather, basket making, scavenging, and cloths-washing. It may also be noted that the occupation of breeding leeches is followed only by Mussulmans and outcaste Hindoos. The Mussulmans, indeed, try their hand at everything. There is nothing in which they do not engage with greater or less success. The Negro-Africans, again, were mostly seafaring men, while among the Parsees there was not a single beggar, and the same may be said of the Jews. Of the entire population of Bombay only 174,039 were born in the island, showing the extent of the tide of immigration. There are no very reliable data as to the number of insane persons in the island, but the dumb were reckoned at 96, or 1 in every 8,505, against 1 in every 1,334 in Great Britain. The blind were stated to be 543, or one in 1,503, against 1 in 996 in the United Kingdom, while the blind were set down as 475. And thus in the course of two centuries this opulent city of 816,000 inhabitants has gradually grown out of the little Portuguese town of 10,000 traders and fishermen.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—FEB. 15.

A petition was presented by Colonel SYKES, from Capt. and Brevet Major Bowen, stating that the evidence laid before the Royal Commissioners on Grievances was incomplete; that the brevet rank conceded has not removed the injuries complained of; that the widows of the officers of the Staff Corps and Local are not in the same position with respect to pension; that his contributions to his regimental fund are lost to him, and praying for redress.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—FEB. 16.

Petitions from officers of the Indian army complaining of professional injuries consequent on regulations authorized by the Secretary of State for India were presented by Mr. CRAWFORD, from Lieut.-col. D. Dodgson, of the 30th Regiment Bengal Native Infantry; by Lord A. CHURCHILL, from Lieut. Jamieson, 22nd Regiment Madras Native Infantry, from Lieut.-col. H. E. S. Abbott, of the Bengal Infantry, and from Lieut.-col. Kelso, of the 3rd Regiment Madras Cavalry; and by Col. SYKES, from Major J. R. Auldjo, of the late 36th Regiment Bengal Native Infantry, from Col. Charles Prior, of the Bengal Army, and from Capt. H. Phillips, 41st Madras Native Infantry.

BRITISH SUBJECTS IN CHINA.

Colonel SYKES wished to ask whether the order in Council of the 1st of March, 1864, had been enforced, and all British subjects withdrawn from the service of the Emperor of China and that of provincial mandarins.

Mr. LAYARD said that the Government had no power to withdraw from the service of the Emperor of China any person who might be in that service. Those who were in the service of her Majesty had been withdrawn, and other British subjects would remain in the service of the Emperor of China at their own peril.

KIRWEE PRIZE-MONEY.

Sir C. WOOD (in answer to Mr. MILLER) said that the distribution of the Kirwee Prize-money would depend upon the decision of the Admiralty Court, but when that decision would be arrived at he could not tell.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—FEB. 17.

Petitions from officers in the Indian army, complaining of grievances arising from the recent orders of the Secretary of State for India, were presented, by Colonel SYKES, from Captain Richard Jenkins, of the 5th Regiment Bengal European Cavalry, and from Lieutenant Charles Bushby, of the 11th Regiment of Bengal Native Infantry; by Mr. BAZLEY, from Major A. Pritchard, 28th Regiment Madras Infantry; from Lieutenant-Colonel William Taylor Money, 31st Regiment Madras Native Infantry; and from Lieutenant-Colonel A. N. Lynch, 19th Regiment Madras Native Infantry; by Sir JOHN HAY, from Lieutenant and Brevet-Captain Robert Durie, of the late 64th Native Infantry; and from Lieutenant and Brevet-Captain Edward O'Brien Horsford, of the late 46th Bengal Native Infantry; by Mr. Baines, from Major H. L. Robertson and Lieutenant-Colonel Hawthorne; by Mr. H. FENWICK, from Captain John Chadwick Dickson, and from Lieutenant Thomas Henville Pearson; by Mr. TORRENS, from Lieutenant N. Alexander, of the 22nd Madras Native Infantry, and from Lieutenant-Colonel Robert Andrew Smith; by Captain JERVIS, from Lieutenant Sale Hill, 1st Goorkha Light Infantry; from Captain Hale, late 57th Madras Native Infantry; from Sir Charles Oakley, late 5th Bengal European Cavalry; from Colonel W. T. Nuthall, late 3rd Bengal Native Infantry, and from Lieutenant Tyler, 20th Bengal Native Infantry; by Mr. KEKEWICH, from Captain Sweet, of the Indian Army at Madras.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—FEB. 20.

Petitions for redress of grievances occasioned by the amalgamation of the Royal and Indian armies were presented, by Lord STANLEY, from Lieutenant White; by Mr. VANSITTART, from Lieutenant-Colonel E. P. Lynch, of the 18th Regiment Bombay Infantry; Major Charles Baugh, of the 9th Regiment Bombay Native Infantry; and from Captain Robert Burd, of the 10th Regiment Bombay Infantry; by Lord A. CHURCHILL, from Captain Sidney Cousens, of the 13th Regiment Bombay Native Infantry, and Captain Henry P. Close, of the late 31st Regiment Bombay Infantry; by Mr. H. BAILLIE, from Colonel Snow, of the Bengal Cavalry; Major Bradford, 23rd Regiment Bengal Native Infantry, and Captain Armstrong, of the 4th Regiment Bengal Europeans; by Colonel SYKES, from Major H. E. Jacob, 18th Regiment Bombay Infantry; Brevet-Captain Fellows, of the 5th Regiment Bombay Infantry, and Lieutenant H. W. Harris, of the 10th Regiment Bombay Native Infantry; by Mr. ADAM, from Lieutenant-Colonel W. C. Gott, of the Bengal Infantry, and from Captain and Brevet-Major Cuppage, of the late 15th Regiment Bengal Native Infantry; and by Mr. SMOLLETT, from Colonel George T. Italy, late Lieutenant-Colonel 108th Foot.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—FEB. 21.

Petitions praying for the redress of grievances occasioned by the amalgamation of the Royal and Indian armies were presented, by Mr. FERRAND, from Lieutenant Mainwaring Russell, of her Majesty's Indian army, Madras Presidency; by Colonel SYKES, from Captain and Brevet-Major H. Finch, 2nd (late 31st) Native Infantry, Bengal Presidency; Captain Barras, 15th Bombay, and Lieutenant J. P. Forbes, 3rd Bombay Native Infantry; Captain and Brevet-Major J. E. L. Williams, late 10th Regiment Bengal Native Infantry; and Captain and Brevet-Major C. Need, late 6th Bengal European Regiment.

DEATH OF FIELD-MARSHAL VISCOUNT COMBERMERE.

We have to announce the death at Clifton, on the 21st inst., of Field-Marshal Viscount and Baron Combermere, of Combermere, G.C.B., G.C.H., K.S.I., Constable of the Tower of London. The deceased, Stapleton Stapleton Cotton, son of Sir Robert Salisbury Cotton, M.P. for the county of Chester, was born at Llewenny-hall, in Denbighshire, in 1769, and educated at Westminster School. On the 26th of February, 1790, he entered the army. He first served as lieutenant in the 23rd Welsh Fusiliers. He was afterwards promoted into the Dragoon Guards, in which he served in Flanders under the Duke of York. He attained the rank of captain on the 28th of February, 1793, and that of major in March, 1794. He was appointed lieutenant-colonel of the 25th Light Dragoons in the same month. He had in 1796 the command of that regiment at the Cape of Good Hope. There he served in a short but active campaign under Sir Thomas Craig, after which he proceeded with his regiment to India. He then served in 1798 and 1799 against Tippoo Sultan. He was engaged in the battle of Mallasvelly and in the siege of Seringapatam. In 1808 he returned to England, and after commanding for a time the 16th Dragoons in Ireland, and serving on the staff in England, he proceeded in 1808 to the Peninsula in command of a brigade of cavalry. At the head of this corps he distinguished himself during the campaign in the north of Portugal, including the operations at Oporto and the battle of Talavera. In 1809 the local rank of lieutenant-general was conferred upon him, and early in 1810 he was appointed to the command of the whole allied cavalry under the Duke of Wellington. He remained in that position until the termination of the war in 1814, and distinguished himself at the head of that force in covering the retreat from Almeida to Torres Vedras, at Busaco, Villa Garcia, Castrajon, Fuentes-d'Onor, and Salamanca. In the last mentioned battle he was severely wounded. He also served at El Bodon, the Pyrenees, Orthes, and Toulouse. On his return to England after the battles of Talavera and Salamanca he received the unanimous thanks of both Houses of Parliament, in conjunction with the Duke of Wellington, and in consequence of his brilliant services he was elevated to the peerage on the 17th May, 1814, as Baron Combermere. In 1817 he was appointed Governor of Barbadoes, and Commander of the Forces in the West Indies. He was appointed Commander-in-Chief in India, in 1822, and it was while he held that position that he won fresh distinction by the capture of Bhurtpore. On the 27th May, 1825, he attained the rank of General. In the following year he was advanced to the dignity of Viscount for his services in India. He was appointed to the Coloncy of the 1st Life Guards on the 16th September, 1829, which he continued to hold at the time of his death. He was made a Field-Marshal on the 2nd of October, 1855.

Viscount Combermere married, in 1801, Lady Anna Maria Pelham-Clinton, the eldest daughter of the third Duke of Newcastle, who died in 1807, and by whom he had no surviving issue. He married secondly, on the 18th of June, 1814, Caroline, the second daughter of Mr. W. Fulke-Greville. She died on the 25th of January, 1837, leaving three children. One of them, Caroline, married the present Marquis of Downshire. The deceased married thirdly on the 2nd of October, 1838, the only child of Mr. Robert Gibbins, of Cork, a lady of an ancient Irish family.

The heir of Lord Combermere is his son by the second marriage, the Hon. Wellington Henry Cotton, who was born at Barbadoes in 1818, and who sat for Carrickfergus from 1847 to 1857.

Among the military distinctions which Lord

Combermere had received were a medal for Seringapatam, the gold cross and one clasp for Talavera, Fuentes-d'Onor, Salamanca, Orthes, and Toulouse, the silver war medal, with three clasps, for Busaco, Ciudad Rodrigo, and the Pyrenees, the Grand Cross of the Tower and Sword of Portugal, and of Charles III. and St. Ferdinand of Spain, and, lastly, the Order of the Star of India.—Times.

GEOGRAPHY OF INDIA.

On Tuesday, the 14th inst., Lord William Hay delivered a most interesting and instructive lecture on the subject of modern maps, and especially those of India, at the lecture-room of the Highgate Literary Institution. Lord and Lady Dufferin and a number of the gentlemen and ladies of the neighbourhood were present on the occasion. The text of his lordship's lecture was that, having to consult a map of India at his club the other day, he, to his astonishment, found it to be Arrowsmith's old chart of 1801, and it was the changes which he then could trace during the progress of the last sixty years, and the general and great improvement which had taken place in the science of geography in that long period which had suggested his lecture. After briefly pointing out the difficulties of map making, and bring the whole subject easily within the scope of his audience by familiar illustrations of the triangulated method of survey, his lordship went on to point out the radical differences between the itineraries of travellers and the perfectly organised surveys of Governments, such especially as those of Switzerland, and Austria and Germany, which had produced some of the most faultless maps in the world. The great survey of France, begun by the First Napoleon, had hardly been completed yet, and one angle, about the correctness of which there had been much doubt, had been measured nearly a thousand times before its perfect accuracy had been demonstrated. The changes which the maps of India of 1801 and 1861 displayed were most suggestive. The old map marked out whole provinces,—whole countries, in fact, which then owned the sway of native rulers, but which were now almost central portions of the Queen's great Indian Empire. Mountain chains had been correctly laid down, rivers which had sprawled in erratic and devious courses on the old maps through countries which never heard their name had been reclaimed by the science of geography into their proper channels, and there was now no important part of India the general geographical configuration of which was not almost as well known to its rulers as England and Scotland were known here. Such material additions to the stock of knowledge of Indian officials was of immense practical benefit to them in their dealings with the people, and even in the local government which was adopted for their welfare. His lordship defended what he called the much-abused policy of annexation, and most especially that portion of it which had in a manner forced on us the annexation of the Punjab. Altogether, since Arrowsmith's old map of 1801 was published the English had annexed nearly 800,000 square miles of territory, and none, he thought, who now looked at the map of India would doubt about not only the expediency, but the political necessity of those annexations. During the same period the conquests of Russia on the north-west and north-east frontiers of India had amounted to nearly, if not quite, a million of square miles, and Russia from the Volga could now, if she were inclined, send down a river force which in a short time would menace the very existence of Persia. Russian progress, and Russian ambition in India were formerly great bugbears, and were really not groundless alarms during the reign of the late formidable Emperor Nicholas. Under its present ruler Alexander, however, the whole scope and purpose of Muscovite policy seemed changed, and all the efforts of its Emperor were now, with the most laudable steadfastness of purpose, directed to the social and legislative improvement of his people—to the liberation of the serfs, the liberation of trade and commerce, and the development of the really enormous internal resources of so vast an empire. Under an Emperor so wise and liberal he did not think there was much to fear from the effects of a hostile Russian ambition in India; and even if there was more cause for suspicion there was nothing like leaving the trap open to catch the mice, for if Russia attempted such a desperate risk as an armed invasion of India, they might enter the trap through the mountain passes on which they abutted, but few, if any, would ever return to tell of their ill success. The loss of an entire army in Khiva had checked Russian ambition in this direction as much as the loss of an army in Cabul had checked ours. Russia was now more occupied in winning the commercial success which could be gained by diplomacy rather than by the sword, in utilising the highway of water communication which she had in the Amoor river, and in looking out for commercial advantages in the recently-opened country of Japan. Their late occupation of Kokan had been as much forced on them by the misconduct of its people as our own recent occupation of the lowlands of Bhotan. His Lordship concluded a long and most instructive lecture on Indian geography by regretting his inability to dispose of the whole subject in a single evening, and promising, amid loud applause, to seek an early opportunity of continuing the discourse. A cordial vote of thanks was given to his Lordship for his lecture.—Times.

BOISRAGON V. BOISRAGON AND MOORE.

Dr. Spinks appeared for the petitioner.

Captain Boiragon, of the 30th Regiment of Punjab Native Infantry, prayed for a dissolution of his marriage on the ground of his wife's adultery with Mr. Charles William Moore, of the Bengal Civil Service. The marriage was in 1854; the cohabitation was in India, and there was one child. In the early part of 1864 they were living at Benares and they were on intimate terms with Mr. Moore, who was a widower, and frequently visited them. In March, 1864, Mrs. Boiragon eloped with Mr. Moore, and has since lived with him. Her cousin, Lieutenant Erskine, followed them to Mirzapore and gave Mr. Moore a beating with a riding whip.—Decree nisi with costs against the co-respondent.

CALCUTTA AND SOUTH-EASTERN RAILWAY.

A special meeting of this company was held on Feb. 16, at Gresham-house; Mr. Borradaile in the chair.

The Chairman explained that it had been necessary to convene that meeting in consequence of the debentures for the raising of £100,000 at 5 per cent. interest, sanctioned at previous special meetings, not having been taken up within the time allowed by the resolutions. He now moved that the directors be authorised to insert clauses in any debentures to be issued under the authority of the resolutions, to enable the holders to convert those debentures into shares or stock of the company at any time before they became due, except during the last six months of the time for which such debentures have been issued, on giving previously one calendar month's notice of their intention to do so, and authorising the directors from time to time to create such additional shares or stock of the company, not exceeding £100,000, as may from time to time be necessary to carry the foregoing resolution into effect.

Mr. Marshman seconded the motion, which was carried unanimously.

Mr. Hartridge asked the chairman for information respecting Canningtown.

The Chairman said the town was now progressing very fast, and this progress had received an impetus through the cyclone which visited Calcutta, for those visitations were felt less at Canningtown than they were at Calcutta, as the force of the waves was lost before they reached the Mutlah. The increase in importance of this town would benefit the company's property.

A vote of thanks to the chairman concluded the proceedings.

MISCELLANEOUS.

AGRA AND MASTERMAN'S BANK.—The directors of the Agra and Masterman's Bank have declared a dividend at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum for the half-year ended the 31st of December, with a bonus of £3 per share, together equal to 22 per cent. per annum, making, with the previous distribution 20 per cent. for the year 1864, at which rate a dividend and bonus on the new shares will be paid.

CHINA STEAMSHIP AND LABUAN COAL COMPANY.—An amended prospectus has been issued of the China Steamship and Labuan Coal Company, increasing the nominal capital to £540,000, by an addition of 3,000 shares of £20 each, but reducing the amount to be paid up from £5 to £4.

THE INDIAN DEBT.—Yesterday was printed a return from the India-office of the debt chargeable on the India revenues, to the latest date to which the return can be made out—viz., in England to December 31, 1864, and in India to April 30, 1863. The total Indian debt amounted to £87,017,929, distributed as follows:—Government of India, £76,465,572; Bengal, £2,418,327; North-Western Provinces, £1,086,339; Punjab, £1,043,632; Madras, £2,309,753; and Bombay, £3,694,306. The total debt in England was £28,509,776. This return is exclusive of the charge, under the Act 3rd and 4th of William IV., cap. 85, of the dividend at the rate of £10. 10s. per cent. per annum on £6,000,000 capital stock of the East India Company. There are also contingent liabilities in respect of interest guaranteed Indian railway and other companies, and of repayments to them of capital expended; but no estimate, it is stated in the return, can be formed of these liabilities.

THE MAILS, &c.—SOUTHAMPTON, Feb. 20.—The Peninsular and Oriental Company's screw steamship Delta, Captain G. J. Babot, sailed to-day for Gibraltar, Malta, and Alexandria, with the Calcutta, China, and Australian mails, a full cargo, and specie, jewelry, &c., value £23,416. 10s.—viz.:—For Madras, bar silver, £10,000; gold thread, watches, and jewelry, £1,385. CIVIL.

Madras Estab.—Mr. W. H. Arbuthnot.

SIR ROBERT MONTGOMERY arrived in Calcutta on Tuesday night, Jan. 17, and is the guest of the Viceroy. His Excellency, Sir Hugh Rose, was expected in Calcutta on the 19th. His Honour, the Lieut.-governor of Bengal, has gone to Bhaugulpore, where he is likely to remain till his departure for Europe in March.

crease of commerce and wealth and prosperity we have no need to mention.

"Our one regret is that you must so soon leave us. May the Merciful God convey you home with all peace and safety; may He speedily restore you to us again with increased honour; and may He ever preserve a kindly memory of us in your heart.

"Sardar Shamsheer Singh,
"Newab Ali Reza Khan,
"Dewan Adjoodia Pershad,
"Sardar Lall Singh Kalianwalah.
"Newab Abd-ul-Majid Khan,
"Sardar Bhugwan Singh,
"And 79 others."

To this his Honour was pleased to make the following reply:—

"Sardars and Native Gentlemen,

"I thank you with all my heart for your address.

"I have not done all you attribute to me, but I have done my utmost to further your interests, welfare, and happiness.

"When I came among you fifteen years ago your country was indeed a wilderness, its highways unsafe, its revenues wasted; the anarchy and war following upon the death of Maharaja Ranjit Singh had brought ruin on the country and misery on the people.

"I thank God I have lived to see the desolation of those days changed for prosperity and contentedness.

"But I cannot claim to be the sole author of this great change; it was commenced by my illustrious predecessors, Sir Henry and Sir John Lawrence. I have endeavoured to carry on, with the assistance of other able officers, what they had successfully begun. In so doing we have all been animated with the same feeling—an earnest desire to promote your interests and well-being, and thus to carry out the wishes of our Most Gracious Queen.

"The appointment of honorary magistrates from among the chiefs and gentlemen of the province—to which you allude as one of the measures of my administration—has, I rejoice to say, been attended with great success and satisfaction to all. The election of municipal committees for the government of your cities has been equally so. These measures have been dictated by a policy which I have ever advocated, of associating, as far as possible, the people with the Government, in the business of administration.

"By these means honourable employment has been afforded to a large body of native gentlemen, and their knowledge and influence have been secured for the benefit of the people and the State. But this success is not only attributable to the exertions of your rulers, but to the satisfactory way in which you yourselves have responded to my call.

"The striking improvements in the capitals of Lahore, Amritsar, and other cities—the wonderful progress of female education during the last two years—bear testimony to these results, at once gratifying to me and honourable to yourselves.

"It has been my endeavour to open out your resources by encouraging the construction of roads and the promotion of works of public utility, and to facilitate by these means an increase in your exports and the general improvement in the trade and wealth of the province.

"I now bid you farewell, with my best wishes for your future happiness, in the assurance that your country will continue to advance in its career of prosperity, and that you yourselves will continue to prove, as you have done already, loyal and faithful subjects of her Majesty.

"Your future ruler is one who, like myself, has long lived among you, and your interests could not be left in better hands."

The Durbar then broke up.

Lieut. G. P. Wood, inf. gen. list, doing duty with 34th regt. L.I., is permitted, at his own request, to resign the service from Jan. 10, 1865, subject to her Majesty's approval.

The Chairman said the town was now progressing very fast, and this progress had received an impetus through the cyclone which visited Calcutta, for those visitations were felt less at Canningtown than they were at Calcutta, as the force of the waves was lost before they reached the Mutlah. The increase in importance of this town would benefit the company's property.

A vote of thanks to the chairman concluded the proceedings.

MISCELLANEOUS.

AGRA AND MASTERMAN'S BANK.—The directors of the Agra and Masterman's Bank have declared a dividend at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum for the half-year ended the 31st of December, with a bonus of £3 per share, together equal to 22 per cent. per annum, making, with the previous distribution 20 per cent. for the year 1864, at which rate a dividend and bonus on the new shares will be paid.

CHINA STEAMSHIP AND LABUAN COAL COMPANY.—An amended prospectus has been issued of the China Steamship and Labuan Coal Company, increasing the nominal capital to £540,000, by an addition of 3,000 shares of £20 each, but reducing the amount to be paid up from £5 to £4.

THE INDIAN DEBT.—Yesterday was printed a return from the India-office of the debt chargeable on the India revenues, to the latest date to which the return can be made out—viz., in England to December 31, 1864, and in India to April 30, 1863. The total Indian debt amounted to £87,017,929, distributed as follows:—Government of India, £76,465,572; Bengal, £2,418,327; North-Western Provinces, £1,086,339; Punjab, £1,043,632; Madras, £2,309,753; and Bombay, £3,694,306. The total debt in England was £28,509,776. This return is exclusive of the charge, under the Act 3rd and 4th of William IV., cap. 85, of the dividend at the rate of £10. 10s. per cent. per annum on £6,000,000 capital stock of the East India Company. There are also contingent liabilities in respect of interest guaranteed Indian railway and other companies, and of repayments to them of capital expended; but no estimate, it is stated in the return, can be formed of these liabilities.

CIVIL.

Madras Estab.—Mr. W. H. Arbuthnot.

SIR ROBERT MONTGOMERY arrived in Calcutta on Tuesday night, Jan. 17, and is the guest of the Viceroy. His Excellency, Sir Hugh Rose, was expected in Calcutta on the 19th. His Honour, the Lieut.-governor of Bengal, has gone to Bhaugulpore, where he is likely to remain till his departure for Europe in March.

crease of commerce and wealth and prosperity we have no need to mention.

"Our one regret is that you must so soon leave us. May the Merciful God convey you home with all peace and safety; may He speedily restore you to us again with increased honour; and may He ever preserve a kindly memory of us in your heart.

"Sardar Shamsher Singh,
"Newab Ali Reza Khan,
"Dewan Adjoodia Pershad,
"Sardar Lall Singh Kalianwalah.
"Newab Abd-ul-Majid Khan,
"Sardar Bhugwan Singh,
"And 79 others."

To this his Honour was pleased to make the following reply:—

"Sardars and Native Gentlemen,

"I thank you with all my heart for your address.

"I have not done all you attribute to me, but I have done my utmost to further your interests, welfare, and happiness.

"When I came among you fifteen years ago your country was indeed a wilderness, its highways unsafe, its revenues wasted; the anarchy and war following upon the death of Maharaja Ranjit Singh had brought ruin on the country and misery on the people.

"I thank God I have lived to see the desolation of those days changed for prosperity and contentedness.

"But I cannot claim to be the sole author of this great change; it was commenced by my illustrious predecessors, Sir Henry and Sir John Lawrence. I have endeavoured to carry on, with the assistance of other able officers, what they had successfully begun. In so doing we have all been animated with the same feeling—an earnest desire to promote your interests and well-being, and thus to carry out the wishes of our Most Gracious Queen.

"The appointment of honorary magistrates from among the chiefs and gentlemen of the province—to which you allude as one of the measures of my administration—has, I rejoice to say, been attended with great success and satisfaction to all. The election of municipal committees for the government of your cities has been equally so. These measures have been dictated by a policy which I have ever advocated, of associating, as far as possible, the people with the Government, in the business of administration.

"By these means honourable employment has been afforded to a large body of native gentlemen, and their knowledge and influence have been secured for the benefit of the people and the State. But this success is not only attributable to the exertions of your rulers, but to the satisfactory way in which you yourselves have responded to my call.

"The striking improvements in the capitals of Lahore, Amritsar, and other cities—the wonderful progress of female education during the last two years—bear testimony to these results, at once gratifying to me and honourable to yourselves.

"It has been my endeavour to open out your resources by encouraging the construction of roads and the promotion of works of public utility, and to facilitate by these means an increase in your exports and the general improvement in the trade and wealth of the province.

"I now bid you farewell, with my best wishes for your future happiness, in the assurance that your country will continue to advance in its career of prosperity, and that you yourselves will continue to prove, as you have done already, loyal and faithful subjects of her Majesty.

"Your future ruler is one who, like myself, has long lived among you, and your interests could not be left in better hands."

The Durbar then broke up.

Lieut. G. P. Wood, inf. gen. list, doing duty with 34th regt. L.I., is permitted, at his own request, to resign the service from Jan. 10, 1865, subject to her Majesty's approval.

The Chairman said the town was now progressing very fast, and this progress had received an impetus through the cyclone which visited Calcutta, for those visitations were felt less at Canningtown than they were at Calcutta, as the force of the waves was lost before they reached the Mutlah. The increase in importance of this town would benefit the company's property.

A vote of thanks to the chairman concluded the proceedings.

MISCELLANEOUS.

AGRA AND MASTERMAN'S BANK.—The directors of the Agra and Masterman's Bank have declared a dividend at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum for the half-year ended the 31st of December, with a bonus of £3 per share, together equal to 22 per cent. per annum, making, with the previous distribution 20 per cent. for the year 1864, at which rate a dividend and bonus on the new shares will be paid.

CHINA STEAMSHIP AND LABUAN COAL COMPANY.—An amended prospectus has been issued of the China Steamship and Labuan Coal Company, increasing the nominal capital to £540,000, by an addition of 3,000 shares of £20 each, but reducing the amount to be paid up from £5 to £4.

THE INDIAN DEBT.—Yesterday was printed a return from the India-office of the debt chargeable on the India revenues, to the latest date to which the return can be made out—viz., in England to December 31, 1864, and in India to April 30, 1863. The total Indian debt amounted to £87,017,929, distributed as follows:—Government of India, £76,465,572; Bengal, £2,418,327; North-Western Provinces, £1,086,339; Punjab, £1,043,632; Madras, £2,309,753; and Bombay, £3,694,306. The total debt in England was £28,509,776. This return is exclusive of the charge, under the Act 3rd and 4th of William IV., cap. 85, of the dividend at the rate of £10. 10s. per cent. per annum on £6,000,000 capital stock of the East India Company. There are also contingent liabilities in respect of interest guaranteed Indian railway and other companies, and of repayments to them of capital expended; but no estimate, it is stated in the return, can be formed of these liabilities.

Madras Estab.—Mr. W. H. Arbuthnot.

SIR ROBERT MONTGOMERY arrived in Calcutta on Tuesday night, Jan. 17, and is the guest of the Viceroy. His Excellency, Sir Hugh Rose, was expected in Calcutta on the 19th. His Honour, the Lieut.-governor of Bengal, has gone to Bhaugulpore, where he is likely to remain till his departure for Europe in March.

crease of commerce and wealth and prosperity we have no need to mention.

"Our one regret is that you must so soon leave us. May the Merciful God convey you home with all peace and safety; may He speedily restore you to us again with increased honour; and may He ever preserve a kindly memory of us in your heart.

"Sardar Shamsheer Singh,
"Newab Ali Reza Khan,
"Dewan Adjoodia Pershad,
"Sardar Lall Singh Kalianwalah.
"Newab Abd-ul-Majid Khan,
"Sardar Bhugwan Singh,
"And 79 others."

To this his Honour was pleased to make the following reply:—

"Sardars and Native Gentlemen,

"I thank you with all my heart for your address.

"I have not done all you attribute to me, but I have done my utmost to further your interests, welfare, and happiness.

"When I came among you fifteen years ago your country was indeed a wilderness, its highways unsafe, its revenues wasted; the anarchy and war following upon the death of Maharaja Ranjit Singh had brought ruin on the country and misery on the people.

"I thank God I have lived to see the desolation of those days changed for prosperity and contentedness.

"But I cannot claim to be the sole author of this great change; it was commenced by my illustrious predecessors, Sir Henry and Sir John Lawrence. I have endeavoured to carry on, with the assistance of other able officers, what they had successfully begun. In so doing we have all been animated with the same feeling—an earnest desire to promote your interests and well-being, and thus to carry out the wishes of our Most Gracious Queen.

"The appointment of honorary magistrates from among the chiefs and gentlemen of the province—to which you allude as one of the measures of my administration—has, I rejoice to say, been attended with great success and satisfaction to all. The election of municipal committees for the government of your cities has been equally so. These measures have been dictated by a policy which I have ever advocated, of associating, as far as possible, the people with the Government, in the business of administration.

"By these means honourable employment has been afforded to a large body of native gentlemen, and their knowledge and influence have been secured for the benefit of the people and the State. But this success is not only attributable to the exertions of your rulers, but to the satisfactory way in which you yourselves have responded to my call.

"The striking improvements in the capitals of Lahore, Amritaur, and other cities—the wonderful progress of female education during the last two years—bear testimony to these results, at once gratifying to me and honourable to yourselves.

"It has been my endeavour to open out your resources by encouraging the construction of roads and the promotion of works of public utility, and to facilitate by these means an increase in your exports and the general improvement in the trade and wealth of the province.

"I now bid you farewell, with my best wishes for your future happiness, in the assurance that your country will continue to advance in its career of prosperity, and that you yourselves will continue to prove, as you have done already, loyal and faithful subjects of her Majesty.

"Your future ruler is one who, like myself, has long lived among you, and your interests could not be left in better hands."

The Durbar then broke up.

The Chairman said the town was now progressing very fast, and this progress had received an impetus through the cyclone which visited Calcutta, for those visitations were felt less at Canningtown than they were at Calcutta, as the force of the waves was lost before they reached the Mutlah. The increase in importance of this town would benefit the company's property.

A vote of thanks to the chairman concluded the proceedings.

MISCELLANEOUS.

AGRA AND MASTERMAN'S BANK.—The directors of the Agra and Masterman's Bank have declared a dividend at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum for the half-year ended the 31st of December, with a bonus of £3 per share, together equal to 22 per cent. per annum, making, with the previous distribution 20 per cent. for the year 1864, at which rate a dividend and bonus on the new shares will be paid.

CHINA STEAMSHIP AND LABUAN COAL COMPANY.—An amended prospectus has been issued of the China Steamship and Labuan Coal Company, increasing the nominal capital to £540,000, by an addition of 3,000 shares of £20 each, but reducing the amount to be paid up from £5 to £4.

THE INDIAN DEBT.—Yesterday was printed a return from the India-office of the debt chargeable on the India revenues, to the latest date to which the return can be made out—viz., in England to December 31, 1864, and in India to April 30, 1863. The total Indian debt amounted to £87,017,929, distributed as follows:—Government of India, £76,465,572; Bengal, £2,418,327; North-Western Provinces, £1,086,339; Punjab, £1,043,632; Madras, £2,309,753; and Bombay, £3,694,306. The total debt in England was £28,509,776. This return is exclusive of the charge, under the Act 3rd and 4th of William IV., cap. 85, of the dividend at the rate of £10. 10s. per cent. per annum on £6,000,000 capital stock of the East India Company. There are also contingent liabilities in respect of interest guaranteed Indian railway and other companies, and of repayments to them of capital expended; but no estimate, it is stated in the return, can be formed of these liabilities.

CIVIL.

Madras Estab.—Mr. W. H. Arbuthnot.

SIR ROBERT MONTGOMERY arrived in Calcutta on Tuesday night, Jan. 17, and is the guest of the Viceroy. His Excellency, Sir Hugh Rose, was expected in Calcutta on the 19th. His Honour, the Lieut.-governor of Bengal, has gone to Bhaugulpore, where he is likely to remain till his departure for Europe in March.

crease of commerce and wealth and prosperity we have no need to mention.

"Our one regret is that you must so soon leave us. May the Merciful God convey you home with all peace and safety; may He speedily restore you to us again with increased honour; and may He ever preserve a kindly memory of us in your heart.

"Sardar Shamsheer Singh,
"Newab Ali Reza Khan,
"Dewan Adjoodia Pershad,
"Sardar Lall Singh Kalianwalah.
"Newab Abd-ul-Majid Khan,
"Sardar Bhugwan Singh,
"And 79 others."

To this his Honour was pleased to make the following reply:—

"Sardars and Native Gentlemen,

"I thank you with all my heart for your address.

"I have not done all you attribute to me, but I have done my utmost to further your interests, welfare, and happiness.

"When I came among you fifteen years ago your country was indeed a wilderness, its highways unsafe, its revenues wasted; the anarchy and war following upon the death of Maharaja Ranjit Singh had brought ruin on the country and misery on the people.

"I thank God I have lived to see the desolation of those days changed for prosperity and contentedness.

"But I cannot claim to be the sole author of this great change; it was commenced by my illustrious predecessors, Sir Henry and Sir John Lawrence. I have endeavoured to carry on, with the assistance of other able officers, what they had successfully begun. In so doing we have all been animated with the same feeling—an earnest desire to promote your interests and well-being, and thus to carry out the wishes of our Most Gracious Queen.

"The appointment of honorary magistrates from among the chiefs and gentlemen of the province—to which you allude as one of the measures of my administration—has, I rejoice to say, been attended with great success and satisfaction to all. The election of municipal committees for the government of your cities has been equally so. These measures have been dictated by a policy which I have ever advocated, of associating, as far as possible, the people with the Government, in the business of administration.

"By these means honourable employment has been afforded to a large body of native gentlemen, and their knowledge and influence have been secured for the benefit of the people and the State. But this success is not only attributable to the exertions of your rulers, but to the satisfactory way in which you yourselves have responded to my call.

"The striking improvements in the capitals of Lahore, Amritsar, and other cities—the wonderful progress of female education during the last two years—bear testimony to these results, at once gratifying to me and honourable to yourselves.

"It has been my endeavour to open out your resources by encouraging the construction of roads and the promotion of works of public utility, and to facilitate by these means an increase in your exports and the general improvement in the trade and wealth of the province.

"I now bid you farewell, with my best wishes for your future happiness, in the assurance that your country will continue to advance in its career of prosperity, and that you yourselves will continue to prove, as you have done already, loyal and faithful subjects of her Majesty.

"Your future ruler is one who, like myself, has long lived among you, and your interests could not be left in better hands."

The Durbar then broke up.

Lieut. G. P. Wood, inf. gen. list, doing duty with 34th regt. L.I., is permitted, at his own request, to resign the service from Jan. 10, 1865, subject to her Majesty's approval.

The Chairman said the town was now progressing very fast, and this progress had received an impetus through the cyclone which visited Calcutta, for those visitations were felt less at Canningtown than they were at Calcutta, as the force of the waves was lost before they reached the Mutlah. The increase in importance of this town would benefit the company's property.

A vote of thanks to the chairman concluded the proceedings.

MISCELLANEOUS.

AGRA AND MASTERMAN'S BANK.—The directors of the Agra and Masterman's Bank have declared a dividend at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum for the half-year ended the 31st of December, with a bonus of £3 per share, together equal to 22 per cent. per annum, making, with the previous distribution 20 per cent. for the year 1864, at which rate a dividend and bonus on the new shares will be paid.

CHINA STEAMSHIP AND LABUAN COAL COMPANY.—An amended prospectus has been issued of the China Steamship and Labuan Coal Company, increasing the nominal capital to £540,000, by an addition of 3,000 shares of £20 each, but reducing the amount to be paid up from £5 to £4.

THE INDIAN DEBT.—Yesterday was printed a return from the India-office of the debt chargeable on the India revenues, to the latest date to which the return can be made out—viz., in England to December 31, 1864, and in India to April 30, 1863. The total Indian debt amounted to £87,017,929, distributed as follows:—Government of India, £76,465,572; Bengal, £2,418,327; North-Western Provinces, £1,086,339; Punjab, £1,043,632; Madras, £2,309,753; and Bombay, £3,694,306. The total debt in England was £28,509,776. This return is exclusive of the charge, under the Act 3rd and 4th of William IV., cap. 85, of the dividend at the rate of £10. 10s. per cent. per annum on £6,000,000 capital stock of the East India Company. There are also contingent liabilities in respect of interest guaranteed Indian railway and other companies, and of repayments to them of capital expended; but no estimate, it is stated in the return, can be formed of these liabilities.

The election of municipal committees for the government of your cities has been equally so. These measures have been dictated by a policy which I have ever advocated, of associating, as far as possible, the people with the Government, in the business of administration.

"By these means honourable employment has been afforded to a large body of native gentlemen, and their knowledge and influence have been secured for the benefit of the people and the State. But this success is not only attributable to the exertions of your rulers, but to the satisfactory way in which you yourselves have responded to my call.

"The striking improvements in the capitals of Lahore, Amritsar, and other cities—the wonderful progress of female education during the last two years—bear testimony to these results, at once gratifying to me and honourable to yourselves.

"It has been my endeavour to open out your resources by encouraging the construction of roads and the promotion of works of public utility, and to facilitate by these means an increase in your exports and the general improvement in the trade and wealth of the province.

"I now bid you farewell, with my best wishes for your future happiness, in the assurance that your country will continue to advance in its career of prosperity, and that you yourselves will continue to prove, as you have done already, loyal and faithful subjects of her Majesty.

"Your future ruler is one who, like myself, has long lived among you, and your interests could not be left in better hands."

The Durbar then broke up.

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL,

THURSDAY, February 23, 1865.

TEACHING v. PREACHING.

A CLEVER and remarkably well written "Plea for Indian Missions" has been put forth by Mr. Alexander Forbes, in the form of a pamphlet, entitled "The Religions of India," and published by Messrs. Edmonston and Douglas. The title, as Mr. Forbes himself intimates, is somewhat of a misnomer, for the subject taken in hand is not so much an explanation of the countless creeds of Hindostan, as of the effects of such superstitions upon the minds of their professors. And here on the threshold, and before entering upon a discussion of the views propounded by Mr. Forbes, it is only fair to that gentleman that we should express our sincere respect for the honesty of his convictions, and the earnestness with which he maintains them. In bygone years, not yet remote, Mr. Forbes was favourably known in Calcutta by his writings in the Dacca News and the Bengal Hurkaru, and if his articles at times approached the dimensions of an essay, and exhibited something of the fiery vehemence of fanaticism, they were generally read and admired as the genuine outpourings of a simple-minded and thoroughly religious gentleman. It must also be admitted that few Englishmen have ever enjoyed better opportunities of witnessing the interior life of the natives of Bengal, of the opulent classes as well as of the peasantry. At the very outset of his Indian career he became attached to the household of a wealthy and tolerably enlightened native gentleman, residing in Calcutta, and was thus early placed in a position to observe the direct operation of the superstitious tendencies of even the best educated Hindoos. The abominations of the Doorga Poojah naturally made a deep impression upon a young man imbued to the core with the stern teachings of Aberdonian Presbyterianism. The bumpers of champagne quaffed to his health by the officiating priest, the lax morals of his employers and their guests, the wanton glances and voluptuous movements—"the charm of woven paces and of waving hands" —of the dancing girls, the filthy obscenities that passed for religious rites, were not less strange than horrible in the eyes of the Scottish youth compelled to be a passive witness, when, doubtless, he sighed for "the sword of the Lord and of Gideon," wherewith to hew in pieces his idolatrous entertainers. With scarcely less horror did he contemplate the cruelties enacted by Hindoo masters. "A Hindoo zemindar, a neighbour of mine," he writes, "tied the long beards of two of his Mahomedan ryots together, and burning a Chili beneath their nostrils, amused himself by seeing how the violent sneezing produced made them knock their heads together." Something of the humorous element, indeed, appears in this otherwise barbarous pastime, but there is nothing laughable in the other instances adduced in these pages. "A very common way in which mistresses punish their female servants is," as he assures his readers, "to brand them with the earthen end of the hooka made hot. A man," he continues, "was brought before the magistrate at Chittagong for blowing Cayenne pepper into the eyes of his own son, a child of seven or eight years of age, who had been guilty of some slight disobedience. The report of the Madras Torture Commission," he goes on to say, "is full of horrors inflicted upon the people for the purpose of collecting a few rupees of rent. The body was bent by ropes and bamboos into the most painful positions. Men were compelled to stare at the brightness of a tropical sun until they were blinded. The body was smeared with honey, and then the wretched creature that was being operated upon was tied up in the vicinity of a nest of red ants, the bite of which insect is excessively painful." These and similar atrocities Mr. Forbes ascribes to the direct and immediate instigation of the Evil One. Who but devils, he asks, would ever have suggested the idea of suttee, or of self-inflicted torture, or of exposing a moribund relative on the banks of the Ganges? Satan's masterpiece, he further tells us, is the institution of the Hindoo widowhood, and it cannot be denied that very direful are the consequences of the cruel usage to which a baby widow is liable all her life through. Far be it from us to define the power and attributes of "Auld Hornie," or to dispute our writer's more intimate and personal acquaintance with "the Devil and all his works." For does not he himself narrate how during the celebration of the vile September festival he has felt the influence of the Spirit of Evil, and how his mind has seemed to be filled with a thick and palpable darkness? But we freely concede to Mr. Forbes that the Hindoo is a foul, false, cruel, lascivious creature, addicted to sensual indulgences, and prone to a grovelling superstition. The point on which we have the misfortune to differ from him relates not to the moral, social, and religious condition of the Hindoos as they at present exist, but to the most efficient means by which they may be raised to a higher standard. Mr. Forbes thinks little of secular education, and is all for preaching, but his test of success is not to be accepted as at all decisive. He estimates the workings of the two modes by the number of converts that have been made to Christianity, but—we say it not disrespectfully—this is taking a very narrow and shortsighted view of the case. No doubt a greater number of poor ignorant peasants may be induced to undergo baptism after an hour's vigorous preaching, than of thinking, educated men who require something more than mere declamation to persuade them to change their ancient landmarks. Take our own peasantry, take all the unnumbered sections of sects, Jumpers, Ranters, Revivalists, or Latter-day Saints, and say how much of real Christian knowledge, how much of real Christian practice, pervades the rude, uncouth mass. Nothing exceeds the incredulity of the labouring classes except their credulity. Thus the Hindoo ryot will swallow at a gulp the doctrines of original sin, of atonement, of the Trinity in Unity, and whatever else is mysterious and incomprehensible, without troubling his digestion or interfering with his sleep. But those who stand higher in the social scale, those who have been taught to look for argument as well as for illustration, and to demand the why and the wherefore of every new doctrine, cannot be expected all at once to embrace the religion of the foreigner, however perfectly they may be convinced of the falsity of that of their forefathers. And really it is unworthy of a man of Mr. Forbes's intelligence to repeat the old cuckoo-cry, that the early believers in Christianity were, for the most part, men of humble extraction and destitute of letters. No one denies the fact, but it was not the unlettered men who caused the diffusion of the Christian seed. The accomplished Paul did more than all the rest of the apostles put together, and even now who does not rather turn to his Epistles than to those of the impulsive, hot-headed Peter, or of the amiable but obscure and feeble John? And it may be permitted to doubt if Christianity would ever have attained its present dimensions had not Constantine been desirous to obtain a counterbalancing power to oppose to the influence of his rival Maxentius. All history tells us that no purely popular movement is ever long-lived. The impulse must come from the heart and brain of the nation, not from its fingers and toes. Possibly the first tangible results of the introduction of Western science and literature may take the form of scepticism and a cynical infidelity, but the Truth—whatever be the

PRIVATE LIFE OF AN EASTERN QUEEN.

Just published, in post 8vo., price 7s. 6d. cloth, ELIHU JAN'S STORY; or, the Private Life of an Eastern Queen. By WILLIAM KNIGHTON, LL.D., Assistant-Commissioner in Oudh.

"To say that this book is highly interesting would give a most inadequate conception of its power to enchain and delight the attention. We have not lately taken up a book so successful in this respect. The style is vigorous and fresh, and the events recorded are presented so graphically that the story is almost a poem in prose. We recommend the work as a faithful picture of a state of society and of a court now passed away."—Englishman.

WHITE'S MOC-MAIN LEVER TRUSS,

Perfected and Exhibited in the Great Exhibition of 1851, is allowed by upwards of 200 Medical Gentlemen to be the most effective invention in the curative treatment of Hernia. The use of a steel spring, so often hurtful in its effects, is here avoided; a soft bandage being worn round the body, while the requisite resisting power is supplied by the MOC-MAIN PAD and PATENT LEVER, fitting with so much ease and closeness that it cannot be detected, and may be worn during sleep. A descriptive circular may be had, and the Truss (which cannot fail to fit) forwarded by post on the circumference of the body two inches below the hips being sent to the Manufacturer, Mr. WHITE, 228, Piccadilly, London.

Price of a Single Truss, 16s., 21s., 26s. 6d., and 31s. 6d.; postage, 1s. Price of Double Truss 31s. 6d., 42s., and 52s. 6d.; postage, 1s. 6d. Umbilical, 42s. and 52s. 6d.; postage, 1s. 10d.

Post-office Orders payable to JOHN WHITE, Post-office, Piccadilly.

NEW PATENT.

ELASTIC STOCKINGS, KNEE CAPS,

&c.—The material of which these are made is recommended by the Faculty as being peculiarly elastic and compressible, and the best invention for giving efficient and permanent support in all cases of weakness and swelling of the Legs, Varicose Veins, Sprains, &c. It is porous, light in texture, and inexpensive, and is drawn on like an ordinary stocking. Price, 4s. 6d., 7s. 6d., 10s. to 16s. each; postage, 6d.

NOTHING IMPOSSIBLE.—The greatest and most useful invention of the day, AGUA AMARELLA.—Messrs. JOHN GOSNELL and Co., Three King-court, Lombard Street, Perfumers to her Majesty, respectfully offer to the public this truly marvellous fluid, which gradually restores the human hair to its pristine hue—no matter at what age.

The Agua Amarella has none of the properties of dyes; it, on the contrary, is beneficial to the system, and when the hair is once restored, one application per month will keep it in perfect colour. Price one guinea; half bottles, 10s. 6d. Testimonials from artists of the highest order and from individuals of undoubted respectability may be inspected on application.

Messrs. J. GOSNELL and Co. have been appointed Perfumers to H.R.H. the Princess of Wales.

POWDER.

For which a Prize Medal was awarded to the Producer at the International Exhibition, 1862.

THIS POWDER is quite harmless to animal life, but is unrivalled in destroying Fleas, Bugs, Flies, Cockroaches, Beetles, Gnats, Mosquitoes, Moths in Furs, and every other species of insect.

SPORTSMEN will find this an invaluable remedy for destroying fleas in their dogs, as also ladies for their pet dogs. It is perfectly harmless in its nature, and may be applied without any apprehension, as it has no qualities deleterious to animal life.

Sold in Packets, 1s., 2s. 6d., and 4s. 6d. each, or post free for fourteen or thirty-six postage stamps, by THOMAS KEATING, Chemist, 79, St. Paul's Churchyard, London, E.C.

Take notice each genuine packet bears the above name and address. See The Field, October 7th and 9th, pp. 263, 263, and 294.

Are put up in bottles for India and China.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT and PILLS.

RHEUMATISM—NEURALGIA.—It is sometimes difficult to determine which of these diseases is afflicting the sufferer, but this ignorance will not matter if Holloway's remedies be used. They alleviate and cure all muscular and nervous pains. In hereditary rheumatism, after bathing the affected parts with warm salt and water, Holloway's Ointment should be well rubbed upon the spot, that it may penetrate and exert its soothing and regulating properties on the deeper vessels and nerves which are unduly excited, and cause both the pain and swelling. Holloway's treatment has the merit of removing the disease, without debilitating the constitution, which was the inevitable result of the bleeding, mercury, and colchicum practice formerly adopted in these complaints.

DINNEFORD'S FLUID MAGNESIA.

The medical profession for thirty years have approved of this pure solution of Magnesia as the best remedy for Gout and stomachic disorders of every kind, and as a mild aperient it is especially adapted for ladies and children. Prepared solely by DINNEFORD and Co., Chemists, &c., 172, New Bond-street, London; and sold throughout the world by all respectable Chemists. CAUTION.—See that "Dinneford and Co." is on each bottle and red label over the cork.

ALLEN'S
MAPS OF INDIA & CHINA.

MAP of INDIA; showing the British Territories subdivided into Collectories, and the position and boundary of each Native State; chiefly compiled from Trigonometrical Surveys, executed by order of the Honourable Court of Directors of the East India Company. On six sheets—Size, 5 ft. 6 in. high; 5 ft. 8 in. wide. £2; or, on cloth, in a case, £2. 12s. 6d.; or, with rollers and varnished, £3. 3s.

The object kept in view in compiling this map has been to render it available to the greatest possible extent for popular use. For this purpose the names of all towns, civil and military, are inserted, as well as those of all towns and places of note likely to be looked for. To make clear the subdivisions of the whole of the country, both British and natives the limits of the various districts and collectories, with their names, are distinctly indicated. The railways and telegraphs are laid down, and the trunk roads conspicuously coloured. The newly-acquired district in Burmah is included. To avoid, however, the confusion consequent upon over-crowding, and make the map clear and easy for reference, the names of many small villages, and places of no present importance, have been omitted, and thus a very wide measure of comprehensiveness has been attained, while needless diffusiveness has been avoided.

A GENERAL MAP of INDIA; compiled chiefly from Surveys executed by order of the Honourable East India Company, with the railways and telegraphs. On six sheets—Size, 5 ft. 3 in. wide; 5 ft. 4 in. high. £2; or, on cloth, in a case, £2. 12s. 6d.; or, with rollers and varnished, £3. 3s.

MAP of the ROUTES in INDIA; with Tables of Distances between the principal Towns and Military Stations. On one sheet—Size 2 ft. 3 in. wide; 2 ft. 9 in. high. 9s.; or, on cloth, in a case, 12s.

In this map are given the whole of the military and civil stations, together with the principal towns, the villages being omitted, so as to make the stations more prominent. The colouring defines the boundaries of the three Presidencies and shows also the railways and telegraphs.

MAP of INDIA and CHINA, BURMAH, SIAM, the MALAY PENINSULA, and the EMPIRE of ANAM. On two sheets—Size, 4 ft. 3 in. wide; 3 ft. 4 in. high. 16s.; or, on cloth, in a case, £1. 5s.

MAP of AFGHANISTAN, and the ADJACENT COUNTRIES. On one sheet—Size 2 ft. 3 in. wide; 2 ft. 9 in. high. 9s.; or, on cloth, in a case, 12s.

MAP of CHINA, from the most Authentic Sources of Information. One large sheet—Size, 2 ft. 7 in. wide; 2 ft. 2 in. high. 8s.; or, on cloth, in a case, 11s.

A MAP of the WESTERN PROVINCES of HINDOOSTAN, the PUNJAB, CABOOL, SINDE, BHAULPORE, &c., including all the States between Candahar and Allahabad. On four sheets—Size, 4 ft. 4 in. wide; 4 ft. 2 in. high. 30s.; or, on cloth, in a case, £2; or on rollers, and varnished, £2. 10s.

MAP of ARABIA, from all the most recent Authorities, by order of the Court of Directors of the East India Company. Size, 3 ft. 3 in. high; 4 ft. 3 in. wide. On cloth, in a case, £1. 5s.

HAND-BOOK to the MAPS of INDIA, giving the Latitude and Longitude of all places of note. By Major H. V. STEPHEN, late of Bengal Army Revenue Survey Department. In 18mo, bound, price 5s.

MAP of INDIA; from the most recent Authorities, showing the railways and telegraphs. On two sheets—Size, 2 ft. 10 in. wide; 3 ft. 3 in. high. 16s.; or, on cloth, in a case, £1s. 1s.

MAP of the STEAM COMMUNICATION and OVERLAND ROUTES between ENGLAND, INDIA, CHINA, and AUSTRALIA. In a case, 14s.; on rollers, and varnished, 15s.

MAILS TO INDIA.

Mails to India and China, via Marseilles, are despatched from London as follows, viz.:—Those for Bombay packets, on the evening of the 3rd and 18th of each month; and those for Calcutta packets (including mails for Ceylon, Madras, and China), on the evenings of the 10th and 26th of each month. When any of these dates fall on a Sunday, the mails are made up on the following evening.

Letters and Newspapers can be forwarded to any part of India, via Bombay and Marseilles, and in most cases will reach their destination some days sooner than if despatched by the following Calcutta mail. The Bombay mails via Southampton, however, are no longer available for the transmission of Letters or Newspapers to the Madras Presidency.

Mails for the Mediterranean, and all parts of India and China, except the Bombay Presidency, are despatched via Southampton on the mornings of the 1th and 20th, or, when either of these dates falls on Sunday, upon the previous evening.

Mails for the Mediterranean, the Presidency of Bombay, and Upper or North-West Provinces of Bengal and China, are despatched via Southampton on the 12th and 27th of the month, except when these dates fall on Sunday, in which case they are forwarded on the previous evening.

A French line of mail packets now leaves Marseilles on the 19th of every month for Alexandria. Postage for letters and papers to India and China the same as is charged by the English mail via Marseilles. Letters intended to be forwarded by these packets must be specially addressed "By French mail packet from Marseilles."

SUMMARY AND REVIEW.

THE arrival of the overland mail from Calcutta places us in receipt of intelligence two days later than that received by the last Bombay mail.

Major Adams, we regret to learn, has sunk under an attack of pleurisy, which supervened on the murderous assault made upon him by a Mahomedan fanatic.

Sir Hugh Rose arrived in Calcutta on the 21st January, under a salute from the guns of Fort William. The late Lieut.-Governor of the Punjab, Sir Robert Montgomery, is among the passengers to Marseilles by the present mail.

If the Englishman's information be well founded, there is no likelihood of any immediate cessation of the torrents of petitions at present flooding the House of Commons. From Bengal alone not far short of one thousand petitions may be expected, and at least an equal number from the sister presidencies of Madras and Bombay. It is further stated that an offer of advantageous retiring terms is about to be made to all "local" officers of field rank, and the prediction is hazarded that "every officer who by any possibility can accept the proffered terms will at once retire." The Indian officers have little reason to be grateful for the advocacy of their journalistic friends, who appear somewhat too anxious to reduce the noble profession of arms to the level of a trade. The "price of blood" is made of more account than honour and glory, and what is really sought at the cannon's mouth seems no longer to be "the bubble reputation," but a bag of rupees. From such friends the officers of her Majesty's Indian armies may well pray to be delivered.

There is nothing new from Bhootan, but the accounts of Mr. Eden's bootless mission have been made public. The total expenditure, including salaries, travelling charges, and presents, amounts to very nearly £5,000. The coolie transport alone cost not far from £1,000, while more than double that sum was laid out on gold watches, ear-rings, guns, revolvers, pistols, broadcloths, silk, flannels, corals, &c., intended as peace offerings for the Penlows and the Deb and Dhurm Rajahs. This little grain of mustard seed has swelled and grown up into the goodly proportions of a war expenditure—inevitable, perhaps, but not the less to be regretted.

But what all Calcutta is talking about is the formation of the "Port Canning Land Investment, Reclamation, and Dock Company (Limited)," with a capital of £1,200,000, divided into 6,000 shares of £200 each. It is almost needless to premise that this enterprising company takes its rise in Bombay, and that all the shares have been taken up. This new company has acquired upwards of 134,000 acres of land, of which 60,000 have already been brought under cultivation, producing a yearly rental of £13,000. The sum of £400,000 is to be expended on landed property, and £200,000 on reproductive works in the town itself. The Municipality has made over to the company the River Trust, and the privilege of constructing docks, tramways, &c., and has borrowed from it the sum of £25,000, at 15 per cent. discount. A large dock for country boats is at once to be commenced on the Bidiadury River, at the back of the town; a gridiron is to be laid down, of sufficient dimensions to accommodate the largest ships and steamers; and twenty jetties are to be run out, at which forty ships will be able to unload and take in cargo. It is further stated that a 1,600-ton ship is lying off the port, which came up the Mutlah without a pilot; and that the Messageries Imperiales Company have suspended their works at Garden Reach until something more definite be known as to the real advantages and disadvantages of Port Canning.

The Christian Converts Re-marriage Bill has been adjourned until the next cold season. A new Bill to sanction the formation of insurance companies on the limited liability principle has been introduced into Council by Mr. Maine, and is well spoken of by the local press.

From Madras we receive the usual amount of interesting intelligence. The Athenæum chronicles two events, the most important of which, in the eyes of our contemporary, appears to be the marriage of Captain Macleod and Miss Porteous, on which felicitous occasion the choir sang a hymn entitled "Holy Matrimony," and duly chanted the Psalm, the rubric after the Psalm, and all the Amens. The remaining part of the service was shared between the Bishop and the Archdeacon,—his lordship undertaking the "business" portion. "The whole ceremony," according to our mildly enthusiastic contemporary, "was more imposing and grand than anything of the kind ever before witnessed in Madras. The bridesmaids were Miss Pycroft, the two Misses Dale, Miss Thompson, Miss Hewetson and Miss Brett." After this two columns are devoted to the re-opening of St. George's Cathedral, and the enumeration of the stops contained by the organ. It is gratifying to learn that this instrument "sounds very much better in its new position than it did at the west end, although the tone is a little subdued." Let us hope that it will get over its nervousness after a time.

The Cash Balances at the close of November exhibited a rise of Rs. 37,75,592 over the October statement,—amounting to Rs. 10,28,85,257, against Rs. 13,50,81,855 in 1863. As compared with November, 1863, the greatest falling off is in the Government of India, Rs. 1,73,78,812. The smallest is in the Deccan, Rs. 4,00,569. Three Governments exhibit an increase:—

Punjab ...	Rs. 19,91,519
Bombay ...	Rs. 16,75,965
Central Provinces	Rs. 5,88,551=42,56,035

The following represent the decrease:—

Govt. of India	Rs. 1,73,78,812
Madras ...	Rs. 85,62,951
N.W. Provinces	Rs. 58,45,252
Bengal ...	Rs. 42,65,049
Deccan ...	Rs. 4,00,569=3,64,52,633.

As in all probability the case of the Indian officers will come before Parliament sooner than was at first anticipated, we are requested to urge all officers who have not already petitioned to do so without delay, and to send their petitions to the Hon. Secretary Amalgamation Inquiry Committee for presentation to Parliament. Officers are further requested to observe that petitions must be written on one piece of paper (size immaterial), otherwise they are informal.

DEPARTURE OF PASSENGERS.—The following passengers will leave Marseilles, per overland route, to-morrow (March 1):—For Calcutta: Mr. and Mrs. Terry, Right Hon. W. H. Massey, Mr. G. W. Forbes, Capt. Sitwell, Mr. G. Budham. For Madras: Maj.-gen. Haines, Major Holland. For Ceylon: Mr. and Mrs. Armitage, 2 infants, and nurse, Mr. Ratcliffe. For Alexandria: Mr. Hamilton.

SCHOOL INSPECTORS.—On the recommendation of the Punjab Government, the Government of India has sanctioned the appointment of three additional inspectors of schools for the Delhi, Rawul Pindee, and Lucknow divisions, on a salary of rupees three hundred each per mensem.

BENGAL.

FROM BOMBAY TO CALCUTTA.

Englishmen in Northern and Western India have not yet realised the fact that Bombay is separated from the capital by a distance in time of little more than five days. But for the evils of the railway system in this country, arising from the double Government and the single lines, letters and even passengers might travel from Calcutta to Bombay in four days. When the Great Trunk Railway by Jubbulpore is completed three years hence, continuous travelling at the present rate of speed will not reduce the distance to less than three days. It is most important for political, social, and commercial reasons that intercourse between the two greatest cities in Asia should now be both frequent and speedy. It is time that the postal express between both places should occupy only four days in transit; that all Englishmen who are not invalids should arrive at and depart from India by Bombay; and that visits should be frequently interchanged between the officials, the European merchants and native "reformers" of the two Presidency cities.

The traveller who reaches Bombay from Suez with the intention of proceeding to Calcutta has three routes before him. If he has been a wise man he will have preferred the new Italian line of steamers from Ancona to Alexandria, and will have spent a week in Egypt. To Bombay no line of steamers at present runs save the Peninsular and Oriental, and he finds himself victimised by a demand of sixty pounds sterling for a twelve days' uncomfortably crowded passage and badly cooked fare. A charge of five pounds a day for even princely accommodation would be tolerated by no other community in the world. After a fortnight's study of the marvels of Bombay, Poona and Surat, the Peninsular and Oriental Company will graciously offer to convey the traveller round Cape Comorin to Calcutta for fifteen pounds, a sum which ceases to be considered small when another fortnight has to be wasted at sea. The second route, which will tempt the visitor who has time, and wishes to see Southern India, is that offered by the well-managed coasting steamers of the British India Steam Navigation Company. Taking one of these he may land at Beypore for the railway, unless the desire to see Goa and the fast rising port of Carwan should induce him to submit to the discomforts of the Parsee steamers. While the steamer is rounding the Peninsula he will have time for a hasty visit to the Neilgherries and Bangalore, before rejoining it at Madras. But this route, though attractive, is both expensive and dilatory. He who adopts it ought to have time to visit Cochin also, and the interesting principality of Travancore, if not the great mission country of Tinnevely, trusting to catch a later steamer at Madras than the one he has left at Beypore.

But the visitor who has little time at his disposal, and wishes to make the best use of it, will adopt the direct postal route by railway and mail-cart. Let him not be frightened by the generally apocryphal stories of nervous people in Bombay. They will tell of travellers who have had broken limbs, have been lifted down from the cart in a dying state, have kept to their bed for weeks, have actually died, after a short journey of seventy miles. A little enquiry discovers the fact that if such cases ever existed they happened in the hot season, or when there were bad roads, or in exceptional circumstances such as those under which the late Sir Henry Havelock suffered on such a journey. By this route the whole distance between the two cities is about 1,740 miles, of which 535 are traversed by mail-cart from Nargaum on the Nagpore branch of the Great Indian Peninsula Railway to the Agra branch of the East Indian line. Till now the three hundred miles of railway journey on the Bombay side have occupied twenty-four hours, and the 905 from Agra to Calcutta fifty hours. But the recent opening of the Thull Ghaut on the former ought to reduce the time to 18 hours, for hitherto a night of six hours has been spent in the ascent of the Ghaut by the road. So on the Agra side, the delays at the Toondla junction, at Allahabad, and at several refreshment stations, might be reduced one-half, so as to save at least two hours. The Express, which, as a rule, accomplishes the mail-cart part of the journey in two days, if it ran in connection with the trains on either side, instead of, as at present, having to wait sometimes a whole day at Agra or Nargaum, would occupy only from four to five days between the two cities.

To confine ourselves to the mail-cart route. The traveller obtains a pass from the Bombay Post-office, and presents it to the native postmaster at Nargaum, paying seventy-six rupees, or eight annas a mile, for a seat to Indore, the limits of the Bombay Post-office, 152 miles distant. The charge, in the North-western Provinces, for the 384 miles between Indore and Agra, is only sixty rupees, or two-and-a-half annas a mile. The difference is due chiefly to the fact that the contractors' cost of keeping the horses is much higher in the Bombay Presidency than elsewhere. For this sum the traveller is allowed one seat beside the driver, and thirty lbs. of luggage, which is quite sufficient for the journey. The coasting steamers will take round the bulk of his boxes at a moderate rate. Those who have servants with them or two friends, may take a special mail cart at more than double these rates, but this is not advisable if speed is an object, and it is less comfortable, for the horses are likely to be inferior. Having dined in an adjoining tent, the traveller girds round his waist a good native cummerbund, fixes between his back and the iron rod of the seat a strong cotton pillow, puts one rug on the seat and another over his feet, and with a top-coat over him, by day as well as by night, he begins his journey. The mail-cart is simply a wooden dog-cart, painted red, with tolerable springs and capital wheels, drawn by one horse in the shafts and another as an outrigger. Both are changed—and generally even at night without delay—every six miles, and the mail-drivers, who are as a rule fine fellows, every sixty or eighty miles. One syce mounts behind. If the traveller has slept well the previous night or day he ought to go on at once from Nargaum to Indore, 152 miles, without much fatigue. Provisions he will find in abundance, and a good dak bungalow at Indore, as well as at the large stations to Agra. The horses go at the average rate of ten miles an hour, except in the Sautpoora hills. At the Simrole Ghaut, by which the Vindhya are ascended, oxen are employed for ten miles until the new road is completed. This, and eighty miles of bad road from Beorah to Goona, are the only drawbacks on the way. Elsewhere the roads and all the arrangements are most satisfactory in the dry season. Whenever the traveller rests he is delayed twenty-four hours till the arrival of the next cart, unless he takes advantage of the parcel carts, which pass frequently, though at somewhat reduced speed. There is no reason why a man in good health should stop more frequently than twice in the 535 miles—at Indore and Goona, but no intelligent observer would pass Gwalior, seventy-two miles from Agra, without spending a day in its noble fort.

To the student of history or human nature few journeys present such attractions. As he leaves Bombay he marvels at the fantastic forms of the Syhadree Ghauts, which, like the sierras of Mexico, seem as though they had been piled up by a former race as sites for the forts of robber chiefs. In the dull starlight the gigantic railway viaducts on the Thull

Ghaut impress themselves on his imagination as even more wonderful than the tunnels of that triumph of engineering skill, the Bhore Ghaut incline. He wends his way slowly through the wastes of Candeish, which have never recovered from the devastations of the Mahrattas, leaving such historic places as Nassik, Chandore, and our own military station of Malligaum to the north. At Munmar he sees whole fields covered with the opium cases, the wasting bags of grain and cotton, the droves of sheep, and even fowls, which have poured down through the passes of the hills from Holkar's country to meet the wants of wealthy Bombay, to which the railway cannot convey it. As he passes the Bho-sawul junction on to the Nagpore branch, he can just discern in the distance the half finished railway bridge over the Taptee into the valley into which he has been rapidly descending, and he wonders if the great Indian Peninsula Company will ever complete their line thence to Jubbulpore. Hardly has he seated himself firmly in the mail-cart, which dashes into the darkness of the night along an invisible road, through shallow streams and up hill sides which the starlight and his own dreamy imagination magnify into fantastic and even frightful forms, when he crosses the Poorna river from waste Candeish and Berar into still more desolate Nimar. Soon he rattles through the silent streets of Boorhanpore, once so beautiful under its Furookhee kings; now he passes under the great fort of Asseergurh which commands the road to rich Malwa and crowns the northern Sautpooras. As he tries to banish sleep by recalling Ferishta's story of its shepherd founder, he already begins to see sunrise in the direction of Khundwa, the new civil station in the Central Provinces, and snatches a hasty meal at Mokulgaum, while a new driver prepares himself. Down he rushes now into the valley of the Nerbudda, through a waste but once rich country, no part of which, whether under our own direct rule or Holkar's, seems any more than Candeish to have forgotten the Mahrattas and Pindarees. Crossing that noble but unnavigable river on a trestle bridge, he ascends to the foot of the Vindhya, which stretch between Hindostan and the Deccan from sea to sea. Through passes which require only rain to make them as beautiful as the Appenines between Florence and Bologna, he reaches the great plain of Hindostan, and leaving our military station of Mhow and the ruins of the old Mussulman capital Mandhoo to the left, enters Indore at sunset, after an eighteen hours' ride. There, and thence by Dewas, Beorah, Goona, Seepree, and Gwalior, he sees and hears what makes him, even if an ardent anti-annexationist, wonder that British officers can look calmly on such oppression as the tenants of Holkar and Scindia suffer. He begins to think British interference short of annexation a curse, for the people, if left to themselves, would endure no longer the ravishing of their matrons and mutilation of their men, the destruction of their trade and rack-renting of their villages, by chiefs whom we encourage to misgovern.

Our experience is that, in the cold season and to the man who is not conscious of possessing either nerves or a liver, the mail cart between Agra and Nargaum is as little fatiguing as an English stage-coach, while it is almost as speedy and quite as safe as an Indian, Egyptian, or Italian railway.—Friend of India.

THE PORT CANNING COMPANY.

The Great Port Canning Company, of which rumours have been for some time afloat, has now made its appearance. There has recently appeared the prospectus of the "Port Canning Land Investment, Reclamation, and Dock Company (Limited)," brought out under the auspices of the Bombay millionaires, with an excellent direction in Calcutta, consisting of men who have devoted their time and energies to founding the new port. The Bombay papers are full of warnings against the mania, which seems to have attacked all parties in their Presidency, for the wildest speculation. We do not know, therefore, how they will look upon this scheme, supported as it is by the richest and ablest men of their town. Here we have all looked upon Canningtown and its port with coldness and indifference, but the disasters caused by the cyclone have awakened all to the necessity and value of an auxiliary port, and so the riches thrown upon the Bombay shores have overflowed in this direction; the ability of Calcutta, supplemented by the capital of Bombay, is now about to cherish the weakly bantling of Calcutta speculation. The energy displayed by the leading member of the firm appointed secretaries in Calcutta is worthy of all praise, though something is, perhaps, due to the sneering tone of the Government of India, when, endeavouring to escape from the trammels of what it considered a very bad job, it alluded to that firm as the projectors of the Eden at Canning. From the prospectus we learn that the company has secured 1,34,590 acres, of which 8,526 are leasehold, and 1,26,000 are redeemable on freehold at Rs. 2 per acre. The value of rice-lands paying rent to Government, at the present ports, or on the banks of the Hooghly, is usually estimated at Rs. 900 per acre. Should this speculation of Canning be even tolerably successful, this promises an enormous profit, and gives a more solid foundation for the views of the Bombay promoters than we were inclined to believe. There is already an annual income from the lands taken, amounting to Rs. 1,30,000. We also observe that the company has subscribed half the amount of the Canning municipal loans, this will probably soon be followed up, and bring the municipality into full work. Grantees of town lots will then be obliged to carry out the terms of their engagements or forfeit their grants. This will tend to the rapid growth of the intended town, but we can only now refer to the prospectus, for the further intended works. This energy must draw out the Government also, and the railway will require attention. We understand that already there is a desire felt to press upon the Government the necessity of a double line, and the sooner this is looked into the better, for if this company does all it promises, and makes the auxiliary port a real and life-like commercial city, the railway must have a double line. It will be much too late to think and talk of this when the terminus at Canning is overwhelmed with goods, as at the terminus of another railway at Howrah. As a further proof of the progress of the Mutlah port, we learn that the British Indian Steam Navigation Company have applied for leave to start their mail steamers for Chitragong, Akyab, &c., from Canning, and that it is intended, eventually, to start all their steamers from that port. The Messageries Imperiales have also, we understand, suspended their works on the Hooghly until they see whether Canning is to be their port or not. We cannot but wish success to a scheme brought out with so much vigour, though we think the company will find they have yet many obstacles to overcome. But money and energy may do much. We can only add that we trust the epidemic of speculation is not going to spread from Bombay to this, and that, whilst every encouragement is given to a scheme involving real advantages both to the public and the shareholders, the public will not lose its sanity here, as it is said to have done at Bombay.

Since writing the above we are informed that the shares of the Port Canning Company have all been taken up, and the list is closed.—Englishman.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE ATTACK ON MAJOR ADAMS.—Major Adams went into the city of Peshawar in the afternoon, and was returning on horseback, accompanied by the kotwal of the city and several of the police; he had an escort of two police horsemen. He was proceeding slowly homewards in conversation with the kotwal, and had passed the Cabul gate, when a man rushed from the side of the road, succeeded in obtaining the sword of one of the horsemen, and made a desperate cut, which wounded Major Adams severely on the back. This was the first intimation which the deputy-commissioner had of the attack, and he immediately urged on his horse, and thus avoided a second blow. The assassin was cut down, and shot by the kotwal, who had a pistol. Major Adams rode part of the way home, and was carried for the remainder in a litter. His wound is not dangerous, and he is doing well. The medical men pronounce that there is no cause for apprehension. The assassin was brought before the magistrate in a hopeless state, but perfectly sensible. Nothing, however, could be gained from him except the reiteration that he was mad, and had been inspired by God to the act. He died about two hours afterwards. His manner was wild and fierce, but he was not insane. He has been recognised as Lall Mahomed, a dyer by trade, and a native of Candahar, who has been for the last three or four years in Peshawar. There is no reason to suppose that the act was instigated, or was more than a sudden impulse of a fanatic. Inquiry is proceeding. There is no political agitation; on the contrary, the feeling of all the principal men is one of indignation against the outrage, and of regret for the injury, and the kotwal and police behaved well in cutting down the assassin.—Times of India.

ABSENTEE RULES.—Under Chapter I. of the New Civil Service Furlough and Absentee Rules, it is laid down that "grants of furlough are subject to the condition that in no case shall a greater number of servants be absent from India, on furlough, at one time than 10 per cent. of the number on the list of each Presidency." 2. To regulate the grants of furlough on equitable principles, and in accordance with the rules, His Excellency the Governor in Council is pleased to order as follows:—All Civil Servants entitled to furlough, and desirous of taking it during A.D. 1865, should immediately notify the fact, and the months in which the furlough is proposed to be taken, to the Secretary to Government in the General Department. The names of all applicants will then be registered, and furloughs will be granted to those whose claims to preference are secured by the rules. 3. The following is the list of furloughs available during the year A.D. 1865:—Available at present, 2; ditto 27th of February, 1; ditto 28th of March, 1; ditto 14th of April, 1; ditto 13th of October, 1; ditto 27th of November, 1; total, 7. 4. Applicants for furlough in A.D. 1866 should register their names on or before the 1st of January, 1866.

THE DEPARTING AND THE COMING C. IN C. will not meet in Calcutta, as was expected, it being settled that Sir W. Mansfield does not come round to Calcutta, but will go from Bombay up the Indus, and by the route to Simla, where he will take his seat in the Supreme Council. Sir William has appointed his present military secretary to the same post under him as Commander-in-Chief in India, but it is not settled whether any other officers of his staff at Bombay accompany him to this Presidency. Sir Robert Napier goes to England by the steamer of the 9th February, and will not take up the Bombay command until about the middle of the year, till which time some general officer in that Presidency will officiate for him from the date of Sir W. Mansfield's departure.—Englishman.

THE ALLAHABAD LIBEL CASE.—Our readers probably will remember that the proprietor of the Allahabad Observer was fined Rs. 300 for a libel on Mr. Collet, of the East Indian Railway at Allahabad. After the imposition of the fine Mr. Honigberger made a clean breast of the matter, and declared in the next issue of his paper that Captain Hamilton, a well-known resident of Allahabad, was the author of the libel complained of. It will be remembered that Mr. M. B. Elias was rather roughly handled in the article alluded to. The consequence of the disclosure made by Mr. Honigberger has been first that Mr. Elias has brought an action of damages against Captain Hamilton for Rs. 10,000, "for that he, the said Captain Hamilton, maliciously caused the publication of the libel now complained of." Mr. Collet has brought an action also for Rs. 10,000 based upon the same ground, so that the position of our respectable townsman, Captain Hamilton, is not at present a very enviable one. Mr. Shircore, of Calcutta, for the plaintiffs; Captain Hamilton is defended by native vakeels, instructed by Mr. Lasbury. On the trial coming on for hearing on the 5th January, an objection was taken by Mr. Shircore to the effect that Mr. Hamilton, the defendant, did not verify the statement put in by this vakeel in his defence agreeably to Act VIII. of 1859. The case was in consequence postponed to enable Mr. Hamilton to appear for the purpose of verifying the statement alluded to. The case came on again on the 6th, when Captain Hamilton verified the statement made by the vakeel in his defence, after which the following issues were struck by the consent of the parties. In Mr. Elias's case the issues were as follows:—1st. Whether defendant published or printed the article complained of? 2nd. Whether the defendant caused the printing or publication of the said article? 3rd. Whether the article alluded to is libellous or not? and 4th. What amount of damages has plaintiff sustained, and what amount of compensation should be awarded him in consequence? The issues in Mr. Collet's case are exactly similar to the above, with the addition of two new ones, viz.:—5th. Is Mr. Collet one of the high officials mentioned in the article? and 6th. What amount of damages is due by Mr. Honigberger, the editor, proprietor, and publisher of the Allahabad Observer? The trial of the first case comes on for decision on the 27th, and the second is fixed for the 28th. Mr. Collet did not appear in person. Mr. Honigberger was made a co-plaintiff in Elias versus Hamilton, as well as in that of Collet versus Honigberger, so that the only parties present were Elias, Hamilton, and Honigberger.—Delhi Gazette.

EXTRA-PROFESSIONAL MEDICAL APPOINTMENTS.—By a resolution of the Government of India in the financial department, dated Dec. 31, 1864, the Governor-general in Council is pleased to declare "that the appointment of a medical officer shall in future be regarded as a military or a civil charge, according as he may be nominated to it by the military or the civil department; his emoluments being audited and adjusted in the former case, in the military department, under military rules, and in the latter case, in the civil department, under civil rules. In cases, however, of the charge for any appointment being transferable, under this order, from the military to the civil department, or vice versa, the other shall, as regards such transfer of charge, and Budget provision for it, take effect from the next year, there being no object in giving it earlier effect so far as audit and accounts are concerned."

SIRHIND DIVISION.—It has been rumoured at Umballa that Lord George Paget is about to hand over the command of the Sirhind Division to Brigadier Welshman, and that he is to proceed to England to fill the office of General Inspector of Cavalry. It is further stated that he will accompany Sir Hugh Rose.

SLAVERY IN RAJPOOTANA.—It being customary in Kotah, Boondie, Hadowtee, and Meywar that every respectable man must have a few slaves and slave girls in his house, a tribe called Gunwarya, who are living in Rajpootana, are dealing in slaves. The general profession of the Gunwarya men is comb-selling, rope-making, &c., and wherever they can find any child alone they make away with it. The children thus stolen are sold in Rajpootana. Besides this there is another way of stealing the children in Rajpootana; that is, the Rajpoots of the above-named places make their old slaves and slave girls go about and steal the children. These people go about in the streets, and wherever they can find any boy or girl alone they walk away with them. These Rajpoots sell these children to their masters, under whom they are serving, and thus the poor children are kept slaves for their whole lives. The stolen children are generally kept in the seraglio of the rajas and chiefs, where no one has access to trace them. The Meena caste people are also stealing children and selling them as slaves. The political agents in Rajpootana are very good men, but what can be done when things are not brought to their notice?—Delhi Gazette.

MOVEMENTS AND DEPARTURES OF TROOPS.—H.M.'s 66th Regiment has been unexpectedly ordered home from the Madras Presidency. In consequence of this movement the 2nd Battalion of H.M.'s 10th Regiment, ordered from the Cape of Good Hope to Bengal, and appointed to the station of Hazareebagh in the annual relief, is now ordered to Madras, and the five companies of the battalion just arrived in the Roslyn Castle, and now in the standing camp in the esplanade, will be re-embarked for Madras as soon as shipping transport is available. The head quarters of the battalion are on their way from the Cape on board the ship Copenhagen, which may be daily expected. Messrs. Green's passenger ship Renown, of 1,293 tons, Captain Taylor, has been engaged by Government for the conveyance of troops to England at Rs. 256, Rs. 320, and Rs. 370 per head for men in health and according to the space required, and for invalids at Rs. 405 per head. The ship Aliquis, Captain Davidson, of 1,125 tons, consigned to Messrs. Gillanders, Arbuthnot and Co., has been engaged by Government for the conveyance of troops to England at Rs. 414 per head. The ship Conflict will take home a large number of invalids and time-expired men, under the command of Capt. C. J. Tyler, H.M.'s 80th Regiment, with three other officers doing duty for the voyage. H.M.'s 71st Highland Light Infantry have arrived at Chinsurah from Peshawur, and will remain at the former station until their embarkation on board the sailing ship Victor Albert and screw steamer Mauritius, which have been taken up by Government for the conveyance of the regiment to England. The head-quarters and some batteries of the 16th Brigade Royal, late Bengal Artillery, are ordered to proceed to England without being relieved by an artillery equivalent from home. The head-quarters of the brigade, under the command of Lieutenant-colonel Swinhoe, and two batteries, Major Francis's and Captain Dundas's, are at Barrackpore.—Englishman.

DACOITY IN NUDDEA.—Dacoity has become dangerously prevalent in the district of Nuddea. The district superintendent of police in Jessore has been despatched to that district with a detail of one sub-inspector, two head constables, and twenty constables, for the purpose of restoring confidence and arresting the offenders. Kishnaghar also will have its constabulary strengthened.

A NEW ROAD INTO ASSAM.—The Commissioner of Assam, Colonel Hopkinson, has proposed to Government to open a road through the Bengal Dooars, so as to connect Assam with the Presidency. The matter has been referred to Lieutenant-colonel Haughton for his opinion.

CIRCLE PAYMASTERS.—The work of the circle paymasters is being lightened by degrees, preparatory to the appointments being abolished as the present incumbents vacate. We (Englishman) mentioned a few days ago that, from this month forward, all officers drawing bills upon the Pay-officers would be obliged to make their own deductions, except in case of extraordinary retrenchments, which would be made by the Examiner's Department. From the 1st of this month, also, all stoppages whatever connected with regiments, which have hitherto been realised by circle paymasters, such as mess and band subscriptions, and awards of Courts of Requests, will be realised by commanding officers of regiments, the pay and allowances being made over in full by the paymaster. This is a judicious mode of teaching regimental and other officers to look after their own affairs by degrees, instead of suddenly throwing on their hands a quantity of work with which they have had no previous experience, which would have caused much inconvenience and confusion. All these changes—separately not of much apparent importance, but in the aggregate a great improvement—are the work of the English Financial Commissioners, of whose system they are constituents parts.

COTTON IN CENTRAL INDIA.—The Central India Times says: In our last issue we informed our readers that Mr. Temple was conducting Dr. Forbes, the Bombay Cotton Commissioner, through our cotton districts. We have since heard that during the last fortnight Dr. Forbes has inspected the three cotton marts of Hingunghat, Deolee, and Arwee, and has marched over a large portion of our best cotton tracts. The extent of the business done in cotton at Hingunghat exceeded the anticipations Dr. Forbes had formed; and after examining the quality of the cotton in the several yards, he pronounced it to be first class native cotton, surpassed only by the cotton produced in Dharwar, from the acclimatised New Orleans seed. Dr. Forbes carefully examined the cotton yards belonging to some eminent Bombay native firms, who have branch establishments at Hingunghat and Deolee; and he appeared seriously to apprehend that some of the Bombay men had imported the Bombay habit of mixing good cotton in the same bale with bad. From Hingunghat the Chief Commissioner's camp moved to Wurnatia, where a wealthy landowner, who has recently been raised to the bench of honorary magistrates, has made experiments in sowing acclimatised American seed. The experiments had laboured under some grave disadvantages, still the cotton turned out was fair, and much superior in length and strength of fibre to the indigenous cotton. Dr. Forbes considered the black land of the Wurdah district to be capable of producing cotton quite equal to the best staple of Dharwar, and much superior to Surats. He pointed out, however, that better culture, better cleaning, better packing, and greater care in bringing to market, were all necessary before Hingunghats could take and keep that position in the market for which nature had intended them. Dr. Forbes was peculiarly impressed with the lightness of the land revenue in our cotton districts, when compared with revenue paid by the Dharwar ryots. He seemed to be of the opinion, which we have always held, that the new revenue settlements are liberal to the people, and that the richness of the soil will soon ensure us a thriving and happy peasantry.

MEERUT COMMISSIONERSHIP.—According to the Pioneer there is a chance of the Meerut Commissionership soon becoming vacant. Mr. Comb is spoken of as likely to obtain the appointment. In this case it is probable that Mr. R. Drummond will succeed to the duties of Inspector General of Police.

NIMAR.—Waste lands are to be sold in Nimar under the Central Provinces rules. Whoever owns Nimar, nobody cultivates it.

PATNA, Jan. 18.—Ahmed-oollah's case is nearly settled. There is every probability of his being committed to the sessions. Messrs. Fagan and Mackenzie have been twice here from Calcutta to carry on the defence. All the Mahomedans in the station watch the proceedings with the liveliest interest. The witnesses for the prosecution are to be looked after for serious fears they have of being poisoned. The Duke of Brabant passed the Bankipore station a day ago en route to the North-western Provinces; he had a special train. This is the first time that Behar has been honoured with the presence of a scion of royalty. We regret the loss we sustain in Dr. Sutherland's services being placed at the disposal of the Government of India in the Military Department at his own request. He is, we hear, to be succeeded by Dr. Hutchinson, of Arrah. Patna is nearly empty to-day. All the civil authorities are at Tirhoot. Mr. Cockburn, the commissioner, and Mr. Trotter, the opium agent, have both preceded the Lieutenant-governor of Bengal to the show. The other civilians accompanied him to the same destination. They say that a famine is apprehended in Behar this year. Already grain of all sorts is selling dearer, and the baniahs, as a matter of course, are taking advantage of it.—Correspondent of the Hurkaru.

BEEF RIOT.—There has been a revival of the beef controversy in the North-West between the "bigoted" Moslem and the "mild" Hindoo, in which, as usual, the usual weapons of discussion, sticks, stones, and blows, have been freely used on both sides. This time the scene of debate is Mhow, and as a learned "special" traces its origin back to three hundred years of Indian history, the world shall not lose the benefit of his research. He says that during the reign of Jehangir, King of Delhi, about A.D. 1609, one Ubluman Singh, a Rajpoot of the Jutrun tribe, of Moneah Mehnugger, in this district, having separated from his brethren, owing to the inadequacy of the share allotted to him in his hereditary possessions, took service under that monarch, and on his having embraced the religion of Mahomet, Jehangir granted to him the whole zemindary of Aziungurh, which included upwards of twenty pergunnahs, under the title of Rajah Ubluman Singh, Ali Mahomed Nadir Dowlat Khan. From that period up to the time the Nawab of Oude resumed the grant, the Mahomedans had the supremacy over the Hindoos; but in 1801, when this district was ceded to the British, the Hindus taking courage came and resided there; since then there have always been feuds between both parties, giving great trouble, annoyance, and lots of work to the magistracy; the chief cause of these disputes emanates from the aversion of the Hindus to the Mahomedans slaughtering cows and bullocks, and the latter preferring a good beefsteak in spite of Hindu prejudices, insist upon doing so; the present dispute originates from the same cause; it appears that the Hindus were informed of the intention of some Mahomedans, that they were making preparations to slaughter a cow, they came in a great body and rescued the animal, at the same time giving a sound thrashing to an unfortunate weaver, who was casually passing by that way, en route to some bazaar to sell the produce of his labour; this poor weaver was accompanied by another of his brethren, who gave leg bail, leaving him to bear alone the castigation. The rest of the story is to be rehearsed in the court of the magistrate of the district.—Hurkaru.

ARMY COMMISSARIAT.—The following officers of the Army Commissariat Department are about to proceed on leave to Europe on medical certificate:—Majors W. J. Brander, J. R. Lowe, H. Mills, and J. E. Thomson; and Major E. J. Simpson, Assistant Commissary-general, at Lucknow, goes on medical leave to the Hills until next cold season.

"ACCIDENTS" BY EUROPEAN SOLDIERS.—Two instances recently occurred in the neighbourhood of Delhi, in which European soldiers appear to have shot Natives by accident. As a correspondent of the Englishman puts it in the first, a tame deer belonging to some village people was fired at, but the shot took effect on a man who was seven hundred yards away from the animal. The worst observation suggested in the case seems to be that the man was probably the most indifferent marksman of his regiment. In the next affair, the accidental nature of the occurrence seems greatly qualified by surrounding circumstances. The story runs thus:—It seems that the soldier obtained leave to visit the city (the camp being some distance away from the city), and, strange to say, he was allowed to carry a musket, or gun, with him. With this weapon he first commenced practising against the mud walls of a village; and on being remonstrated with by the inhabitants, he declared that he would do so as long as he pleased. Some policemen then went out to prevent it, and the soldier attempted to deprive them of their swords, but was unsuccessful. Two more constables then appeared on the scene, armed with their batons, and these attempted to bring the excited soldier to reason, but they had a struggle, during which the batons were taken away; and the soldier then turned upon the constables, who, it seems, were pursuing him, and attempted to fire at them, but his musket, or gun, missed fire. He then deliberately replaced the cap and levelled his piece at the foremost constable, who, seeing his determination, knocked down the barrel, and the ball entered his thigh; the wounded man expired soon after, from excessive hemorrhage. This is the survivor's version, and, true or false, the soldier has only his own evidence to bring forward in his defence—so that it is more than probable that he will pay the penalty of his folly.—Hurkaru.

CASHMERE.—His Highness the Maharajah of Cashmere had been entertaining the deputy commissioner and a party of gentlemen with some right royal sport near Jummoo. On the 29th December his Highness invited a large party of British officers to join him in a day's "hog-hunting" in one of his best preserves. The Maharajah rode out thirteen miles from Jummoo to meet the party, and conducted all arrangements for the sport in person. Major Mercer, the deputy commissioner, accompanied the party, and introduced the officers. At particular request all ceremony was dispensed with, and the Maharajah gratified every one by showing a desire to associate with English gentlemen as one of themselves and in the true spirit of a sportsman. He was well mounted on a large Arab, presented to him by the Viceroy, and handled the spear with the skill and determination of an expert "hog hunter." The riding of some of the officers was particularly admired. The largest boars fell to the spears of Captain Bayley, 7th Hussars, Captains Lasack and Boose, of the 93rd Highlanders, and Mr. Bruere, of the police.

LAUNCH OF THE STEAMSHIP "NADA."—During the height of the cyclone the unfortunate ship the Govindpore came into collision with a steamer, and was so injured that she swung round and sank, the steamer meanwhile drifted on to the bank, and remained there up to Jan. 22. The Nada, upon the top of the bank on this side of the river, offered greater difficulties in getting her afloat than even those encountered in releasing the Bengal. The ways were laid down at the ordinary slope, but it was found that the vessel only settled. They were then laid down at double the slope, and on Jan. 22 the ship slipped down into a position from which, with the commonest of efforts she can be dragged out into the stream. Everything was ready, and it was determined to ease off at twelve, so as to allow her to assume an angle with the bund built on the river side of her; the shores had been knocked away, and everything was in readiness, when the ship thought proper to take matters into her own hands, and to dispense with the further services of the contractor or his coolies. The second mate and purser were on the bund side of the ship, watching the progress made by the coolies in the final preparations, when the mate, happening to look up, saw the ship trembling, and suspecting she was moving, threw himself, with admirable presence of mind, flat on the mud. His example was followed by all round; purser, calishies, and coolies, all sought mother earth—but they had scarcely done so ere the steamer passed swiftly down the ways, and luckily a chain, unable to bear the strain, broke, and so she passed over all the men, and not a single accident took place. Anything more extraordinary or more providential cannot be imagined. If the men had not thrown themselves flat, the ship would have destroyed them, and if, when down, the chain had not broken, she would have been arrested in her course, and would have settled down upon fifty men, whose only chance of life was in the breaking of that chain. The chain, however, so far, did its work, that it kept her head fast long enough to enable her to take exactly the position she was required to take. At the next springs the bund will be cut, and the steamer towed out stern first, without any trouble, as she is in a position now which would enable her to float if the bund were cut. Mr. Mitchell, of Ramkistopore, who took the contract to get her off for Rs. 20,000, has suffered about Rs. 3,000 loss in the breaking of the ways, owing to the swiftness with which the Nada launched herself. Considering her position on the crown of the bank, this was no more than might have been expected.—Hurkaru.

EXPEDITION UP THE SALWEEN.—Captain C. E. Watson is about to make a second attempt to penetrate to the source of the Salween, this time with better hopes of success:—"A letter from Tounsoo, dated the 19th December, reports that Captain C. E. Watson (of the Madras Artillery), whose first Salween expedition (last year) was interrupted by the interference of his Majesty of Ava's officials, has proceeded on his second attempt and reached Nyengyan (in lat. 20 N.), a large town across the British Frontier, in Burmah proper. Captain Watson is accompanied by Mr. Feddon, of the Geological Survey. The travellers, it is added, will shortly strike eastward to the Shan States, and hope to reach Theinnee (in lat. 23) in six weeks; and being now provided with a pass from the king, they anticipate no difficulty, or (as before) detention by the Burmese officials. On reaching the Salween at the highest point they can attain, Captain Watson purposes constructing rafts and floating down; thus returning by water, it is presumed, during the rains."

CASH BALANCES.—The following Statement of Cash Balances, as reported up to this date, in the Government Treasuries in India, at the close of the month of November last, contrasted with that of the previous years, has been published:—

According to the present limits of the several Governments.	1862. Nov.	1863. Nov.	1864. Nov.
Govt. of India	Co's Rs. 5,87,54,442	Co's Rs. 8,24,08,602	Co's Rs. 1,50,29,790
" Bengal	1,75,31,717	1,96,82,978	1,54,17,024
" N.W. Provinces	3,13,54,646	2,76,35,760	2,17,99,508
" Punjab	92,29,257	92,98,438	1,12,89,957
" Bombay	2,52,25,557	1,41,10,900	1,57,86,865
" Central Provs.	45,15,815	38,57,104	44,45,655
" Decan	10,15,912	18,24,032	11,23,443
" Madras	2,06,64,396	2,62,64,936	1,77,02,015
Total	16,84,59,802	13,50,81,855	10,28,55,257

The above represents a small rise in November as compared with the previous month of Rs. 37,75,592.

WATERSPOUTS IN THE PUNJAB.—A gentleman, engaged in the Great Trigonometrical Survey, furnishes particulars of certain phenomena observed by him during a journey from Dehra Doon to Sealkote in the summer of last year. He attributes the formation of the water spouts to the atmosphere being surcharged with electricity, as for a week previous there had been frequent thunder storms. On the day he took down his notes the temperature had been unusually warm and sultry, rain had fallen after 1 P.M. to the south and north at distances of seven or eight miles till 5 p.m., when great masses of clouds moving south to north, accompanied with rain and vivid lightning, accumulated at a short distance to the east of his position. It was at 5.30 P.M. when the great disturbance in the clouds took place; extensive masses being driven together; the water spouts were first observed descending out of one of the masses from which no rain was falling, and assuming the appearance which they retained for fourteen minutes, after which time the column to the north became small, and the southern one grew larger for about five minutes, when they both assumed the same shape, but got very thin and long; in another six minutes after, they, especially the southern one, lengthened out into a very fine column, converging towards each other till the ends nearest to the earth met at a height of two hundred feet from the ground; after this junction the column to the north dissolved, and the southern one assumed gigantic proportions; after which the spout changed its form so rapidly that no correct sketch could be made. When the waterspout attained its largest dimensions it was quickly absorbed up into the cloud with which it was connected, and from which torrents of rain immediately began to fall, accompanied with vivid forked lightning. The ground directly below these waterspouts was greatly agitated, for large and dense columns of vapour or dust—more likely the former, since the soil was still moist with recent rain—rose from the earth till they touched the ends of the waterspouts, with which they seemed to mingle. The colour of the waterspouts was exactly alike—viz., light grey, with a touch of neutral tint, which looked very remarkable against the dark sky beyond. The columns of vapour which rose from the earth followed the same oscillatory and gyratory motion as the waterspouts. The time of duration of this phenomenon from its first appearance to its ending was exactly forty-two minutes. The length of the columns or waterspouts at time of greatest convergency was 900 and 1,150 feet, and length of the southern spout when it assumed its largest dimensions was nearly 1,800 feet from the cloud to its extreme end, and their distance from the observer's position was a mile and a half.—Hurkaru.

CONSOLIDATED CUSTOMS ACT.—The Chamber of Commerce lately applied for a relaxation of sections 51 and 107 of Act VI. of 1863—the Consolidated Customs Act. The matter was referred to the Board of Revenue and the Collector of Customs, who reported that in practice the period allowed by law for discharging and loading cargo is sufficient. If a vessel is not cleared within this period, the delay is apparently either for the convenience or owing to the neglect of the ship's agents and consignees, and it is but reasonable that they should pay the extra cost for preventive officers entailed by their own act. The question was one which was specially considered when the Act was being drawn up, and the periods allowed for loading and unloading were most carefully fixed, on full deliberation and after strict inquiries. Under these circumstances his honour the Lieut.-governor thinks that the Chamber would admit that, in the face of the facts stated by the collector of Customs, the Government was not in a position to urge on the Government of India an amendment of the law.

THE GOVERNOR-GENERAL'S BODY GUARD.—According to the Hurkaru, the days of the Governor-general's body guard are numbered. The Lahore Light Horse will assume the duties which have hitherto been performed by the former corps. So long as the Viceroy spends one-half of the year at Simla, the existence of a special cavalry guard for his Excellency is too expensive a luxury to be kept up. The change will probably take place on the retirement of the present commandant, Col. Delane. Should the Lahore Light Horse be selected to perform the duties of the body guard, we trust Colonel Crossman will be continued in the command. The fitness of this officer for the post is shown in his successful organisation of his present regiment. He has made smart troopers and good soldiers out of men who could not ride, and who were certainly far from giving any promise of their present efficiency and improved bearing.

H.M.'S 46TH REGIMENT, though not mentioned in the Relief for 1864-5, does, however, leave Rohilcund, where the corps in wings garrisons Shahjehanpore and Moradabad, this season for Lucknow. That portion of the regiment at Moradabad was to have commenced its march on the 9th January, but counter-orders have arrived temporarily postponing this arrangement. We now learn from Lucknow that H.M.'s 36th Regiment, which relieves the 46th, breaks into wings on the 23rd January, on which date the left, under a field officer, will march for Moradabad, and on its arrival there the wing of the 46th will soon afterwards, probably about the 15th February, start for Shahjehanpore, joining head-quarters, and the whole corps reunited, will quit that station about the 26th, reaching Lucknow early in March. The head-quarter wing 36th will be at Shahjehanpore.—Delhi Gazette.

GOOD SERVICE PENSIONS.—Officers of the Indian armies may be glad to learn that the benefits of an institution hitherto only available for officers of the Royal army are now open to them, and that one of their body has already been nominated as a recipient. We allude to the good service pensions given to officers of long and meritorious career, one of which, amounting to £200 a-year, has been conferred by the Secretary of State for India upon Colonel Colin Mackenzie, of the Madras army, but long and popularly known in Bengal in staff and political employ. The Secretary of State for India, in announcing the gift of this good service pension, paid a graceful compliment to Colonel Mackenzie's long and zealous services, extending over the greatest part of India and Afghanistan.

NATIVE JURORS.—The Hurkaru draws the attention of its readers to a case which lately occurred at Moorshedabad, where we have another instance of the way in which natives look upon the jury. A man was tried for having committed a murder: his guilt was patent to all; but the jury found a loophole of escape for him. They said in their verdict the accused had slain his victim without provocation, but they did not consider it murder, because he could have had no object in doing the deed. The prisoner seizes upon this finding, and petitions on the ground that the verdict of the jury amounted to an acquittal on the charge of culpable homicide. The High Court, however, supported the Judge, and snubbed the jury.

COAL IN THE DOOARS.—Colonel J. C. Haughton has been ordered by Government to send down some specimens of the coal referred to by Captain Lance when serving with the left centre column of the Dooar Field Force, in order that it may be analysed by Doctor Oldham. Colonel Haughton has also been requested to have a careful examination made of the coal-field said to exist in the vicinity of Sontabaree. It has been suggested that Doctor Fergusson might be employed on this duty.

CAVALRY HORSES.—One would imagine from the very cool, careless way in which the Government seems to view the subject, that the mounting of our Cavalry according to their size and weight, or the introduction of a breed of horses at all fit for Cavalry purposes, were matters of no importance whatever. During the early part of last year, and, in fact, before then, we, on several occasions, drew attention to the purchase at home of a "parcel of weedy platers" as they were well described to be, sent out for stud purposes, horses not likely to yield anything but a still more weedy and useless progeny. The question was much ventilated here, and our opinions were endorsed by those of many officers of experience and skill who knew what the requirements of the service really were, and that what was wanted for the Indian studs were not the rejections of Tattersall's, but good, strong, serviceable stallions likely to produce a serviceable progeny, horses, in fact, able to carry a British dragoon without knocking up just when they may be wanted to work. If it be from motives of economy that the Government are thus purchasing horses with which no one at home would have anything to do, it is very false economy indeed. It would be much better to go into the English market with something like open purse strings, and get the value, than to follow a course which must end in the complete deterioration of the breed of cavalry horses. As it is, a regiment of heavy dragoons here look as if they had been mounted, in an emergency, on some large sized ponies, and in a few years there will be no mounts for them at all.—Englishman.

BRITISH PRESTIGE IN NEPAUL.—Accounts from Nepaul are not very favourable to the maintenance of the entente cordiale between the British Government and the Nepaul Durbar. We hear of strange restrictions placed upon British officers, whose presence in the country the Durbar is obliged to tolerate in consequence of treaty stipulations, but who are treated in every other respect as if they were placed in the territory of a hostile power. It is stated that the interior of the valley is entirely closed to them, and they are not permitted to travel beyond a certain number of miles from the Residency. The British Resident and his friends may roam about within a certain prescribed limit, and on certain terms dictated by the Durbar. That limit and those terms may be respectively curtailed and altered as best suits the humour or the designs of the Nepaul Chief and his right-hand man, Sir Jung Bihadur. Entry into the Terai is permissive.

ACCOUNTANT-GENERAL'S DEPARTMENT.—Mr. S. G. Wyatt, the First Assistant Accountant-general to the Government of India, is in a bad state of health, which will render it necessary for him to proceed to England on leave of absence on medical certificate for a period of a year and a-half. Mr. Wyatt leaves India in the ship Renown. The following acting arrangements are to take place in consequence of Mr. Wyatt's absence:—Mr. Gordon, Deputy Auditor and Accountant-general of Hyderabad, to officiate as First Assistant Accountant-general to the Government of India, vice Mr. Wyatt. Mr. E. Simpson Byrne, Chief Assistant in the office of the Accountant-general to the Government of India (now officiating as First Assistant Accountant-general) to officiate as Deputy Auditor and Accountant-general of Hyderabad, vice Mr. Gordon. Mr. George W. Mackel, Chief Assistant of the Civil Paymaster's Office, Fort William (now officiating as Fourth Assistant Accountant-general) to officiate as Chief Assistant in the Accountant-general's Office, vice Mr. Simpson Byrne.

THE REVENUE SURVEY BILL, against which so much discussion was raised and petitions were presented, has received the assent of his Excellency the Viceroy and Governor-general of India.

DR. AND MRS. MASON.—The unseemly litigation between Mrs. Mason and the Rev. E. B. Cross, of Tonghoo, which has brought such discredit on the noble Karen Mission, has, we are glad to see, at last been ended by compromise. Dr. and Mrs. Mason have paid Mr. Cross Rs. 2,000 to remove the buildings of the American Baptist Society from a piece of land granted to them by the Chief Commissioner of British Burmah, as the site of a Karen Educational Institute. The land is to be used by Dr. and Mrs. Mason for a Karen agricultural colony. There is room for both parties to do a good work among the Karens, and if the god-language theory is abandoned, the great success of Dr. and Mrs. Mason will not be forgotten by the Christian public.

CHOLERA has broken out on both sides of the river. It is very bad in the southern portions of the 24-Pergunnahs, and in the Tumlook division and about Mysadul. The Government, however, are fully alive to the necessity for exertion, and are taking measures with a promptness and earnestness equal to the occasion. Mr. McNeill has been appointed to see to matters in the districts affected. Two European assistant-surgeons have been deputed to superintend the operations of twelve native doctors. In addition to the above medicines are given with the most commendable liberality, and the agency of the police, the zemindars, and the respectable inhabitants is eagerly availed of, to place the medicines within the reach of the poor and needy.

MERIAH SACRIFICE.—Since the amalgamation of the Hill tracts of Orissa with the districts of Ganjam and Sambulpore, the practice of offering human sacrifices to the goddess Meriah has fallen into some desuetude. The Khoond chiefs themselves, for the sake of the reward granted by Government, prevented each other from following this diabolical custom. In this season of the year, the Hill people, in order to gain the favour of the goddess, and her interposition to prevent the spread of small-pox amongst them, were in the habit of offering her sacrifices, but the last report which has been submitted to the authorities shows that this year no sacrifice at all has been offered.

THE PUNJAB CLUB.—The increased price of living and gradual change in the social habits of Anglo-Indians has led to the establishment of the Punjab Club at Lahore, with a capital of Rs. 50,000, to be raised in Rs. 100 shares. Shareholders will be members without any additional donation. No one can take more than ten shares, nor dispose of his shares to any one not a member without the sanction of the committee. Members holding three or more shares will be entitled to receive their wines and stores imported direct from England at cost price. The profits of the club will be divided rateably among the shareholders. The monthly subscription will be, in Anarkulli, Rs. 5; in Meean Meer and Umritsur, Rs. 3; and in all other stations, Rs. 1. All officers of regiments marching through the station will be admitted as honorary members for seven days, paying no subscription. These are great advantages, and are likely to be realised. The club, however, is not started as a commercial speculation, but for the social benefit of the province. Mr. F. H. Cooper, C.B., is chairman, and Mr. Lepel Griffin, secretary. We believe it will find many imitators at large stations like Lucknow, Allahabad, Agra, and Delhi.

CROPS IN THE PUNJAB.—The accounts from the Punjab regarding the condition of the crops continue, we regret much to learn, very unfavourable, and the prices of every kind of grain are again rising in consequence. It has unfortunately been found necessary to close the canal for repairs. It was done under the full impression that rain would fall, as it usually does, about the commencement of January. The temperature had in some parts risen during the middle of January to March heat.

SERIOUS ROBBERY.—About the 17th December last a peon of the Punjabee caste arrived at the Jumna Bridge Station, in charge of twenty boxes of dollars, consigned by a Calcutta firm to some native dealers at Agra. According to the statement which the peon subsequently made to his masters, one of these boxes, containing dollars to the value of upwards of Rs. 5,400, was abstracted from the steamferry which plies across the river, pending the completion of the bridge. No information of the loss, however, was given at the time to those in authority; no outcry was raised on the steamboat; the man in charge counted his remaining nineteen boxes in silence, had them put on the train, and started for Agra. On arriving at his destination, he does not appear to have reported the circumstance at once, for many days elapsed before the police were put on the track, and, strange to say, no suspicious seem to have been entertained by his employers of a servant, who, to use a mild term, had shown himself so careless in looking after the treasure entrusted to him. Luckily for the ends of justice, some of the missing dollars have been found, and the men in whose houses they were deposited have been called upon to account for their share in the transaction. At present the actual thief remains undetected, but unless the Punjabee can give satisfactory reasons for his tardiness in reporting the loss, and for his present absence, we can only say that the case looks bad for him.—Hurkarn.

IDOLS AND PIGGERIES.—At the last quarterly meeting of the Calcutta Justices of the Peace it was resolved to borrow £10,000 for the erection of slaughter-houses, the profits to be formed into a sinking fund for the liquidation of the loan. It was stated that the present suburbs of Calcutta will soon be absorbed into the city, so rapid is its growth. Baboo Romanath Tagore raised the terrible question as to whether it would be penal for priests of Hindoo temples to slaughter before the idol. "Was there to be no exemption in their favour? Or else, it would be affecting the religious prejudices of the natives." Most irreverently Mr. Scholch replied that since "piggeries" had special licences he had no doubt that there would be an exemption in favour of religious institutions, part of whose ceremonial was to slaughter animals in their own premises, first as worship, and subsequently for consumption.

MUSULMAN LAW OF DIVORCE.—A curious appeal case was lately heard by the Privy Council illustrating the Mussulman Law of Divorce. Moonshee Buzul-Ruheem wished to divorce his wife, without which a second wife would not have him; but, at the same time, to keep the first wife's dowry, amounting to Rs. 26,000. He had two modes of proceeding, either by his own arbitrary act to repudiate his wife—a procedure called tilaq—in which case he must restore the dowry; or to divorce the woman with her own consent, which is khola, in which case he may keep the dowry to make any arrangement regarding it. After the divorce the woman must remain some months in seclusion, and be maintained by her late husband, till all chance of children has passed away. In the present case, the husband, by ill-usage of his wife, induced her mother to give up the marriage settlement, and so proceeded by the khola method, keeping the dowry. Both the Subordinate and Appellate Courts decreed the restoration of the dowry on the ground of force being used. It is not often that the secrets of the harem or zenana are thus unveiled.

THE BISHOP OF CALCUTTA spent the 5th and 6th January at Goruckpore, holding confirmation in English and the Vernacular, and visiting the Orphan Girls' School. He inspected the agricultural establishment at Busharatpore, where there are 150 native Christians, and distributed the prizes at the annual examination of the large Mission School.

GOING TO WAR FOR "AN IDEA."—Ruthen is a place near Jeypore, and rejoices under the administration of not less than a couple of rajahs, who have divided the province between them. These two, however, have fallen out, it appears, and all to obtain the Star of India. Each looked upon himself as the individual whom the Viceroy intends to honour when the next vacancy shall occur; but whilst one was making up his mind as to whether he should address Sir John Lawrence or not on the subject, the other forestalled him by despatching a modest request for the honourable appendage. The former, exasperated by what he chose to consider an impertinent interference with his hopes, declared war, and fell upon his neighbour with great violence. The Political Agent rushed to the spot in his capacity of peacemaker, and has succeeded in inducing the belligerents to come to terms.

STEAM TUGS ON THE HOOGLY.—Calcutta will soon have a very valuable addition to its steam tug fleet, in the arrival of the vessels of the Oriental Steam Tug Association. They will not arrive before they are needed, the cyclone having inflicted no greater inconvenience on the port than the loss of so many tug-steamers. The Atlas has already left England, and the Mercury will follow in a few weeks. These steamers have been surveyed by Captain Handley, who has reported upon them very favourably. They have been built especially for the work they will have to do, and the rough weather they will occasionally have to encounter.

FEMALE EDUCATION.—The progress of female education has been materially arrested in Bally, near Ooterparrab, owing to the heterodox principles of the deputy inspector of schools, who is a member of Bydlyashagore's School. The inhabitants of the place being orthodox look upon the widow marriage party with horror, and it is, therefore, absurd to suppose that they would co-operate with the Deputy Inspector in the advancement of education.

CHITTAGONG.—The Commissioner of Chittagong has been appointed chief officer of Customs in that port. From May to 31st December, 1864, the sale of waste lands in the Chittagong district comprised an aggregate of 56,209 acres, which, at an upset price per acre of Rs. 2-8, added Rs. 1,40,522 to the coffers of the State. The purchasers were J. Baumgarten, 36,969 acres; D. Fuller, 18,760 acres; and W. Sarson, 1,480 acres.

MR. JOHN BURNEY MORGAN, of the Bengal Civil Service, Joint Magistrate and Deputy Collector of the District of Dinagepore, proceeds on furlough for one year. Mr. Morgan arrived in India in 1856, and during the time of the mutinies, while studying under the Board of Examiners, served in the Calcutta Volunteer Guard, then commanded by Major Davis. He proceeds to England in March next.

PRICE OF TURBULENCE.—In consequence of the dangerous and turbulent character of the inhabitants of the Mohulla, Poorbeah Tolah, in Etawah, the Government of the N.W. Provinces has imposed upon them a charge of Rs. 67 per mensem for maintaining an additional police force.

BEHAR NORMAL SCHOOLS.—The Government of India has sanctioned the expenditure of Rs. 1,000 for the construction of each of the four new normal schools, the establishment of which in Behar has been lately authorised.

MYSADAL.—Mr. McNeile has been directed by the Bengal Government to make arrangements for affording relief in the district of Mysadal, where epidemic cholera is now raging with great violence.

The ship Nimrod, at Cossipore, one of the vessels wrecked during the cyclone, was sold on Thursday to Hadjee Hossein Ibrahim Bin Johur, for the sum of Rs. 20,000.

LANDOUR DEPOT.—The Hills advises Government to give up the present site of the Military Cantonment at Landour, for a spot better adapted to the wants of the Convalescent Depot. It now consists of scattered bungalows, placed at irregular intervals on the summits and slopes of two or three hills. These bungalows happen to be rented, and the money thus paid away amounts to a round sum at the end. Our contemporary recommends a line of barracks being built on the highest peak of Landour, at an elevation of nearly 8,000 feet, where a magnificent site exists, large enough to accommodate any range of edifices that might be erected for the purpose.

THE LOCUSTS are a real nuisance in Upper India, especially in the Punjab and Scinde, where they are always being destroyed, and always re-appearing. The other day a swarm made its appearance at Dadree—an Illaka presented to the Jheend Rajah for his services during the mutiny. The destroyers settled upon the paddy fields, and of course committed great havoc. The Rajah took every means in his power to encourage the ryots to undertake the destruction of the terrible visitors, but the damage done was so great that he has been obliged to remit a portion of the rents of the ryots.

SIR J. LAWRENCE AT SERAMPORE.—His Excellency the Viceroy and his family arrived at Barrackpore by steamer, on Saturday, Jan. 7, and with his staff attended divine service in the Serampore Church, when the Rev. J. Vaughan, of the Church Missionary Society, preached. Some weeks ago Sir John Lawrence, with one or two members of the council, visited the college, the tombs of Carey, Marshman and Ward, and other scenes famous in the history of the Serampore Mission and of Aldeen, long the abode of Henry Martyn and David Brown.

THE BRIDAL GIFTS FOR THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES.—The Pioneer recording the arrival of Sir Robert Montgomery at the Allahabad station, says that conspicuous among Sir Robert's baggage were two large iron-bound cases, containing the Wedding Present of the Punjab to the heir of England and his bride. Though the presence of a fifteen months' old baby may make the presentation seem somewhat late, the curiosity of the work, and its message of hearty loyalty, will ensure its gracious reception. Sir Robert is to be envied his commission.

GREAT INDIAN PENINSULA RAILWAY.—During the past year the amount paid for compensation as sanctioned by Government amounted to upwards of Rs. 7,88,000, and this enormous sum was thus divided under each month. In January Rs. 9,428, February Rs. 53,872, March Rs. 11,038, April Rs. 87,756, May Rs. 155, June Rs. 7,083, July Rs. 13,151, August Rs. 1,30,453, September Rs. 40,463, October Rs. 52,899, November Rs. 1,63,801, and in December Rs. 2,18,031. The principal items of loss were set down to damages to cotton while in charge of the company; cotton destroyed, and cotton destroyed by fire; and amongst the heaviest items is that of "disasters of monsoon" (in 1863). The items for injuries to persons by the collision at Mahim in April last are very moderate indeed, being only something like Rs. 17,050, including compensation to friends of Byramjee Nowrojee, killed, Rs. 7,000; to a Parsee injured, Rs. 10,000, and Rs. 150 in addition paid to a man in consequence of injury received at an accident which occurred at Titwalla in September.

THE REV. J. C. HERDMAN, M.A., Senior Chaplain of St. Andrew's Kirk, will retire from the service in March. The Rev. Mr. Henderson, now stationed at Umballa, will be Mr. Herdman's successor, and a new chaplain is expected from England to take up Mr. Henderson's place.

MILITARY TRANSPORT ESTABLISHMENTS.—On the proposition of the local officers, and on the recommendation of the Commander-in-Chief, the Governor-General in Council has sanctioned two permanent establishments of three sergeants, with rank, pay, and allowances as sergeant-majors, and a writer; and of one sergeant and a writer for the performance of all embarkation, disembarkation, and railway transport duties under proper officers at the ports of Calcutta and Mooltan.

SERONGE.—The Brigadier-general commanding the Gwalior district has asked the opinion of the agent to the Governor-general, Central India, as to the advisability of withdrawing the detachment of Native Infantry stationed at Seronge.

A GOORKHA SETTLEMENT.—The home Government has not as yet given up its idea of a Goorkha settlement in the British territory. It has now inquired what measures have been adopted by the India Government since 1858 for the settlement of a Goorkha colony.

PHILIBHEET.—The people of Philibheet having asked to have the provisions of Act 26 of 1850 extended to that town, the Lieut. governor of the N.W. Provinces has complied with their request, and appointed a Municipal Committee.

H.M.'s 17TH LANCERS embarked on board the troop ships Windsor Castle and Agamemnon on the 15th and 16th January.

unlikely that Sir John Lawrence, who knows every village and foot of ground in the North-West Provinces, would not have had his opinion shaken as to the advantages of the settlement made in those provinces. That the events of the mutiny did not convert him to a belief in the virtue of a Zemindaree system is to our mind strong presumptive proof of the substantial success of Mr. Thomason's much abused settlement. At any rate, it is well to wait the issue of the inquiry in Oude before entering the lists as champions of the rights of the Talookdars.—Bombay Gazette, Jan. 28.

ANOTHER BAR GRIEVANCE.

HIGH COURT.—APPELLATE SIDE.

(Before the Hon. Mr. Justice Couch, the Hon. Mr. Justice Newton, and the Hon. Mr. Justice Warden.)

BEGUM SAHIB BIN LAXADHIR RAJAI DAULATRAI
v. SITARAM SHISHASTRI.

This was an appeal from Mr. Richardson's Court of Ahmednuggur.

Mr. Anstey and Mr. White appeared for the appellant, the Begum of Pint. Madharao Khrishna, a native vakeel, appeared for the respondent, and objected that the appeal ought to be heard in the other Court, where the vernacular language is used. He admitted that it was at his client's own application that the case had been set down in "the Barristers Court," and before "the Barrister Judge" (Mr. Justice Couch). His objection was overruled, and Mr. Anstey had opened the appeal, when the respondent's vakeel again stood up and applied for an order that the learned counsel for the appellant should not be heard unless they addressed the Court in a native language.

After some consultation, in the course of which it appeared that the acting Chief Justice (Sir J. Arnould) had made an order in June last for the respondent's naming an English Counsel, Mr. Justice Couch informed Mr. Anstey that the Judges would allow the objection unless he (Mr. A.) could show that it was unfounded.

Mr. Anstey claimed his right as a barrister-at-law, practising in the High Court, to address the Court, and all its subordinate Courts, in the English language. They were British, not Indian Courts. This was the first time in his experience that the objection had been entertained by the Bench. It was not the first time that it had been raised by native vakeels, but the pretension had always been scouted. A native vakeel, Mr. Dadabhai, had raised it in the time of the late Sudder more than once, to prevent that Court from hearing him, Mr. Anstey, but the Court had always rejected it. The Chief Justice had so ruled in at least one case here, and Mr. Kinloch Forbes was, he (Mr. A.) thought, present on that occasion. The same fate had occurred to a similar objection raised against his being heard in the Tannah Zillah Court, before Mr. Charles Forbes, the Judge of that Court. Indeed, all over India, since 1850, when Lord Dalhousie's Circular despatch for throwing open the Courts to the Bar of England was issued, this had been the practice; and it was so ruled in the celebrated case of Regina v. Joti Parsaud in that year, before the Zillah Judge of Meerut. The practice here was thus settled even before the amalgamation of the Supreme Court with the Sudder.

Mr. White also said that the practice had never been questioned, at least with success, in his time; and that he had learned from Mr. Justice Westropp that only once in the experience of that judge, when at the Sudder Bar, had the experiment been successful. It was at the beginning of Mr. Westropp's career, and, on that occasion, so much time was wasted in translating that learned counsel's speech into the form in which it had to be delivered by the interpreter, that the Court never again allowed another such application.

Mr. Justice Newton (who had gone into the other Court to consult Messrs. Forbes and Tucker, Justices,) here returned, and said that they agreed with him in thinking that the practice was quite contrary to what the learned council had stated it.

Mr. Anstey: Gentlemen at the Bar are equally entitled to state their experience with the gentlemen who occupy the Bench, and I repeat that my experience is what I have stated it. The letters patent, however—

Mr. Justice Couch: We must follow the opinion of judges. We cannot hear any argument. We shall consult the other judges and lay down some rule for the future. In the meantime, as I understand you, Mr. Anstey, to refuse the help of an interpreter, we cannot hear this appeal.

Mr. Anstey said that he could not help treating what had happened as a very great disparagement and indignity offered to the Bar, and he should be unworthy of his position if he did not say so.

Mr. Justice Newton: We have on a similar objection compelled McCombie and other vakeels to speak in the native vernacular, in cases before us.

Mr. Anstey: What this Court or the Sudder may have done with Mr. McCombie, or any other of their own vakeels or officers, I do not care to inquire. I am not a vakeel; I stand upon my right as a barrister-at-law, whose privileges are recognised and enforced by the Letters Patent of 1862 and the Evidence Act of 1850.

Mr. Justice Couch: We cannot hear you at present. This case is adjourned.

The Court then proceeded to other business. Later in the day Mr. Anstey inquired whether the decision of the Court was that the adjournment had been ordered in the alternative of counsel not addressing them in the native vernacular. He asked this because the matter could not rest here, and might go before the Privy Council.

Mr. Justice Couch: No; we simply adjourn the case.

Mr. Anstey: How soon may we of the Bar expect the final resolution of the judges on this point?

Mr. Justice Couch: I cannot tell. I am going to direct a minute to be circulated, but when that minute will be considered I cannot say.

Mr. Anstey: In the mean time I cannot accept any briefs in like cases in this Court, unless under the express understanding that the parties know me to be very likely to be again declared incapax at the hearing. My present clients have every reason to complain of the expense to which they are put, and I shall certainly not expose others to the same grievance.

Mr. Justice Couch: That is their affair, not yours.

Mr. White: Surely the final resolution will not be taken without hearing the Bar.

Mr. Justice Couch: I cannot tell that, and shall make no promise, but I suppose not.

Mr. Anstey: Your Lordships have refused to hear me.

Mr. Justice Couch: Because we have no power to hear you.

Mr. Anstey then applied to have all similar cases postponed until after the resolution of the judges.

Mr. Justice Couch at first refused to do so, but immediately afterwards added that that was only fair, and no such cases should be set down.

Here the registrar (Mr. Raymond West) handed up some notes to the Court, and the judges having further consulted,

Mr. Justice Couch said: As for cases in which counsel are already retained, you know, Mr. Anstey, the vakeel will not be at liberty to gain the advantage of a similar postponement to that of the present case by withdrawing the brief from counsel.

Mr. Anstey: Surely he may, my lord. Why may he not forfeit the fee he has paid, withdraw the brief, and then come here and object to counsel being heard on the other side, if speaking English?

Mr. Justice Newton read a rule of the old Sudder forbidding such practices in the case of English pleaders there.

Mr. Anstey: But barristers are not Sudder pleaders, nor is this the Sudder. We are out of that mess now.

Mr. Justice Couch: We shall be inclined, however, to adopt a similar rule.

Mr. Anstey: Not, I hope, in all points similar.

Here the matter dropped: and another case was gone into where Mr. White was for the appellant, and the native vakeel for the respondent in that case offered no objection to that gentleman's being heard, and he was heard accordingly.

At the close of that case Dr. Reid, who, in the meantime, had come into Court, informed their lordships, who were rising to go to tiffin, that he remembered the Chief Justice had, in a case where he was counsel, overruled a precisely similar objection of Mr. Dadabhoi, who—

Mr. Justice Couch: We cannot hear you on this point, Dr. Reid; we had rather consult the Chief Justice himself.

Dr. Reid: But this is what the Chief Justice himself said in my own hearing, and upon an objection to my being heard.

Mr. Justice Couch: You had better wait until you are asked for your evidence. If the Judges want to consult the Bar, they will do so.

Dr. Reid: My Lord, you have referred to the Bar and their experience, I thought to oblige your Lordships by letting you know the truth.

Mr. Justice Couch: You are interrupting the business of the Court.

Dr. Reid: I thought you were going to rise, or I would not have spoken.

Mr. Justice Couch: Well, so we are.

Then their Lordships went to tiffin.

MISCELLANEOUS.

SUDDEN DEATH.—The Times of India records the death of Major John Bruce Dunsterville, who expired very suddenly on the morning of the 11th at the Clarendon Hotel. It appears that the Major and Mrs. Dunsterville had been staying at the Clarendon since their return from England, about a month ago, and up to that morning he was in the enjoyment of his usual health; but about eight o'clock he was seized with a fit of apoplexy, and in spite of the efforts of Dr. Haines and Dr. McGrath, who were instantly summoned, the unfortunate gentleman died in an hour afterwards. Major Dunsterville was formerly Major of the 4th Native Infantry (Rifles), and he saw much service in this country, having been in Sind for nearly fifteen years. More recently he was on the staff corps, and was lately appointed to the position of Registrar of the Bombay district—an office only recently established. He was very much respected, and his death will be deeply regretted by a large circle of friends. He leaves a widow and five young children, the latter of whom are in England.

MR. GARRETT, the Bombay postmaster, is transferred to Madras, and Mr. Stuart, postmaster of Madras, is transferred to Bombay. It is to be hoped that this arrangement will be conducive to the interests of the Bombay public, who have for too long a time been put to most serious inconvenience in consequence of the former gentleman and his immediate superior not being able to "pull together."

THE GRAND INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION HOTEL COMPANY is now in course of formation, and an eligible site having been given by Government, it is intended to commence operations forthwith.

SUICIDE AT SEA.—The captain of the ship Kennington forwarded on the 18th January, to the senior magistrate of police, an extract from the ship's official log, stating that on the 21st December the native ayah in attendance on Mrs. Edwards committed suicide by throwing herself overboard. It appears, from the tenor of the extract in question, that the woman had been in an excited state for some time previous to the act, and that her conduct during the voyage had led the captain and Mrs. Edwards to suppose that she was in the habit of using opium or some other intoxicating drug. Just before she committed the rash act she appeared to labour under the impression that she was to be thrown overboard, and in consequence, a boy was placed as sentry at the door of her room, as the key of it could not be found. She, however, burst out, ran aft past the steward, who tried to stop her by closing the door of the after cabin, and in a state of frenzy threw herself out of one of the after cabin windows before any one could prevent her; and though the ship was rounded to and search made for her, no traces could be found.

BANK OF BOMBAY.—At a meeting of the directors of the Bank of Bombay on January 26th a well-contested election for the vacancy on the board, caused by the resignation of the Hon. M. H. Scott, took place. Mr. G. Foggo, of the firm of Messrs. Forbes and Co., was proposed by Mr. F. F. Liddendale, and seconded by Sir Jamsetjee Jejeebhoy, Bart.; Mr. R. L. Tracey, of the firm of Messrs. Ritchie, Stuart and Co., was proposed by Mr. Premchand Roychund, and seconded by Mr. Forrest L. Brown. On the poll being taken, there was a large majority of votes in favour of Mr. Tracey, who was therefore declared duly elected a director of the bank.

THE EXHIBITION.—The promoters of the Eastern Exhibition have formed a building Committee, with A. K. Forbes, Esq., as chairman, which will superintend the management of the building. A committee is also formed for India, one for China and Japan, one for Australia and the Cape, one for Persia and Egypt, one for Europe to correspond with the London commission, and one for America corresponding with the New York commission. A district committee is formed for regulating the arrangement of all the articles in the building, and Government has been applied to in order to form official committees throughout India. Travelling secretaries will be appointed. This is showing that the promoters and secretaries have the ability to grasp at once the necessary arrangements.

MR. DALZELL.—One would not suppose it possible for a man whose daily duties bring him into unpleasant contact with all classes engaged in commerce to establish many friendly relations with them. In Sind, however, there has been an official of this kind, one whose retirement from the disagreeable position of Customs collector draws forth an expression of regret from those whose goods he has taxed and appraised, whose packages he has seized and sold up by auction. Mr. Dalzell is the gentleman in question, who, on his promotion to a superior appointment in Bombay, receives the following tribute from the trades of Kurrachee:—"You have done much to benefit the mercantile community of Kurrachee as the chief of the Customs Department for the last ten years, not the least of your acts being your successful endeavour to remove the Custom-house from Keamaree to the Upper Bunder, where a substantial building now marks the boundary of the Bunder and the town. You have contributed largely to facilitate the export and import of goods in opening a new Bunder and in keeping it clean and orderly. Our smallest grievances were made known to you and your decisions were received with confidence and satisfaction, knowing that these were arrived at after a patient hearing and given without partiality, fear or favour."—Hurkaru.

MEDICAL PROMOTIONS.—The recent despatch from the Secretary of State on the "medical department" reorganisation will cause the promotion of the following medical officers:—To be surgeons: Assistant-surgeons—C. Thomason, J. Glen, R. W. James, T. M. Lounds, H. O. Thorold, M. M. Mackenzie, A. M. Rogers, T. E. P. Martin, J. P. Stratton, J. Lumsdaine, W. J. Moore, and W. A. Shephard. These officers have all completed twelve years' service as assistant-surgeons. Their promotion will be made, however, from the date of receipt of the Secretary of State's despatch. The following medical officers will become entitled to their promotion to surgeons during the present year:—Assistant-surgeon H. J. Gane, J. M. Barnett, C. G. H. Ross, F. D. Stedman, J. H. Sylvester. Numerous retirements of the upper crust of the local Bombay medical department are rumoured as likely soon to take place.

TOM TIDDLER'S GROUND.—We in Bombay are destined to observe, not unfrequently, a verification of the saying as to the philosopher's stone turning stones, instead of the baser metals, into gold. We have seen the Mahaluxmee hill, originally of the value of between forty and fifty thousand rupees, sell for fifty-four lacs, and a Bania gentleman's estate at Worlee, which was estimated on the apportionment of the family property at six thousand rupees, sell two months ago for twenty lacs. We have heard of a Hindoo gentleman, the owner of a hilly estate in Salsette, being offered a hundred-fold more than the price he paid for it half a dozen years ago. And we now hear that Mr. Mahomed Syed Purkar has sold an ancestral hilly estate near Chinboor for five and a half lacs of rupees to the Victoria Financial Association, and that the same gentleman a few days subsequently to the sale received another offer of ten and a half lacs for the same property.—Times of India.

A FORGERY upon the Chartered Mercantile Bank of India, London, and China, to the extent of Rs. 47,000, has been discovered. It appears that the above amount stood in the bank's books in the name of one Rahimtoola Dossa, a Khoja merchant now deceased. It was drawn some days ago by two cheques for Rs. 24,000 and Rs. 23,000 respectively, purporting to be signed by Rahimtoola in the native language. The relations of the deceased now claim the amount, alleging that the two cheques in question are forgeries. Two of the Bank's employees were taken into custody on suspicion, one of them being subsequently released on bail. The matter is being enquired into.

RELIGIOUS MUNIFICENCE.—A large crowd of Bhattias and other Hindoos lately left Bombay by steamer for Pallitana, to be present at the inauguration of a temple built there at the expense of Mr. Kessowjee Naik, head broker to Messrs. W. Nicol and Co. It is stated that the temple alone would cost about £100,000, but Mr. Kessowjee is also to defray the expense of conveying all the pilgrims to Pallitana, besides giving them feasts, at his own expense, for the four or five days of their sojourn in that place. Some of their Bhattia shettis, it is said, will also take their turn in giving feasts to the Pallitana pilgrims, the probable number of whom is estimated at 20,000.

THE LONDON AND BOMBAY BANK is likely, after all, to become one of the institutions of Bombay. Mr. McEwen and Mr. Allaruckia Peerbhoy have been set aside altogether, and a strong board of London directors has been formed, including Sir E. Pearson, Sir Henry Leeke, Sir T. Parkyns, Bart., Mr. E. Collins, Mr. Thornthwaite, Mr. A. Schoales, and others. It has been arranged that the business in Bombay shall be placed under the control of Dr. Bhau Dajee and his two native colleagues, and that a skilled manager shall be sent out forthwith from London.

GRANT MEDICAL COLLEGE.—On Friday, 13th Jan., a large number of the graduates and students of the Grant Medical College assembled together in the College Theatre, for the purpose of presenting Dr. Peet, their late highly-respected principal, with addresses and other testimonials. Dr. Carvalho occupied the chair on the interesting occasion, when an address, beautifully engrossed on velum, was read from the graduates and also one from the students. The former presented their worthy preceptor with a handsome service of plate, and desired him to sit in England for a bust, which they intend to place in the college-hall, and the students presented the worthy doctor with a gold watch. Dr. Peet made a suitable reply to both presentations.

A NEW HOTEL COMPANY has been started in Bombay. It it proposed to have the hotel on the Calcutta, Westminster Hotel, and Alexandra Hotel models, to have reasonable charges, cleanliness, civil servants, good cookery, and proper conveyance for the visitors. The discomfort attendant on all the hotels now existing is very great; and with the great and daily increasing influx of strangers, we see no reason to doubt that not merely one, but several hotels in different localities would pay in Bombay, if well and efficiently managed. We believe it is intended to make this both a general and private hotel.

MR. PREMCHUND ROYCHUND, on the 24th January, with his wonted liberality, released twenty-one of the civil prisoners on the debtors' side of the County Gaol, his friend Dr. Bhow Dajee handing over to the Marshal, Mr. Lake, nearly Rs. 4,000 for this purpose. The poor fellows left the gaol about 3 o'clock, when they gave three hearty cheers for their liberal benefactor. We understand that Mr. Premchund has been recently presented with a son, and the above well-timed act of charity was bestowed on that occasion.

SALE OF SHARES BY AUCTION.—On Saturday afternoon, 14th Jan., 12,500 shares of the Eastern Financial Association were sold by public auction in the offices of the association in Medow-street, by Messrs. Crawford and Co. They were disposed of at from 42 to 45 rupees per cent. premium; the amount realised by the transaction being about Rs. 21,75,000.

TIGER-SHOOTING.—We learn that H. H. Meer Ali Morad shot a very large tiger the other day in the Larkhana districts. It appears the Collector, Major Dunsterville, and a party had gone out in search of the animal, but failed to come across it.—Sindian.

DR. HAUG has tendered his resignation. Since the Government service offers him no prospects, he has resolved upon quitting it altogether. He intends to leave India for good early in the next year, and return to Germany.—Poona Observer.

TRINITY CHAPEL.—The members of the Trinity Chapel have presented a purse to their faithful and highly-respected pastor, the Rev. C. D. DuPort, M.A., as a New Year's gift; being a slight token of the very high esteem in which he is held, and for his valuable and pastoral services among them.

THE HULK OF THE "SYDENHAM," as she lies on the rocks, was submitted to public auction by Messrs. Menesse and Co., and was purchased by one Ebram Ramjee, a Khoja merchant, for the sum of Rs. 7,500.

MR. J. W. ORR, clerk to the Hon. the Chief Justice of her Majesty's High Court of Judicature at Bombay, has obtained six months' leave to proceed to England by the first mail of February. It is stated that Mr. Watkins will act for him.

MR. A. W. FORDE, late resident engineer in the employ of the Bombay, Baroda, and Central India Railway, has, we learn, been appointed as engineer to the Frere Land and Reclamation Company, on a salary of Rs. 1,500 per mensem.
